SMITH WILL START POLITICAL COMEBACK IN STATE CONVENTION

Conference With Roosevelt in Ten Days to Fix His Exact Role as Tammany Delegate.

WILL AID FALL CAMPAIGN

Ex-Governor to Make at Least One Speech for National Democratic Committee.

NO HINT OF CANDIDACY IN '32

Would Not Run Unless Wet Sentiment Gained, Say Friends, and Then Only if Roosevelt Lost Out.

Former Governor Alfred E. Smith, who has been in temporary eclipse in Tammany since the election of John F. Curry as leader and the re-election of Mayor Walker, will resume active participation in local politics by taking a prominent part in the Democratic State Convention to be held at Syracuse on Sept. 29 and 30, it was learned yesterday. The former Governor is on the Tammany slate for delegate from the Tenth Assembly District, in which he has his home, and will be elected a delegate at the primary election on Sept. 16.

Just what part Mr. Smith will play at the State Convention will be determined at a conference with Governor Roosevelt within the next ten days. The former Governor will make several campaign speeches for Governor Roosevelt and it is probable that he will make at least one speech for the Democratic national committee in which he will aid the country-wide campaign for the election of Democratic Senators and Representatives in Congress by criticism of the Hoover Administration and the record of the Republican majority in Congress.

Still Leader of Party.

The virtual certainty that Mr. Smith will make one or more speeches of nation-wide appeal has served to remind some of the local and State Democratic leaders that he is still the national leader of the Democratic party and that his friends, John J. Raskob, chairman of the National Committee, and Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Executive Committee, are in control of the national party organization. Although there is no present indication that Mr. Smith has any intention of becoming a candidate for President again, he will be in a position at the next Democratic National Convention to have a large influence in determining the nominee.

Mr. Raskob and others of Mr. Smith's friends are understood to be furnishing most of the funds to keep the Democratic national organization going, after having contributed $1,000,000 to reduce the deficit which resulted from the 1928 campaign. They also are expected to wipe out the existing deficit of approximately $500,000 before the next Presidential campaign.

According to Mr. Smith's close friends, he has no intention of becoming a candidate for President in 1932, so he is not a rival to the reputed ambition of Governor Roosevelt for the Democratic nomination in that year. Governor Roosevelt probably will have the undivided support of the New York delegation two years hence and undoubtedly will have the support of Mr. Smith. Only a marked change in the present situation and the development of a much greater degree of antagonism toward prohibition would make the nomination of Mr. Smith possible, his friends believe, and even then, it was said, he would not be a candidate until every effort to nominate Governor Roosevelt had been exhausted.

See Support Strengthened.

It is the feeling among Mr. Smith's iends that recent political happen- ngs have strengthened the Smith ing of the party. Among these the ost important was the defeat for enomination of Senator Furnifold . Simmons of North Carolina, who lted Smith in 1928, by Josiah ailey, a Smith supporter. In Ala- ma Senator Thomas J. Heflin, an- her Smith foe, has been barred m participatin in the Democratic mary. The last to go down to de- t of those who bolted Mr. Smith s Colonel Thomas B. Love of Tex- who was a poor fourth in the e for the Democratic nomination Governor, the run-off for which l be between Mrs. Miriam A. Fer- son and Ross S. Sterling of Hous- n.

There has been a suggestion that Mr. Smith might place Governor Roosevelt in nomination at the State Convention, thus reciprocating in part for the speeches Governor Roosevelt made in placing him in nomination for the Presidency at the Democratic National Conventions of 1924 and 1928. This will not be determined, however, until the present Governor and his predecessor have had their conference.

Strike of 2,500 Barbers Called In West Side Shops Today

Barbers in 800 shops on the west side from West Fifty-ninth Street to West 242d Street were summoned by union officials to go on strike this morning at a final meeting last night in the rooms of Local 900 of the Journeyman Barbers' International Union, 100 West 116th Street. Union leaders say 2,500 will go out.

No word which would prevent the strike was received from the employers, it was said. Charles La Motta of the Greater New York Joint Board of the union, announced that headquarters would be opened at Amsterdam Avenue and 151st Street and at 884 Columbus Avenue. Eight buses would be sent out, he said, to collect the barbers not notified previously.

The men demand Saturday closing at 9 P. M. instead of 10, half-day off on legal holidays and full day off on Christmas, New Year's Day and Labor Day, as is now the rule elsewhere in New York City.

DRY 'PRESSURE' PLAN LAID BEFORE HOOVER

President Said to Have Approved Woodcock's Idea Which He Presents to Aides Today.

BETTER AGENTS IS ONE AIM

Attorney General Mitchell Joins New Director in Meeting at the White House.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—President Hoover was reported today to have put his approval on the "steady pressure" plan for dry law enforcement when W. W. Woodcock, the prohibition director, and Attorney General Mitchell called at the White House on the eve of a conference of dry administrators and special agents in Washington.

Fresh from his meeting with the President, Mr. Woodcock, who heads the new Bureau of Prohibition in the Department of Justice, said that he would explain his plan to his administrators when they meet him here tomorrow for a two-day session. He already has announced that it is to be one of "conscientious and lawful steady pressure," instead of spectacular methods.

Along with the twelve administrators will be twelve special agents, who have been commissioned to run down large sources of illicit liquor.

On Thursday the twelve alcohol permit supervisors in the new Bureau of Industrial Alcohol will begin a two-day conference with Dr. James M. Doran, commissioner. The meetings were arranged to follow one another with the idea of developing coordination between the two services.

Dry Personnel Considered.

The President is believed to have had something to say about the question of personnel for the prohibition forces. Part of Mr. Woodcock's program is an endeavor to improve the class of dry agents, and he intends to bring an increasing number of young men into the service and to eliminate, as far as possible, political considerations in selecting them. A substantial increase in the salaries for dry agents may be asked at the next session of Congress.

Mr. Woodcock probably will have something to say to his administrators about the use of firearms and unlawful search and seizure. He is said to look with no little concern on the number of complaints against the methods of prohibition agents, and to disapprove, generally speaking, of the practice of agents running to the cover of Federal courts when

R-100 OUT 473 MILES; CHANGES ITS COURSE BECAUSE OF STORMS

Airship Swings to Southwest and Follows Great Circle Route Over Atlantic.

RUNNING IN FINE WEATHER

Craft Heads Into Light Winds and Maintains Speed of 60 Miles an Hour.

BRITISH EXPERTS SATISFIED

Full Development of Meteorological Service Receives Support at Outset of Voyage.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Wednesday, July 30.—Britain's giant airship R-100, after a roundabout trip north of Ireland yesterday, was 473 miles off the coast of Ireland on its way to Montreal at 1 A. M., British Summer Time [8 P. M., New York Daylight Time], but far southward of its intended course.

A radio message from the ship at that hour gave the position as 53.03 North, 21.00 West. The sky was overcast but visibility was good and the wind was decreasing. "Nothing further to report," the message concluded.

Calculations of its captain, Squadron Leader R. S. Booth, as to the route he would follow were all upset by a storm off the North Irish coast which suddenly moved eastward across his path. Last night he was setting a definitely westerly course on the shortest east-to-west route, not far from the great circle course of steamships.

The ship, according to latest radiograms, has emerged from the clouds and rain and has entered a wide area of fine weather, butting into light westerly winds at a speed of more than sixty miles an hour.

After leaving Cardington Airport at 3:45 A. M. yesterday [10:45 P. M. Monday, New York Daylight Time] the airship passed over Chester and Liverpool and then crossed the Isle of Man. At 10:34 A. M. [5:34 A. M., New York Daylight Time] it was off the Mull of Kintyre. An hour later it had passed Rathlin Island, north of Antrim, and at noon [7 A. M., New York Daylight Time] was off Oversay Island [at the southwest tip of Islay Island], west of Scotland, averaging about fifty-five miles an hour.

Course Is Changed.

Here it changed its course. It was sighted off Malin Head, North Ireland, at 1 o'clock in the afternoon [8 A. M., New York Daylight Time] and an hour later it was off Northwest Ireland, heading over the Atlantic. Since the airship's departure a storm that had been stationary off North Ireland for two days began to move eastward.

It was not until the ship was south of the Hebrides that the change in the situation was realized. Having been traveling northwest, it turned southwest and came out into fine but rather cold weather in midafternoon.

The belief of the British Air Ministry that airship navigation cannot seriously be attempted without the fullest development of meteorological services has therefore received interesting support at the very outset of the voyage. The course the ship is following is much more southerly than the one planned on the strength of earlier weather reports.

Almost as soon as the airship sailed the weather situation over the North Atlantic began to change. The storm moved eastward, giving the airship westerly winds where it expected

British Lords Ratify London Naval Treaty; Accord Now Needs Only Acceptance by Japan

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, July 29.—The British Parliament in effect ratified the London naval treaty today when a bill designed to support its terms passed through all its stages in the House of Lords.

Today's progress of the measure left nothing more to be done as far as Great Britain is concerned until the final implements of ratification are exchanged formally between the signatories to the treaty, excepting for King George to give the royal assent to the bill, which he will do before the end of the week.

The measure was purely technical in its form, containing the necessary legislation to cancel Great Britain's commitments under the Washington treaty, where such cancellation was required to give effect to the new treaty.

The House of Lords passed the bill today without taking a vote and with a minimum of debate. Popular interest in the whole proceedings appeared to be nil.

There never had been any doubt that Parliament would take whatever steps were necessary, the treaty adherents declared, to ratify their action and the British public remained throughout wholly unconcerned with the nature of those technicalities.

With British ratification of the treaty attention now centres on Tokyo, where it has been submitted by the Emperor to his Privy Council for ratification. The Privy Council placed the document for study in the hands of a committee of ten, four of whom are known to be hostile to it.

This committee is charged not only with recommendations as to the advisability of the treaty itself but as to the Privy Council's power of ratification in the face of opposition by the general staff of the Japanese Navy. In spite of these complications confidence is expressed in high circles that Japan will soon ratify the treaty.

The progress of the tri-power treaty in the signatory countries is having repercussions in Italy and France, which failed to reach an agreement in London. There have been recent indications that Rome and Paris were nearing a settlement of their differences, which, if accomplished, would have the virtual effect of eliminating what is known as the escalator clause in the tri-power treaty, under which the building programs of Britain, and by consequence those of the United States and Japan, can be increased if building by non-signatory nations reaches a point that may be regarded as a menace.

Traffic Lights Go on 'Stagger' System Today; Manhattan Controls Set for Shorter Cycles

The progressive or coordinated "stagger" traffic light system on crosstown streets of Manhattan will begin to function this morning at 7 o'clock. The control mechanisms were readjusted for the new system this morning at 3 o'clock. The motors in the control tower, all running by a master clock, were set for the new timings immediately after operation of the traffic lights stopped as usual for the night.

The readjustment, according to First Deputy Commissioner Philip D. Hoyt in charge of traffic, was an operation as simple as setting a clock and required no more time. It consisted of setting discs that revolve at a constant speed with the motors of the signal systems for different avenues and streets.

The new time cycles are arranged so that north and south traffic will flow for approximately 1 minute and 30 seconds instead of 2 minutes as formerly, and east and west traffic will move for about 30 seconds instead of 1 minute as under the old plan.

The readjustment for the "stagger" system was made at both the central control room in the West Thirtieth Street Station and the auxiliary control room in the West 126th Street station. The auxiliary control system works at all times in coordination with the central tower.

It takes care of the traffic lights on those streets north of Central Park, including Seventh and Lenox, also Fifth Avenue which is cut by Mount Morris Park, and Park Avenue with a single light at 125th Street.

According to Mr. Hoyt only light traffic between 7 and 8 o'clock is anticipated.

"From 8 o'clock on superior officials of the Police Department will be out on the streets making tests and careful observations of the system," said Mr. Hoyt. "We feel that the inauguration of the 'stagger' system as a permanent thing does not involve as many difficulties as the experiments we conducted. We now know more about the time cycles that will work best on different streets. Of course, we will continue the tests, and further adjustments will be made if they are found necessary."

To expedite the movement of traffic in Times Square, Commissioner Mulrooney yesterday had men at work removing the wood and steel traffic signal tower in Times Square at Forty-fifth Street. The tower, in front of the Hotel Astor, had a police booth at its base which was used last Winter by former Commissioner Whalen to observe traffic regulations then put into effect in the theatrical district. The tower was erected in 1923.

KURTZ TAX CHARGES HEARSAY, HE ADMITS

But Insists at Higgins Inquiry That Favoritism Can Be Proved by Investigation.

$39,000 VOTED FOR INQUIRY

Hennessey to Plead in $40,000 Shortage Today—Walker Group Meets on Appeals Board.

Irwin Kurtz, chairman of the Republican Speakers' Bureau, appeared before James A. Higgins, Commissioner of Accounts, yesterday in answer to a subpoena and testified that his charges of irregularities in the Department of Taxes and Assessments were based on rumors, anonymous telephone calls and statements made to him by Representative Fiorello H. La Guardia, Harold Rigelmann, prominent Republican attorney, and Dr. William H. Allen, director of the Institute for Public Service.

Mr. Kurtz said he had no personal knowledge that Tammany favorites received reduced assessments on their property, adding that he had never said he had personal knowledge to that effect. All his charges were based on what Commissioner Higgins called hearsay evidence.

Soon after the hearing began Mr. Kurtz said Dr. Allen had informed him that Thomas Scanlan, an accountant employed by Commissioner Higgins, had received reduced assessments on property he owned in the Bronx through Richard Delehanty, chief deputy of the Tax Department. Scanlan receives $4,200 a year and has been in the city service since 1902.

Higgins's Aide Explained Levy.

Commissioner Higgins investigated this statement immediately, calling Scanlan into his office for an explanation. He learned that Scanlan lives at 2,720 Claflin Avenue, the Bronx, in a one-story stucco dwelling occupying a plot 50 by 100 feet. Immediately adjoining his plot is another of about the same size similarly improved. In 1928 Scanlan's parcel was assessed for $12,500 and his neighbor's at $14,300. The 1929 assessments increased Scanlan's assessment to $18,000, and that on the adjoining plot was reduced to $14,000. Scanlan protested the increase.

"Scanlan called the Department of Taxes and Assessments like any other citizen, stated his case to Mr. Delehanty and obtained a modification of the assessment to the original figure of $12,500," Commissioner Higgins said. "He went through the same procedure that any other citizen would, namely, he filed his protest, his protest was calendared and duly heard. He was shown no special consideration and received nothing more than plain justice. He owns no other real estate and has never appeared before the Department of Taxes and Assessments in any other instance."

Cites La Guardia Charges.

Mr. Kurtz submitted for the record copies of campaign speeches made last October by Mr. La Guardia, in which the Republican Mayoralty candidate charged that a $75,000,000 "tax racket" existed in the city, with persons close to Tammany Hall receiving the greatest benefit in reduced assessed valuations. In an article published on Oct. 1 Mr. La Guardia gave specific instances of what he called favoritism, naming among the beneficiaries Samuel Untermyer, William H. Todd, shipbuilder; August Heckscher, John D. Rockefeller Jr., the Wanamaker Estate, J. Clarence Davies, partner of Joseph P. Day, the auctioneer; the Martin B. Brown Corporation, which

BANKRUPTCY INQUIRY ORDERED BY HOOVER

President Declares Losses to Business Under Present Law Are $750,000,000 a Year.

ABUSES HERE CAUSE ACTION

Solicitor General Thacher Is to Make Country-Wide Study, Aided by Commerce Department.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—President Hoover authorized today an exhaustive investigation into bankruptcy law and practice, to see if conditions unearthed in the recent investigation in New York, which was followed by the disbarring of several lawyers, are general in the country so to require changes in the bankruptcy statute.

Bankruptcy law abuses have been of increasing concern to government officials, particularly since Thomas Day Thacher, former Federal judge for the Southern District of New York, came to the Solicitor General's office fresh from the investigation in his city. He will have general charge of the investigation and will be assisted by the Department of Commerce.

That department has made an extensive study of the causes of commercial bankruptcy, which, the President said today, is causing credit losses of something like $750,000,000 a year to American business men.

"I have authorized the Attorney General to undertake an exhaustive investigation into the whole question of bankruptcy law and practice," President Hoover said. "It will be a most extensive and vigorous investigation. The work will be under the direction of the Solicitor General and he will be assisted by the Department of Commerce.

"The losses through bankruptcy in the past five years exceeded $3,000,000,000 and are now averaging $750,000,000 per annum. The purpose of the investigation is, of course, to propose to Congress some essential reforms in the bankruptcy law and practice."

Will Include a Dozen Cities.

Although positive in the view that prompt action should be taken if conditions found in New York are general throughout the country, Solicitor General Thacher withheld suggestions for changes in the law. He mentioned the remedy applied in New York, but said that the present purpose is first to find the actual conditions through a study of several of the commercial centres. He intends to take ten or twelve representative cities and study their commercial failures.

"We propose to determine if the evils which prevailed in New York are common throughout the entire country," Mr. Thacher said. "If they are, then the situation demands fundamental changes in the law and the needed Congressional action will be recommended."

Mr. Thacher, as Federal Judge, was instrumental in the New York investigation and wrote a supplementary report to the one made by former Assistant Attorney General William J. Donovan, who directed the inquiry as counsel for the New York City, the New York County and the Bronx County Bar Associations. Later he was a representative of those Bar Associations in a study of bankruptcy practices in England.

"In England and Canada," Mr. Thacher said, "a bankrupt is considered a menace to the commercial community and is never discharged until he has paid his liabilities in full, but under our practices now, we examine a bankrupt in private, we discharge in private, give him a slap on the back and tell him to go do it again."

Mr. Thacher said that during the last five years $3,814,383,440 had been lost to American business men

U. S. STEEL PREDICTS UPSWING IN BUSINESS FOR REST OF YEAR

EARNINGS $3.02 A SHARE

BIG CUT IN BOND INTEREST

Six Months' Profit Is $96,676,701, or $6.46 a Share, Against $135,840,441 in 1929 Period.

Simultaneously with the issuance of its income report for the second quarter, showing net earnings of $47,061,304, or the equivalent of $3.02 a share on the common stock, the United States Steel Corporation, the country's largest industrial enterprise, made the definite prediction yesterday of an early upturn in business.

The prophecy of an increase in the operating rate of the Steel Corporation's plants was accepted in Wall Street as of vastly greater significance than the earnings statement since the results of the second quarter had been forecast rather accurately. In issuing the prediction the corporation explained that its plants are operating at 63 per cent of capacity.

"Indications in the industry," the statement said, "point to an increase in this rate of operations during the balance of this quarter, with an improvement in volume during the last quarter of the year."

This statement represents the combined judgment of the finance committee, of which Myron C. Taylor is chairman, and which comprises George F. Baker, J. P. Morgan, T. W. Lamont, James A. Farrell, Percival Roberts Jr., Nathan L. Miller, W. J. Filbert and George F. Baker Jr.

The Steel Corporation's operations are generally regarded as a reliable index of general industrial and business conditions.

Only Regular Dividend Declared.

The Steel Corporation's directors declared only the regular quarterly dividends on common and preferred stock. Predictions of an extra cash disbursement had been made in some quarters, but so far as could be learned the subject was not discussed.

Net earnings of $47,061,304 in the second quarter brought the total for the first six months up to $96,676,701, equivalent after deductions to $6.46 a share on the common. This compares with $135,840,411, or $11.72 a share, in the first half of 1929. The corporation earned $49,615,397, or $3.44 in the first quarter of this year and $73,861,426, or $6.86 a share, in the second quarter of last year.

The figures are after all taxes, but before depreciation, depletion, &c. The net profit before dividends in the second quarter was $32,126,717, against $35,777,807 in the preceding quarter and $53,825,843 in the same period of last year. The net profit in the first six months was $67,904,524, against $96,011,290 in the same period of 1929.

The surplus remaining from the second quarter's earnings was $10,840,265, while the surplus at the end of the same quarter last year was $33,467,892. The statement for the second quarter of this year contains an item of $2,396,636, covering the quarterly apportionment of the net interest on Federal tax refunds. No such item appeared in the second quarter's statement of last year.

Bond Eliminations Reflected.

The report reflects the full saving in interest resulting from the elimination of most of the corporation's funded indebtedness. In the second quarter the total interest charges on bonds proper were only $12,541, while the charges in the same period last year were $2,250,232. The charges

New York City's Population Put at 6,959,195; On Final Revision by Washington Bureau

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—New York City's population is announced by the Census Bureau as 6,959,195, an increase of 1,339,147, or 23.8 per cent.

This figure, based on a careful recheck of returns, was larger than the 6,958,792 announced by the New York Supervisor.

Final figures given by the Census Bureau for the New York boroughs compare with the 1920 computations as follows:

Borough.	1920.	1930.	Incr.	Per Cent.
Manhattan	2,284,103	1,859,925	*427,949	*18.6
Brooklyn	2,018,356	2,596,154	577,798	28.6
Bronx	732,016	1,266,506	534,490	73

*Decrease.

The Census Bureau also made public a new State total for Florida, setting the population at 1,485,969, an increase of 497,499, cr 51.4 per cent. Previously it had been estimated in the State as 1,486,635.

The new census figures for New York City seem to indicate that its population might well pass the 7,000,000 mark predicted by Health Commissioner Wynne on July 9 as the probable total on Aug. 10, based on a daily increase of more than 357 persons a day during the past decade.

Supervisors in Manhattan will confer in the next few days with a view to fixing a date when a final report will be ready to mail to the Director of the Census at Washington. This will embody comments on the operation of the present census procedure and will contain recommendations as to any improvements for the taking of the census in 1940.

France Bans Parades by Reds On Aug. 1, Calling Extra Guards

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 29.—After a conference at which Premier Tardieu presided, the Ministry of the Interior today announced that Communist manifestations scheduled for Aug. 1, which has been declared "Red Day" throughout the world, would be forbidden in France.

Parades, demonstrations and gatherings in streets or interference with industry will be suppressed. In Paris, police detachments, the Republican Guard and the mobile police, as well as reinforcements of troops from the provinces, will maintain order.

Strict measures also have been ordered in the chief provincial cities and manufacturing centres.

CHANGSHA IN FLAMES AS REDS SACK CITY

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SHANGHAI, July 29.—Within the brief space of forty-eight hours, instead of the district being pacified by the Nanking Government's military operations, as was previously reported, the situation at Changsha, Honan Province, has developed the worst Communist excesses yet reported from the Yangtse Valley and is threatening to involve the weakly defended river cities.

As the American gunboat Palos left Changsha early this morning, the sky was streaked with red and a large part of the city was in flames following the occupation of the city by 10,000 well-armed Communists who ran riot, burning, looting and destroying the government buildings and foreign business and mission properties.

Forty-one foreigners, including Americans and British, were evacuated aboard the British gunboat Aphis which left for Yochow, but five foreigners remain in the city, comprising three Americans, W. H. Lingle and his wife, Presbyterians, and Allen H. Cameron of the Faith Mission, who refuse to leave; Miss G. Rugg, a British missionary, who lives five miles outside the city and is out of reach of assistance, and the aged Father Baima, an Italian who was captured by the Communists while seeking safety.

Changsha is a big missionary centre, and is normally populated by 300 foreigners, but most of them left before the Communist storm broke.

It is revealed that part of the Nanking Government troops mutinied on Monday night, fleeing across the Siang River, leaving the city helpless. Thereupon, the Communists, after the foreigners had evacuated, entered the city, burned the government buildings and the Governor's yamen and then turned their attention to foreign property to which they also set fire.

On Monday night the Communists announced their intention of crossing over to the tiny island in the middle of the river where the British Consulate is located and of burning it. All the foreign officials and business men have taken refuge aboard the gunboats.

LOWMAN WARNS SHIPPERS

Tells Them at Hearing on Pulpwood Our Tariff Law Must Be Observed.

AMTORG JOINS IN PROTEST

Treasury Aide Promises Quick Consideration and Ruling on All Points Raised.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—No discriminatory action against Russian merchandise has been or will be undertaken by the government, it was learned from an authoritative source at the White House today, following the circulation of reports of a possible embargo against all goods from Russia.

On the contrary, it was asserted, the trade and political fields are separate, and Washington's attitude toward Russia and Russian business is not based on its official attitude toward the character of the Soviet Government.

Coincidently, a two-fold protest, on behalf of producers and shippers, concerning the recent embargo on Russian pulpwood was laid before Seymour Lowman, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

The government, it was said in connection with the official denial of any general embargo, has no intention of taking action on Russian imports into the United States, except as they violate American laws relating to convict-made goods or those created by forced labor. It was added that the law would be applied impartially to goods from all countries in which this condition, or dumping of products, or any other legal inhibition, applies. As one official puts it: "The government does not intend to embargo Russian goods because we do not happen to like the character of the Russian Government."

Trade Runs $100,000,000 Annually.

In this connection attention was officially called to the trade of the United States with Russia, which runs to about $100,000,000 annually, with a large trade balance in favor of the United States. Figures obtained from the Department of Commerce this afternoon illustrate the size of this trade and its rapid growth.

In the first five months of this year the United States exported to Russia goods valued at $64,424,000, as compared with exports of $23,217,000 in the same period last year. Our imports from Russia in the same period rose from $7,929,000 to $8,511,130.

Foremost in interest at today's hearing before Mr. Lowman was a cable report from Russia submitted by the Amtorg Trading Corporation in support of its contention that convict labor is not used in preparing spruce pulpwood, it being held although evidence has been adduced to show that convicts load vessels at Archangel, that would not constitute violation of the law if the lumber was prepared by free workmen.

The communication, which was undated, was addressed to Peter A. Bogdanov, head of the Amtorg in this country, and signed "Donashevski, chairman of the board of directors, Exportles." "Exportles," it was explained at the hearing, is the Russian corporation in charge of exports.

Says Workers Receive Wages.

"For your information," the cabled report stated, "we are advising you of the following facts:

"The cutting of the logs for lumber to be exported to the United States takes place in the Leningrad, Northern, Ural and Nizhegorosky regions. The shipping of the materials, as you are aware, takes place from the ports of Leningrad, Novorossisk and Archangelsk.

"All operations, beginning with the logging and ending with the loading are carried on, in addition to the local population, by seasonal workers."

These workers, the message continued, receive various wages. Laborers are paid 3 to 6 rubles a day, stevedores 4.50 to 8 rubles, other labor from 3.50 to 4 rubles, and lumber-jacks from 65 to 70 rubles a month.

"The hiring of all workers is carried on by a voluntary agreement between the employers and the workers and on the basis of the existing labor code," the report continued. "The workers may leave their work at any time at their own will."

Among those attending the hearings were M. S. Makodzub, vice president of Amtorg, and Kenneth Gardner, a New York attorney representing the Spanish-American Lines, which have chartered a large number of vessels for shipping contracts made in connection with orders for pulpwood from Russian sources to be delivered to the International Paper Company. Mr. Gardner was one of the chief spokesmen for the shippers.

The company he represents, Mr. Gardner told Mr. Lowman, has contracted to carry 123,000 cords of the pulpwood from Archangel to American ports. Five vessels are en route to this country, he added, some are now being loaded at Archangel, and others are en route there, the company having a total of thirty ships under contract.

A list filed at the hearing showed that a total of sixty-eight vessels will be affected in the near future by the embargo. Of these, it was said, five are in American ports but are not discharging cargoes, ten are en route here, seven are loading at Archangel, four are due to begin loading there before Aug. 1, and forty-two ships are chartered for trips during August and September. The freight payments involved were estimated at $1,000,000.

One witness said the International Paper Company, known to hold contracts for huge supplies of Russian pulpwood, had made its contracts about six months ago, and would suffer considerable hardship if not permitted to accept the consignments.

Contracts Made a Year Ahead.

Speaking in the same vein, Mr. Gardner told Mr. Lowman that contracts for pulpwood usually are made about a year ahead, and that the maintenance of a steady supply would be endangered if the cargoes here and en route are not permitted to land. He suggested that the Treasury Department permit a period of sixty to ninety days' grace before the ruling takes effect permanently, if it holds, that the shipments are contraband under the law.

Assistant Secretary Lowman promised immediate consideration and ruling on the points raised at the hearing. However, when Mr. Gardner asked to have described the basis of the treasury ruling, Mr. Lowman declined to "expose our hand," pointing out that the courts would provide avenues for remedies for the situation, if a ruling should work adversely to business.

"We'll be ruined before we have time to go to the courts," said one protester.

Mr. Lowman said that the law regarding convict-made goods has been in effect since 1890, adding:

"You should know the law and make some inquiry."

The shippers contended, however, that the action of the treasury had set a precedent in a business situation that has prevailed for several years without previous interference.

British Shipping Men Represented.

Another interested party at the hearing was Ray R. Allen, also a New York attorney, who represented the owners of twenty-five British vessels under charter to companies contracted to handle Russian pulpwood.

Mr. Allen and others pointed out that the ruling upsets a whole series of contracts between ship owners and shipping agents, some of which may be canceled and others of which may lead to interminable court fights. On this ground the request was made repeatedly that the treasury postpone the effective date of its order, which went into effect last week immediately upon announcement through Mr. Lowman's office of the decision.

Among others at the hearing were C. V. Travenot of the Spanish-American Lines; Albert C. Bickford, counsel for Amtorg; George E. Nelson, vice president of the West Virginia Paper and Pulp Company, and F. H. Weeks, president of the Weeks Stevedoring Company of New York.

Mr. Weeks's plea that the embargo on pulpwood be removed for the benefit of stevedores, who, he said, are gaining some $1,000 daily during unusually depressed times through unloading the vessels, was ruled not pertinent to the inquiry by Mr. Lowman.

Mr. Weeks said he was authorized to speak for his men, members of a labor union, in reporting that their organization had not been consulted by Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, before he began issuing statements strongly condemning the admission of any Russian goods imported to compete with products of American labor.

No indication was given by Mr. Lowman this afternoon as to whether the testimony of this morning will cause an official change of mind concerning pulpwood. He did reiterate, however, that the sole concern of the Treasury Department is the enforcement of the Tariff act, and that it has no interest in efforts to bar Russian goods simply because they are products of the Soviet.

The statement authorized at the White House and the treasury's view were taken as conclusive proof that the whole affair, which involves pending investigations of coal and manganese imports, is being treated purely as a trade matter, with no touch of the political about it.

"RED" CAMP QUARANTINED.

Van Etten (N. Y.) Health Head Acts as Chicken-pox Appears.

VAN ETTEN, N. Y., July 29 (AP).—Dr. James Cargill, health officer of the village of Van Etten, has placed the Communist camp at West Van Etten under quarantine following discovery of two cases of chicken-pox. The 100 boy and girl campers are forbidden to leave the camp grounds.

Health conditions at the camp were termed by Dr. Cargill as "not good."

Sheriff Tift of Chemung County is continuing his investigation of what is being taught at the camp.

Exporters Fear Amtorg Trade Loss.

A belief that the Amtorg Trading Corporation, Soviet commercial agency in this country, will suspend its purchases here in the near future and withdraw was voiced by many export executives who yesterday attended the regular luncheon of the Export Managers' Club of New York, Inc., at the Hotel Pennsylvania. Since the Congressional investigation got under way, it was claimed, Amtorg purchases have been limited to small amounts and no large contracts have been closed. Roger L. Bracken, president of the club, who has just returned from a four months' trip through Europe, was the chief speaker at yesterday's meeting. He described conditions abroad and advised Americans to intensify their contacts with foreign customers.

SAYS SOVIET FORCES THOUSANDS TO WORK

Woll Asserts Groups of 40,000 Convicts and 15,000 Civilians Are Held in Lumber Camps.

BAD CONDITIONS DESCRIBED

Labor Federation Official Quotes Stories of "Indescribable" Filth by Ship's Officers Here.

Thousands of political and other prisoners are being used by the Soviet Government in the cutting of lumber in the forests of Northern Russia, lumber destined for export to America, it was charged yesterday by Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor and president of the Wage Earners' Protective Conference. It was the protest of this organization, among others, which forced the Treasury Department's embargo on Soviet pulpwood.

Mr. Woll also declared that his organization is investigating assertions that products of convict-labor origin were being admitted into this country from Italy. He said that should this prove true the Wage Earners' Conference, representing labor unions with a membership of 500,000 affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, will do all in its power to have the goods barred.

Mr. Woll declared that "information of absolutely authoritative nature" received by his organization shows that mass employment of forced labor in the Soviet lumber industry began last Fall when groups of 40,000 prisoners on the Solovetsky Islands in the White Sea were sent to the woods of Northern Karelia. Similar compulsory mobilizations occurred in other parts of Russia, Mr. Woll declared, saying that from Ingermanland and Karelia alone 15,000 peasants have thus been driven to forced labor in the forests of Northern Karelia.

Pravda Is Called a Factor.

"At the beginning of this year," Mr. Woll said, "Pravda, official organ of the Communist party of the Soviet Union, recommended the use of forced labor for the purpose of increasing the export of timber. How this was acted upon is apparent from a decree issued on Jan. 9 by the Commissariat of the Karelian Government.

This decree ordered the authorities to send the able-bodied working population into the forests not later than Jan. 10 and to use force to compel obedience from peasants who did not report for forest work by Jan. 15. These peasants were among those who declined to join agricultural collectives.

"Furthermore, the central trading office and the Karelian-Acannisjarvi Cooperative Society were instructed to refuse food supplies to all able-bodied persons who refused to obey the order for cutting lumber. A régime of unheard espionage and summary executions of recalcitrants was introduced by the G. P. U. to keep the mobilized workers and peasants in subjection.

"It must be remembered that among this army of Soviet slaves are thousands of workers whose only crime is their opposition to the ideas of communism and their advocacy of independent trade unions in Russia, able to defend the interests of the workers, as against the official, rubber-stamp trade unions maintained by the Soviet Government, unions which might be compared to the very worst type of our own company unions."

Ship's Officers' Confirmation Cited.

As confirmation of his charges, Mr. Woll pointed to statements attributed to officers of the Queen Olga, one of the Soviet-chartered ships which arrived here last week with a cargo of pulpwood from Archangel. According to these statements the Queen Olga was loaded by prisoners from a convict camp near by, where 5,000 men and women were herded under conditions of indescribable filth and semi-starvation. One of these officers was reported as saying he was willing to testify before any commission of inquiry and tell of the conditions he observed. He would not, however, permit the use of his name for the present.

Mr. Woll also issued this statement:

"My attention has been called to the alleged importation into this country of convict-made goods from Fascist Italy, it being suggested that the Wage Earners' Protective Conference take a stand on this matter similar to our stand on goods of convict origin from Soviet Russia.

"We have not as yet investigated the situation as regards imports from Fascist Italy, but we have no hesitation in saying that our attitude on imports of convict-labor origin from Italy or any country will be no less hostile than is our stand on similar imports from Soviet Russia.

"We are looking into the situation as regards Italy and will be glad to receive any information casting light on the subject. American labor has no more sympathy for Italian Fascism than it has for Russian communism. In both countries labor is enslaved and our sympathy goes out to the workers of both.

"We are not aware, however, that Italy is engaged in any such program of dumping as is the Soviet Government, or is attempting to impose its system, so abhorent to the American mind, upon other countries as is the Soviet Government of Russia. Whenever Italian Fascism seems to impose its will, its philosophy and its social and economic systems upon other countries, as the Russian Soviet Government is doing, it will meet with uncompromising resistance of American labor."

Progressive Labor Group Assailed.

Mr. Woll also assailed the Conference for Progressive Labor action for its attack upon him and his organization in their stand on the question of Soviet imports into this country.

While its representatives were in Washington yesterday pleading with treasury officials for the lifting of the Soviet pulpwood cargoes now held up in this city, the Information Bureau of the Amtorg Trading Corporation revealed that the Soviet pulpwood export program provided for the shipment of seventy-eight shiploads of the commodity from Archangel to the United States and Canada.

Of this, it was said, nine shiploads have already been unloaded in the United States and two in Canada, nine are on the high seas, seven are at Archangel loaded and ready to sail and the rest of the cargoes are at Archangel awaiting freighters. Of these nine two cleared for New York, one for Baltimore and one each for two Canadian ports, Sorel and Three Rivers.

Plays Golf 15 Hours Non-Stop, Walks 52 Miles for 200 Holes

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 29.—Leo De Korn, a New York business man who won five letters at the University of Pennsylvania, played 200 holes of golf today on the eighteen-hole course of the Purchase Country Club, where he is a member. He was on the course fifteen hours.

De Korn started to play at 3:30 A. M., while it was still dark, and stopped for nothing, not even for food, until he had completed the 200th hole. He averaged 97 for each eighteen homes. Par on the course is 70.

The only ill effects he suffered were aching feet and the loss of seven pounds. A pedometer strapped to his ankle indicated that he had walked fifty-two miles. On June 27, over the same course, De Korn played 144 holes with 925 strokes in twelve hours.

RAID ON 'RED NEST' PROVES FRUITLESS

Police and Federal Men Invade East Side Drug Store, Called Headquarters of G. P. U.

BUT MAKE NO ARRESTS

Owner Trades With Amtorg, but Denies He Is a Communist—Says He Is a Tammany Man.

Four men of the police bomb squad and two Federal agents from the office of United States Attorney Tuttle descended upon the drug store of James B. Schafran at 272 Avenue B yesterday, determined to uncover what they had been informed was a nest of secret Communist activity.

The information of the authorities was that Schafran, a young man, who had bought the store eighteen months ago and who does business with the Amtorg Trading Corporation, the Soviet commercial agency in this country, was running the establishment as a blind for the American section of the G. P. U., Soviet secret police. According to information said to have been obtained by the authorities, the drug store was the headquarters of the G. P. U. in the United States and from this place G. P. U. men, acting in concert with American Communists, were conducting subversive activities.

The raid failed to confirm this information. Nothing of a subversive character was found by the raiders. All that they learned was that Schafran was supplying the hospital maintained by the Amtorg for its employes at 201 Fifth Avenue with medicines and toothpastes.

In the store at the time of the raid, in addition to the proprietor, were James Goloubov, a salesman for the H. B. Cohen Drug Company, who had come to take some orders, and Max Spongin, an employe of the cooperative store operated by the Amtorg for its employes. The raiders were looking for Volodia Assaturov, a former employe of the Amtorg, who is accused by the Federal authorities of being the head of a band engaged in the smuggling of watch movements into the country. Two men were arrested last week in connection with this smuggling.

Schafran insisted he was not a Communist and that his relations with the Amtorg were of a purely business character. To prove that he was not a Communist, he told the raiders he was a good Tammany man and a member of the Pontiac Democratic Club of the Sixth Assembly District. He explained that Spongin had come to the store with an order for toothpaste, an order so large that he could not fill it, and that he had introduced Spongin to Goloubov, whose company could supply the desired quantity.

The raiders searched the place and gave up when they were satisfied that there was nothing there that could be properly objected to. They thereupon took a photograph of Schafran and his store and departed without making any arrests.

"Why don't they go after Henry Ford," said Schafran after the raiders had gone. "He, too, does business with Soviet Russia. The only difference between him and me is that he sells them automobiles and tractors and all I sell the Amtorg is herbs and toothpaste."

RED ARRESTS STIR SPAIN.

Premier's Secretary Says Madrid Was Unaware of French Plans.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, July 29.—The arrest of sixty-one Spanish anarchists at a meeting in France to plan disturbances in various towns in Spain has caused a sensation here. Sánchez Delgado, secretary to Premier Berenguer, said today:

"The Spanish Government had no part in the arrest of these people and was unaware that the arrests were impending."

Anarchistic or Communistic activities in Spain are held responsible for the Andalusian strikes several weeks ago, and the government, although refusing to comment, is exercising careful vigilance to prevent a recurrence. Whether the prisoners will be brought to Spain has not been disclosed.

5 KILLED AT SPANISH FETE.

20 Injured in Inter-Town Brawl on Religious Holiday.

MADRID, July 29 (AP).—Five persons are reported to have been killed and twenty wounded today at Santiago de Castaneda in a free-for-all fight that broke out during the celebration of a religious holiday.

Dispatches from the town, which is located in an isolated region that has poor communication facilities, said that the fighting began between groups of young men from rival towns.

A band of visitors made disparaging remarks to the residents, hot words were exchanged and this quickly led to fighting with revolvers, clubs and stones. About 100 shots were fired.

Many were arrested by police sent from other towns. Order was restored in the evening.

PUTS COMMUNISTS IN NATION AT 51,000

UNIVERSITY IS DEFENDED

Officials of Chicago Institution Say It Stands for Intellectual Freedom, but Has No Reds.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 29.—That there are in the United States 51,685 persons in organizations definitely affiliated with communism and 79,325 others in groups sympathetic with communistic aims was the assertion today of Police Lieutenant Make Mills before the Congressional committee investigating Red activities in this country.

Opposed to these, he said, are 1,089,107 in organizations which he classed as active enemies of the Soviet system.

Mills said that 70 per cent of the Communists are aliens, 20 per cent Negroes and 10 per cent native born. The Communists are meeting the opposition, he said, of the American Legion, the American Federation of Labor and other organizations and the situation is "well in hand" here. He said they were making headway with the Negro race and had taken special advantage of the unemployment situation, the market depression and dissatisfaction with the prohibition law.

In Chicago, he said, there are 2,000 Communists.

William V. Morgenstern, director of public relations for the University of Chicago, testified that there were no Communist activities as such at the university, although there was a Socialist club and a Liberal club, and the university had always advocated intellectual freedom.

The final hearing here of the committee headed by Representative Fish was enlivened by the appearance of Arthur W. Fisher, president of the American Civil Liberties Committee of Chicago, which has come to the legal aid of the Communists on several occasions.

Members of the committee subjected Mr. Fisher to what he described as a cross-examination and exhibited an attitude which he considered hostile.

Mr. Fisher said the one illegal act of Communists in Chicago during the last ten years was the beating of a stoolpigeon who had been sent to their headquarters. On the other hand, he said, many illegal arrests had been made and the Communists had been subjected to torture and indignities.

"Assuming that a Communist speaker denounced the government and asked that it be overthrown, would you consider a police arrest justifiable?" Chairman Fish asked him.

"I would not criticize the police for making an arrest under such circumstances," said Mr. Fisher. "My belief, further, is that, so long as that act is in no imminent danger in leading to violence, it should be permitted."

Mr. Fisher said he was not a Communist, and considered their theory and practice wrong. The Civil Liberties Committee, he said, presented, in his opinion, a cross-section of the best citizenship of Chicago.

SWEDISH EXILES GET RED OFFER TO RETURN

Moscow, However, Limits Quota to Twelve Families Each Possessing $830 and Rail Fare.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

STOCKHOLM, July 29.—The Soviet Government has given permission for the return of not more than twelve families of 900 inhabitants of the South Russian village of Gamla Svenskby who came to Sweden last Summer. The exiles are descendants of people who migrated from Sweden toward the end of the seventeenth century. Ultimately they made their homes in the district of Kherson in the Ukraine, where, faithful to their Swedish language and origin, they remained until a chance visit of Swedish tourists led to negotiations for their repatriation.

Since their return to Sweden these exiles have been canvassed by Bolshevist agents, who thought it would be excellent propaganda if all of them could be persuaded to return to Russia. Forty-four applied to the Swedish Foreign Office for permission to return. They have been living for the most part at a concentration camp and have found little employment.

The Soviet Government, however, informed the Swedish authorities that families returning this year, up to twelve, must possess, in addition to traveling expenses, $830 to reestablish themselves. The Swedish Government informed the committee in charge of the exiles that it can subscribe only $25 for each person.

About $250,000 has been subscribed for the exiles since their arrival, the subscribers never imagining any of the money would be spent in returning them to Russia. In the meantime nothing can be done unless the committee is able to raise about $800 a family.

COUNTERFEITERS GUILTY.

Three Convicted on Trial After Three Others Admit Guilt.

Three counterfeiters who remained on trial yesterday after three of their comrades had pleaded guilty before Federal Judge William B. Sheppard in Brooklyn, were found guilty on all twelve counts in their indictments, charging them principally with circulating counterfeit $20 Federal Reserve notes. They will be sentenced this morning.

Since the trial began Monday morning, when a seventh member of the gang, James De Sapio, died from bullet wounds received, according to his ante-mortem statement, "because of my counterfeiting activities" one defendant after another double-crossed his confederates and became a government witness. All but one, Joseph Catrone, took the stand in his own defense.

The three who pleaded guilty were Michael Coggiano of 243 Devoe Street, Joseph Arnone of 939 Metropolitan Avenue and Philip Villano of 185 Skillman Avenue, all of Brooklyn. Those who remained on trial were John Chicarella of 999 Lorimer Street, James Russo of 1,073 Willoughby Avenue and Joseph Catrone of 32 Starr Street, all of Brooklyn.

RED FARMS TO SPLIT INCOME UNEQUALLY

QUALITY OF WORK TO COUNT

Quantity and Goods Pooled Other Factors—Collectives Prove Worth by Production.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, July 29.—One of the most important problems now facing the Soviet is the apportionment in money and in kind among the members of the agricultural collectives, which vary in type from the 100 per cent "commune" to the loosest sort of organization for working the land jointly.

In the communes, which are the rarest, though from the Bolshevist viewpoint the highest form of collectives, there is little difficulty. The members share everything equally irrespective of the contribution in cattle or tools which they made at the beginning and the only distinction is the extra food allowance for large families.

The commonest form, the artel, which is advocated by the authorities at present as a step toward the commune, implies collective ownership of the land, cattle, machinery, tools, buildings and so forth, but there has been considerable uncertainty as to just how income is to be distributed.

The Agricultural Commissariat and the Collective Farm Board have just issued instructions on how the distribution is to be carried out. They are of especial interest today because they show that the Kremlin intends to stand by the principles of the "Stalin modification" early last Spring rather than by the earlier "leftward drive" to socialism.

Quality of Work to Count.

Thus it is laid down that distribution is to be based on "the quantitative and qualitative nature of the work done." In other words, hard working members are to be rewarded. Secondly, the distribution is to be by families—of course with an extra food allowance for numerous children—and not by units. A man and wife with one child will get a share almost the same as a couple with five children.

Thirdly, 5 per cent of the total production is to be set aside to compensate those members who pooled a larger amount of cattle, machines and so forth, than the others. This will encourage the "middle peasant," and if decided upon earlier would have done much to prevent the indiscriminate slaughter of cattle by the peasants, who preferred to kill or sell them to putting them in a general "pool" on equal terms with their poorer fellow-members.

Finally, instructions have been announced that the Winter grain produced by peasants who joined the collectives last Spring shall remain at the sowers' disposal.

These instructions should do much to popularize the collective movement and still the tempest of argument now raging on the subject in every Russian village. However that may be, there is no longer any doubt that from the standpoint of production the farm collectives have fully proved their value.

A Profitable Collective.

Izvestia today gives an example of a collective in the North Caucasus incorporating 1,600 peasants' holdings, about 8,000 "souls." Last year as units these 1,600 farmers sowed 25,000 acres; this year, 35,000 collectively.

Last year the value of total production was 500,000 rubles [about $250,000]; this year it was $950,000, owing to the increased area under wheat and the rise in yield per acre from about two-fifths of a ton to nearly three-quarters. After paying expenses and interest on the capital investment and providing a reserve and sinking funds, social insurance and so forth, to say nothing of $250,000 for development, more than $375,000 will remain for distribution as profits

The individual peasant families of this collective are already assured of almost double the return compared to last year—to be exact, an increase of 98.6 per cent. The poorest families will receive in the collective rather more than the "middle peasants" made last year individually. The latter in the collective will get considerably more than their poorer brethren through allowances for the cattle, machinery and other things they contributed and a higher quality of work, but the disproportion between the "poor" and the "middle" is tending to disappear.

The Izvestia correspondent states that this collective solved the problem of distribution in a general meeting before the government instructions appeared, but there is still a dispute as to the "consumption allowance" to each "soul," varying from eleven to thirteen bushels of grain yearly. In the old days the Russian peasant thought he was lucky if he was assured of six bushels annually for each member of his family.

Reckoning on a ruble basis, this collective produces a bushel of wheat at 35 per cent below the purchase price fixed by the grain collection department.

CHILD COURT JUDGES UNITE

Form International Association With Headquarters at Brussels.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BRUSSELS, July 29.—The international congress of children's court judges terminated its work today after a four-day meeting. Fourteen countries were officially represented and these decided to institute, with its headquarters at Brussels, the International Association of Children's Judges.

Statutes were approved and officials named, among whom was Dr. Miriam Van Waters, well-known referee of the juvenile court in Los Angeles, who will be asked to take the office of vice president of the association.

The object of the association is to promote closer cooperation between children's judges in different countries to enable them to carry on work and investigations internationally. It was suggested that governments be asked to organize children's courts everywhere. It was also proposed that conventions such as already exist between France and Belgium and Holland and Belgium respectively for the repatriation of minors be concluded between all countries.

Beating Air Pilot Out of Fare Alleged in First Case of Kind

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 29.—George W. Godfrey, 34 years old, of 1 South Stenton Place and 62 West Forty-ninth Street, New York City, is being held by the police here for investigation as the first person on record to beat an air pilot out of his fare for a plane trip.

The police say he is wanted also on charges of beating New York and Atlantic City hotel bills.

According to detectives, Godfrey engaged Harry Nordheim on Friday to take him by plane from this city to New York for $100. When about half way on the flight, the pilot tried to collect, but found that Godfrey had no money. When they reached New York Godfrey promised to visit a hotel and obtain the money. It is alleged that while in a subway station Godfrey eluded Nordheim. He later returned to this city by train and was arrested early today.

72 RUMANIAN REDS LINKED WITH SOVIET

Police Identify as Emissaries of Moscow Several Arrested in Raids on Anti-Semites.

MISSING CODE BOOK FOUND

Three Clerks of Bulgarian Origin Accused of Taking Volume From Postal Department Files.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUCHAREST, July 29.—To confirm official suspicions that Bolshevist inspiration is at the bottom of the recent anti-Semitic outbreaks in Bukowina and to anticipate Communist activity on Aug. 1, "International Anti-War Day," the police in Galatz and Kishineff last night arrested seventy-two Communists. Among them were identified several emissaries from Moscow. In one house in Kishineff were found 16,000 provocative pamphlets designed to be distributed Aug. 1.

Coincident with this anti-Communist activity, the police have discovered a book containing not only the secret code for Rumanian official telegraph and telephone communication but special regulations in case of mobilization. The book disappeared from the archives of the Post Office Department in Bucharest. Investigation showed the book had been abstracted by three clerks of Bulgarian origin and it was feared it had since been sold to Soviet agents. The three were arrested.

Police Head in Soviet Pay.

Some months ago the head of the Rumanian police in Bessarabia, M. Tabacu, was found to be in the pay of the Soviet and to have delivered copies of many important official documents to Soviet agents.

A sensation was caused in political circles by a statement in the newspaper Cuvantul today that the Minister of the Interior, Dr. Alexander Vayda Voevod, would resign as a result of the arrest two days ago of his chef de cabinet, M. Taslavanu, on charges of being concerned in the attempted assassination of the Acting Minister of the Interior, Dr. Constantine Angelescu. The police, searching for M. Taslavanu, entered the Ministry without previous permission or notification and conducted an inquiry into its proceedings, which the Minister thought reflected on his honor.

Warns of Peril of Anarchy.

BUCHAREST, July 29 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—A warning that the anti-Semitic agitation among the peasants of such nationalistic organizations as the Iron Guard and the Archangel League may also lead to anarchy throughout the country as well as to the spread of Communism among the dissatisfied peasants who are now in a bad economic condition, was given to King Carol today by Victor Cadere, chief of the Rumanian police, who has just returned from an extensive tour of investigation in the regions affected by the anti-Semitic propaganda.

The chief of the secret police urged that the strictest measures be taken to check the anti-Jewish outbreaks in the interest of keeping the country safe from anarchy. He recommended that even prominent political leaders who are stimulating the agitation be arrested.

M. Taslavanu, chief secretary in the office of the Minister of the Interior, whose house was raided Saturday by the police in an endeavor to establish his connections with the anti-Semitic leaders and who was later cross-examined by the government authorities, was impeached today and removed from office.

Jews were beaten in the streets of Orgiev in attacks during the last two days, according to telephone reports received at the office of the Jewish Telegraphic Agency here today. Every Jew passing in the streets of Orgiev, particularly in the evening, was attacked by anti-Semitic students.

The Orgiev police reported to Bucharest today that they had arrested three Cuzists, among them the anti-Semitic leader Negru, who came from Kiperchen. The Cuzists had been distributing anti-Semitic proclamations. The next day the arrested agitators were released and deported from Orgiev.

BRITISH FLIER'S BODY FOUND

Eric Hook Died After Crash in a Burmese Jungle July 3.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 29.—The body of Eric Hook, one of the two British airmen who crashed in a Burmese jungle on a flight from England to Australia, has been found by an expedition of twelve Englishmen which, under the direction of The London Daily Mail, set out from Rangoon. An early dispatch to The Daily Mail gives no further details of the discovery.

Mr. Hook and J. Matthews crashed July 3 between Akyab and Rangoon. After struggling seven days through a jungle Mr. Hook collapsed. Mr. Matthews, at Mr. Hook's insistence, pushed on to seek assistance. Mr. Matthews was rescued by natives, who were unable to find Mr. Hook.

JOBS IN QUEENS SOLD YET, THOMAS HINTS

Socialists' New Attack on Street-Paving Methods Names Convicted Official.

SEES CHANCES OF GRAFT

Points Out Work Done on Unimportant Street in Which "Political Henchman" Lives.

Norman Thomas, Socialist party leader, broadened yesterday his attack on street-paving methods in Queens in a letter to John J. Halleran, Acting Borough President. Asserting that the procedure in the Queens Highway Department was irregular and probably illegal and permitted favoritism, graft and discrimination in favor of certain parts of the borough against others, Mr. Thomas made the following specific charges:

"That Martin Mager, former County Clerk, convicted a few months ago for selling corporation inspectorships, is still said to be a prominent figure in the Borough Hall, where he is alleged to do the same sort of business.

"That despite Borough President Harvey's claims of economy for his system of laying new roads out of maintenance funds, Mr. Harvey a few months ago had to request the Board of Estimate for an appropriation of $250,000 for highway materials, although the budget had already provided $315,000 for such purposes.

"That Swan Place, a relatively unimportant highway, on which is located the residence of Oscar Danzig, who is one of Irving Klein's political henchmen, has been paved, while its companion street remains unpaved."

Mr. Thomas expressed hope that charges of irregularity made last March by Andrew Durler would be investigated thoroughly by James A. Higgins, Commissioner of Accounts.

"I hope the investigation will go further than merely to obtain a legal ruling as to methods of paving," Mr. Thomas said. "This is especially important because President Harvey, as a reformer, has played in the Board of Estimate the rôle of a loyal part of the Walker machine in the matter of salary increases, &c., which suggests that the Mayor's Commissioner of Accounts should use unusual care to avoid the suspicion that he is being very tender of a useful political ally of an opposing party."

Mr. Thomas will reply to Mayor Walker's recent defense of his administration in a radio speech from Station WOR at 8:30 o'clock tonight. He received yesterday an invitation from M. H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Company, offering the use of Station WJZ for a reply to the Mayor, which Mr. Thomas will accept for some date within the next two or three weeks.

WATKINS ACCUSED NOW AS A BIGAMIST

Philadelphia Woman Says Chicagoan, Whose Child's Identity Is Tangled, Is Her Husband.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 29.—The dispute over the identities of the four weeks' old babies of William Watkins and Charles Bamberger was further complicated today as Mrs. Anna Van Stan Watkins, a night club entertainer, threatened in Philadelphia to bring bigamy charges against Watkins who, she says, is still her husband. Mr. Watkins denied the charge and baby Watkins, or baby Bamberger, placidly slept in his crib at 1,619 West Eighty-second Street.

Meanwhile Barrett O'Hara, attorney for Watkins, filed a bill in equity in the Circuit Court in the name of Mrs. Grace Dibrell, who heads a group of mothers interested in the case, asking a judicial review and a finding which would establish the infants' identities.

Mr. O'Hara had previously announced that he expected to file a $100,000 damage suit against the Englewood Hospital, where the two babies were born June 30. Following the Philadelphia woman's assertion that Watkins had never divorced her, Mr. O'Hara filed the suit on behalf of the baby without asking damages from the hospital.

Mr. Watkins stated that he was married in 1917 to the first Mrs. Watkins when she was 17 years old. The following year, two days before he sailed for France with the Twenty-eighth Division, where he was in several major engagements, a son was born to his wife. He returned after the war to his wife and lived with her until 1921, he said. He obtained a divorce from his first wife in Chicago in March, 1928, he said. On June 29, 1929, he married Margaret Stahle Johnson, who had been divorced from Johnson in March, 1928.

TO ASK RISE FOR M'DONALD.

Committee Report Recommending $10,000 Increase for Premier.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 29.—A recommendation that Prime Minister MacDonald's salary be raised forthwith from $25,000 to $35,000 a year, it is reported, will be made by the select committee which inquired recently into the remuneration of Ministers of the Crown.

It is said this is the only recommendation the committee will make when it presents its report to Parliament in a few days. For the rest the report will say that the present time of financial stringency is not a time to consider increases in the public expenditure. No increase in Mr. MacDonald's salary, however, will be made until after the general election.

MARINE PLANE WRECKED.

Lieutenant and Mechanic Unhurt in Smash-Up in Nicaragua.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, July 29.—A marine pilot, Lieutenant Hughes, accompanied by a flight mechanic, cracked up in a marine Fokker plane at the landing field at Ocotal, Nueva Segovia, this morning, but neither was hurt. The Fokker was making a regular scheduled transport flight from Managua. It had been in service for two years and was in excellent condition.

Just as the plane approached the landing place a heavy gust of wind caused it to strike a clump of trees at a corner of the field.

AIRPORT IS MADE READY

St. Hubert's Field, Outside Montreal, Keeps in Touch With Craft Over Ocean by Radio.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, July 29.—With the long-delayed flight of Great Britain's monster dirigible, the R-100, under way, Canada hastened its preparations today for receiving its tardy guest from England.

St. Hubert Airport, twelve miles from this city, was a scene of bustling activity from before dawn until after dark. The airship, it is expected, will tie up at the mooring mast there sometime on Thursday night, provided she does not encounter unfavorable winds.

Position Reported by Radio.

In the communications office, radio operators bent over their keys listening for reports of progress from the giant airship, which left Cardington last night at 10:45 o'clock (New York Daylight Time). The estimates of the time of the ship's arrival were based upon a report received from her at 2 o'clock this afternoon giving her position as about 200 miles west of the Irish Coast.

This was interpreted as indicating that the R-100 was making about 50 miles and hour, a speed which, if maintained across the ocean, would enable her to fly the more than 3,000 miles between Cardington and Montreal in from 60 to 70 hours, a little less than three days. Experts are busy over their instruments and maps, and the meteorological station at the field calculated that the head winds would decrease and air conditions would become more favorable as the craft journeyed westward.

Months ago, when the R-100 was first scheduled to cross the Atlantic, elaborate preparations for receiving her were made. These plans were ready when the word finally came that the great air liner had cast off her mooring lines and started on her maiden transocean voyage.

Throngs are expected to visit the airport to see the R-100 upon her arrival and watch the delicate task of landing her—a task which will rest chiefly on the shoulders of her commander and a ground crew of twelve trained men who came here from England last Spring.

The first detachments of militiamen and regulars who will assist the Montreal police in maintaining order, controlling traffic and preventing accidents arrived at the field this evening and pitched camp at the end furthest from the mooring mast. The military will be in charge of policing the field while the city and provincial police will have charge of traffic duty on the highways leading to the airport.

First Aid Precautions Taken.

Although parking space has been reserved for 10,000 automobiles at St. Hubert's, congested conditions are expected on the highways, and tonight officials advised motorists to leave their cars in Montreal and travel to the airport by railroad trains, which will operate on a half hour schedule at reduced rates.

A staff of nurses and doctors has been assigned to duty at the field under the St. John Ambulance Corps in case of minor accidents. In addition two airplanes will be held in readiness to serve as flying ambulances in case of more serious mishaps.

The start of the flight was received as something of an anti-climax here—there had been so many delays and disappointments. In addition, the news was received by a people emotionally somewhat exhausted after a spirited campaign and election which restored the Conservatives to power for the first time since 1921. Dispatches telling of the flight occupied a very subordinate position in today's newspapers. By the time the R-100 arrives, however, the old enthusiasm undoubtedly will return.

3 CHAINS TO RADIOCAST ARRIVAL OF THE R-100

National and Columbia Systems Will Pick Up Descriptions of Canadian Announcer.

When the British dirigible R-100 comes into sight from the top of the giant mooring mast erected at St. Hubert Airport at Montreal after crossing the Atlantic from England, a description of the scene will be heard throughout North America over three networks. The description will be given by an official government announcer of the trans-Canada chain.

This picture will be brought by land wires to the networks of the National Broadcasting Company and the Columbia Broadcasting System spanning this country. The local stations are expected to be WEAF, WABC, WOR and WJZ.

When the announcer for the Department of National Defense speaks in French for that portion of Canada's population the WABC system will revert to its own microphones installed at St. Hubert field. The actual time of broadcasting will depend upon the arrival of the airliner. This is expected to be some time on Thursday or Friday.

easterly, and a comparatively small anti-cyclone was replaced by a huge one spreading from the Azores to the eastern coast of Greenland—an area far too big for the captain to contemplate flying around the northern edge to gain the advantage of easterly winds.

When the new situation was recognized, the captain decided to head straight through the anti-cyclone, certain of perhaps 1,000 miles of fine weather with the disadvantage of a light headwind.

At 6 P. M. [1 P. M. New York Daylight Time] it was confirmed in the new course by a comprehensive report received from the United States Weather Bureau at Arlington and transmitted to the airship through the Rugby radio station. The report added that southerly winds of moderate strength with rather unsettled weather might be expected on approaching Newfoundland, with some fog.

Experts say yesterday's flight was fairly satisfactory after the false start due to the sudden weather change.

Rainstorms Will Be Welcomed.

Rainstorms into which the R-100 is believed to be heading will be welcomed rather than feared, particularly if encountered near the end of the journey. The weight of the vast quantity of rain water which was found to collect in the new type of concave panels on the airship's broad roof was at first considered a grave problem. Later means were devised of running this into the airship's ballast tanks, thus counteracting the loss of weight as the engines exhausted the gasoline supply, in her case amounting to more than thirty tons.

If there is no rain, the captain will have to sacrifice many cubic feet of valuable lifting gas in order to keep the airship under control and doubtless will "whistle for a shower" as the merchantmen of old used to "whistle for a wind."

Ship Reports R-100 at Sea.

LONDON, July 29 (AP).—A wireless to The Associated Press from the master of the British steamer Manchester Exporter tonight said the ship had been in communication with the R-100 about 300 miles west of the Irish Coast at 8:25 P. M., Greenwich Mean Time [4:25 P. M. Eastern Daylight Time].

The ship did not sight the R-100, but got its wireless signals very strong. The message said:

"8:25 P. M., Greenwich Mean Time, Lat. 51:50 N., Long. 17:41 W., in wireless communication with R-100, bearing 2½ degrees true from that position. Signals very strong, but not sighted.

"Weather fine and clear with wind from the northwest. The barometer is rising slowly. The R-100 reports having a good trip so far. Signed, Barclay, Master."

The master of the steamship Montclare radioed The Associated Press that he had been in communication with the R-100 at 11:30 P. M. Greenwich time Tuesday (7:30 P. M. New York Time). The dirigible reported that it was making a speed of fifty knots and all was well on board.

On board the R-100, its messages said, passengers and crew had settled down to the normal routine of airship life, which they will pursue, barring accidents, until they arrive late Thursday or early Friday morning at St. Hubert Airport, Montreal.

At 4:18 P. M. [11:18 A. M. New York Daylight Time] the Valentia wireless station, Ireland, received the following message:

"Nothing of interest to report. Every one now settled down to normal routine. Nebulous clouds 1,800 feet and good visibility. Flying at 2,100 feet. Position 200 miles west on the West Coast of Ireland."

Periodic broadcasts from the airship's well-equipped wireless sets to the Air Ministry kept Great Britain informed of the first day's progress. It was constantly in communication with ships and picked up frequent weather reports.

Meteorological data picked up from passing ships proved to be of great value in determining the course. In general the route remains that of the Great Circle across the Atlantic.

Apart from adverse winds, the R-100 met fair weather. A few rainy patches, with squalls blowing from Argyle, greeted it while passing out from the Irish Sea, but once over the ocean the weather was fine and cold.

With its as yet inexperienced sister ship, the R-101, the R-100 is the world's biggest dirigible. The chosen few of England's finest fliers manned her for the transatlantic test.

As the two airships represent Great Britain's challenge to the German Graf Zeppelin and bid for world supremacy in dirigible travel, nothing was too good for officers and crew and no care too minute for engines and gas bag.

Squadron Leader R. S. Booth, the commander, was transferred from the Royal Navy in 1915 to be a captain of non-rigid airships. In 1915 he became celebrated for his brilliant performance when the R-33 broke loose from its Norfolk mooring mast and drifted over the North Sea at the mercy of a 100-mile-an-hour gale. He was appointed last year to command the R-100.

The navigator, Squadron Leader Johnston, is a master mariner. He was navigator of the first Imperial Airways flight to India in 1927.

Designer Is Aboard.

Sir Dennistoun Burney, who designed the ship, is also aboard. So is Major E. H. Scott, Assistant Director of Flying, who in 1912 was captain of the R-9, the first British rigid airship to fly, and in 1919 commanded the R-34 on its flight from Scotland to the United States and back. It was Major Scott who invented and planned the St. Hubert mooring tower and base at Montreal, which now awaits the R-100.

Wing Commander R. B. B. Colmore, who represents the Air Ministry, was largely responsible for the scheme of combating submarines by airship and seaplane patrols, so effectively used over the English Channel and North Sea in the war.

An experienced member of the R-100 crew is Squadron Leader Wann, who was commanding the ill-fated R-38 when it broke up over the East Coast in 1921. He was the only survivor from the fore part of the lost airship.

The airship is manned by a crew of four officers and thirty-two men, fourteen of whom have no previous flying experience. With eight passengers, the total number on board reaches forty-four.

Sighted Off Donaghadee.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, July 29 (AP).—The R-100 was sighted twelve miles off Donaghadee, County Down, at 10:17 British Summer Time this morning (5:17 A. M., E. D. T.). Visibility was bad. Previously the airship, which is flying from Cardington to Montreal, was sighted off Port Patrick, Southwest Scotland, and was then heading for Northern Ireland at a speed of sixty to seventy miles an hour.

Tail-Light Seen in Fog.

LARNE, Northern Ireland, July 29 (AP).—The R-100 was sighted over here at 10:45 o'clock, British Summer Time this morning (5:40 A. M., E. D. T.).

The airship was about 600 feet up when it flew over Cushendall, traveling swiftly and with a tail-light showing because of the fog. The drone of the huge motors could be heard for a long distance.

Fair Crowd Watches Ship.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, July 29 (AP).—The R-100 passed over Rathlin Island, Antrim, at 11:30 A. M., British Summer Time, today (6:30 A. M., Eastern Daylight Time). It was traveling fast.

The Waterford monthly fair was halted while those attending it watched the great ship sailing overhead.

Easily Seen at Liverpool.

LIVERPOOL, England, July 29 (AP).—Early hikers had a good view of the R-100 as it passed over the city shortly after 7 o'clock this morning, flying low in the brilliant sunshine.

After circling the city the airship headed toward the Irish Sea and the first water on the long transatlantic journey to Montreal.

SEARCH FOR TAIL WIND SEEN IN R-100'S ROUTE

Weather Man Here Thinks Dirigible Went North to Avoid Prevailing Breezes.

The weather reports from the eastern half of the Atlantic Ocean and dispatches telling of the course the R-100 took at the start of the flight indicated to Dr. James H. Kimball that the airship's master and meteorologist hoped to find favorable winds before reaching Belle Isle or the coast of North America.

"Several small storms appear to be moving eastward over the coast of Ireland," Dr. Kimball said, "and other low pressure areas of like nature are over the ocean. It is possible that the airship was following a course just north of these areas in the hope that easterly winds might be encountered. It looks like very competent professional navigating from a meteorological standpoint. I know the meteorolgist on board personally and he is one of the most competent."

Continued fog can be expected at Belle Isle and it is likely that the airship will go through much cloudy weather and some rain, Dr. Kimball said, before reaching this side. He was much interested in the orignal possibility of picking up helping winds over an area in which the winds are prevailingly westerly.

The low troughs extending roughly northeast and southwest across the St. Lawrence Valley are moving slowly eastward.

R-100 Designed on Menu Card; Passengers Supplement Crew

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 29.—Just before the R-100 started for Canada Sir Dennistoun Burney, managing director of the Airship Guarantee Company, which built it, told a friend that his original sketch for this airship was made at a dinner party eight years ago on the back of a menu card.

"We had been talking of the disaster to the R-38, which broke her back over Hull during final tests for the United States Government," said Sir Dennistoun, "and I made a drawing of what I thought would be the next stage of airship construction. For years I worked on that design and this is the result."

Sir Dennistoun and Major E. H. Scott, who piloted the R-34 across the Atlantic, and other distinguished representatives of the Air Ministry and Admiralty Board are acting as "handy men" on the flight and may be asked to pump fuel or otherwise assist in the handling of the airship. Although the airship has five officers and thirty-two men aboard, which is the normal two-watch crew, she is short her full complement, as the third watch is awaiting her arrival at Montreal. Accordingly, the passengers unanimously volunteered. They enrolled for daytime work and thus the deficiency in strength was remedied.

R-100 TO BE OVER LANE OF BIG PASSENGER SHIPS

Bremen, Berengaria, the President Harding and the Baltic Are Among Liners Now on Route.

Wireless messages stating that the R-100 had altered its course to the south, which will bring the craft over the North Atlantic ship lanes, mean that the dirigible probably will be seen by a number of large passenger ships.

Among the westbound ships which might be of assistance to the dirigible should weather conditions prove unfavorable are the Bremen of the North German Lloyd, due here July 31; the Berengaria of the Cunard Line, the President Harding of the United States Lines and the California of the Cunard Line, all due here on Aug. 1; the Malwaukee and the Deutschland of the Hamburg-American Line, due here Aug. 2, and the Tuscania and the Cameronia of the Anchor Line, due here Aug. 3.

Eastbound ships which might be in the neighborhood of the giant dirigible are the White Star liners Baltic and Homeric, the French liner France, the Cunard liner Laconia, the Holland-America liner Rotterdam, the Hamburg-American liner St. Louis and the Wythville of the American Diamond Line, all of which left her July 25; the Belgenland of the Red Star Line, the Minnekahda of the Atlantic Transport Line and the Republic of the United States Lines, which left this port July 26.

Should the R-100 change her course to the northward she would come into the path of Canadian Pacific, Cunard, White Star and Anchor Line ships plying between England and Canada.

Dotted across the ocean at this time of the year are small freight ships of all kinds, which could communicate with the dirigible.

NINE NOTABLE FLIGHTS ACHIEVED BY AIRSHIPS

All Have Been Made Within Last Twenty Years and Four by Graf Zeppelin.

Nine outstanding flights adorn the records of lighter-than-air flying. All of them have been made within the last twenty years, and four were made by one ship, the German Graf Zeppelin, The Associated Press records. The list of notable flights follows:

America.—Piloted by Walter Wellman, attempted a transatlantic flight from Atlantic City, N. J., in October, 1910. Wrecked off Cape Hatteras, but remained in air seventy hours and flew 850 miles. Crew rescued.

L-57.—German dirigible, flew from Jamboli, Bulgaria, to Daka Oasis, East Africa, and back in 1917. Voyage of 4,200 miles took ninety-six hours.

R-34.—British dirigible, flew from Scotland to Mineola, L. I., and back in July, 1919. Distance of 6,200 miles covered in flying time of 187 hours.

ZR-3 (Los Angeles).—German-built dirigible for United States Navy, flew from Friedrichshafen, Germany, to Lakehurst, N. J., in three days in October, 1924.

Norge.—Flew across North Pole with Captain Roald Amundsen on May 12, 1926.

Graf Zeppelin.—Made first flight from Friedrichshafen to Lakehurst in October, 1928, in 111 hours, and returned in 69 hours.

Graf Zeppelin.—Made second transatlantic flight from Friedrichshafen to Lakehurst in August, 1929, in ninety-five hours and return flight in fifty-four hours.

Graf Zeppelin.—Flew around world from Lakehurst to Lakehurst, August, 1929, in twenty-two days.

Graf Zeppelin.—Flew from Friedrichshafen to South America and back by way of Lakehurst in May and June, 1930, traveling 18,000 miles in nineteen days.

Male "Wets" in Pennsylvania to Follow Lead of Women.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, July 29.—Following the action of women opponents of the Eighteenth Amendment who yesterday endorsed John M. Hemphill, Democrat, as their nominee for Governor, male wets who have pre-empted the Liberal party title for use in the November election will publicly announce in a few days their own choice of Mr. Hemphill for the Governorship.

B. Dawson Coleman, acting head of the Liberal party, conferred today with John R. Collins, chairman of the Democratic State committee, and the latter immediately went to troudsberg to meet Mr. Hemphill and Sedgwick Kistler, the Democratic nomine for Senator, and inform them of the forthcoming endorsement.

SYRUP MAN HELD SUICIDE.

Soren Heiberg's Death in Minnesota Laid to Financial Troubles.

HIBBING, Minn., July 29 (AP).—Soren Heiberg of Chicago, who was found dead in his Summer cabin on a Wasson Lake island Saturday, was declared today to have committed suicide. A. P. Peterson declared letters left by the 50-year-old man, president of a syrup company, said he intended to kill himself because of financial difficulties.

The letters were addressed to Mrs. Heiberg, who lives in Denmark with her children; his attorney, and the caretaker of his property.

Georgia Court Accepts Federal Agent's Plea of Accident.

COLUMBUS, Ga., July 29, (AP)—W. K. Johnson Jr., Federal prohibition agent, was freed today of a murder charge in the death of Ray Rodgers, 20, whom he killed Friday night as the youth tried to deliver whisky to an informer.

Judge Arthur Lynch accepted the agent's plea that the shooting was accidental and exonerated him after hearing a few witnesses but no argument.

Johnson said Rodgers was killed accidentally as he and his companion, Miss Eunice Johnson, scuffled with the officer for possession of his pistol.

HAMER LANDS FIRST AT OGDEN IN DERBY

WEDELL'S PLANE CRASHES

Flier Escapes Injury as His Craft Falls on Telephone Wires on the Coast.

OGDEN, Utah, July 29 (AP).—Lee Gehlbach of Little Rock, Ark., held a three-hour lead over Lowell Bayless, Cleveland, in the All American Air Derby tonight when nine of the eleven contestants had arrived at the Ogden airport.

Gehlbach's total lapsed time was 31:18:17, compared with Bayless's total of 34:17:41. The two leaders were second and third, respectively, in arriving here. Herman Hamer, Chicago, led the baby airplanes here from Los Angeles where they took off this morning, and won the lap prize of $1,000 offered by the Ogden Chamber of Commerce for the best time between the two cities.

Hamer took the direct course over the San Barnadino Mountains, climbing to a height of 8,000 feet and not pausing for gasoline or oil.

Gehlbach made two stops, at Las Vegas, Nev., and Milford, Utah. At Milford he experienced difficulty with the tiny wheels of his plane in leaving the rough and soft field. He barely cleared a fence in taking off.

Hamer's time for the 598 miles was 4:45:47, compared with Gehlbach's 5:00:52 and Bayless's 5:15:42. Bayless refueled at Las Vegas.

From long before Hamer arrived at 1:47 P. M., several thousand persons waited through the hot afternoon for the racers. Other contestants here at 6 P. M., with their time from Los Angeles, were:

Charles Meyers, Cleveland, 5:55:02; Henry Ogden, Inglewood, Cal., 5:27:54; William Cahill, Cleveland, 5:58:33; Larry Brown, Los Angeles, 7:25:15; Cecil Coffrin, Brooklyn, 7:27:41; H. W. Holladay, Los Angeles, 5:47.

Stanley Stanton of Blackwell, Okla., was the tenth to arrive, dropping onto the field at 7:38:35. His time from Los Angeles was 10:29:25, and his total elapsed time was 43:30:34. Stanton was held up at Milford, Utah, where he broke a wheel. After substituting an improvised wooden wheel he continued on to Ogden.

Joe Neehan of Ironton, Ohio, remained to be heard from.

The planes will leave here tomorrow for Lincoln, Neb.

Limited to 100-horsepower motors, the fliers are contesting over a 7,000 mile course for $50,000 in prizes.

GOV. RICHARDS ORDERS 4 HELD IN SLAYING

Band of 16 South Carolina Officers Sent to County Where Legislator Was Killed.

COLUMBIA, S. C., July 29 (AP).—Arrest of four Berkeley County citizens was ordered by Governor Richards tonight in connection with the assassination last week of State Senator E. J. Dennis of that county.

The Chief Executive's action was taken, it was said, as a result of information obtained from W. L. Thornley, arrested immediately after the shooting as the actual slayer of the Senator.

One of the quartet sought according to the Governor was Glenn D. McKnight, former king of the bootleggers in the Hell Hole Swamp area of Berkeley County and later a Federal prohibition agent. McKnight was shot down from ambush a few weeks ago and desperately wounded but recovered.

Clarence Woodward, a former deputy sheriff of Berkeley County, and Fred Artis, a resident of the county, were reported already to have been arrested. The fourth man sought was Curtis Thornley, a brother of the alleged assassin.

A squad of sixteen State constables and deputy sheriffs, acting under secret instructions, tonight were sent into Berkeley County, scene of a bitter political and liquor war for several years which was climaxed last week by the assassination of Senator Dennis.

The Senator was shot down on a street in Moncks Corner, the county seat, last Thursday and died the next day in a Charleston hospital.

YANCEY HOPS FOR NEWYORK

Plans Flight to London and Moscow as He Leaves Buenos Aires.

BUENOS AIRES, July 29 (AP).—Captain Lewis A. Yancey, American transatlantic aviator, today took off on the long return flight to New York from his South American tour. He hopes to maintain constant radio communication with stations en route.

On arriving at New York he said he would prepare for a flight from there to Moscow by way of London, following a "radio beam" from New York to London and experimenting in radio control of his plane from land stations.

Captain Yancey has been making a series of experiments in radiotelephone communication from an airplane to various parts of the globe. He said he was completely satisfied with his achievements, in which he cooperated with the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation.

BENNETT'S TRIUMPH GROWS IN CANADA

Conservatives Hold Strong Majority With 137 Seats and Only Two Now in Doubt.

PARLIAMENT CALL SPEEDED

Premier Mackenzie King Acts to Expedite Installing of Succeeding Government.

TARIFF REPRISAL DOUBTED

Senator Watson Expects New Dominion Measure to Affect All Nations Alike.

From a Staff Correspondent of The New York Times.

MONTREAL, July 29.—Riding into control on the crest of its sweeping victory in yesterday's general elections, the Conservative party of Canada today took steps toward the formation of a government and the assembling of Parliament to carry out its policies.

W. L. Mackenzie King, the Liberal Prime Minister, prepared for the resignation of his government and advised the Governor General, Viscount Willingdon, at Ottawa, to send for Richard B. Bennett, the leader of the Conservatives, to confer on the forming of the new government.

Mr. King promised his assistance in speeding the assembling of the new House of Commons, in which the Conservatives will have a strong working majority.

With only two of the 245 seats still in the doubtful column tonight, the party totals were: Conservatives 137, Liberals 86, United Farmers 10, Progressives 2, Liberal-Progressives 3, Laborites 3, Independents 2.

Party Standing by Provinces.

The standing of the parties, according to provinces, was as follows:

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND—Liberal 1, Conservative 3.
NOVA SCOTIA—Liberal 4, Conservative 10.
NEW BRUNSWICK—Liberal 1, Conservative 10.
QUEBEC—Liberal 37, Conservative 25, Independent 1.
ONTARIO—Liberal 22, Conservative 59, United Farmers 1.
MANITOBA—Liberal 1, Conservative 11, Liberal-Progressive 3, Labor 2.
SASKATCHEWAN—Liberal 12, Conservative 7, Progressive 2.
ALBERTA—Liberal 3, Conservative 4, United Farmers 9.
BRITISH COLUMBIA—Liberal 5, Conservative 7, Labor 1, Independent 1.
YUKON—Conservative 1.

King to Help Speed Session Call.

In his first official statement since the election, Premier Mackenzie King, the leader of the defeated Liberals, said:

"The returns are sufficiently complete to indicate that the Conservative party, under the leadership of the Hon. Mr. Bennett, will have a majority in the next House of Commons. Accordingly, I have this morning advised his Excellency the Governor General to send for Mr. Bennett and ascertain if he is prepared to form a government.

"As Mr. Bennett stated throughout the campaign that if returned to power he would immediately hold a special session of Parliament to end unemployment, and that the session would be held before the Imperial Conference, which convenes in London on Sept. 30, I have told his Excellency that I shall be glad in any way possible to expedite the summoning of Parliament, and am prepared to tender my resignation as Prime Minister to take effect at such time as his Excellency, after conference with Mr. Bennett, may deem advisable."

Commenting upon the outcome of the election, Mr. King said:

"Having regard to the far-reaching importance of the issue of the campaign, I naturally regret its outcome. I am particularly sorry that a few of my colleagues and some of the former supporters of the government in the House of Commons have met with defeat.

"It is gratifying, however, that the Liberal ranks have retained so many of those who have been prominent in public affairs, and that their numbers have been reinforced by not a few new members of outstanding ability.

"On behalf of myself and my colleagues, I wish to express very sincere thanks to all who have given help. From now on it will, I believe, become increasingly apparent that the policies advocated by the Liberal party are not only sound but essential to the highest well-being of our country.

"I have every confidence that as a result of certain issues raised by our opponents the forces of progress will be given new determination and cohesion, and a new insight into the essential character of the interests they have in common. I believe as a consequence it will not be long before liberalism in Canada will come into its own more completely than ever."

Bennett Hails Dominion Unity.

Robert B. Bennett, who, as chieftain of the victorious Conservatives, is destined to be Prime Minister, issued the following statement:

"The policy of the Conservative party has been accepted by the people of Canada as the instrument of national development. The fact that every Province of the Dominion has contributed to the result will sustain the new government in the task which lies before us.

"This Dominion-wide expression of confidence insures a solid government, which at this time is essential, and manifests a determination on the part of the people of our country to cherish and maintain national unity. For victory at the cost of unity would be, in truth, an overwhelming defeat of the purpose for which our party stands."

Liberal leaders, momentarily stunned by the decisive defeat of their party, were today beginning to talk of a pyrrhic victory for the conservatives, arguing that it was better to be beaten at the beginning of what seems to be a protracted hard-time period than to persist in holding political power in the face of growing unemployment and financial trouble.

They predict many and swift difficulties for Br. Bennett, the future Prime Minister, for his will be the task of steering the administration through a period which, the Liberals declare, will be one of the most trying in the history of the Dominion.

"Miracle" in Quebec Upset.

Conservative newspapers, elated at their party's triumph, generally comment on the "miracle" of the upset in the Province of Quebec. With twenty-five counties captured where for years the Conservatives had not one single representative and for many years only four of the sixty-five seats, the campaign gave a result which is unheard of in Canadian history.

Special Session Likely Sept. 11.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 29 (Canadian Press).—Parliament may possibly meet in special session about Sept. 11 to deal with unemployment. The session would last about two weeks, thus enabling R. B. Bennett, the Conservative Premier-elect, to attend the Imperial Conference scheduled for Sept. 30 in London.

On a summons from the Governor General the Premier-elect this evening attended at Rideau Hall. The conference was a preliminary to the assumption by Mr. Bennett of the office of Prime Minister and his selection of a cabinet. Indications are that within the next ten days the Conserevative leader will take office.

Mr. Bennett is expected to ask Parliamentary approval for proceeding with national undertakings, including a national highway, for the relief of unemployment both now and in the coming Winter. As soon as authorization is obtained, he would sail for London.

Watson Sees Advantage to Us.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—The victory of the Conservative party in the Canadian elections, in the opinion of some Republican Senators who have followed the issue of that campaign, will lead to the enactment of tariff legislation which will be operative against all countries alike and to the abandonment of the temporary Canadian tariff law now in effect, giving preference to imports from the British Empire.

Such is the view of Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, Republican floor leader, who had a conference here with two leading business men of the Conservative party several weeks before the election.

More Equitable Tariff Expected.

These men, who, Senator Waston said, interpreted not only the views of their party, but also the dominant sentiment in Canada, expressed the belief that the tariff that would be passed by the Conservatives would give no preference to the British Empire, but would apply to all countries alike.

Senator Watson feels that the temporary tariff, now in effect in Canada, is unjust to the United States in that it encourages trade with the empire with preferential rates and "discriminates" against the United States. He also believes that the Conservatives will argue that if the Canadian tariff rates are made operative against all countries alike there can be no valid objections raised to them by the United States Government.

Senator Watson, who has studied the situation thoroughly through contact with Canadian politicians, believes that the victory of the Conservatives in the end will be favorable to the continuance of trade relations between the United States and Canada.

Tariff Retaliation Is Doubted.

Senator Watson said before leaving Washington that his interview with Canadian business men convinced him that the result of the election would assure the passage of a tariff law that could not be construed by the United States as retaliatory.

He said that while the Conservative party, when in power before, had been less friendly to American trade, there appeared now among its leaders to be a disposition to encourage friendly trade relations.

This changed point of view, he said, was due to the very large American investment which had gone to Canada since the war and the turning of Canadians to New York for financial assistance rather than to London.

Little Change Is Looked For.

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP).—Victory for the Conservative party in Canada brought no great surprise in Washington official circles, since predictions for some time past had been that the Conservatives would win.

The general belief here was that the principal problems between the two countries, including the St. Lawrence waterway, the tariff and liquor smuggling from Canada into the United States, would not be affected in particular by the change in governments.

The impression is that both parties are favorable to the waterway project, although it is believed that the Conservatives might be a little more strict on the question of power allotments. So far as the tariff is concerned, the Conservative victory is looked upon as a slight leaning toward Great Britain.

The question of liquor smuggling is not expected to play a prominent part in the relations between the two countries in the near future, since it is regarded as largely eliminated by the Canadian law forbidding exportations to the United States.

VICTORY SURPRISES ENGLAND.

Much Regret Is Expressed at Fate of Preferential Tariff.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 30.—England was utterly unprepared for the sweeping Conservative victory in Canada. Both leaders had been recognized as good imperialists, but the defeat of MacKenzie King, and especially the end of the generous Dunning tariff, leaves British commentators little cause for rejoicing.

Lord Beaverbrook and his empire-protectionist allies do not conceal their sadness at the fate of the preferential treatment which the Dunning tariff offered Britain. Everywhere in England in fact, the election is held to be a disappointment to British manufacturers, who will lose the advantages of a budget which gave absolute free trade to Britain in 589 tariff items out 1,188.

"MacKenzie King said, 'Let's make a gesture to encourage the mother country'," says The Daily Express in an editorial which betrays Beaverbrook's own hand. "Bennett said, 'Let's make a bargain.' The Canadian electorate has turned to Bennett and empowered him to bargain for the Dominion. Canada has decreed that in imperial matters sentiment and economics shall be partners—but equal partners." Both Beaverbrook and Rothermere use the Canadian result to push their own campaign for the so-called "empire free trade." The Daily Mail calls it "a verdict for a rational policy of empire free trade," and says it exposes the folly of any one-sided system of tariff preference.

Commentators agree that economic depression hastened King's downfall and that the American tariff also helped. In The Morning Post's words, "Even the Dunning budget didn't go far enough against the United States to satisfy Canadian feeling." The Morning Post says that despite British disappointment over the fate of the Dunning tariff, nobody can dispute the justice of Bennett's position. "Canada is first, the British Empire next, and the rest of the world, third." "On that basis," says The Morning Post, "we might still do excellent business. And Bennett will no doubt make note of the fact that American comment shows the United States to be less afraid of Canadian protection than of imperial reciprocity."

The London Times ascribes the Liberal upset in Quebec partly to the small farmers, whose produce was being driven from the Montreal markets by the competition from the United States. It finds encouragement in the fact that the Liberal domination of Quebec is broken, "for there were dangers in the identification of French blood and adherence to the Roman Catholic Church with one political party."

To Bennett personally The London Times pays a warm tribute and says he has made many friends in England who will look forward to welcoming him as Premier when he attends the Imperial Conference in September.

WALL STREET HAS SOME FEARS

Financiers Expect New Canadian Tariff to Hit Our Products.

Considerable apprehension was voiced in Wall Street yesterday over the accession of the Conservative party to power in Canada on a platform calling for greatly increased duties on goods imported from this country.

It was pointed out that while Canada is now the best single customer of the United States, her imports consist chiefly of manufactured goods, and the enactment of a higher tariff would result in a loss of business to several important American companies.

During recent years, however, some American concerns have built manufacturing plants in the Dominion. Inasmuch as a higher tariff would probably increase this trend, the larger companies would not suffer materially at first. In time, with the augmenting of competition, the larger industrial organizations of foreign countries would be likely to add to their manufacturing facilities in Canada. Impetus would be given to this tendency by the plan of the Conservatives to impose an equal tariff against all nations.

Consequently it is believed that smaller companies, not sufficiently intrenched financially to install factories in Canada, would be the principal sufferers in the new trade policy.

Exports to Canada from the United States during May totaled about $70,000,000, which is at the annual rate of $840,000,000. Imports for the same period amounted to about $37,500,000, or at the annual rate of about $450,000,000.

The excess of exports over imports to Canada was roughly $32,500,000, which was not exceeded in our trade with any other country or continent except Europe, where the trade balance in favor of the United States was about $48,500,000.

BENNETT A STURDY MAN.

At 60, He Is Noted for Vigor and Energy—Massive in Appearance.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 29 (Canadian Press).—Canada's next Prime Minister, R. B. Bennett, is a man of mental and physical vigor. He passed his sixtieth birthday this month.

For seven solid weeks he campaigned through every Province of the Dominion, covering almost 14,000 miles and addressing more than 100 meetings, yet if he was fatigued he did not show it. His broad shoulders give a touch of massiveness to his appearance, and he is almost 6 feet in height.

One of his characteristics is his rapidity of speech. In the earlier days of his parliamentary career he was a discouragement to shorthand writers. Since he became Conservative leader he has taken more pains to speak more slowly.

Although a man of great activity as a lawyer and a business man, Mr. Bennett has always taken an energetic part in political life.

Among all the uncertainties of the election, one thing the electors could be sure of was that the next Premier would be a bachelor, because Mr. Bennett, Premier Mackenzie King and Robert Gardiner, leader of the United Farmer group, all are bachelors.

Mr. Bennett was born in Hopewell, N. B., the ninth generation on the American Continent. He was admitted to the bar in New Brunswick, but in 1897 he moved to Calgary, where he has since resided.

In 1898 Mr. Bennett was elected a member of the Legislative Assembly of the Northwest Territories and in 1909 he was elected a member of the Alberta Provincial Legislature. He entered the House of Commons in 1911 from Calgary.

He was Director General of National Service during the early years of the war and was Minister of Justice and Attorney General of Canada in the Meighen Cabinet in its latter days..

ENDURANCE AIRMEN ENTER TENTH DAY HERE

Fourth Storm of Flight Hits Plane During Contact With Refueling Craft.

Special to The New York Times.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, L. I., July 29.—Louis Reichers and Robert Black, pilots of the red-winged Stinson monoplane making an endurance flight here, entered their tenth day at 8:34 o'clock tonight in the act of making a refueling contact with the nurse plane over Mitchel Field during a violent rain and electrical storm.

With both planes bouncing about in the rough air currents and the driving rain the refueling operation was completed and the fliers resumed the normal flight, droning around the course over the flying fields.

The storm was the fourth encountered during the flight thus far. Not as severe as that of last Thursday in rainfall, nevertheless it was accompanied by adverse conditions, such as rough air and poor visibility.

The contact was the thirty-eighth since the flight began, on the night of July 20. Earlier in the day the two men took aboard, in addition to their meals, 190 gallons of fuel, fifteen gallons of lubricating oil, a collapsible bathtub of canvass, and water.

From time to time the plane circled over this field on its solitary rounds of the course and the men were seen to wave at the gallery as it passed. Throughout the flight they have been connected by short-wave radio apparatus in two-way telephonic communication with the radio station here.

ENDURANCE CYCLIST, HIT BY AUTO, RIDES ON

Boy's Injuries Treated When Partner Relieves Him—Tree Sitters Set Records.

Title seekers in the various branches of America's latest fad yesterday remained loyally at the tasks they have set for themselves. One of them, William Smiley, 14 years old, a Philadelphia bicycle rider, continued to pedal away, even after he had been struck by an automobile. His injuries were treated when his partner relieved him at the grind.

The bicycle riders from Chappaqua passed the 122-hour mark yesterday.

In New Jersey, the home of the tree sitters, Edward "Red" Githans, 15; Daniel Knight, 14, and William Murray, 14, established new records by staying aloft on Camden and National Park branches for 317 hours and continuing to remain there. The previous mark was set by the Morrissey-Scott team, which remained aloft for 316 hours. A dispute over the spoils, $39, was given as the cause of the fall of the latter team. Knight's mother is attempting to establish a record for married women. She has been aloft for eight days.

In Trenton two kite fliers are having a little difficulty in their attempts to set a kite flying record. They cannot get their kite to stay up.

The Gobel Street riders in Newark passed their 226th hour at 6 o'clock last evening. There are six boys on the team.

1,200-POUND SHARK TOWS BOAT TO SEA

Fishing Crew, Poor Cowboys, Finally Lasso Monster, but a Wild Ride Results.

BULLETS END ITS CAREER

Skipper With Trusty Rifle and His Hearties With Harpoons Bag "Fish-Thieving Critter."

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 29.—Captain Tunis Bohen of the Beach Haven Crest fishery and seven of his hearties were taken for a ride at dawn today by a 1,200-pound shark, a fish-thieving monster and a man-eater to boot, as the captain sought to establish by producing a pair of shoes he had found inside the big fish. The shark was thirteen feet six inches long.

Captain Bohen was three miles off Beach Haven Crest when the dawn came up. He was ready to haul in the early morning catch when one of the crew, leaning over the side of the bobbing boat, saw the shark caught fast in a pocket of the big net. It was gorging itself on the captain's own haul of mackerel, weakfish and bonita and taking none but the best.

"Taking the bread right out of our mouth, so to speak," said the skipper later. "So I sent one of the men below for a coil of strong rope and we set out to lasso him for the thieving critter he was."

Fair hands with a net and at other tasks that fall each day to the seamen's lot, the crew of the fishing boat could not be expected to qualify as cowboys. Instead of getting the noose over the long, mean-looking snout, the best they could do was to lash the monster into a fury, and in his display of temper the shark flashed back and forth, ripping holes in the net, but finding none big enough to let him through.

A half-hour passed—Skipper Bohen getting more fluent in his language every minute as he witnessed the damage to his net and the loss of his match—before a lucky cast ringed the noose over its objective. And only then did the real excitement begin.

Desperate when he felt the rope tighten, the shark pointed his long nose in the general direction of the English coast and ripped through the net, quite obviously intent on going places. And he took Captain Bohen and the crew with him, fairly making the water boil in his haste and enthusiasm.

Captain Bohen declared that the shark towed his boat for more than two hours by the ship's chronometer.

"I do think," said Captain Bohen, "that if I hadn't called for the rifles and the harpoons that we always have aboard we'd be some where off the coast of England or nearing France tonight."

Standing in the bow, almost blinded by the stinging salt spray kicked up by the monstrous shark, the skipper kept popping away at their uninvited motive power and the crew let fly with the harpoons whenever the shark slackened up to get a bit of a breathing spell. After three direct hits from the captain's rifle and with fifteen shafts in his hide the shark at last gave up, his blood leaving a trail of red for a full knot's length on the face of the deep.

Then Captain Bohen had the engineer turn the motor over and he started back for Beach Haven Crest. They dragged the shark up on the beach—and a hard job it was, said the skipper—and they got out their knives and had a look at his insides.

"Well, sir," said Captain Bohen, "we found five bushel of mackerel, five of bonita and five o' weakfish in that feller's innards, and signs to show that he's just eaten 'em all this morning. I estimate that altogether that shark ate 200 barrels of my fish and what's more he damaged my net more than $500 worth."

The shark will be shipped to New York.

does the city's printing; the Bankers Trust Company and others.

Mr. La Guardia's charges were accompanied by figures which he said proved that the assesed valuations on property held by these owners had been reduced in assessed valuation, while adjoining and similar property had been increased. He said the assessment on a plot owned by Mr. Todd on Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, had been increased 50 per cent in the four years of the Walker Administration, while an adjoining plot on which an apartment had been built was increased 133 per cent. He charged that the front foot valuation placed on land owned by Mr. Untermyer near the Astoria elevated was $100, while the land maps showed a front foot valuation of $140 on adjoining property.

Mr. La Guardia asserted that property owned by the Wanamaker estate at Riverside Drive and 183d Street had not been increased in assessed valuation in the Walker Administration while near-by plots had been increased 40 per cent, 60 per cent and 77 per cent. The assessed valuation of the Wanamaker Store at Broadway and Eighth Street had been decreased $1,070,000 from its valuation sixteen years ago, he declared. Property owned by the Brown Printing Company at Chambers and Reade Streets had increased in assessed valuation only 2 per cent in sixteen years, Mr. La Guardia asserted.

James J. Sexton, head of the Municipal Tax Commission, denied the La Guardia charges in detail, as did virtually every individual mentioned in the Republican's attacks. After the denials Mr. La Guardia did not reopen the controversy.

Inquiry to Be Pressed.

Commissioner Higgins said at the close of the hearing that he would investigate every specific instance of alleged favoritism brought to his attention by Mr. Kurtz or any one else. Mr. Kurtz said his information about Mr. Scanlan came through an anonymous telephone call yesterday morning. Another anonymous caller, he testified, had informed him that Samuel Gumpertz of 301 Ocean View Avenue, Brooklyn, was being favored by the Tax Department. Gumpertz, described by Kurtz as a "close friend of Democratic Leader John H. McCooey of Brooklyn" was said to have more land than his neighbors, and still to be paying a smaller assessment on his holdings. He is known as the "concessionaire king of Coney Island."

Mr. Kurtz gave his testimony eagerly and several times attempted to direct the line of questioning. Mr. Higgins passed over several such efforts without comment, but when Mr. Kurtz suggested that he be questioned about the manner in which the tax department keeps its records the Commissioner of Accounts said:

"Don't suggest any questions to me, Mr. Kurtz. This is an examination being conducted by me."

Recital of Rumors Cut Off.

The Republican attorney said he had no personal knowledge that lawyers affiliated with Tammany were highly successful in obtaining reduced assessed valuations, though he was more than anxious to recount rumors he had heard to that effect. Mr. Higgins would not let him repeat the rumors on the ground that he did not wish the record to become cluttered with hearsay. Mr. Kurtz charged that the tax department did not keep stenographic records of its hearings as required by Section 898 of the City Charter. Asked if access to the records had ever been denied him, he said it had not, but that Dr. Allen failed to get permission to see them.

Mr. Kurtz also said Dr. Allen had informed him that the site of the new Tammany Hall had an assessed valuation lower than its valuation sixteen years ago. He quoted extensively from a bulletin of the Institute for Public Service, of which Dr. Allen is director. The bulletin, issued July 15, 1929, was placed in the record. Among other things it charged that when certiorari proceedings were brought to change an assessed valuation "the records were fixed up so that the Corporation Counsel defending the city had no leg to stand on."

After a little clash with Commissioner Higgins over whether he would be allowed to read a prepared statement into the record, Mr. Kurtz won his point and offered the statement explaining his purpose in appearing for examination. Commissioner Higgins was prepared to bar it, saying he wanted "no political speeches in the record," but he finally waived his objection. The statement questioned Mr. Higgins's right to subpoena Mr. Kurtz as he is not in city employ.

When his request for a legislative investigation of city affairs was denied by Governor Roosevelt, Mr. Kurtz said, he had made the charge that improprieties existed in the tax office. He declared that he stood by every word he had said, that numerous rumors to that effect had been current for years and that he believed them to be true.

Mr. Kurtz said he had not had sufficient time to investigate the rumors he had heard, but promised to appear again before Commissioner Higgins with specific instances of favoritism. He said information on such cases was pouring into his office and that he would turn it over to the Commissioner of Accounts after verifying it.

Hennessey to Plead Today.

James W. Hennessey, former public administrator of Richmond County, who resigned last Friday, will plead today in county court to two second-degree grand larceny indictments returned against him by the Richmond County grand jury for an alleged shortage of between $35,000 and $40,000 in his accounts. If two investigators from the office of Commissioner Higgins unearth any additional evidence of shortages, it will be presented to the grand jury today.

Former Assistant District Attorney Alfred V. Norton, representing Hennessey, announced last night that he would enter pleas of not guilty and would ask an early trial. District Attorney Fach and other investigating officials would not verify reports that the shortage would be three times as great as reported. Mr. Fach said no one could say exactly how much the shortage was until the grand jury and the Higgins investigators completed their inquiries. James C. Crane, Hennessey's successor, pointed out that he had been in office only forty-eight hours and had had no opportunity to make an audit of the estates under his jurisdiction.

The Board of Estimate, convened in special meeting yesterday, voted an appropriation of $39,000 to Commissioner Higgins to employ about thirty-eight temporary assistants to aid in his investigations. He now has under scrutiny the Dock Department, the Board of Standards and Appeals, the Department of Taxes and Assessments, the Public Administrator's office in Richmond and the Surrogate's office in the same borough. The employes will be stenographers, engineering examiners and accountants, and they will be employed for about three months.

Mr. Higgins said the Dock Department and Appeals Board inquiries were progressing quietly and that no date for the beginning of public hearing on these investigations could be set yet. He said his inquiry into the Surrogate's office would be directed at persons not in city employ who had dealings with the Surrogate, rather than employes of the Surrogate's office. It was learned that he will examine the administration of estates in which private individuals, many of them lawyers, have been appointed as administrators. He is going to Staten Island today to supervise that investigation personally.

Meeting for the first time since it was organized on July 17, Mayor Walker's committee on the procedure and scope of the Board of Standards and Appeals held an executive session yesterday morning in City Hall at which a subcommittee was appointed to outline the working program of the group.

Stephen F. Voorhees of the Merchants' Association, chairman of the committee of fifteen, was made chairman ex officio of the subcommittee. Its other members are J. Irving Walsh, secretary of the parent committee, and Fred Hulse of the Bar Association. The resolution authorizing the committee provides that other members may be added if needed. The subcommittee was asked to have its program prepared for the next meeting, scheduled for 9:45 A. M. next Tuesday.

Summer Pep!

EVEN on the hot days when the humidity bumps the roof, you can feel fine and full of pep. Have you wondered how other people "stood the heat"? Here's the secret. Be as fussy about keeping yourself clean inside as you do outside, and see how much cooler the weather seems. Your doctor will tell you not to use strong drugs and cathartics that give you only temporary relief, and get you into the habit of relying on them. If you will regularly use such a simple thing as Nujol, colorless and tasteless as pure water, and not a medicine at all, here's what will happen. First, you will lubricate that wonderful machine—your body—so it can run easily and naturally. Second, you will stop the body poisons (which we all have) from making you feel dopey, headachy, down in the mouth. Health and happiness and pep and enthusiasm are worth trying for. KANSAS GINGER JURY INDICTS FIRMS HERE

Six Corporations and 18 Citizens of Brooklyn Named as Liquor Conspirators.

TOILET ALCOHOL 'STRIPPED'

Government Charges It Was Used to Make Beverage Which Killed or Paralyzed Hundreds.

Special to The New York Times.

TOPEKA, Kan., July 29.—The Federal grand jury summoned especially in May to inquire into liquor operations in Kansas, completed its work today and returned an indictment which government officials assert will prove to be the most important liquor prosecution since the passage of the Volstead act.

The indictment involves eighteen prominent citizens of Brooklyn, three Kansas citizens and six corporations of Brooklyn and New York. Only the name of Harry Mandell, alias Charles Harris, alias Ralph Lewis, of Brooklyn, was disclosed by S. M. Brewster, District Attorney, and Don Little, his assistant in special charge of the investigation.

Mandell is said to be the "master mind" of the toilet water-perfume-Jamaica ginger ring, which has been operating throughout the South and Southwest for a year. Several hundred deaths and many thousands of cases of paralysis from drinking Jamaica ginger have been reported.

Government figures on the cosmetic bill of the United States for the last fiscal year show that it was many millions more than in any previous year. The government collects a tax and knows how much alcohol goes to each manufacturer of perfumes, toilet waters and other toilet articles.

The great increase is now said to have been caused by the consumption of toilet waters and Jamaica ginger as intoxicants.

Charge Mandell Made Ginger.

The six corporations named in the indictment for conspiracy to violate the prohibition law are large manufacturers of toilet waters, perfumes, hair tonics and similar articles. They held government alcohol permits which allowed them whatever alcohol was needed for the manufacture of these articles of common commercial use.

These corporations are alleged to have shipped large quantities of their goods to Mandell, under his various names, and when he got hold of the toilet waters, hair tonics and perfumes their identity was lost, government agents say, and the shipments from the Mandell plant in Brooklyn came out as Jamaica ginger.

By a process called "stripping," the essences of the perfumes and toilet waters and the ingredients of the hair tonics were all removed from the alcohol, the government charges, then the alcohol was used to make up Jamaica ginger in large quantities.

Just how big the operations were is disclosed by the statement that sufficient perfumes were used by Mandell last year to have given every man, woman and child in the country a two-ounce bottle.

It is possible that the governments have found the cause of the poisoned "jake" in their investigations into the Jamaica ginger deaths throughout the South and Southwest. It was said today that they believed that in the process of stripping the perfumes and toilet waters a toxic condition was set up which acted directly upon the spinal cord when taken in considerable quantities as Jamaica ginger for beverage purposes.

Poison Baffles Physicians.

No poison was found in the ginger, and chemists have been baffled by the paralysis directly attributed to its use as a beverage. It may be that the stripping started a chemical action which created the poisonous effects upon the consumers, the chemists say.

More deaths from paralysis are appearing, and the doctors who have been studying the disease say that after a partial recovery there comes a relapse in the patient and death ensues. Many cases in this State have become much more severe since the disease was first discovered.

The grand jury spent some time investigating the Jamaica ginger sales in the State early this month and got the "leads" upon which it asked to be permitted to return today to complete the hearing. Nearly one hundred Kansas druggists and others were indicted early this month for sales and distribution of Jamaica ginger as a beverage. Only three new names were added to this list by the grand jury today.

Most of the day was spent in the examination of witnesses from the East, brought here by D. R. Herskowitz, T. W. Dressen and M. J. McGoff, special investigators for the government in New York.

They have been gathering the evidence in the East which was disclosed by Kansans in the earlier investigation, and when one of the distributers told the entire story of the manufacture and sale of the Jamaica ginger in the Southwest the government put the three men at work in New York to get the information upon which the grand jury could continue its investigations.

They returned to Topeka today with the evidence and with witnesses who had the information the grand jury was seeking. The government refused to permit the witnesses to be interviewed.

The names of the six corporations and the other New York men and the three Kansans named in the new indictment will be made public as soon as arrests are made. Mandell is already under arrest.

PATTESON PLEDGES DRY AID TO HOOVER

Third Republican Contender in Westchester Congress Race Urges Law Observance.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 29.—Robert A. Patteson, president of the Tarrytown National Bank, who yesterday entered the Republican primary race in the Twenty-fifth Congressional District as the only dry, issued a statement today in which he asked a fair trial of the Eighteenth Amendment and urged obedience to the laws of the country. He said the law had never been sufficiently enforced.

"I am a dry," he said, "and believe strongly in the Eighteenth Amendment, and shall continue to believe in it and do everything in my power to support it until it has had a fair trial.

"I have been a Republican all my life and have supported the policies of the Republican party. I voted for Mr. Hoover for President and believe his election was a mandate from the people of our country to enforce the law against traffic in liquor, and as a Republican I believe it is my duty to uphold him and support him in his efforts to carry out this mandate. I am with the President not only because I am a Republican and because I believe it is my duty to obey and help enforce the law, but also because it is a pleasure to ally myself with those who uphold and respect the laws of our country."

John M. Holzworth, independent "dripping wet," who also seeks the Republican nomination in the Twenty-fifth District, said Patteson's entrance into the fight would have a "drastic effect" on the returns for Charles D. Millard, the Republican organization candidate, who has taken a stand for repeal.

"Patteson won't affect my returns," he said, "except as he draws votes from Millard. A lot of the organization Republicans with dry views, given a chance to vote dry, will certainly forsake Millard and vote for Patteson. Patteson's candidacy ought to mean a big cut in Millard's returns."

Mr. Millard, in commenting upon the entrance of Mr. Patteson, reiterated his stand for repeal and declared that he would receive the kind of a vote in this county that Dwight Morrow got in New Jersey.

Mr. Holzworth described as "typical of his insincerity" the claim of Mr. Millard that the failure of the Rockland County Republican Committee to endorse either himself or his opponent was a victory for him.

"Mr. Millard now claims," Mr. Holzworth said, "that the action of the Rockland, County Republican Committee in denying the endorsement for Congressman was a victory for him. This statement is a typical example of his insincerity, which is on a par with his statements on his prohibition views.

"On June 28, two days following the announcement of my candidacy, he notified officers of the Rockland County Committee that unless he was endorsed Rockland County could not expect a Supreme Court judgeship to be given to one of its citizens. On July 10, at the dinner of the Rockland County Committee at Spring Valley, Mr. Millard pleaded for their endorsement of him.

NORTH RIVER HOTEL, LANDMARK, CLOSES

Old Hostelry at Barclay and West Streets, Once Noted for Horseshoe Bar.

POPULAR IN FERRY HEYDAY

Waterfront "Mystery Man" a Visitor Before Demolition for Skyscraper Begins.

The North River Hotel at Barclay and West Streets, famous years ago for its horseshoe bar, when travelers poured into New York from railroad ferries and ocean steamships almost within a stone's throw of the hotel, closed its doors last night.

The hotel is among the buildings to be demolished soon to make way for a new skyscraper. Long overshadowed by the huge structure of the New York Telephone Company, its old-fashioned atmosphere is familiar to the many New Jersey commuters who use the Lackawanna and Erie Railroad ferries.

Every room in the hotel was empty yesterday. The last lodger to go was Jerry Sullivan, 74 years old, who was taken to Bellevue Hospital on Monday evening suffering from the infirmities of age. He had lived at the hotel for almost a half century.

"My old home is gone," the aged man sighed as he took his last view of the hotel.

Jerry, who was born in the old First Ward, was well known in the neighborhood, where he always had worked in the produce markets. His last job was as night watchman. His crony, John McQuade, four years his junior, also worked for produce firms and lodged at the hotel.

Aged Men Sad Over Losing Home.

"It was pathetic to see these old men when we got word that the hotel was to be razed," said Fritz Buenger, who has been the proprietor since 1904. "They would spend much of their time in our sitting room and smoke and talk of the good old times in the produce markets. Most of their friends had passed away. They looked so lonesome.

"I think when old Jerry heard the news it broke his heart. He became very feeble and finally I had to take him to Bellevue. McQuade, who had been at the hotel since 1907, went to a farm in New Jersey last week."

It was open house in the barroom and restaurant of the hotel during the closing hours. Men who had once lived in the district, but moved away later, dropped in to talk over bygone days. One mysterious character, who haunts the river fronts, was brought in by Mr. Buenger for a last glass of near-beer.

He wore several suits of clothes under a great overcoat, tied round him with a piece of rope. His shoulders were bent, and his eyes gleamed under a dark slouch hat from a face masked almost by a straggly iron-gray beard. The stranger drank his near-beer, mumbled his thanks and hobbled away.

"This old man is one of the mysteries of New York," said the proprietor. "I have seen him wandering by the hotel for the last fifteen years. Some say he is wealthy."

Relics of Old Days Shown.

Reminders of the former days of the hotel were on exhibition. One was an ancient iron pot-stove, which used to heat the barroom. In those days, in Winter especially, a favorite drink was a mug of beer and ale warmed by a red-hot poker from the stove.

Another relic was a photograph of the hotel, showing the porch roof, which still clings to many of the old West Street produce houses. At the main entrance were grouped men in queer-looking derby hats. In the centre stood the first owner of the hotel, Fred Baar, wearing a stove-pipe hat.

Still another reminder was a quaint arrangement of cigarettes, popular long ago, and the photographs of four actresses, two in tights and one wearing a bustle. The actresses were Fanny Rice, who wore a bustle; Josie Parker, Agnes Evans Wright and Miss Dunbar.

"Play actresses wearing tights were was raw stuff in those days," a veteran of West Street commented.

EQUIPMENT SEIZURES IN DRY RAIDS UPHELD

Judge Inch's Decision in Brooklyn Cases Gives New Weapon to Prohibition Forces.

A two-line decision giving sanction to the teeth put into the prohibition law by the United States Attorney's office in Brooklyn was handed down yesterday by Federal Judge Robert A. Inch. The decision upheld the right of the government to confiscate property of any nature in a place where illicit liquor is sold, and referred chiefly to $40,000 worth of equipment seized on Feb. 17 in a raid on the Bedford Nest, Inc., 1,286 Bedford Avenue, Brooklyn. The equipment of a speakeasy at 140 Livingston Street, Brooklyn, raided the next day, was also included in the decision.

The property and fixtures in the two places were seized by the United States Attorney and prohibition agents under a section of the revenue law providing that the government has the right to confiscate all properties in a building in which taxable articles have been sold without payment of tax and with intent to defraud the government of the tax. The fixtures are now in a Federal warehouse in Manhattan.

"The effects of this decision," said J. Bertram Wegman, assistant in charge of prohibition cases in the United States Attorney's office in Brooklyn, "is to sustain and approve the legal theory advanced by this office that Section 3,453 of the Revised Statutes of the United States is still in full force and effect, and particularly has application to the seizure of all personal property found within premises where illicit liquor is being sold.

"Taken in connection with prior decisions of the Supreme Court on other revenue sections of the law, the decision means that there will be no defense to any action of forfeiture on the ground that the owner of the speakeasy was not the owner of the property seized, because under these sections it makes no difference who owns the property, but the criterion is where and under what circumstances it was seized."

Mr. Wegman suggested the application of the revenue section soon after his appointment as assistant to Howard W. Ameli, United States Attorney.

HOOVER NAMES BODY ON UNEMPLOYMENT

Cooperation of Business and Government and Statistical-Method Revision Is the Aim.

DEFENDS HIS COMMISSIONS

President Says Predecessors Used Temporary Committee Plan Extensively for Fact-Finding.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 29—The appointment of a special committee to advise the government in revising its statistical methods for the determination of unemployment and to establish a method of cooperation between government departments and business was announced today by President Hoover, who took the occasion to defend the appointment of temporary commissions for advisory fact-finding purposes.

He pointed out that President Roosevelt had created 107 temporary committees and President Taft 61; President Wilson 63, exclusive of wartime activities; President Harding 44, and President Coolidge 118.

In his comment upon this subject Mr. Hoover did not say how many he had appointed, but the unofficial figure is understood to be eighteen.

The President will make known the personnel of the committee as soon as the names of certain of its members have been received from organizations from which they are to be drawn.

The President's Statement.

The President said:

"I am today appointing a committee to advise the government departments on methods for revision of the statistical services for the determination of unemployment and to establish the method of cooperation between government departments and business. Congress at the last session added somewhat to the requirements of this service, the purpose of such information being not only a barometer of business but the necessary information as to measures which need to be taken by local agencies as well as the government in any constructive relief of unemployment.

"The need for more systematic information has been generally endorsed by business and labor organizations for some years.

"The committee will be made representative of the American Federation of Labor, the United States Chamber of Commerce, the Manufacturers' Association, the Industrial Conference Board, the Railway Employes and other local organizations, the national Bureau of Economic Research, the Committee on Economic Changes and other economic bodies.

"Mr. Stuart of the Department of Labor and Mr. Steuart, director of the census, and a representative of the Department of Agriculture will be ex officio members.

Census Gave Accurate Base.

"The question is not a simple as it appears on the surface. The inclusion of a determination of the amount of unemployment in the census taken April 1 gives us for the first time an accurate base on which to formulate plans and a knowledge of the whole problem which we have never hitherto possessed. But if we were to attempt such an absolutely accurate determination of employment once every three months it would require a house-to-house canvass of the entire nation and would be practically the equivalent of the census, and might cost us ten or fifteen million dollars per annum.

On the other hand, it has been long recognized that the present Department of Labor statistics are inadequate, the cost of which is about $150,000 per annum. In order to secure the information we need at reasonable cost we must find a new basis for recruiting it. Such a basis can only be formulated by the cooperation of industry, labor and other agencies.

Commission Method Defended.

"To some who are anxious over the appointment of temporary committees and commissions for advisory fact-finding, coordinating or negotiating purposes I may suggest that they are not a new necessity in government. President Roosevelt created 107 of them, President Taft 63, President Wilson 160, President Harding 44 and President Coolidge 118. As we need the best brains of the country to assist in government and in the coordination of public efforts, I shall appoint others. The willingness of our people of specialized knowledge to give such voluntary service as this requires is one of the most gratifying qualities in citizenship."

According to Edgar Rickard, a friend of the President, at least $2,000,000 has been privately offered to finance any of the Hoover commissions unsupported by government money. Two of these commissions are the White House Conference on Child Health and Protection and the Research Committee on Social Trends.

Named to Prague Prison Congress.

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP).—The designation of William G. Baxter, secretary of the Connecticut Prison Association, as American delegate to the International Prison Congress at Prague was announced today by the State Department. The department also announced that the United States would send as delegates to the International Congress of Zoology at Padova, Italy, in September Dr. B. Stenerges and Dr. Charles W. Stiles of the National Museum.

charged with some illegal act in administering the dry law.

Mr. Woodcock today made public a letter from Thomas P. Henry, president of the American Automobile Association, commending him for his action in suspending two prohibition agents who recently pursued, stopped and searched, without definite cause, an automobile in which a citizen was driving.

The letter said:

"I have read with great interest the press reports of your action in suspending Prohibition Agents Charles R. McCartney and John T. Weigel for pursuing and stopping without due cause, an automobile in which a citizen was driving at the dead of night on lawful business.

"The American Automobile Association, representing the organized car owners of America, has consistently and persistently maintained that the exigencies of law enforcement per se cannot be permitted to abrogate the rights of innocent users of the common highway.

"There have been far too many instances where the use of hair-trigger methods has resulted in the death of law abiding citizens and is endangering the lives and outraging the rights of others.

"The prompt action you took in the recent incident, while in no sense an assurance to law violators and racketeers, is calculated to promote a very much needed measure of confidence among the millions of motorists who in these days of crowded highways use the roads more and more at night time.

"Such a policy will inevitably result in a larger measure of cooperation between the overwhelming law abiding element of our population and our duly constituted officers of law enforcement."

BUILDING LOAN MEN SEE SLUMP HALTED

Speakers Tell Grand Rapids Convention Varied Trends Suggest Early Upswing.

CONSTRUCTION DROP NOTED

Building of Apartments Reduced by Half in Year, but Loan League's Assets Soar.

Special to The New York Times.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., July 29.—Apartment-house projects were cut during the last twelve months from $1,000,000,000 to $530,000,000, Thomas F. Holden, New York vice president of the F. W. Dodge Corporation, told delegates to the United States Building and Loan League here today.

Residential building has gained since March, he said, but is still down 47 per cent. Contracts in the last six months amounted to $579,412,600. Meantime contracts on public works and utilities are the highest on record.

A telegram from President Hoover said the furnishing of money to build homes is one of the most important functions of our economic machinery.

"Recession in building activity throughout the country is gradually ebbing, but if the public is to build more homes steps must be taken to improve the character and lower the costs of American domiciles," Mr. Holden said in his address.

Mr. Holden declared that much of the building cessation of this year was due to operproduction that started long before the stock market break of last Fall and reached its peak in 1925. He said this was particularly true in residence building, but declared that most surplus residence space has been liquidated and that increasing populations are demanding homes with the higher type improvements that they can obtain in apartment dwellings.

"The fact that interest rates on four to six months commercial paper turned down in November and that the curve on new bond issues took a definite upward trend in December, the customary first indications of easing money conditions should result in increased residential building about this time, and lending institutions in most sections report ample funds for this purpose," said Mr. Holden.

Urges Lower Costs.

"The individual house today is being sold in competition with automobiles, radios, attractive clothes, commercialized entertainment, good schools and Summer camps for the children," said the speaker. "Many of these commodities are available today in better quality and at lower prices than ever before.

"The only form of housing that has yet been developed which effects any reasonable economies by wholesale production is the well-planned modern apartment building, and even in this type of structure, which shows the greatest slump, there is room for improvement.

"There is a strong body of opinion which holds that the problem before the building industry is to widen the market for new residential building by producing better housing at lower costs."

Mr. Holden said that much study and experiment is going on along these lines, both here and in Europe, and cited the accomplishment of a company now building in France, England and Germany standard-design houses fabricated on large-size, factory-made steel wall and floor units. These houses can be built on Long Island for 20 cents a cubic foot, which is much lower than wood or brick houses of the same design can be produced in that locality, he asserted.

H. F. Cellarius, Cincinnati, secretary-treasurer of the league, pointed out in his annual report that all building and loan were able to pay their withdrawals after the market crash last year. The average held by the 12,000,000 members in associations today is $717.94, he said, an increase of $49.71 in a year. Assets today are $8,695,154,330, a growth of 8½ per cent.

Building and loan associations increased their assets by nearly $700,000,000 last year, and as this amount represents the savings of individuals this is a good omen for the country, Mr. Cellarius said.

Recovery Is Noted.

Although he reported a lessened demand for mortgage money for the second quarter of 1930, the league treasurer stated that business was gradually "picking up" throughout the country.

A large volume of savings was withdrawn from building and loan associations and poured into the stock market last year before the slump, the league secretary said.

"About the middle of December, however, there was a notable change in conditions," he continued. "The withdrawal demand decreased considerably, moneys began to flow back into the associations in better volume. In the first quarter of 1930 there continued a gradual but steady improvement. In the second quarter of the present year the associations did a fair volume of business under more established conditions."

In giving detailed figures on gains in assets by States, Mr. Cellarius said New Jersey showed the greatest gain, having added $119,074,037 during 1929. Pennsylvania made a gain of $59,943,656, and Ohio $46,145,259. Other States making gains in assets of $10,000,000 or more for the year were Wisconsin $31,162,283, Illinois $28,495,532, Massachusetts $27,516,610, Texas $23,981,515, New York $20,680,594, Missouri $19,224,363, Michigan $18,466,603, Indiana $14,047,877, and Kentucky $13,367,294.

The building and loan associations will make a drive to increase their membership to 60,000,000 in as short a time as possible, and "if this plan is successful, the savings of these people will reduce home costs in this country," Ernest A. Hale of Boston, president of the league, declared.

Mr. Hale, who is president of the Suffolk Cooperative Bank of Boston, attacked "national" organizations operating as building and loan associations, who invest unfortunately in distant cities.

R. Holtby Meyers, Los Angeles, first vice president of the league and president-elect for the coming year, set a price of $4,000 as the highest price a man earning $175 a month could afford to pay for a house.

Charles Brandon Booth of Boston, national executive secretary of Volunteers of America, urged delegates to push home ownership as a preventive of crime.

Nicholas Roosevelt Gets Recess Appointment To the Philippines; Hoover Praises Him

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—The recess appointment of Nicholas Roosevelt of New York to be Vice Governor of the Philippine Islands was announced at the White House today by President Hoover, who at the same time praised Mr. Roosevelt for his interest in and sympathy with the Philippine people.

"I have tendered Mr. Nicholas Roosevelt an interim appointment as Vice Governor of the Philippines," the President said at his press conference. "Mr. Roosevelt has been so stanch in his support of the interests of the Philippine people and so sympathetic with them, so enthusiastic over their progress, that I am sure that the misunderstanding which has arisen in the Philippines as to his attitude will be quickly cleared up."

On the final day of the recent special session the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt was sent to the Senate and was referred to the Committee on Territories and Insular Affairs, headed by Senator Bingham of Connecticut.

That afternoon, however, a short time before the Senate adjourned Senator Bingham annnounced that because of Filipino protests against Mr. Roosevelt it had been decided to hold hearings on his nomination in December.

Mr. Roosevelt, who is an editorial writer for THE NEW YORK TIMES, is regarded as an authority on Philippine affairs.

MANILA (Wednesday), July 30 (AP).—Copies of "The Philippines; a Treasure and a Problem," written by Nicholas Roosevelt, appointed to the vice governorship of the Philippines, were hurled into Manila Bay yesterday by Donato Halili, employe of an advertising firm, and Manuel David, a minor government employe. Halili said:

"This is but a feeble manifestation of our most energetic protest as citizens against the proposed appointment of Nicholas Roosevelt to the high post of Vice Governor of the Philippine Islands."

State Department Gives Out the Longest List of Higher Ratings Ever Issued.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Promotions in the Foreign Service numbering 147 were announced by the State Department today as a result of the increased appropriations for the service, given by Congress. The list, one of the longest ever given out by the department, includes many whose elevation in rating and salary has been overdue, it was said, because of inadequate appropriations in the past.

The promotions announced today amount to an increased annual salary outlay of about $100,000. The list is as follows:

STRAUS RETURNS FROM REST ABROAD

Completing Tour Taken Following Wife's Death, He Lands in Wheel Chair.

JANE COWL ALSO ON LINER

Arrives on Olympic From Her First Vacation in Ten Years—Fourteen European Students Here.

Nathan Straus, philanthropist, returned yesterday on the White Star liner Olympic from England, where he had gone to rest and recuperate after the death of his wife in the Spring. Mr. Straus, who is 82 years old, was taken down the gang plank in a wheel chair and placed in a private ambulance which took him to his estate at Mamaroneck.

Jane Cowl, actress, and James Whale, English stage director who supervised the first production of "Journey's End," also were among the 649 passengers on the liner. Miss Cowl, who said she had been enjoying her first vacation in ten years, will begin rehearsals immediately in Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night." Mr. Whale will supervise a second presentation of the British war play, which will open here next month.

Fourteen European students, traveling under the auspices of the International Confederation of Students, were aboard the Olympic. During their stay in this country they will be under the guidance of the National Student Federation of America, which has arranged an extended program for them.

This morning they are to tour the harbor on the city boat Macon and this afternoon they will visit the downtown section. At 4:30 they will be the guests of the English Speaking Union at a tea at the organization's headquarters.

Those in the party are Wlodzimierz Czepcynski, Polish; Stephen F. Dutoit, South African; Karl Eberle, Swiss; Hans Baron Helldorff, Austrian; Mrs. M. Lones, English; Miss D. S. Mart, English; W. H. Partridge, English; Walter Pettersson, Swedish; I. J. Rousseau, South African; Salvatore Russo Velis, Mr. Sisto, Adriano Stucchi and Aido Taroni, Italians, and Arthur Suzman, South African.

Mrs. Harry S. Black, widow of the owner of the Hotel Plaza, who committed suicide ten days ago on his Long Island estate, returned on the Olympic. She had been visiting Ireland when informed of the tragedy and took the first boat available.

George Dallas, Labor Member of Parliament and chairman of the Agricultural Committee of the House of Commons, arrived to study agricultural conditions in this country. He will attend the conference of agricultural economists which will meet at Cornell University Aug. 14.

on bonds of subsidiary companies in the second quarter of this year were $1,397,189, against $1,865,965 in the second quarter of 1929. The total charges for interest on the corporation's bonds in the first six months of this year were $26,810, comparing with $5,543,338 in the same period of 1929.

The report was close to Wall Street expectations, advance estimates having placed the earnings for the second quarter at around $3 a share. Considering the depressed state of the industry in the three months ended June 30 the showing was generally regarded as satisfactory, since the corporation earned its dividends with a wide margin to spare. June was the poorest month of the quarter, its net earnings falling to $14,376,931, against $16,570,790 in May and $16,113,583 in April.

SCHWAB'S SALARY SOUGHT AT HEARING

Eaton Attorneys Ask Bethlehem Representatives to Inform Youngstown Court.

PROXY FIGHT EXAMINED

Witness Describes Handling of Election—Attack on Legality of Voting Stock Continues.

Special to The New York Times.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, July 29.—Attorneys for C. S. Eaton, fighting to prevent the Youngstown Sheet and Tube-Bethlehem Steel merger, announced tonight that they have asked Bethlehem representatives to advise the court hearing the merger injunction what salary or bonus is paid to Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the Bethlehem board. Another witness also will be called to testify further regarding bonus payments to various officials.

Total payments last year, President Eugene G. Grace has testified, were $3,425,306, of which he received $1,623,753, with the balance divided among twelve to fifteen executives.

Six vice presidents shared in the "incentive bonus plan" last year, according to exhibits introduced into the record, and the amounts received last year varied from $54,305 to $378,664. Bonuses paid to the six vice presidents for the first half of 1930 ranged from $23,477 to $163,701. Those who shared in the distribution were Q. Bent, C. A. Buck, J. M. Gross, H. E. Lewis, R. E. McMath and J. H. Ward.

Witnesses today were Walter E. Meub, secretary-treasurer of the Sheet and Tube Company; Carl W. Ullman, assistant trust officer of the Dollar Savings and Trust Company, and Harold T. Clark of Squire, Sanders & Dempsey, Cleveland.

W. J. Morris, financial vice president of Sheet and Tube, is to be called tomorrow to testify regarding his part in stock purchases in the "battle for proxies" which preceded the stockholders' meeting.

Merger opponents today continued their attack against the legality of voting stock and have now called into question 240,000 shares.

Among eighteen exhibits introduced under stipulations arrived at over the week-end were four relating to approximately 63,000 shares of stock sold after March 22, but voted for the merger by the Sheet and Tube management. Included among these shares are 32,925, which the Sheet and Tube management sold to Otis & Co., brokers associated with Cyrus S. Eaton in fighting the merger.

The question put before Judge David G. Jenkins by this evidence is whether a stockholder of record who no longer owns the stock may still vote on the question of selling a company's property.

Besides the shares, the merger opponents are attacking the management's right to cast for the merger 14,000 shares held by employes of the company under the Sheet and Tube employe ownership plan.

The final major point in the fight against the merger—the equity of the terms—will be taken up shortly. With A. E. Ernst of Ernst & Ernst, and George O. May of Price, Waterhouse & Co., to be called as witnesses.

Mr. Meub was questioned concerning the handling of proxies by inspectors of the election at the stockholders' meeting. He stated that all of the records and lists were turned over to the inspectors, and that proxies were checked against the lists by representatives of the office of Newton D. Baker, Wick & Co., Squire Sanders & Dempsey, and Otis & Co.

Protsted proxies were checked and then divided, those for the merger going to the "Campbell" side and those against to the "Schaff" side, he said.

The story of proceedings which went on behind closed doors when inspectors tabulated the vote cast by Youngstown Sheet and Tube stockholders on the merger was unfolded in court today.

Harold T. Clark, member of the firm of Squire, Sanders & Dempsey, Cleveland counsel for Eaton, told of unsuccessful attempts to have the three election inspectors include in their report a complete account of protests against certain proxies cast in favor of the merger.

Mr. Clark was Mr. Eaton's chief representative in the sessions when the ballots and proxies were tabulated.

Mr. Clark said that after he and his associates had made protests against the voting of various proxies for the merger, "the inspectors went off by themselves" to make up their report to the stockholders. Neither side was represented when the report was drafted, he said.

POLICE OUTINGS WIN CHILDREN'S GRATITUDE

Mulrooney Gets Letters Thanking Men of Force for 'Good Times' on Hudson Trips.

Some of the letters to Police Commissioner Mulrooney from children and parents who have been guests of the Police Department on the boat rides up the Hudson which the officers and men are providing for the poor children of the city this Summer were made public by him yesterday.

Nine children from the Bethany Day Nursery, 402 East Sixty-seventh Street, said:

"We all want to tell the policemen what a wonderful time we had Tuesday on the boat ride up the Hudson River and the picnic. The ride was wonderful and the picnic lunches were great, and we certainly enjoyed the whole day and we think it was mighty nice of the policemen in New York. Thank you for the good time you gave us."

"The Five Mahony Children" of 307 Fifth Avenue, Brooklyn, wrote:

"To Our Policemen:

"We are very thankful for the fine time we had on the day of your outing.

"Our little brother James is still thinking about the policeman that had the rattlesnake ring of children, and our brother John said they didn't forget the old songs either ('The Sidewalks of New York' and 'Show Me the Way to Go Home'—they were good), and our little sister said she got a box of lunch, ice cream and milk, and gee, the policeman didn't forget the bag of salt for the eggs.

"With best wishes and very thankful for the boat ride."

Paul Kliemisch of 68-70 East 118th Street, Brooklyn, said in part:

"After a long time we got a ham sandwic. Again a thousand thanks for Police Commissioner and full Police Department."

SAND BOAT CAPSIZES; 15 LOST IN LAKE ERIE

All But Six of Crew Are Caught Asleep or in Fire Hold When Craft Sinks.

SURVIVORS IN LAKE 2 HOURS

Picked Up by Buffalo Collier—Federal Inspectors Order an Inquiry Into Overloading.

Special to The New York Times.

ERIE, Pa., July 29.—Fifteen of the crew of the sandsucker George J. Whelan were drowned when the dredge capsized in Lake Erie near Dunkirk, N. Y., early this morning during a squall. Six survivors were rescued two hours after the vessel went down by the collier Amasa Stone, bound from Buffalo to Erie.

Six Coast Guard vessels were searching the lake tonight for bodies of the victims, only one being recovered during the day.

Captain W. H. McNeill of the Amasa Stone heard the cries of some of the Whelan crew at 2:30 o'clock this morning, and immediately launched a boat. He was able to save Irving Ohlemacher, first mate of the Whelan, and five others, and although he remained in the vicinity until daybreak he could locate no others.

United States Steamboat Inspectors from Buffalo ordered the six rescued men held at the Erie Coast Guard station this afternoon until tomorrow, when an official investigation into the Whelan sinking will be started.

It is believed that the vessel, which was carrying sand from Sandusky to Tonawanda, N. Y., might have been overloaded, causing it to capsize when the squall hit the lake shortly after midnight.

Those of the crew saved declared that the Whelan suddenly turned over on its side, then all the way over. They managed to cling to the sides of the boat as it floated upside down for nearly half an hour before it sank.

Members of the crew who were asleep or in the engine and fire-holds had no chance to escape. Those who were rescued were on watch in the forward part of the 200-foot steamer, which was converted into a sandboat by the Kelly's Island Lime and Transport Company of Sandusky, Ohio, last Winter. Most of the crew of the vessel were from that city or from near-by lake ports.

Arthur Stamm, a member of the crew, was swimming toward shore, eight miles away, when saved.

"Had we had a chance to get some life preservers or to have launched our boats we probably could all have been saved, as the sea after the sudden squall was not rough," he stated.

Three years ago the sandsucker Howard S. Gherken of Buffalo foundered off Erie Harbor in almost the same manner with a loss of six lives.

The Whelan, formerly the Claremount, sank in the Detroit River twenty-one years ago when she was launched. During the World War she was in service as a freighter calling at British ports.

PARTNERS OF RYDER HOPE TO SAVE FIRM

All Bankruptcy Proceedings Against Woody & Co. Put Off Pending Settlement Moves.

BAILEY COMPACT SPEEDED

Final Details for the Surrender of $1,350,000 Assets Expected to Be Arranged Today.

Counsel who undertook to salvage the $2,000,000 wreck of the brokerage house of Woody & Co. reached a stage yesterday which seemed to them to warrant discussion of a prospective settlement of the concern's obligations and a resumption of business.

The auction sale of furniture and fixtures in the Woody offices at 40 Wall Street, which was scheduled for yesterday by the Irving Trust Company, as temporary receiver, was indefinitely postponed.

The bankruptcy inquiry which was to continue yesterday before Federal referee Henry K. Davis was adjourned until Tuesday at 2 P. M. on motion of Samuel H. Kaufman and Milton P. Kupfer, counsel for the temporary receiver.

Eugene L. Garey, counsel for the three customers who signed the original petition in bankruptcy and counsel with Peter J. McCoy for the creditors' committee organized on Monday, notified the creditors of Woody & Co. in a carefully worded letter that "it is believed some of the members of the firm will be able to offer a plan of adjustment to the interest of creditors."

Mr. Garey said he was not yet at liberty to make public any details of the plan beyond saying there was under consideration "a composition settlement" which would permit the firm to be discharged from its temporary receivership. Such a discharge would enable it to resume operations as soon as the Stock Exchange permitted.

Although counsel negotiating for the return of assets admittedly taken by Harold Russell Ryder from his partners and their customers in order to satisfy a $2,000,000 claim held against him by Frank Bailey, banker, were unable to complete their agreement yesterday with Mr. Bailey, the delay was explained as due solely to the formulation of the terms under which he was to return $600,000 in cash, together with the Ryder cooperative apartment at 720 Park Avenue representing an investment of $500,000, as well as canceling a credit of $250,000 due Mr. Bailey on the books of Woody & Co.

On behalf of Mr. Bailey, it was explained that he had not receded from his willingness to return this cash and equities amounting to $1,350,000, on the theory that he had been paid by Mr. Ryder in stolen goods and it is expected that a satisfactory agreement can be drawn up late today.

BYRD HONORED AT BANQUET

Admiral Is Guest of the General Electric on Up-State Island.

Special to The New York Times.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., July 29.—Rear Admiral Byrd was honor guest tonight at a banquet of General Electric Company officials and technicians held at the company's convention camp on Association Island, Henderson Bay.

The Admiral visited the convention in appreciation of courtesies extended by the General Electric in the way of apparatus and assistance in radio communication during his Antarctic expedition.

Also present were Bruce Barton, Gerald Swope, president of the General Electric; Governor John Trumbull of Connecticut, and Adolph S. Ochs. Owen D. Young presided at the dinner.

'JIM' FERGUSON MAKES SECOND PRIMARY ISSUE

Ex-Governor Challenges Sterling to Advocate $300,000,000 Expenditure on Roads.

DALLAS, Texas, July 29 (AP).—While belated returns from Saturday's Democratic primary continued to trickle into the Texas Election Bureau, Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, leading by 62,500 votes, and the runner-up, Ross S. Sterling of Houston, chairman of the State Highway Commission, were sparring for the August "run-off" for the Gubernatorial nomination.

After announcing that he would lend his "vigorous" aid in an effort to defeat "Fergusonism," Governor Dan Moody, who beat Mrs. Ferguson for re-election four years ago, went to Houston to confer with Mr. Sterling about the impending campaign.

Former Governor James E. Ferguson, husband of the leading candidate in the primary, conferred with advisers in Fort Worth and Dallas and issued a challenge to his wife's opponent to make his proposed $300,000,000 State highway bond issue the bone of contention in the race ahead.

In excess of 750,000 votes had been counted, and the only questions unsettled were the size of Mrs. Ferguson's plurality and whether former Governor Pat Neff would be obliged to enter the run-off in his candidacy for Railroad Commissioner. Should he not obtain 7,000 more votes to save himself a second race, there will be run-offs for six State offices.

FRENCH MYSTERY CLEARED.

Youth of 16 Admits Murder of English Woman 2 Years Ago.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 29.—The mystery of the murder at Le Touquet two years ago of an English woman, Mrs. Florence Wilson, a former war nurse, was cleared with the confession there today of a young store clerk, André le Loutre, who was arrested for an attack upon another womman.

Le Loutre is only 16 years of age and was under 15 at the time of the Wilson murder, which caused a sensation at the Normandy seashore resort. Mrs. Wilson left friends at a golf clubhouse to walk home to her villa and her body was found a few days later in the woods she traversed en route.

Le Loutre confessed today to the French police, saying he attacked Mrs. Wilson but because of her violent resistance he stabbed her with a knife. His description coincides with that of a mysterious blond-haired young man seen in the vicinity for whom police searched unavailingly for months. The crime caused great excitement in international society and among many English residents of Le Touquet.

DROPS RAID CONTEMPT SUIT

Attorney for Jersey Slot-Machine Owner Absolves Prosecutor.

A contempt action against Joseph L. Smith, Prosecutor of Essex County, and William J. Egan, Director of Public Safety of Newark, as a result of wholesale raids on slot machines in Newark last Wednesday, was dropped yesterday by Samuel I. Kessler, attorney for Nathan E. Krasner of Irvington. Seven hundred and six machines were taken in the raids.

Mr. Kessler had contended that the raids were in violation of an injunction granted to Krasner by Vice Chancellor Alonzo Church on July 8, restraining the authorities from interfering with the operation of "N. E. K." slot machines, provided they were not used for illegal purposes. Krasner claimed the machines were simply candy-selling devices.

Krasner was arrested Monday and released in $2,500 bail on a charge of conspiring to bring slot machines into the county.

In dropping the action Mr. Kessler told the Vice Chancellor he was satisfied no contempt had been committed by the authorities, and that he would withdraw the application to regain control of the machines.

OFFICIAL IN JERSEY HELD AS EMBEZZLER

Allan W. Redfield, City Clerk of Gloucester, Accused in $20,000 Shortage.

IS JAILED FOR TWO HOURS

Then Gives $15,000 Bail—Arrest Follows Inquiry Into Water Department's Funds.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMDEN, N. J., July 29.—Allan W. Redfield, City Clerk of Gloucester, was arrested this afternoon on charges of embezzling about $20,000 of the Gloucester Water Department's funds and was freed several hours later in $15,000 bail.

Redfield's arrest followed testimony given to the Camden County grand jury, which is generally supposed to have returned an indictment, although no announcement to that effect was made prior to the arrest and officials refused to admit it. The alleged shortage was discovered last week by N. C. Dorsitt, State auditor.

The Gloucester case was the first to be heard after the grand jury met this afternoon. Mr. Dorsitt entered the jury chambers a few minutes later and was followed by several other witnesses, chief of whom were Miss Margaret Cavanaugh, a bookkeeper in the Water Department and assistant to Redfield, and James Y. Bishop, Borough Clerk of Brooklawn. Redfield, who has served as Water Clerk as well as City Clerk, was not called upon to testify.

While the witnesses were being heard Prosecutor Clifford A. Baldwin indicated that a warrant had been prepared. It was served upon Redfield at his home by Detective Jules Duroski.

Taken before Justice of the Peace William Laird here, the Gloucester official waived a hearing and was committed to the Camden County jail in default of $15,000 bail. He remained in a cell for two hours before the bond was furnished by Councilman Charles Eastlack of Gloucester and Stokes Prickett, former Camden County freeholder.

Following his arrest Redfield declared he had nothing to say, although he indicated he might issue a statement later. Several days ago, after Camden County authorities had seized the books of the Water Department and carried them to the office of Prosecutor Baldwin, Redfield declared that "everything would be straightened out" after the State auditors had completed their work.

Mr. Baldwin said "the supposed embezzlement has covered a period of more than three years, beginning in 1926."

WILLIAMS' SUSPENSION AS FLIER IS REDUCED

Department of Commerce Cuts 90-Day Penalty for Bermuda Flight to Week.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Roger Q. Williams, flier and test pilot, who was suspended for ninety days by the Department of Commerce for making his recent non-stop flight to Bermuda without first obtaining the permission of the Governor of Bermuda to fly over the island, will have his pilot license restored to him one week from today.

Reduction of the penalty followed the acceptance of the explanation received over the long-distance telephone today by C. C. Budwig, Director of Air Regulation, that the flier's representative had taken up with a British authority the matter of prior permission and been assured that for a non-stop flight no such formality was required.

"Williams perfectly understood the regulations governing flights to and over foreign territory," Mr. Budwig said, "and I understood him to say that his representative had taken up, I think he said, with the British Consul in New York, but I'm not sure as to that—some British authority in any event—by whom he was told that for the flight in question no prior permission was necessary. Whoever it was, he was wrong about it.

"The regulation provides that any one desiring to fly to or over Bermuda must first obtain the permission of the Governor. It has been ignored by other fliers. Lewis Yancey did not obtain prior permission for his flight, and a protest was made at that time which we have taken up with Yancey, though he may not yet have received the communication. This time, in the matter of Williams' flight last month, a formal protest was made to the American Consul, who forwarded it to the State Department, which took it up with us, pointing out the embarassments consequent upon repeated violations of the regulations governing international air transportation and suggesting that we do something about it.

"There was no disposition to make an example of Williams, or to be hard on him, and in view of his explanation I was glad to be able to reduce the ninety-day period of the suspension of his license."

In view of the reciprocal aeronautic agreements now in process of negotiation with several countries, and the desire to encourage flying to and from South and Central America, Mr. Budwig said, it is especially desirable that American pilots should build up a reputation for observing scrupulously the courtesies of international flying.

Reciprocal agreements already have been arranged with Canada and Colombia, are nearing completion with Italy and Great Britain, and are in process of negotiation with France, Germany and the Netherlands.

When informed yesterday that his suspension had been reduced to seven days, Roger Q. Williams was quoted by a representative as saying that in view of the circumstances he did not see why he should be grounded at all.

FUGAZY ENJOINED OVER ARENA STOCK

Sales of Shares in $5,000,000 Metropolitan Coliseum, Inc., Prohibited by Court.

ABOUT $145,000 INVESTED

Ferrari Linked With Sports Promotion—Action Follows Investigation by State.

Supreme Court Justice Strong in Brooklyn signed an injunction yesterday prohibiting Humbert J. Fugazy, sports promoter, from further sale of stock in the Metropolitan Coliseum, Inc., a corporation organized to construct a $5,000,000 indoor sports arena on Twelfth Avenue between Fifty-fourth and Fifty-fifth Streets.

The injunction, which also is directed against the corporation, was signed after Mr. Fugazy visited the offices of Assistant State Attorney General Watson Washburn in charge of the Bureau of Securities, 74 Trinity Place, where the sports promoter signed a formal consent to the decree.

The injunction order and the investigation were made by Deputy Attorney General Henry H. Spitz, who asserted that sale of stock in the proposed arena was principally among Italians, who invested about $145,000.

Mr. Spitz declared that associated with Mr. Fugazy when the proposal to build the arena was under way was the late Francesco M. Ferrari, president of the City Trust Company. The bank failed for $5,000,000 last year shortly after the death of its president.

It was announced also that the results of the investigation into the sale of stock in the arena would be turned over to District Attorney Crain and United States Attorney Tuttle for any action they might wish to take. The transcripts in the case will go to the two prosecutors today or tomorrow.

Mr. Spitz declared that investors were informed falsely that the net annual income of the Coliseum corporation would be about $3,466,000 after all expenses had been met. The stock, he said, was sold in units of two shares of preferred and one of common for $42.50, and the price later was raised to $47.50 a unit. The preferred stock was quoted as paying 7 per cent interest, but Mr. Spitz said no dividends were declared.

It was said also that the land on which the arena was to be built was purchased for $1,400,000 from the Coloner Realty Company, of which Fugazy was president. The allegation also was made that the Metropolitan Coliseum, Inc., never did any business and there was little or no prospect that the investors could realize on the stock they bought.

SCHOOL SITE VOTED DOWN

Greenwich Board Believes $76,000 for Finney Land Too High.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., July 29.—A proposition that the school board buy for $76,000 the 10.508-acre plot on the northern side of Boston Post Road, now owned by the A. J. Finney estate, was voted down at a special meeting here tonight after an hour of warm argument. Opponents of the proposition maintained that the price was excessive.

Julian W. Curtiss, head of the Spalding Company in New York and chairman of the town school committee, and Hugh F. Fox, a New York business man, were the only ones in favor of acquiring the Finney site at the asking price.

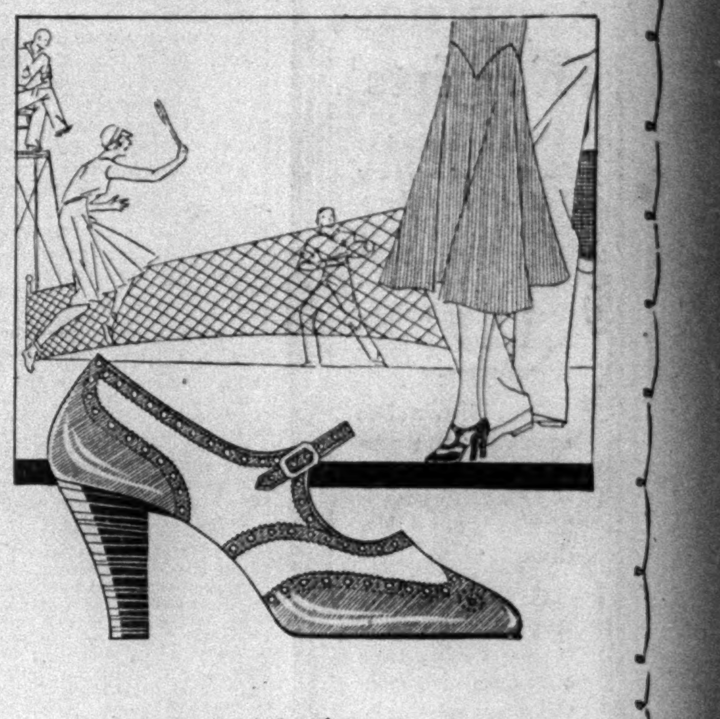
As the argument grew warm, Paul Dahlgreen, a local real estate man, declared that "a town official," whom he did not name, would receive a commission of $5,000 if the property were acquired for $76,000.

AMATEUR DETECTIVE HELD.

Loiterer With Toy Pistol Seized Peering at I. R. T. Turnstile.

Louis Horowitz, 20 years old, of 141 St. Peters Avenue, the Bronx, was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct yesterday morning after special officers of the I. R. T. had observed him peering through the illuminated magnifying glasses with which the turnstiles are equipped to prevent the use of slugs. He had a cigarette case resembling a pistol and a "special officer" badge in his possession, which he admitted he had purchased in a pawn shop.

He told Magistrate Simpson in West Side Court that he was training to become a city detective. Magistrate Simpson found him guilty and remanded him until Friday for investigation and sentence.



Charge purchases made today and tomorrow will appear on bills rendered September 1st

YOU might just as well go unshod as to go without brown and white shoes this summer. This particular brown and white shoe has a history. Once on a time it was the "pet" shoe of Paris. Best's had it copied exactly (at a fraction of its original cost) and it became one of New York's favorite shoes. In those days it was all brown calfskin. When the furore for brown and white swept the country, we took this classic model—with its high, moulded arch, its graceful two inch heel, its slender strap and foxed bands—translated it into brown and white and the result is a perfect knockout. (We thought so ourselves even before our smartest customers raved about it!)

REPUBLICANS SIFT CHAIRMANSHIP STEP

HOOVER ADVISERS AT ODDS

Some Question Authority of Group to Act—President to Decide Procedure.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—The question of the authority of the executive committee of the Republican National Committee to elect a chairman of the latter group is being considered by lawyers, who are examining the committee's rules to determine whether the executive committee can select a successor to Chairman Claudius H. Huston when it meets in Washington on Aug. 7. The particular question involved is whether the executive committee, or the National Committee, only, has authority to elect a new national chairman.

Some administration advisers are of the opinion that the amended rule, which delegates the authority of the National Committee to the executive committee, except the issuing of a call for the national convention, was intended only for use in the settlement of National Committee disputes.

Others, while holding that the executive committee has the power, are advising the President that the best interests of the party might be better served by he National Committee itself electing a chairman instead of the executive committee doing so.

Until James Francis Burke, general counsel of the committee, and other lawyers interpret the rules, it was said today, no decision would be made as to when the new chairman shall be elected. These lawyers have decided that the executive committee can receive Chairman Huston's resignation, but question the legality of its filling the position, despite the apparently comprehensive character of the amended rule adopted by the Republican National Committee at the Kansas City convention.

Powers Given by Amendment.

The amendment to the rule was offered by Ralph E. Williams of Oregon, vice chairman of the Republican National Committee, and reads:

"Whereas a meeting of the Republican National Committee involves upon the part of all members attending a loss of time from their private affairs and upon a large proportion of them, a lengthy, tiresome journey and considerable expense.

"Therefore, be it resolved, that during the interim between meetings of the National Committee, all the power and authority vested in the Republican National Committee by the Republican National Convention held in Kansas City, June 12-15, 1928, is hereby vested in the executive committee of the Republican National Committee, and the executive committee is hereby authorized to act for the Republican National Committee in all matters.

"Provided, however, this does not apply to the power and authority vested in the Republican National Committee by the Republican National Convention to prepare and issue the call for the next national convention."

Mr. Williams has wired that the spirit of the amended rule applied to the present situation and has advised that the executive committee proceed to elect a successor to Mr. Huston, should he resign. He said that he and the others who framed the amendment thought it covered the present situation. He also suggested that it would be too expensive to call the entire national committee together to act when it had already by rule delegated its authority to the executive committee.

Hoover Undecided.

Some friends of the administration are of opinion that party harmony could be increased if the full committee acts on the chairmanship rather than less than half of the committee, which composes the executive committee.

It was stated at the White House today that the President has not yet decided as to the better procedure. He will await the opinion of Mr. Burke and then probably refer the question to the executive committee with the suggestion that it should interpret the rule.

In case the executive committee declines to assume the responsibility of electing a chairman it is expected to proceed to create a new salaried office, that of executive chairman, to which Robert H. Lucas, now Internal Revenue Commissioner, according to present plans, will be elected. He would then carry on the campaign until the committee can assemble and select a successor to Mr. Huston.

Senator Simeon Fess, when here last Sunday, was of the opinion that he would be elected by the executive committee and would immediately take over his new duties. He canceled a trip to Europe to do so. In case the executive committee declines to act on the prospective chairmanship vacancy, the question will come before the National Committee, which will assemble early in September. By that time the campaign will be well under way and he would have little to do.

At present the question seems to be resolved in doubt, with the decision as to whether the executive committee shall proceed resting with the President.

One of the leading administration advisers tonight denied the report that Senator Fess would not be elected chairman on Aug. 7 by the executive committee. He said that while the amended rule seemed doubtful to some party men, he was certain that the President would accept it as legal and as empowering the executive committee to receive resignations and fill vacancies.

NEW SMITH GRANDCHILD.

Former Governor Alfred E. Smith's fifth grandchild was born in St. Anne's Hospital yesterday morning when Mrs. Francis J. Quillinan, the former Miss Catherine Smith, presented her husband with an eight-pound baby boy. Both mother and child are reported to be doing well. It is the couple's first child.

The former Governor was making a tour of the Empire State Building when he was notified of the arrival. He immediately went to the hospital. Mr. Quillinan is a member of the law firm of Wagner, Quillinan and Rifkand, 120 Broadway. The parents live at 124 East Eighty-fourth Street.

Mrs. John A. Warner, the former Miss Emily Smith, is the mother of two daughters and Arthur Smith is the father of two sons.

BRODSKY TO RUN AGAINST MRS. PRATT

Tammany Leaders Select Him to Wrest Seat in Congress From Republicans.

Magistrate Louis B. Brodsky was picked yesterday at a conference of Tammany leaders to run against Mrs. Ruth B. Pratt for Representative in the Seventeenth Congressional District.

By the nomination of Magistrate Brodsky, who is expected to show great strength in the west side of the Congressional district, Tammany has completed its arrangements to wrest from the Republicans the only two Congressional seats they hold in New York City. Assemblyman Vincent H. Auleta was picked several weeks ago to run against Major F. H. La Guardia, the only other city Republican Representative, in the Twentieth Congressional District.

Magistrate Brodsky was picked at a conference of the Tammany Assembly district leaders having territory in the Congressional district. Those present included John F. Curry, leader of Tammany and a leader of the Fifth Assembly District; Marshall Ingram of the Seventh, Walter T. Fitzsimmons and Charles L. Kohler of the Tenth, Frank L. Briarly of the Fifteenth and Terence F. McKeever of the Ninth.

Mr. Brodsky was appointed a magistrate by Mayor Hylan in 1924 and was reappointed last year by Mayor Walker for a full ten-year term. He is a graduate of the New York University Law School and a member of the New York County Lawyers' Association. He has been identified actively with Jewish philanthropies.

Mr. Brodsky is vice president of the Hebrew National Orphans' Home and the American Jewish Congress, president of the Harlem Day and Night Nursery, honorary president of the Home of Israel, a home for the aged; director of Israel Zion Hospital and a member of the Independent Order of Brith Abraham, the Level Club, the Progress Club and the Jewish Federation of Charities.

REPUBLICANS TO RUN LEAVITT FOR BENCH

Lawyer of Ninth Assembly District Picked to Succeed Shientag in the City Court.

Samuel Leavitt, a lawyer residing in the Ninth Assembly District, was designated yesterday as a candidate in the Republican primaries for the nomination for Justice of the City Court, to succeed Bernard L. Shientag, recently appointed a Supreme Court Justice by Governor Roosevelt.

The selection was made by a subcommittee of the executive committee of the New York County Republican Committee at a meeting yesterday. Mr. Leavitt's name was submitted by Samuel McKee, Republican leader of the Ninth Assembly District, and it was the only name considered.

Mr. Leavitt, who resides at 250 West Eighty-fifth Street, is a member of the firm of Kramer & Leavitt, 270 Broadway. He has been engaged since his admission to the bar in 1901 chiefly in civil practice and has practiced in all the courts, including the United States Supreme Court. He is a graduate of the New York University Law School. He is 51 years old and married.

For the last thirty years Mr. Leavitt has been active in Republican district politics, first in the old Second Assembly District on the lower east side, now included in the First, where Joseph Levenson is the leader, and in more recent years in the Eleventh and the Ninth on the upper west side. He is a member of the Riverside Republican Club, headquarters of the regular Republican district organization of the Ninth.

LORDS APPROVE BUDGET.

Finance Bill Completes Passage Through British Upper House.

LONDON, July 29 (AP).—Great Britain's $4,000,000,000 budget, as contained in the finance bill, today completed all its stages in the House of Lords and received complete Parliamentary approval, having previously gone through the House of Commons.

The outstanding feature of the budget of Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, was an increase of 6 pence in the standard rate of the income tax.

SMITH WILL START POLITICAL COMEBACK

would take an active part in the convention was taken as corroboration of the report that Governor Roosevelt, who has made no recent declaration on prohibition, would come out "wet" at the proper time and that the prohibition plank to be adopted by the convention would sustain the position taken by Mr. Smith as the Democratic Presidential candidate in 1928.

Probable Content of Dry Plank.

Although Governor Roosevelt is understood to be undecided as yet about the exact phraseology of the prohibition plank to be adopted it is believed that the plank will declare for amendment of the Eighteenth Amendment to enable wet States to be wet and dry States to be dry, which, it is believed, should be as satisfactory to the wets as a declaration for repeal and not quite so obnoxious to the extreme drys. Such a plank would go slightly further than the 1928 Democratic State platform, but would parallel exactly Mr. Smith's position on prohibition stated in his speech accepting the Democratic nomination for President, which read in part:

"I believe that there should be submitted to the people the question of some change in the provisions of the Eighteenth Amendment. Certainly, no one foresaw when the amendment was ratified the conditions which exist today of bootlegging, corruption and open violation of the law in all parts of the country. The people themselves should after eight years of trial be permitted to say whether existing conditions should be rectified. I personally believe in an amendment to the Eighteenth Amendment which would give to each individual State itself only after approval by a referendum popular vote of its people the right wholly within its borders to import, manufacture or cause to manufacture and sell alcoholic beverages, the sale to be made only by the State itself and not for consumption in any public place."

The decision to cast Mr. Smith in a prominent rôle at the State Convention was said to reflect a changed view on the part of both Governor Roosevelt and leaders of Tammany as to the treatment of the former Governor, following criticism of his omission from the list of speakers at the Independence Day celebration of the Tammany Society. This was reflected, it was said, by the recent promotion by Governor Roosevelt of Bernard L. Shientag, a close friend of the former Governor, from the city court to the Supreme Court bench. Mr. Curry, who opposed the selection of Justice Shientag to fill a former vacancy, acquiesced in his appointment this time, it was said.

Both Governor Roosevelt and the Democratic organization leaders, it was learned, have come to realize the advisability of having the help of Mr. Smith and his friends in the coming State campaign, and it is expected that Governor Roosevelt will have the active aid of many of Mr. Smith's close friends who until recently have been left pretty much in the background since Governor Roosevelt took office.

It was accepted as significant of the desire of Governor Roosevelt to have the support of what has been known as the Smith group in the Democratic party, when it was disclosed that he had asked Howard S. Cullman, an ardent Smith supporter in the 1928 campaigns for both nomination and election, again to be the treasurer of his campaign committee for re-election.

STATE REPUBLICANS MAP WET-DRY FIGHT

Keen Rivalry Apparent Over Control of Platform Group at the Convention.

HOOVER'S STAND AWAITED

Wets in Majority but Admit White House Attitude Is Important Factor.

With the first and perhaps decisive fight over a prohibition plank for the Republican State platform bound to occur in the committee on resolutions which will draft the platform, control of that body is the objective of keen rivalry between wet Republicans and the so-called "Federal crowd." The latter are supposed to take their cue from the White House and include a majority of the up-State Republican Congress members.

According to latest reports, the wets expect to control the committee on resolutions by an overwhelming majority. It is admitted in the wet camp, however, that if Chairman William J. Maier or some other emissary should submit convincing proof that inclusion of a repeal plank, or anything but casual reference to prohibition, would prove displeasing to the Presiddent, this probably would have decisive effect on a majority of the State leaders and on the delegates they control.

While little has been said of late by the Republican wets, including those that train with former Senator Wadsworth, it is known that Mr. Wadsworth has been busy up-State in an endeavor to influence the selection of prospective members of the resolutions committee. Recent long sojourns of Republican State Chairman Maier up-State are believed to have direct relation to the firm resolve in certain high party quarters to resist the Wadsworth zeal.

Wets Dominate in Number.

On the face of the record and not taking into account the pressure which wets in the Republican State organization expect will be exerted from Washington, it would appear that the wets would be in a position to make good their prediction that the committee on resolution will have a substantial wet working majority.

Members of standing committees, including the committee on resolutions at Republican State conventions, are selected with the Senatorial District as the unit of representation. The committee members are selected in caucus by the delegates from each of the fifty-one Senate districts in the State.

Of the fifty-one members who thus would have a vote on the committee on resolutions twenty-three would be chosen from Senate districts in this city, all of whom are expected to send almost solid wet delegations to the convention.

Of the Senate districts north of the Bronx, the Thirtieth, comprising Albany County; the Thirty-first, comprising Rensselaer; the Thirty-second, made up of the counties of Schenectady and Saratoga; the Thirty-sixth, comprising Oneida; the Thirty-eighth, comprising Onondaga; the Forty-fifth, taking in part of Monroe County, and the Forty-eighth, Forty-ninth and Fiftieth Senate Districts in Erie County are expected by the wets to send delegations either solidly wet or with a wet majority that will control the district caucus.

Clash on Floor Expected.

Should these expectations prove justified, there would be 32 wets and 19 drys on the committee on resolutions. The action of the committee, of course, would not be final. The convention itself will have the final say. Neither wets nor drys believe that, regardless of what is done by the resolutions committee, a fight on the floor of the convention over prohibition, and one of unprecedented bitterness, can be avoided, although it is expected that every effort will be made to have the conclave come to a close with the party in a position to enter the campaign with a solid front. The convention itself, despite all that has been done to prevent it, it was said yesterday, will have a majority of wet delegates.

While Mr. Wadsworth, despite his long record of party affiliation and service, will be at the Republican State convention only as "an outsider looking in," there will be no lack of militant wet leadership at the gathering.

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University and pioneer contender for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, will sit in the convention as one of the delegates from this city and undoubtedly will take a lively interest in the drafting of the platform and especially in the framing of the prohibition plank, possibly as a member of the committee on resolutions.

Another wet of prominence to sit in the convention as a delegate from New York City will be General James G. Harbord, chairman of the Republican advisory committee of New York County. It was his committee that submitted to the New York County Republican Committee the resolution in favor of repeal which it ratified by unanimous vote.

From Brooklyn, Meier Steinbrink, the new leader of the Kings Republicans, will go as a delegate committed to the wet cause, even though he owes his leadership to the backing of President Hoover.

GORE, BLIND EX-SENATOR SECOND IN OKLAHOMA

Led by Oil Man in Race for Democratic Nomination—Alfalfa Bill Murray Ahead for Governor.

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 29 (AP).—While W. H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray, veteran politician and oil man, held a lead for the Democratic Gubernatorial nomination late tonight, a hot contest was being waged in the State primary for United States Senator between Thomas P. Gore, blind man who held the seat for thirteen years, and C. J. Wrightsman, Tulsa oil man.

At a late hour Wrightsman led the field of nine candidates. Returns from 362 of the State's 3,338 precincts gave Wrightsman 8,013 to Gore's 7,750.

In 314 precincts, Murray, who campaigned as the friend of the poor man and farmer and promised, among other things, to put a "Howdy" sign on the Governor's office, had 10,349 votes to 5,889 for Frank Buttram, an Oklahoma City oil man, and a political novice.

M. E. Trapp, ex-Governor, was in third place with 4,197 votes; E. B. Howard, former Representative, had 3,734, and A. S. J. Shaw, State Auditor, had 3,180.

Four other candidates trailed far behind.

In the Senate race for the nomination to oppose to W. B. Pine, incumbent, who was running away with the Republican nomination, a vote of 2,935 put Henry S. Johnston, ousted Governor, in third position.

Other Senatorial counts from 179 precincts had: Lee Cruce, former Governor, 1,664; J. B. A. Robertson, "wet" ex-Governor, 559; Mrs. Kathryn Van Leuven, 319.

State Senator Ira A. Hill of Cherokee led the Republican race for Governor with 1,370 votes to 748 for "Big Jim" Harris, former Republican National Committeeman, in 256 precincts. Rexford B. Cragg had 230 votes.

DAVIS GRAND JURY REVEALS THREATS

Foreman, in Open Letter, Says Ocean County Group Was Unearthing "Sensations."

Special to The New York Times.

TOMS RIVER, N. J., July 29.—Charging that members of the Ocean aCounty grand jury "have been assailed by untraceable and vague threats of physical violence, business pressure and frame-ups," William H. Fischer, the foreman, in an open letter to The Newark Evening News declared today that "far more sensations" would have resulted if the jurors had continued working with Robert H. McCarter, special Assistant Attorney General.

Mr. McCarter, former Attorney General, was named on May 29 to take over the affairs of Prosecutor James Mercer Davis's office in Ocean County after the grand jury had complained that the prohibition and gambling laws were not being enforced rigidly.

Mr. Davis was indicted for alleged conspiracy to cheat the county, but was acquitted last week on an instructed verdict by Justice Peter F. Daly of the State Supreme Court. A few days later the grand jury was relieved of further service after being criticized by Justice Joseph L. Boline. Mr. McCarter announced today that he had requested to be relieved of his duties to "clean up" Ocean County, although he gave no reason for his resignation.

In his letter to The News, Mr. Fischer said witnesses were intimidated to the extent that they refused to repeat testimony at the trial of Mr. Davis, who was arraigned with two county detectives and a State trooper.

LEGISLATORS PLAY AT ROCKAWAY PARK

State Lawmakers Hold Annual "Summer Session" in Bathing Suits in Pool.

INVESTIGATE TUG-OF-WAR

Rope Found Tied to Rail at Both Ends—Solons Cram Mouths at Dinner to Check Speech Impulse.

The Summer session and reunion of the New York State Legislature brought 200 lawmakers out yesterday for their annual vacation frolic at Rockaway Park. They came in private automobiles, in buses and by train and, immediately heading for the Park Inn Baths, jumped into bathing suits and called the meeting to order.

First official business on the order of the day was a tug of war, with fifty Assemblymen, headed by Irwin Steingut, minority leader, opposing ten Senators ready to strain for the honor of the upper house under the direction of Seabury C. Mastick, Republican.

A stout rope was stretched across the pool and the contestants took hold, the idea being that the first side to be pulled into the water would be on the short end of the vote. Senatorial puffing at one extreme and stertorous breathing from the other group resulted in a deadlock after twenty minutes of the hardest work the members had ever done, and then a legislative inquiry revealed that cunning manoeuvring on both sides was responsible. Each end of the rope was tied fast to the pool railing.

The meeting then was plunged into care-free disorder when Assemblyman Steingut shouted:

"Let's drive Mastick into the pool and make him a wet."

Senators and Assemblymen together seized the member from Westchester and hurled him bodily into the water, but he came up smiling and stroked his way expertly across to the other end. Other members plunged in after him and the session became hilarious.

Next in the order of business was a watermelon race, in which seven participated, each pushing a liberally greased melon the length of the pool. The contestants included Assemblymen Edward Coughlin, William McCreery, J. J. Howard, Irwin Steingut, W. Smith and Alderman Richard Tonry and Daniel McKinnan, a guest.

McKinnan was in the lead, a few feet from his objective, when the spectators decided that the honor must be kept within the legislative membership. There was a prodigious splash and McKinnan and the other contestants were overwhelmed as Senators and Assemblymen from various parts of the State plunged in and started a splashing contest and water-tossing free-for-all.

Alderman Tonry emerged from the maze of clowning legislators with a scraped knee and lacerated bathing suit and was voted first prize in the melon contest by way of compensation. Then there was a thirty-yard swimming race which was won by Assemblyman James Noonan of Queens, with McKinnan second and Assemblyman Kenneth Sutherland third.

Proceeding to the next issue, the solons started a fancy diving contest, but most of the diving was less fancy than eccentric, the Senators and Assemblymen meeting the issue at uncertain angles with much splashing. Assemblyman Michael Reilly took first honors, McKinnan was second and Sutherland was third.

Darkness overtook the lawmakers as they filibustered and skylarked in and around the pool, and they went back to dress for dinner. At the feast, in the Harbor Inn at Beach Channel Drive and 116th Street, the guests had to keep their mouths full to restrain the natural impulse to make speeches. Speeches were expressly forbidden, and the sole function of the toastmaster, Representative William F. Brunner, was to keep the diners quiet.

MAYOR OPENS CLINIC TO FIGHT CHILD ILLS

Wynne and Greeff Also Laud Washington Heights Unit's Preventive Purpose.

PREDICT IDEA WILL SPREAD

Walker Extols Service of Two Physicians in Protecting Health of Future Citizens.

Mayor Walker, Health Commissioner Wynne and Commissioner Greeff of the Department of Hospitals voiced the official gratitude of the city to Dr. A. L. Goodman and Dr. Stanley Brady at the opening yesterday of their Washington Heights Health Unit, a clinic for preventive medicine among children, the first of its kind to be established in the city.

Standing on the doorstep of the private health centre, on the ground floor of an apartment house at 370 Fort Washington Avenue, at 177th Street, the Mayor and the two Commissioners, as well as other speakers, hailed the leadership of the two physicians in the new undertaking to eliminate incipient ills and to protect the health and welfare of the community.

"The greatest asset of any community," Mayor Walker said, "is its health. This health unit is something for which the city may well be grateful. It required considerable courage as well as a feeling for humanity to bring it about, and I am very happy on this occasion to bring a word not only of congratulation and felicitation to Dr. Goodman and Mr. Brady, but the official gratitude of the city for their undertaking. They have set a standard that the city may well follow."

Praises Preventive Purpose.

Mayor Walker said that as the benefits of the clinic became more apparent, more units undoubtedly would be established. He compared the community health centre with an old institution—"the family doctor, in my opinion the greatest boon civilization has ever known outside of the Church." He saw benefits in a return to the system of which the family doctor was the centre, particularly, he said, in the pressure brought about by modern civilization.

The primary object of the police force, the Mayor said, was not so much the apprehension of the criminal as the prevention of crime, and likewise physicians should be concerned mainly with the prevention of disease. The attention given to each child at the clinic, he declared, might save the city the cost of restoring it to health later.

The cost of operating the health, sanitation and hospital departments of the city, Mayor Walker said, is "appalling," but their work is leading to a common end—the prevention of disease and the protection of health.

"Modest as this undertaking is, it will grow," he continued, "and it is to health work like this that we must look to the arrival of a time when the constant expansion of our health and hospital work will no longer be necessary. We have a profound interest in the children of today—those who must carry the burden of the city tomorrow—and we are determined that no effort shall be spared for their preservation, which means the preservation of the city itself."

Wynne Predicts Boon to Health.

Dr. Wynne, in opening the program, urged Washington Heights residents to patronize the health unit and predicted that similar units would be opened in other neighborhoods.

"The wealthy who can pay for them have their specialists, and the poor their free clinics," Dr. Wynne said, "but the great majority—people like ourselves, of moderate means—have had but slight opportunity to become acquainted with the immense benefits that have come from the development of preventive medicine.

"We can greatly reduce illness among adults if we can examine the children. The first baby health station was established twenty years ago and now we have eighty-six of them. The idea of a unit like this has often been suggested, and Dr. Goodman and Dr. Brady have had the courage to try out this new idea. It is a new era in medicine that will keep us well and save us money."

Dr. Greeff endorsed the work of the two physicians and urged an intensive campaign of preventive medicine to eliminate disease. Dr. Goodman, who introduced the speakers, said that 66 per cent of all illness was preventable. He referred to the clinic as a "humanistic experiment to improve the health of the citizens to come."

The Rev. William C. Ryder of the Roman Catholic Church of Our Lady, Queen of Martyrs, Washington Heights, and Frederick W. Nehring, president of the Chamber of Commerce of Washington Heights, also spoke of the importance of child health protection and the need for more health units.

Among other present at the opening were John Erskine, author and member of the Columbia University faculty; Miss Anna G. Erskine, his sister; Charles F. Kerrigan, assistant to the Mayor; Major John F. Sullivan, City Planning Commissioner, and Gene Buck, composer.

The health unit, established as a result of suggestions by Health Commissioner Wynne, will charge nominal fees for physical examinations, vaccinations, diphtheria inoculations and other immunization treatments against preventable diseases. It will be open daily except Sundays. Both Dr. Goodman and Dr. Brady have long been engaged in the practice of pediatrics.

WESTCHESTER PARK TOUR.

Pennsylvania Officials to Inspect Roadways Tomorrow.

A group of twenty officials of Pennsylvania will make an inspection trip through the Westchester County park system tomorrow to study the work done there toward relieving traffic congestion. The group will include commissioners and engineers of several counties in Eastern Pennsylvania, State Highway Department officials and officers of the Regional Planning Federation of the Philadelphia Tri-State District.

According to William H. Connell of Philadelphia, executive director of the federation, the organization plans a system of belt lines similar to the parkways in Westchester around the congested sections of Trenton, Philadelphia, Wilmington and Chester.

Hermann W. Merkel, general superintendent of the Westchester County Park Commission, will conduct the tour.

JOBLESS, HE ASKS FOR JAIL.

Butler Hurls Brick Through a Window to Get Arrested.

Adolph Beck, 23 years old, a butler who has been out of work for months, approached a policeman at Madison Avenue and Fifty-third Street yesterday morning and told him that he had just thrown a brick through the window of an antique shop at 11 East Fifty-second Street. He explained that he was ill and penniless and wanted to be sent to jail.

Taken before Magistrate McKiniry on a disorderly conduct charge, he said he had been employed by Simon Guggenheimer of 630 Park Avenue, but he was left without employment when the family went to Europe. Since then he has been able to get only odd jobs, he said.

Magistrate McKiniry suspended sentence and had him sent to Bellevue Hospital.

DRAFT LAW TO CURB NOISE AND LITTER

WALKER TO ACT QUICKLY

Mayor and Municipal Assembly Are Expected to Approve Bill to Reduce Court Actions.

An amendment to the City Charter to facilitate enforcement of cleanliness and anti-noise ordinances was agreed upon yesterday by heads of city departments and members of the Noise Abatement Commission and will be presented to the Mayor this week.

Under the terms of the proposed amendment heads of departments would fix a schedule of fines for minor violations and policemen or health inspectors would issue tickets to the offenders, who would pay the fixed fines at the borough offices of the City Chamberlain. Only in the case of a person who wished to contest the case would the policeman or inspector be required to appear, and in such instances the ticket would become a summons returnable in magistrate's court.

The fines, Director Brown announced, would range downward from $5 for each offense, the minimum fine being discretionary.

Mulrooney Hails Plan.

Police Commissioner Mulrooney, one of those attending the luncheon conference at the Downtown Club, 128 Cedar Street, extolled the plan and pointed out that in a majority of cases persons would rather pay the small fines involved than contest the charge. In this way, he held, many patrolmen would be freed from the necessity of spending time in the courts and would be available for duty.

The proposed amendment will go to the Mayor late this week, according to Edward F. Brown, director of the Anti-Noise Commission, and his approval is anticipated. Action by the Municipal Assembly cannot be taken until September, but backers of the plan said they expected little if any opposition to its main features: The proposed amendment follows:

"In the case of minor offenses constituting violations of the code of ordinances, including the Sanitary Code and park ordinances, and not involving serious danger to health, morals, safety or public welfare, the head of any administration department, the administration of which is concerned with any such violations, is hereby authorized and empowered to prepare and promulgate a schedule of such offenses with fixed fines or penalties applicable thereto not to exceed $5 for each such offense, to be paid by offenders who confess violation of the same and who do not desire a judicial hearing. Said department heads are further authorized and empowered to make uniform rules regulating the giving of notice of such violations by department representatives.

"Any notice or violation hereunder shall be returnable at the office of the Chamberlain of the city of New York, who shall make proper provision for the receiving of payment of such fines (in the several boroughs) and the giving of proper receipts therefor.

"Each department on the service of any such notice shall immediately notify the said Chamberlain thereof, and in case any violator shall fail to appear and pay such fine within the time specified therefor, the Chamberlain shall inform the department issuing such notice, which shall thereupon cause a summons to be served on said violator. Nothing in this section contained shall prevent the police or representative of any department from sending a summons in a proper case or making an arrest as provided by law."

Law Would Apply to Litterers.

Coming within the provisions of the proposed amendment would be the ordinances prohibiting loud tooting of automobile horns, noisy brakes and loud-speakers in the streets; throwing litter and violations of other Health Department regulations for cleanliness, as well as Park Department rules for keeping the parks clean.

The plan, conceived by Charles C. Burlingham, president of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, and former Magistrate W. Bruce Cobb, may eventually be extended to permit persons to transmit their fines to the City Chamberlain's office by mail, although in such cases an imposition of an extra amount has been proposed. Mr. Brown in citing the advantages of such a system, which he said would not only free the enforcing officers from spending many hours in magistrates' courts as at present, but the citizens as well, asserted that the chief benefit would be educational. He said he looked for the public to become aware quickly of the need for halting unnecessary noise and maintaining a maximum of cleanliness.

Among those at the luncheon were:

PHILIP D. HOYT, First Deputy Police Commissioner.
JOSEPH E. CORRIGAN, Chief Magistrate.
Dr. WILLIAM SCHROEDER Jr., Commissioner of Sanitation.
JOHN M. HART, Deputy Commissioner of Parks.
CHARLES C. BURLINGHAM, president of the Bar Association.
Dr. SHIRLEY WYNNE, Commissioner of Health.
LEWIS H. BROWN, chairman of the Noise Abatement Commission.
EDWARD F. BROWN.

URGES HEALTH TESTS FOR CITY PUPILS NOW

Wynne Tells Parents Half of School Children Were Found to Have Defects Last Year.

Nearly half of the school children examined by Health Department physicians last year were found to be suffering from physical defects or ailments, according to Health Commissioner Wynne, who warned mothers last night to have children of school age examined before registration in September. An address by the commissioner on "Your Child and Schooldays" was broadcast over Station WNYC as part of a series of weekly health talks given under the auspices of the Welfare Council and the United Parents' Associations.

The commissioner said that of 42,500 pupils examined, 14 per cent had defective teeth only, but 47 per cent had general defects, including poor vision, poor hearing and improper breathing.

The commissioner appealed to mothers to have children who are reaching school age examined by family physicians and immunized against smallpox and diptheria. He pointed out that failure to make progress in school is frequently caused by some defect such as poor hearing or poor digestion.

"Now that only about six weeks of vacation remain," Dr. Wynne said, "every mother owes it to herself as well as to her child to ascertain just what is his exact physical condition and to have him in tip-top shape when he enters school next September."

Five Harlem Restaurants Fined.

Five proprietors of Harlem restaurants were fined $5 each and twenty-five others received suspended sentences yesterday in Magistrate Weil's court on charges of operating without Department of Health licenses. The men were arrested in a drive to eliminate unauthorized eating places.

$5,200,000 IS VOTED BY ITALY TO REBUILD

Cabinet Decides to Begin at Once Reconstruction in Areas Devastated by Earthquake.

MANY FOOD SHOPS REOPEN

Rationing Measures Relaxed—People Whose Houses Still Stand Return as Debris Is Cleared Away.

By ARNALDO CORTESI.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, July 29.—The first measures for the reconstruction of the regions in Southern Italy devastated by the recent destructive earthquake were taken this morning by a Cabinet Council which decided to appropriate 100,000,000 lire or about $5,200,000 for this year's budget of the Ministry of Public Works as the government's first contribution toward the expenses of rebuilding the stricken zone. Further sums will be appropriated in future budgets until the completion of reconstruction.

It was decided the work should begin immediately and be pushed with the greatest speed in order that all of the homeless may be provided with shelter before Winter.

5,000 Ruined Houses Estimated.

In the absence of official figures, it is estimated that about 5,000 houses must be completely or partly rebuilt. The extent of the government's contribution therefore works out at about $500 per house. This sum is not as small as it might appear at first, because bricks and stone for the new houses can be obtained from the wreckage of the old ones and labor is very cheap throughout the region affected by the earthquake. The total of $5,000,000 in any case is regarded as ample to cover all the work which can be done this year. If it is not sufficient for the complete reconstruction, more money will be appropriated later.

The Cabinet Council also decided to relieve the financial stringency in the stricken areas as far as possible by postponing the collection of taxes in all the hardest hit townships and by approving a decree postponing the payment of all private debts. Similar measures were taken at the same time for the relief of the zone in Treviso Province, recently ravaged by a destructive cyclone.

Relief Workers Praised.

The Cabinet Council finally praised in glowing terms the calm fortitude displayed by the populace of the stricken area in the face of disaster, and commended to the gratitude of the nation the forces of the army, navy, carabineers, militia, Fascist party, Red Cross and civil servants for their disinterested and energetic action to relieve the survivors, and thanked in the name of the Italian nation all foreign governments and peoples who have expressed their sympathy to the Italian people.

The press this evening unanimously applauds the Cabinet's decisions, pointing to the unusual liberality of the government's relief measures. The papers particularly approve the decision that reconstruction should be undertaken immediately, drawing a parallel with what has been done by previous governments in like conditions for Messina, Reggio Calabria and Avezzano, where some of the people still are living in temporary wooden shacks.

Many Shops Reopen.

Good news continues to be received from the earthquake region. A gradual return to normal conditions is evidenced by the reopening of a number of shops, such as provision stores, bakeries, cafés, restaurants, tobacconists and drug stores. In Atello, Ruvo and Treviso all the bakeries are open. Fifty-two more are open in Rionero, Ariano, Darile, San Nicola and San Sossio. An electric flour mill again began operation in Montecalvo.

As a result it has been possible to curtail shipment of supplies from outside. Thus, for instance, the 50,000 rations of bread which have been sent daily by the city of Naples are now reduced to 15,000. Tomorrow the distribution of rations of canned beef will cease almost entirely throughout the affected area, as numerous slaughter houses have reopened. To provide for all possible future contingencies, however, food supplies are being accumulated in Foggia, Ariano and Rocchetta.

The authorities are proceeding rapidly with preparations for reconstruction. In Ariano today 350 houses, after being cleared of wreckage, were declared to be habitable and were reoccupied. At other places ground was broken this morning for the foundations for the first of the new earthquake-resisting houses.

Medical Force Leaves.

Now that practically all of the wounded have been removed out of the damaged zone, it has been possible to withdraw a majority of the doctors and nurses. The last group remains at Santangelo del Lombardi, where the nurses are headed by the Duchess of Apulia. They include several ladies of the Roman aristocracy who voluntarily offered their services.

The work of clearing away the wreckage has proceeded so far that it has been possible to withdraw part of the soldiers employed in the stricken regions. Thus the first regiment of Bersaglieri left this morning. In the most severely damaged places, however, the soldiers are still at work, clearing away wreckage and either razing or propping up tottering walls.

Sanitary conditions are described as good. There is no symptom of any outbreak of epidemics, but disinfection is being intensified as a precautionary measure.

Incredible as it may sound, some fortunate survivors are still being rescued from the ruins. This morning, for instance, almost exactly a week after the disaster, a 2-month-old baby was saved in Accadia. He was found quite unhurt at the bottom of an enormous pile of fallen masonry by the side of his dead mother. The baby owes his life to the fact that the mother instinctively threw a protecting arm around her child, shielding him from the falling débris. He has been placed in an infant asylum at Naples.

Anti-Fascisti Flee Over Alps; Family Rescued From Glacier

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, July 29.—Several groups of Italian anti-Fascisti, without passports and with little money, fleeing Italy, have crossed the Alps into Switzerland at much risk during the last few days.

A large group yesterday was crossing Theodule Pass, more than 10,000 feet high, near the Matterhorn when a woman with two young children fell on the glacier, breaking a leg, and was abandoned by her companions. Happily the accident was witnessed by the keeper of an Alpine hut, who signalled to Zermatt, from where guides set out and carried down the woman and children.

All the fugitives declare life under Premier Mussolini's rule and restrictions has become unbearable in Italy and prefer exile.

ITALY'S KING MARKS 30TH YEAR OF REIGN

Victor Emmanuel Puts a Wreath on Tomb of His Father, Slain at Monza July 29, 1900.

ROME, July 29 (AP).—King Victor Emmanuel, observing the thirtieth anniversary of the beginning of his reign, attended mass today in the Pantheon near the tomb of his father, King Humbert, who thirty years ago today was assassinated at Monza, near Milan.

This afternoon a parade of Fascisti and patriotic associations went from the Piazza Venezia to the Pantheon to place wreaths upon King Humbert's tomb.

Three decades ago, July 29, 1900, Victor Emmanuel was cruising in the Mediterranean when wireless, then in its infancy, brought him the news of the killing of his father. He ascended the throne as the third ruler since Italy became united, taking with him his Queen, the Montenegrin Princess Elena.

Elderly Italians with good memories rehearsed again today for the benefit of their children the story of Victor Emmanuel's rush back to Monza, not unlike the more recent historic rush of the Prince of Wales two years ago from Africa to the bedside of his stricken father. At Monza the young King—he was then 30 years old—displayed considerable judgment in his arrangements for a fitting funeral for his father, and in preparing for his own formal accession, which took place Aug. 9.

Today King Victor Emmanuel received the salute of the Roman populace standing before a multitude in the square in front of the Pantheon. Otherwise the King, saddened by three days in the earthquake zone, spent the anniversary very quietly.

Telegrams and messages of congratulation and felicitation came to him from many points in Italy and outside the country.

In respect for the memory of King Humbert, no public celebration was permitted anywhere. But Italy, so loving of pageant and display, is preparing for a real celebration on the anniversary of their King's formal accession, ten days hence.

TEMBLORS RECORDED HERE.

Washington and St. Louis Also Note Shocks at a Great Distance.

The seismographs at Fordham University and at the American Museum of Natural History indicated a series of temblors yesterday morning a long distance from New York and probably to the south.

The Fordham instrument reacted to a moderate disturbance at 2:30 o'clock and again at 2:35. It was calculated that the shock occurred 2,100 miles from New York and probably in the Caribbean. The museum's instrument also vibrated at that time.

At 7 o'clock the needle on the museum instrument moved so as to indicate a serious quake and continued to oscillate for one hour. T. B. Hill, in charge of the instrument, said that the disturbance probably took place a "great distance from New York, and either to the south or the north." The Fordham instrument, it was said, recorded no disturbance at 7 o'clock.

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP).—An earthquake, beginning at 1:30 A. M. (E. S. T.), was recorded today on the seismographs of Georgetown University observatory.

The maximum intensity was reached at 1:34 A. M. The centre of the disturbance was calculated as being 2,000 miles from Washington, with indications that it was northeastward. The observer said it was probably off the coast of Newfoundland.

ST. LOUIS, July 29 (AP).—The St. Louis University seismographs recorded an earthquake early today which Father Joseph Joliet calculated occurred 1,800 miles south of St. Louis in the Pacific Ocean about 100 miles off the coast of Guatemala. There were three distinct shocks at intervals of 20 seconds, beginning at 12:29 A. M. (C. S. T.) and lasting about 45 minutes. They were of moderate intensity.

CHILDREN TAKEN TO ROME.

175 Earthquake Victims Are Fed, Clothed and Examined by Doctors.

ROME, July 29 (AP).—One hundred and twelve children of ages between 2 and 12 years arrived here early today from Lacedonia, Aquilonia and Bisaccia, in the regions stricken by the earthquake last week. They will be cared for at hospitals and vacation colonies in the hills near by.

Each had a roll of bread under his arm and guarded it zealously. Few cried, although a number remained mute under questioning. They were given baths, new clothing and medical inspection, then were taken to breakfast in various Roman schools.

Prince Boncompagni Ludovisi, Governor of Rome, and other officials greeted the children.

HAIL MUSSOLINI, WHO IS 47.

Arditi, Famous Shock Troops, Have Leading Part in Birthday Program.

MILAN, July 29 (AP).—The forty-seventh birthday of Benito Mussolini, Premier of Italy, today was celebrated in this "cradle of Fascism" and in every other important centre of the country by demonstrations in keeping with the nature of the Fascisti.

The Arditi, famous World War shock troops, first to wear the black shirts later adopted by the Fascist, were the central figures of the celebration. The Premier's anniversary falls on the thirteenth recurrence of the date when the assault divisions were formed.

Deputy Carlo Scorza of Lucca, president of the National Association of the Arditi, in a manifesto announced that today would see all of these veterans enrolled in the Fascisti Militia.

FRANCE CELEBRATES REVOLUTION OF 1830

PREMIER HAILS REPUBLIC

Terms Form Best for the Nation—Pledges Defense Against Revolt 'Subsidized From Abroad.'

By P. J. PHILIP.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 29.—With all the dignity of a State celebration, republican France today celebrated the culmination of those "three glorious days" when just one hundred years ago her second revolution swept the last Bourbon King, Charles X, from the throne and installed for a brief eighteen years the line of Orleans.

To the City Hall of Paris President Doumergue with Premier Tardieu and many other representatives of the government drove in state escorted by cavalry and to the repeated singing of "La Marseillaise."

By some this participation of the chief of State and the government in the commemoration of a revolution which drove their predecessors out of office has been criticized. But those "three glorious days" were not like any other revolution France has known. They were mere skirmishes between the populace and the troops of a government which so entirely lacked either authority or imagination that it was beaten almost by the first musket shot.

Boy Hero Recalled.

The total of dead numbered about 500, the chief among them, Jean de Castellane, President of the Municipal Council, reminded the assemblage today, being that 14-year-old youngster Arcole who dashed forward when the troops began to fire shouting, "I shall show you how one ought to die! Remember that my name was Arcole!" And so the bridge on which he died remains Le Pont d'Arcole, and today his memory was again fêted.

M. Tardieu took pains in his speech, which was that of a historian and deep student of his people's ways and minds, to place exactly in history the three glorious days. They were but a stepping stone, he said, toward that republicanism which is the fourteenth régime which France has known in 150 years and the only one which has lasted.

"This régime," the Premier said, "represents the conclusion of long effort in search of the best formula in which citizens can be grouped in service to the public interest. So in honoring in the presence of the head of the State these three glorious days it is not a battle between Frenchmen that we celebrate; it is an important factor in the slow constitutional, social and political evolution which has led France to that balance, thanks to which, during sixty years she has assured, with the restoration of her territory, the continuity of democratic progress."

Lafayette's Rôle.

The Marquis de Lafayette was there, of course, at that little revolution of 1830, as he was at all revolutions, M. Tardieu recalled, and it was he who presented to the victorious people the Duc d'Orleans as the successor to the throne.

Step by step the Premier traced the history of the movement which had begun in 1789 and was lost in the glory of the empire and the relief of the restoration, to be taken up again in 1830 and again in 1848 and finally in 1870, when at last the republic was proclaimed and France found her true formula of government.

Of the three glorious days of 1830, M. Tardieu insisted, the greatest conquest was undoubtedly that of the freedom of the press, the conquest of the right to discuss and fight in print. They began with a manifestation of forty-three journalists headed by M. Thiers, later to be first President of the republic. There followed the resistance of M. Baude on the doorway of the Temps against the authorities who wished to suppress his newspaper. It was August E. Fabre, editor of the Tribune, who gave the order to raise the first barricade.

Then M. Tardieu came to the delicate part of his discourse. He had to reply to the critics who had declared that it was unseemly that a government whose duty it is to maintain order should take part in the celebration of a revolution against authority.

"The legitimacy of this commemoration has been contested, and it has been said that republican governments have been no less firm than were their predecessors in defense of public order," he said. "It is the public sovereignty, now firmly established by the franchise, that the republican governments defend in maintaining public order. These men of 1830 did not have this guarantee. Furthermore, their revolution was neither directed nor subsidized from abroad."

Preferred to Combat Reds.

This statement had special significance, for the Premier had, during the morning, been engaged with the police authorities and General Gouraud, the military commander of Paris, in drawing up orders prohibiting any public processions on Friday, designated by the Soviet as "International Anti-War Day," and making arrangements for a strengthened force of police and soldiers to protect those workers who refuse to obey strike orders from Moscow.

"Government of the people by the people, even with all its risks and perils, was what our ancestors dreamed of in 1830," M. Tardieu concluded. "That is what in our time has been secured. Mistakes may compromise it and it is our business to seek to prevent these mistakes. If that is to be done, then those divisions inherent in the practice of a republican régime must never exceed that measure where they cease to assure the fertile exercise of liberty and they must know how to discipline themselves when the national interest is involved.

"Out of the past we can take confidence. Perhaps in the future we can do even better."

INDIA FLOOD PERIL GRAVE.

Streets of Shikarpur Are Under Fifteen Feet of Water.

KARACHI, India, July 29 (AP).—Reports from the city of Shikarpur, which is in imminent peril from floods sweeping over the Upper Sind River, today described the situation there as extremely grave. In some parts of the town water fifteen feet deep swirled through the streets.

The Shikarpur prison was evacuated last night and 600 convicts were sent to Hyderabad. Five thousand workmen are engaged day and night in closing river and canal dike breaches.

11 Pre-Aztec Temples Found By Archeologists in Mexico

By The Associated Press.

TOLUCA, Mexico, July 29.—One of the richest archeological finds in Mexico in many years was announced today with the discovery of the pre-Aztec city of Calixtlahuaca, a short distance north of Toluca.

Eleven temples, a number of pyramids and many valuable specimens were found, according to the first reports received here.

Several excursions are being planned in the hope of further discoveries.

CONFIDENT HOOVER WILL VISIT MEXICO

Mexican President Tells Press Date Is Not Fixed, but Journey Is Certain.

CLOSING GAMBLING HOUSES

But He Says Those on Frontier With Licenses in Effect Won't Be Disturbed in Campaign.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, July 29.—President Ortiz Rubio is confident that President Hoover will visit Mexico City, he told Mexican and foreign correspondents in an open interview today, his second since he was inaugurated in February.

"No date has been fixed for his visit," added Mexico's Chief Executive, "but I am convinced he will come."

Señor Ortiz Rubio, who was in a particularly amiable mood, received the correspondents at historic Chapultepec Castle and posed with them for photographs. The correspondents asked him if he would grant biweekly conferences, like those of the White House, but Señor Ortiz Rubio replied, smilingly: "We are in Mexico." He added that he preferred to state facts in conversations and that general talk was not beneficial to the public welfare.

Questioned as to the possiblity that he might visit Jackson, Miss., when the National University football team plays there in November, President Ortiz Rubio said that if an invitation were extended to him he probably would be unable to accept it, but that he certainly would send a representative.

The President informed the correspondents that he is closing all possible gambling houses on the United States frontier, but, especially in Lower California, he must observe concessions already granted. He remarked that Mexico has the greatest desire to settle all questions in dispute over the frontier.

The Republic will have a surplus of 15,000,000 pesos (nearly $7,500,000) at the end of the current fiscal year, the President believes. He would not offer a forecast as to the use to which it would be put.

Working to Relieve Industry.

MEXICO CITY, July 29 (AP).—With regard to the present industrial crisis in Mexico, President Ortiz Rubio said that this merely reflected world conditions and that the government would give all possible aid to industry to help it through the crucial period.

The President said the government was taking stern measures to put a halt to the smuggling into Mexico of foreigners, especially Chinese, and that several immigration employes had been discharged because they were found implicated in smuggling. He said that smuggling has been principally through Sonora points.

Answering a question regarding the Montes de Oca-Lamont debt agreement, the President declined to expand upon his previous remarks, but repeated that a detailed account of the agreement would be published in Mexico soon and that discussions would continue for the settlement of all other debt claims.

Visit in Autumn Possible.

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP).—President Hoover accepted an invitation from President Ortiz Rubio to visit Mexico when Señor Ortiz Rubio visited Washington as President-elect some months ago.

Ambassador Morrow, who is to resign his post at Mexico City in the Autumn, has pressed upon Mr. Hoover an invitation to visit the southern republic before that time.

President Hoover has been represented as desiring to make the proposed trip in the Autumn. He plans to be in the West on his vacation until some time in September and must be in the capital before Congress convenes in December.

This would leave him the latter part of September, October and November from which to choose a date for the Mexican trip, if he goes this year. Porto Rico and Cuba also would be visited on the same trip, under the present plans.

3 HELD FOR DICE GAME IN TOWER OVER CHURCH

Detectives Tell of Raid on Alleged Gambling Room High Above Broadway.

A big dice game twenty stories above the Manhattan Congregational Church, Broadway and Seventy-sixth Street, in the lofty Manhattan Towers, was described in West Side Court yesterday when the alleged operator of the game and three men accused of participating in it were arraigned before Magistrate Simpson.

Jack Reiber, 40 years old, of 2,110 Westbury Court, Brooklyn, was held in $500 bail for hearing Friday on a charge of maintaining a gambling house. The other three, Charles Herman, 38, of 150 Aldan Street, Mount Vernon; Charles Glucksman, 36, of 377 Montgomery Street, Brooklyn, and Samuel Goldberg, 47, of 711 Avenue O, Brooklyn, were held in $25 bail each for hearing the same day on charges of disorderly conduct.

Detective Walter Mitchell of Deputy Chief Inspector James S. Bolan's staff headed a party of detectives who raided the game about 10 o'clock Monday night. Mitchell said he and the other detectives listened outside the door for several minutes before entering and heard dice being rolled on a table. Mitchell then rang the bell and the raiders forced their way in as soon as one of the men opened the door.

Mitchell said Reiber admitted having hired the room and running the game, taking a "cut" for his pains.

PARIS SEEKS RETURN OF BANK OFFICIAL

To Ask Extradition of National City Bank Aide Who Fled to Spanish Foreign Legion.

HE IS PRIVATE IN MOROCCO

Declares He Is Trying to Forget—Legion to Fight French Move—Officers Scout Its Success.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 29.—The French Government will ask Spain for the extradition of Laureano Carlos Villanueva, Venezuelan employe of the Paris branch of the National City Bank of New York, charged with fraud by the bank's clients, it was said today by the magistrate conducting the investigation of the charges.

Villanueva is now in Morocco, where he was assigned after enlisting in the Spanish Foreign Legion after his flight from Paris following financial difficulties which his friends ascribe to the Wall Street slump.

CEUTA, Morocco, July 29 (AP).—Alejandro Avial, tall, bronzed recruit of the Spanish Foreign Legion, who admits that in private life he is Launeano Carlos Villanueva, missing official of the National City Bank's Paris branch, was found and interviewed here today by an Associated Press correspondent. He accepted the identification.

"Yes, I am Villanueva, and I am seeking to forget the past," he said, smiling grimly. "I am serving as orderly to the Colonel commanding. All I do is carry messages and lead the life of the humblest recruit. I have nothing to say about the status of the crime of which I am accused."

Villanueva, socially prominent Venezuelan, has been charged by relatives and friends with diverting their private accounts to his own uses. Officials of the bank said that as far as they were concerned his books were in order.

Private "Avial" refused to declare whether he would fight the French Government's demand for his extradition. He was found by the correspondent after three days of efforts to pass the wall of obstacles raised by Spanish officials against those seeking to penetrate the past and private lives of soldiers of the Foreign Legion.

As a recruit among other recruits "Avial" is in training at the large Legion concentration camp at Dar Riffien, located in the sun-scorched wild region of Morocco. In uniform he appears to be only an infinitesmal part of a large corps of men who, outcasts from all walks of society, are seeking forgetfulness in rigorous duties and desert adventures.

Officers of the Legion laconically told the correspondent:

"We don't ask many questions about the past lives of our soldiers. All we can say is that frequent attempts to extradite men from the Legion have all been opposed strenuously by the Legion, which fights as one man, and if necessary for one man.

"We believe that not even the highest diplomatic protests will accomplish anything. By precedent in the past it is certain that the Legion will oppose extradition."

Colonel Liniers y Muguiro commands the detachment to which Private "Avial" has been assigned.

Since Villanueva disappeared from Paris he has been reported seen in various places in Spain, including San Sebastian. He left Paris before legal proceedings were taken by Mme. Gomez, a Venezuelan, who demanded an accounting of her funds. Two of his friends later said they had traced him to the Spanish Foreign Legion and had urged him to return and face the charges.

RICHMOND, Va., July 29 (AP).—The will of John Kerr Branch, prominent Virginian, who died July 1 in Florence, Italy, disposes of an estate of $4,592,494.81. The will was filed for probate today in Chancery Court.

Members of the Branch family are legatees of the estate, of which $4,458,589.81 is in personal property and the remaining $133,905 in real estate.

SAYS PARTY CHIEFS SIT IN COMMONS DRUNK

Laborite Expands on Charges Made in Speech—MacDonald Demands He Name Offenders.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 29.—Another Left Wing Labor member defied the House of Commons today. This time it was Elijah Sandham of Liverpool, a Socialist, who in a speech last week charged his fellow-members with being drunk and accepting bribes.

"I stand by every word of my speech," Mr. Sandham exclaimed before a crowded house. He went even further and charged that on the front bench, where the Cabinet and leaders of the Opposition sit, there were frequent instances of drunkenness in the House.

After repeated tilts with the Speaker, to whom he was most courteous, Mr. Sandham was asked to leave the House, and the members voted, 429 to 8, to refer his case to the Committee on Privileges.

There was no hint of contrition in Mr. Sandham's manner as he rose to repeat his charge. Standing in a slouched attitude with one hand in his trousers pocket, he attempted to reread the whole speech which stirred up the furor, only to be called to order over irrelevant passage.

When he had finished reading the passage about bribery and drunkenness, he said: "May I remind the members of this House and the Prime Minister in particular that I am fully conscious of my duties and what I ought and ought not to do. But I am not surprised that certain members are indignant at the charges I have made."

Mr. Sandham received unexpected support from Edwin Schrumgeour, prohibitionist member, who said: "No one can dispute the fact of having seen the honorable members of all parties in the House from time to time under the influence of drink."

Amid shouts of "Oh" from all sides of the house, Prime Minister MacDonald arose and sternly insisted Mr. Sandham would have to justify his charges and name the members he had in mind. Only a handful of unrepentent Clydesiders failed to support the Premier when a vote was taken.

WASHINGTON WARNS NANKING ON RAIDS

Rights of Action Are Reserved if American Property or Lives Are Lost at Taian.

REFUGEE SHIPS FLEE REDS

Their Advances and Fall of River Force the Palos and Others to Leave Changsha.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Captured by Chinese Communists, the city of Changsha, far up the Yangtse River, was reported in official advices reaching here today to be in flames and the prey of looting soldiery, with all the Americans removed safely to naval vessels, except for those missionaries who elected to remain.

The Americans were taken off by the American river gunboat Palos, which was struck once by rifle fire last night near the bridge but without damage. Later the Palos, for greater comfort, transferred all women and children, as well as some Italian priests, with the exception of nine refugees, to the British vessel Aphis.

The Futami of the Japanese Navy and the Teal of the British Navy participated with the Palos and the Aphis in the rescue work. Then, because further protection could not be afforded, in view of the overwhelming number of Communists and because the river was rapidly falling, the vessels left this morning. They anchored five miles down the river clear of the bar for a time and then proceeded to other points.

Advises Warship at Hankow.

Latest registration lists at the State Department give forty-eight Americans at Changsha as of Jan. 1, but since then several have left and it is assumed the number remaining was probably not more than twenty-four.

Among the American properties at Changsha are the Yale Mission College and the Socony and Asiatic Petroleum Company installations, none of which had been destroyed, according to the latest advices reaching here.

At 10 o'clock this morning widespread looting was taking place, while small detachments of Communists in civilian clothes were pursuing the remnants of the army of Ho Chien, Governor of Hunan Province.

Frank P. Lockhart, American Consul General at Hankow, in a report to the State Department, transmitted yesterday, said the Communists were expected to take Changsha momentarily, and in a later dispatch, filed at 5 P. M. yesterday, he said the Reds under Peng Teh-hwai were in full control of Changsha.

The American gunboat Guam, he added, left for Chenglingchi on Monday afternoon. Mr. Lockhart advised Captain Moore of that gunboat that Hankow should have a destroyer or other naval vessel for the protection of American lives and property there and to insure communication.

Warns Nanking on Air Raids.

The Consul General reported further that there were perhaps twenty Americans and over 200 foreigners at Kuling and that the continued presence of the American gunboat Monocacy at Kiukiang was advisable. He said Hankow was quiet.

With American citizens and property in Taian, in Shantung Province, endangered by bombing raids of Nanking forces, the United States today warned the Nanking Government to exercise every precaution, reserving all rights in the matter.

The action was taken through the American Legation at Peking upon the receipt of advices from Edwin F. Stanton, American Consul at Tsinanfu, that four Americans remaining in Taian, together with American mission property valued at $250,000, were endangered by bombing raids.

The legation at Peking instructed Mr. Stanton to endeavor to have the Americans at Taian withdraw to a place of safety.

Keep in Touch With Nationals.

Explaining the situation, the State Department pointed out that military activities have been taking place in various parts of Shantung Province for several months.

"American Consul officers in China," it was added, "cannot order American citizens to withdraw from places from danger, but they do give advice. Following the practice of the American consular offices in China, the American consulate at Tsinan, Shantung, has made constant efforts to keep in touch by mail and telegraph with American citizens residing in places where danger has been apprehended or has developed.

"The Consul at Tsinan reported in May, 1930, that (a) a suggestion had been made by him earlier to American residents in Southwestern and Western Shantung that, in view of the probability that military operations would take place in those areas, the women and children, at least, remove to places of safety, and (b) during the month of April the majority of American residents in his consular district had remained at their places.

"Later, under date June 16, he reported that from five towns, including Taian, there had come out, of American citizens, eight men, thirty women and thirty-seven children and that there remained in those cities only a few American citizens."

Consul Adams reported to the State Department today that Americans who have remained in Pochow during recent disorders were safe and remaining there.

WAFDISTS IN GENEVA CONSULT EX-KHEDIVE

Some Want Abbas Hilmi Back on the Throne for Which He Has Been Intriguing.

M'DONALD DEFENDS POLICY

Tells Commons British Troops Are Not Needed in Cairo and Awaits Egypt's Agreement on Treaty.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, July 29.—The former Khedive Abbas Hilmi of Egypt had an interview here last week with several members of the Wafdist party who came from Cairo for the purpose, it was learned today.

A small section of the Wafdists favors the return of Abbas Hilmi to the throne. Ever since 1914, when he was banished from Egypt, he has intrigued from his Geneva headquarters against British rule there, hoping to return when the British left the country and home rule was adopted. He inherited a large fortune a few years ago and since then has redoubled his intrigues to regain the throne.

LONDON, July 29 (AP).—A strenuous defense of the Egyptian treaty proposals and of the Labor Government's attitude toward Egypt was made today by Prime Minister MacDonald in the House of Commons.

The Prime Minister was assailed by Winston Churchill, who demanded to know whether it was not "providential" that British troops had not been withdrawn before the recent troubles started.

"To talk about British troops being necessary in Cairo in order to maintain law and order in Egypt has been proved to be mere fiction," declared Mr. MacDonald. He added that this proof never was more clear than in the recent events, since owing to the manner in which disturbances had been handled British warships, ordered to Egypt, had found it possible to leave at once.

The Premier said there was an Egyptian agreement in existence by which the British Government stood.

"There is one outstanding point upon which we also stand," he declared. "As soon as Egypt is prepared to come to an agreement with us upon its lines we are ready to effect it."

Sharp Quake Felt in Nicaragua.

MANAGUA, July 29.—The populace of this city was awakened at 1 o'clock this morning and alarmed by a sharp earthquake. No damage was done, however.

NICARAGUAN TROOPS DESTROY SANDINO CAMP

Follower of Rebel Leader Dies of Wounds—Stronghold Taken By Surprise.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MANAGUA, July 29.—Captain Puller of the Nicaraguan National Guard found and destroyed a bandit camp near Guapinol in Northeastern Jinotega. The guard patrol which he led camped for a night in dense jungle within 2,000 yards of the bandits' camp without knowing the bandits' location.

The next morning the guard patrol found the camp, which was held by six bandits. They fled. There were no guard casualties. Sabar Manzanares, Captain of a force under Pedro Altamirano, who is one of Agustino Sandino's Generals, was killed.

The deserted camp had been used by Altamirano for nearly two years. Manzanares was captured wounded and said before his death that the camp had been occupied by Sandino and his officers, Altamirano, Ortez and Salgado, who fled as the patrol approached. Manzanares carried papers granting him a leave of absence and signed by Sandino on July 20.

TURKS DRAFT NEW NOTE OF PROTEST TO PERSIA

Latest Communication on Supplying Munitions to Rebels Said to Be Very Sharp.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ANGORA, Turkey, July 29.—A special Cabinet meeting prepared a sharp memorandum to Persia today calling attention to the latest report from the Eastern frontier that, despite Persia's denials of help, many rebels are getting munitions from Persia.

The newspaper Aksham points out that the recent Persian note emphasized friendship and willingness to assist Turkey in ending bandit warfare but says there is a big contrast between Persia's words and acts.

"If the present condition continues," says the newspaper, "Turkey will be obliged to use its real means of defense."

This hint is interpreted as a threat of an actual military movement against Persia.

Turkish newspapers assert that a secret, wealthy foreign propaganda organization is behind the Ararat revolt and has had organizers living for years among Kurd, Arab and Persian tribes studying the means of making the strongest appeal to their fighting instincts.

CHANGSHA BURNS AS REDS SACK CITY

By HALLETT ABEND.

approach of their armies to within ten miles of Kiukiang have thoroughly alarmed the legations here because 220 foreigners, including twenty Americans, are summering at Kuling, a mountain resort near Kiukiang, and it is doubtful if they can reach the safety zones before the fall of Kiukiang.

Many Americans are believed to be still in Hupeh, Honan, Hunan and Kiangsi, four provinces which are overrun by Communist bands. There were 239 American men and 180 women and children in this area on July 11, when they were officially warned to leave.

The Peking Foreign Office has received telegrams from Marshal Feng Yu-hsiang expressing his belief that Hankow will be taken in ten days without fighting because of the rapidity with which the generals are deserting President Chiang Kai-shek. Marshal Feng reports understandings have been reached with General Yang Hu-tsun, holding a section of the Peking-Hankow railway, and with General Yo Wei-chin, in the same zone, both of whom were formerly Nanking supporters.

One regiment of Yang's men mutinied, marched to Yehsien and joined Feng's forces, which were holding the city, but Feng disarmed the mutineers and sent them back to Yang Hu-tsun's zone, followed by their full armed equipment in carts.

The Japanese Chargé d'Affaires denies to the Peking Foreign Office the reports from Japan that the Tokyo government intends to send troops and officials to Shantung to protect Japanese interests. He says he has no fears regarding their safety under General Yen Hsi-shan's protection.

Yen Hsi-shan has wired to the Peking Foreign Office from the front lines south of Taian that there is little fighting. He says the Northerners are entrenched in strong positions and are awaiting Nanking's announced attacks.

Missions Reported Destroyed.

SHANGHAI, Wednesday, July 30 (AP).—The British North China Daily News today says all foreign missions at Changsha, capital of Hunan Province, were destroyed by the Communists, who overran the city yesterday.

Overrun by a Communist horde, the rich city of Changsha, capital of Hunan Province, was systematically sacked yesterday and burned by the invaders, but not before foreign warships had removed their nationals to safety.

Influential Chinese reiterated their belief that the Changsha raid was instigated by the Third International at Moscow. They said unless the Nanking Government was able to halt the civil war that has been ravaging the country for months and to turn its attention to the communistic activity, the Red threat was destined soon to become more grave.

The wildest rumors resulted from the raid. One was to the effect that the establishment of a Communist government south of the Yangtse River was imminent. Nationalist Government bonds declined sharply as another result of the Red activity.

After taking aboard missionaries and foreigners desiring to leave, the warships were forced by the rapidly receding river to withdraw. Millions of dollars worth of foreign property thus was left at the mercy of the Reds.

Nanking Officials Executed.

The foreigners were rescued before the sacking of the city commenced by the American warship Palos, two British and three Japanese gunboats, which also escorted foreign commercial vessels to safety and towed away floating equipment of various concerns.

Relief work done by the naval men, who risked their lives in penetrating isolated portions of the city, was warmly praised.

Advices trickling through before communications were severed with Changsha said the Reds had executed numerous Nanking and provincial officials. A brother of the Hochien Provincial Governor was beheaded.

Foreign wireless reports from Changsha said the Communists, after sacking virtually all of the city, which lies on the right bank of the Siang River, then crossed to the island opposite the town where the foreign consulates and additional foreign properties are located. An unconfirmed report said these had been looted and burned.

When the Communists entered Changsha fewer than 10,000 provincial troops under General Ho Chien, Governor of Hunan Province, guarded the city. Upon the entry of the Reds half of this force fled. Three thousand joined the Reds and the remainder, attempting to oppose the marauders, were slaughtered. Ho Chien fled to Changteh, 150 miles northwest. This city was reported to be destined to fall to the Communists.

Reds Seize River Ports.

The Communists who have long menaced Central China have renewed their activities in the Upper Yangtse valley. Dispatches yesterday told of unusual communistic activity along the middle section of the Yangtse where bands of marauders fired upon river steamers at many points in addition to capturing and looting several minor river ports.

The principal activity of this nature seemed to be in Hunan Province, near Yochow, where recently the Reds looted and burned most of the city, causing foreigners to flee. Communists concentrated in this area are attacking the few steamers which attempt to operate above Hankow. Many ships are tied up at Hankow or are operating solely between that city and Shanghai.

Chinese dispatches from Kiukiang said the provincial forces were seeking to curb Communist activities in Kiangsi Province but indicated they were meeting with only slight success. One-eighth of the province was said to be in the rebels' hands and bands of marauders were swarming in from Fukien Province.

Naval officers in Changsha believed the city would remain in the hands of the Reds for at least ten days. Due to the civil warfare, the Provincial and Nanking Government authorities are not expected to undertake immediate opposition to the Red forces, which are terrifying the populace throughout Central and Southern China.

No Word From Yale Mission.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 29 (AP).—Officials at the home office of Yale-in-China today had received no information from Changsha concerning the fate of the mission college's property in that city. A cablegram was being sent today to the directors of the Y. M. C. A. in Changsha in an attempt to determine what damage had resulted from the rioting.

In the absence of any official notification from the State Department it was believed here that whatever damage was done to the college property was light.

The mission college's property in Changsha includes a hospital, the middle school, and several dormitories and private residences. Fighting in the Hunan Province forced the college to close about three years ago and the mission was reopened last year.

Dr. Lingle in China Since 1890.

DAVIDSON, N. C., July 29 (AP).—No word has been received from Dr. W. H. Lingle, Presbyterian missionary in China, since May 8, his brother, Dr. T. W. Lingle, Davidson College professor, said today.

A native of Rowan County, North Carolina, Dr. W. H. Lingle has been in the Chinese mission field since 1890. His wife, the former Jean Richie of Ohio, is with him. Of his two married daughters, one is in the United States and another en route to this country.

Not Surprised Husband Stayed.

DENVER, Col., July 29 (AP).—Dr. Allen N. Cameron, missionary at Changsha, has been in China as a missionary since 1895. The Faith Mission, which he represents, is a branch of the Denver Galilee Baptist Church.

Dr. Cameron was born and reared in Lawrence, Kan. His wife lives here. He is a graduate of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.

Mrs. Cameron, herself a missionary, said she was forced to flee eight weeks ago from China. She expressed little surprise that her husband remained in the city after it was captured.

Americans at Changsha.

The Y. M. C. A. representative at Changsha is G. G. Helde. Mr. Helde has been in China since 1916. He is a native of New Mexico. His nearest relative, records show, is Mrs. George W. Helde of Central, N. M. The record did not indicate the relationship.

R. K. Veryard, the other Y. M. C. A. representative, left China a month ago on furlough and is now in England visiting relatives. He is expected in New York in September.

The representative of the Y. W. C. A. in Changsha is Maud Russell of Hayward, Cal. Miss Russell has been in China for the Y. W. C. A. since 1919. The last direct word from her to Y. W. C. A. headquarters in New York was on June 16. At that time she was well and in no danger. Miss Russell's mother, Mrs. Thomas D. Russell, lives at Hayward.

CHANGSHA IS IN RICH AREA.

One of Leading Cities in China, It Is Famous for Its Fireworks.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Changsha, China, is described in a special bulletin issued today by the National Geographic Society, as a "city of fireworks, literally and figuratively."

"The Fourth of July firecrackers used by the American small boy before the 'safe and sane Fourth,' was so widely enforced," the society stated, "were imported heavily from Changsha. The city long was a focal point for operations between the Northern and Southern armies, especially in 1922, when it was a scene of the long-delayed meeting of the two units.

"The city is the capital of the hilly province of Hunan, important because it contains enormous coal fields, many unworked, and because in it, to the north of Changsha, is the huge lake Tung-Ting Hu, which acts as a reservoir for the Yangtze floods.

"In Hunan the necromancer has exerted much power, and Changsha was so well-protected by the lucky constellation under which it was founded and by the Holy Hill which guards it that it was thought a profanation for the 'foreign devils' to enter. In 1910 there were serious riots, mainly directed against the growing commercial power of foreign firms, but the disturbance had also its astronomical accompaniments, for it was the approach of Halley's comet which touched off the explosion.

"Today Changsha is closely linked with New Haven, Conn., for there is, just outside the rapidly disappearing wall, in which the inhabitants once took great pride, one of the best known mission schools in China, which is Yale's contribution to the education of the Chinese who can not come to America.

"A large part of Hunan is an unworked field of anthracite and bituminous coal at Pinghsiang, which is connected with Changsha by railroad, there is one of the mines which furnishes fuel for the great iron works at Hanyang.

"Among the great men who have been among Changsha's chief products, the most famous was General Tsang Kuo-fan, who cooperation with 'Chinese Gordon' was largely instrumental in putting down the Taiping rebellion. General Tsang was not only a soldier and statesman, but a literary man as well, and his collected works of 156 books were edited by Li Hung-chang.

"Changsha lies on a projected line of railway between Peking and Canton and trains have already competed with the light draft steamers which make the 220-mile trip from Hankow. With about 500,000 inhabitants, it rules a province of 22,000,000 people, and is one of the cleanest cities in China.

"Many of the streets are long and straight and at one time the city itself was divided between two magistracies. The bazaars are full of life and interest, some of the candies being famous for miles around.

"The Episcopal Mission has a live Boy Scout troop and the visitor, who watched tent-pegging, fire-rescue, stretcher-making and other Boy Scout activities would marvel at China's quick changes. For until the Boxer trouble, Hunan's capital excluded the dread foreigner from its walls, whose brick battlements, rising above the site of a former wall constructed in 202 B. C., were themselves built while Shakespeare was alive."

PEKING REGIME GRANTS FREEDOM OF THE PRESS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PEKING, July 29.—The granting of the complete freedom of the press, both for foreign correspondents and Chinese newspapers, so long as vital military information or malicious misrepresentation is not involved, was announced today by Dr. Tchoun Gao-hsiang, Director of Foreign Affairs at Peking, after consultation with General Yen Hsi-shang and Wang Ching-wei, Kuomintang leader.

As a test case of the sincerity of the Peking Government's attitude, complete telegraph privileges have been officially restored to Hallett Abend, THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent, who was officially told he was welcome to return to Peking to reside at any time, though a year ago the Nanking Government formally demanded his deportation and canceled his use of the telegraphs, charging him with unfriendliness to China and with malicious false representation of Chinese affairs.

Dr. Tchoun's announcement of the freedom of the press was coupled with pithy comments on Nanking's policies of news suppression, and on the year-long campaign against Chinese foreign language newspapers which have been frankly reporting the situation as critical. Dr. Tchoun disapproves both campaigns of misleading propaganda and attempts to muzzle the domestic or the foreign press.

Chinese publications at Peking and Tientsin are already commenting favorably on the Northern régime's liberality to the press and the fact that well-meant criticisms are not resented or followed by the closing or confiscation of plants or the denial of the use of the mails, as is Nanking's custom.

Dr. Tchoun adopts the attitude that the Northern coalition wants the rest of the world, as well as all China, to be fully familiar with the aims and the progress of the rebellion against Nanking, and courts foreign understanding of the Nationalist aims of China's foreign policies.

OPPOSITION INVITED TO INDIA DISCUSSION

But MacDonald Says Labor Will Take Full Responsibility for Conference Proposals.

SIMON COLLEAGUES BARRED

Premier Says Conferees Will Not Be Bound by Comission's Report and Will Take No Votes.

By CHARLES A. SELDEN
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 29.—Premier MacDonald made his expected announcement in the House of Commons tonight that the Conservative and Liberal parties would be invited by the government to send representatives to the October round-table conference on India. But he qualified the announcement by adding an explicit statement that, whatever the conference as a whole or any of its members might recommend, the Labor Government alone would be responsible for whatever new legislation might be proposed in Parliament as the outcome of the conference.

There will be no voting on any subject by the conference members.

Disapprove Barring Simon.

Although relieved by this official assurance that they are going to be allowed to sit at the round-table discussions, members of both Opposition groups expressed surprise and disapproval when Premier MacDonald said it was not his present intention to invite Sir John Simon or any other member of the Simon commission, which has made the most recent investigation of Indian affairs, to take part in the conference.

It soon became evident from the debate in both the House of Commons and the House of Lords that the big question at the Autumn conference will be concerning the merits of the Simon report itself. But in both houses tonight there was Government assurance that the report will not be ignored by the conference. It will be discussed as a matter of course, said the Premier, but the Simon recommendations will be in no sense binding on the conference and nothing the conference may recommend will be binding on Parliament.

"I must make it clear," said the Premier, "that his Majesty's Government cannot throw off their constitutional responsibility and must retain complete freedom in regard to the proposals which they will subsequently lay before Parliament as the outcome of the conference to advance the purpose announced by the Viceroy after consultation with his Majesty's Government."

MacDonald Defends Decision.

It was the Liberal leader, David Lloyd George, backed by the former Conservative Foreign Minister, Sir Austen Chamberlain, who demanded to know if Sir John Simon or some other member of his commission would be asked to participate in the conference.

"My colleagues and I," replied Premier MacDonald, "believe for very strong reasons it would be most undesirable to have any member of the commission take part in the conference. The view I hold at the present moment is that it would be a profound mistake to have anything of the sort." As to the privileges of the delegates of the Opposition parties who do attend the conference, Mr. MacDonald declared in response to further anxious queries from Mr. Lloyd George that they would be on an equal footing with the Labor Government members of the conference, with full rights of participation in all plenary and executive sessions and to act on such committees as may be appointed.

When asked if representation would be proportionate to the strength of the parties, Mr. MacDonald said that question was unimportant and did not interest him, as there would be no votes at the conference. But he added he thought about four delegates from each of the three parties would be the right number for practical working purposes to make the conference fairly representative of all England.

Congress to Discuss Program.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BOMBAY, July 29.—A meeting of the congress working committee will begin tomorrow and is expected to last three days. Vallabhai Patel, acting President, accompanied by the permanent secretary of the All India congress committee, has arrived. Among others expected are Pandit Malavica and Mrs. Jawaharlal Nehru.

The meeting was to have been held at Allahabad, but as the United Provinces Government has declared the congress committee an unlawful association, Mr. Patel decided to move the congress committee's headquarters to Bombay, which is now the chief centre of Nationalist activities.

Details of the agenda are secret, but it is expected the committee will discuss the elections to the central Provincial Legislatures, the boycott movement and the advisability of starting a widespread campaign for non-payment of taxes. Pandit Malaviya has apparently set his heart on the boycott movement, and Mr. Patel on launching a new tax-resistance campaign to embrace the whole Gujarat district.

A graphic summary of the conditions under which the Bombay police have had to work is given by Sir Patrick Kelly, the Police Commissioner, in his annual report for 1929. The report says the police were overworked throughout the year, especially during the Communal riots in February and May.

"They never failed in their duty, stuck to their posts and worked with zeal, though the strain at times was almost intolerable, owing to the lack of rest and food," Sir Patrick reported. "I never heard a grumble."

The government has sanctioned a bonus of a third of a month's pay to every man on the force, from the superintendent to the constables, "in recognition of their great loyalty and devotion to duty."

Nanking Ratifies Air Mail Contract.

The Kuo Min News Agency in this city yesterday reported a dispatch from Shanghai announcing the ratification by the State Council of the new Sino-American aviation contract concluded between the China National Aviation Corporation and the Curtiss China Airways Company for the reorganization of the air mail and passenger service in China. The new aviation corporation will operate over an area including Shanghai, Nanking, Hankow, Kiukiang and Chengtu.

Faroe Islanders Tear Down Danish Flag, Resenting 'Favoritism' in Honors to Iceland

THORSHAVEN, Faroe Islands, July 29.—The Danish flag was pulled down in front of the government buildings here today and the Faroe Islands flag—a blue-trimmed red cross on a white field—was run up instead. Crowds of excited islanders cheered anti-Danish speeches while the biggest procession ever seen in the Faroes marched through Thorshaven's tiny streets carrying the Faroe Islands banner.

The opening of the local Parliament, scheduled for today, has been suspended temporarily on account of the sudden Nationalist outburst which has gripped Denmark's remote island possession. The feelings of the islanders were hurt when, at the recent Icelandic millennial celebrations, Iceland's flag was flown but no corresponding recognition was given to their own emblem. The resentment boiled over yesterday on the 900th anniversary of St. Olaf, who is not only the patron saint of Norway but of the Faroe Islands as well. An indignation meeting was called by M. Petubson, who represents the islanders in the Danish Parliament, and a resolution was passed appealing to the inhabitants to hoist their own flag at the opening of their Lagthing, or Parliament, today.

Under cover of darkness a flag was hoisted and remained all night until the police pulled it down this morning. Later Mr. Petubson, backed by an enthusiastic crowd, again pulled down the Danish flag and was arrested, but soon released.

In the meantime the Faroes flag flutters from the pole and officials are awaiting instructions from Copenhagen on how to deal with the situation.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COPENHAGEN, July 29.—Premier Stauning said tonight that the flag incident in the Faroes Islands was "regrettable" and did little honor to its instigators.

"Flags have a peculiar power over some people," he remarked. "The Thorshaven affair should not be taken too seriously. No responsible person in the Faroes has ever approached us asking for a distinctive flag."

The Premier added that he would have to await a report from the Faroes Islands authorities before taking any action.

The Faroes are twenty-one rocky islands half way between Iceland and the Shetlands, and have been Danish property since 1386. The 20,000 islanders, who live mostly by sheep farming and fishing, have always clung to their distinctive characteristics.

INDIAN PEACE ENVOYS RETURN TO SEE GANDHI

Give No Hint of Outcome of Their Mission—Landowners Voice Disapproval of Simon Report.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SIMLA, July 29.—Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru and Mr. Jayakar are on their way back from Allahabad to Poona, where, presumably, they will report to Mahatma Gandhi in Yerovda jail on the attitude of the Pandits Nehru toward the peace negotiations in general and the Mahatma's letter in particular. It cannot be said their continued silence has made for increased optimism here at the headquarters of the government.

A common rumor, which may be taken at its face value, is that the Pandits Nehru throught Mr. Gandhi's letter too vague in its terms. They demanded substantial concessions, it is reported, before calling off the civil disobedience movement, stipulating that amnesty for political prisoners must come simultaneously.

There are a few hopeful people, however, who point out that the fact the negotiations are apparently still progressing means there is still a chance of a solution being found. No communications of any kind from either Sir Tej or Mr. Jayakar have been received at official quarters here since their mission to Mr. Gandhi and the Pandits Nehru began.

The Viceroy, Lord Irwin, today received an important deputation of the All-India Landholders' League, which first expressed emphatic disapproval of the Simon report and, second, pressed for separate representation at the round-table conference at London in October.

The delegation consisted of landlords and big farmers from all over the country, a notable exception being that no delegate was present from Bombay Presidency.

Lord Irwin assured them the welfare of the landholders and farmers would be "very present in the minds of those who will have the fashioning of the future Constitution of this country." He promised their objections to the Simon report would be considered carefully.

The Viceroy concluded his remarks with a long review of the suffering caused to the agricultural classes of India by the civil disobedience movement. He made a special reference to the disastrous effect on the Indian market of the crisis in the Bombay cotton mills and the paralysis of business, which he said had an inevitable reaction on the agricultural community.

"Every thinking man must regret that in the struggle for constitutional advance the true objects of such advance should be forgotten and defeated, for no change in the government can bring any real profit to the country unless it can be expressed in terms of well-being for the masses of the population," he said. "You have prescribed a threefold combination as a cure for the troubles besetting us—sympathy, understanding and statesmanship. These indeed are essential and never more essential than today. I pray therefore that these qualities should be vouchsafed to us all according to our need so that with firm hope and a single purpose all who have constructive contributions to make may join in building a new life for India."

STORM AT ADRIANOPLE WORST IN 100 YEARS

Latest Reports Set Death Toll at Twenty-two and Property Loss at $4,000,000.

ISTANBUL, Turkey, July 29 (AP).—Refugees began to arrive here today from Adrianople with tidings of the storm of Sunday in which, according to latest reports, twenty-two persons lost their lives and damage was caused to the extent of about $4,000,000.

According to eyewitnesses of the catastrophe, the tornado was the worst in the Balkans in the last 100 years.

The famous mosque of Sultan Selim II, an impressive sixteenth century edifice, suffered damage of at least $50,000. The mosque was the most notable building in Adrianople. It has a portico of columns carved from single stones and is flanked by four slender fluted minarets each about 200 feet high. The span of the dome is 106 feet, one of the largest in existence. Much of the damage was caused to the dome and the minarets.

The Jewish quarter escaped with little damage. Thousands of storks, eagles and smaller birds, according to refugees, were killed by hail. The birds fell in the streets amid the débris.

Today, it was said, many of the population were still within their homes, afraid to emerge. Some of the refugees prepared to ask the government to speed relief work.

CARAWAY DECLARES FARM PROGRAM FAILS

Democrat Asserts Administration's Promises in the Campaign Have Not Materialized.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Senator Caraway of Arkansas, in a statement issued through the Democratic National Committee today, contended that the promises of the administration to improve the conditions of agriculture and industry had not materialized, and that the plight of the farmers is worse than it was sixteen months ago, when the administration had declared it was the nation's outstanding problem.

Senator Caraway insisted that the President "must assume responsibility for the failure to bring farm relief, and either permit Congress to adopt a plan that farmers have advocated or himself suggest some new remedy that will commend itself to the friends of agriculture."

"For sixteen months," the Senator asserted, "the administration has been in complete control, and during that time it has staged two major legislative performances—one an extraordinary session of the Seventy-first Congress, and the other a regular session, both of which fell short of public expectation, and failed absolutely to produce the healing results solemnly assured the country's basic industry, agriculture. Ratification of the London naval treaty by the Senate in extra session was unrelated to the campaign promises made to the American farmer.

"The administration is now gloomily girding for the Fall Congressional elections with 3,000,000 men out of employment, many factories shut down and embargoes threatened against our foreign trade, as its distinct achievements, so far as its party-controlled Congressional sessions are concerned.

"Because of the established inability of the administration to solve the great economic problem which it has had sixteen months to work on, agriculturists are broke, the Federal Farm Board is on a strike against the law under which it was organized, and none of the blessings, economically speaking, that the administration was to bring forward to industry and agriculture has materialized.

"So completely has the administration failed to catch and to hold the attention of the American public that more space is given in metropolitan Republican newspapers to the efforts of the administration to get rid of the leader of the Republican National Committee, Mr. C. H. Huston, than to any other activity, pastor present, of this party régime.

"One thing is obvious. If the President shall attempt to redeem his administration, the appointments to the Tariff Commission must be made at once, and the commission must be composed of men whose ability and fairness will make its appeal to both parties. Likewise, the President must assume responsibility for the failure to bring relief, and either permit Congress to adopt a plan that farmers have advocated, or himself suggest some new remedy that will commend itself to the friends of agriculture.

"The President said when he was a candidate for the office that the condition of agriculture was a problem first to be solved. It was then the outstanding problem and the condition is even worse now than when he gave expression to the promise.

"The expenditure of a vast sum for public improvements, as wise as it may be, is but a temporary relief for unemployment and affords no relief for agriculture. If the administration will alleviate the condition that oppresses both industry and agriculture, then the committees that are so energetically hunting down Soviet gold in America can go home.

"The discontent that exists, and it does exist, sprang from either selfishness or lack of understanding by the present administration and its advisers. To purposely ignore the conditions that are driving farmers from their homes and have driven workingmen from employment is to create a sure source of discontent. The remedy for this condition is at home, not abroad."

GERMANS HALT IN FLIGHT.

Lack of Landing Field in Iceland Makes Them Undecided on Going On KIRKWALL, Orkney Islands, July 29 (AP).—Wolfram Hirth and Oscar Weller, German aviators attempting a flight to the United States, today paused here, undecided as to their next move.

Their plans for the next hop, to Iceland, were halted by information today of unfavorable weather and the lack of a landing field at Reykjavik. Advices by cable from Iceland said Kaldadarnes would be suitable for landing. The airmen could not find that place on available charts.

Because the next hop involves something like eleven hours in the air with a probable two hours' hunt for their landing field, Herr Hirth produced a wallet from his pocket, extracted two photos showing his wife and the airplane, and said significantly: "These are the two most valuable things I have. I cannot risk it."

Announcement was awaited as to whether the flight would be shifted to another course or abandoned.

SCORES HARVEY IDEA FOR SPORTS CENTRE

Benninger Calls It "Pipedream" and Says Borough Needs Other Facilities First.

CITES BATHHOUSE DEMAND

Would Have Riis Park Improved, New Playgrounds Added and Space for Babies.

Park Commissioner Albert C. Benninger of Queens yesterday ridiculed as "a pipe dream" the proposal by Borough President Harvey for the establishment of a Winter playground in that borough similar to those at Lake Placid, Montreal and Quebec. In a survey he made during the last six weeks he had found "a thousand things far more important to the needs of the borough than a Winter sport centre," Mr. Benninger said.

From the United States Army Reserve camp at Plattsburg, where he is serving as a major in the 305th Infantry, Mr. Harvey suggested that an area be set aside in the hilly, woodland park spaces between Flushing and Jamaica for the construction of public ski and toboggan slides, ice-skating rinks and similar sport facilities. The Borough President said he would recommend the Winter playground project to Park Commissioner Benninger and the Board of Estimate on his return to the city.

"The world is full of dreamers who make a lot of silly 'boloney' statements, but they never carry them out," Mr. Benninger declared. "What we need are proposals made not for political effect but for the benefit of the whole community and for the use of all. Queens is sadly in need of real improvements as regards recreational facilities. I believe I speak also for Mayor Walker when I express this idea."

The Park Commissioner asserted that Mr. Harvey's proposed Winter playground "sounds like a luxury to me," and added that one should take into consideration the climate of the place when discussing plans for a Winter sport centre. He would not say whether he believed the proposed project to be feasible nor how he would act on the proposal when it is officially submitted to him by the Borough President.

"We want the essential thing," Mr. Benninger continued. "Take, for instance, Riis Park. Some 6,000 cars go down there on Sunday and yet there is no bathhouse. We need to provide bathing facilities there. There is plenty of time to think of the Winter time. Let's first take the boys off the streets and give them more playgrounds to romp in. The borough also should provide more park space where mothers may wheel their baby carriages. So far as ice-skating is concerned, we are making arrangements to flood the tennis courts in the parks during the cold weather."

Park Commissioner Benninger described as "wonderful" the park program recommended this week by a special committee appointed by Mayor Walker and headed by Controller Berry, who called for the acquisition of additional park and playground space.

"Such reports," he said, "come only from good Democrats who have the welfare of the people at heart."

Recommendations for the establishment of art and natural history museums and a zoological garden in Queens will be made to Commissioner Benninger and the Board of Estimate in the near future by Borough President Harvey, Acting Borough President John J. Halleran disclosed last night in a radio address over Station WWRL on "Seeing Queens First," under the auspices of the Home Owners' Educational Service.

The suggestions were in line with Mr. Harvey's program to make Queens the "playland" of New York City and establish a Winter sports centre, a natural park preserve, as well as to develop the existing botanical gardens in Forest Park, Commissioner Halleran said. He urged the residents of the borough to recognize the attractions of their home community and visit the parks, historic shrines and other places of interest.

Snellenburg Estate $3,797,000.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, July 29.—The estate of Nathan Snellenburg of the firm of N. Snellenburg & Co., adjudicated today in Orphans Court, showed a balance of $3,772,357 in principal and $25,443 in income for distribution under the merchant's will. Four sons, Joseph N., Abraham, Harry and Stanley Snellenburg, receive in equal shares their father's capital interest in the Snellenburg firm as well as $300,000 each from his share of the firm's surplus.

Seeks Sugar Preference in Canada.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, July 29.—For the purpose of really helping the British West Indies and British Guiana sugar industry, Sir Campbell Stewart, now in Canada, will approach the government there with a suggestion that raw sugar from those places be admitted duty free into Canada.

BANKRUPTS INQUIRY ORDERED BY HOOVER

through bankruptcies, an average of $762,876,688 a year. During that time, he said, the average recovery of creditors on assets of bankrupts amounted to only 8.19 per cent.

The Solicitor General said that many business men refuse to take advantage of the bankruptcy law making creditors custodians of bankrupt businesses because of the legal red tape, with the result that, as disclosed in New York, they fall into the hands of collection agencies and lawyers who specialize in this sort of business.

He described veritable mills which had grown up in New York to handle bankruptcy cases, their spheres of influence and operation growing to such an extent as to handle every phase of the proceedings as well as the physical assets of bankrupts.

The actual country-wide study will be carried on by government agencies. The Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice has a staff versed in handling such matters; so has the Department of Commerce. The inquiry will be started at once, with the view of having recommendations for remedial legislation ready for submission to Congress next Winter.

WIRELESS SERVICE TO CHINA PLANNED

Commerce Department Says Operation of American-Chinese Concern Will Start Soon.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Transoceanic wireless service with China, developed with American aid and under joint ownership of American and Chinese interests, will be opened within a few months, the Department of Commerce has been informed in a report just received from Harold D. Robinson, Assistant Trade Commissioner at Shanghai.

The transmitting station will be at Chengju, about seven miles west of Shanghai. It is expected to start operations in the Fall and will start a direct service between Shanghai-San Francisco, Shanghai-Berlin and Shanghai-Paris.

American cooperation in the project, it was stated, comes as the result of negotiations between American radio engineers and the Chinese Government which began in 1928.

"Radio's entrance into the field of China's international communications," Mr. Robinson said, "has already brought about a reduction in rates. Previous to the inauguration of the radio service, the rate from San Francisco to Shanghai was 88 cents gold per word for ordinary class traffic; the present rate is 75 cents gold. Deferred service is at half the full rate. The radio service introduced the first night letter to China a little over a year ago. It is also responsible for a much lower press rate of 14 cents gold per word."

TWO FLIERS PERISH IN DIVE INTO MARSH

Coast Broker and Companion Trapped in Wisconsin as Plane Burns After Fall.

Special to The New York Times.

MADISON, Wis., July 29.—A new airplane flown by a novice fell 150 feet into a marsh near the Madison airport here today, killing the flier and his companion. Neither of the fliers was injured severely by the crash, but were unable to extricate themselves from their safety belts before the plane caught fire and burned them.

The fliers were Charles E. Anderton Jr., 29 years old, a Los Angeles broker, who was piloting the plane, and George A. Morgan, 22, of St. Paul. They were flying a new Great Lakes Trainer, powered with a Cirrus motor, which they kept at the Curtiss airport in Chicago, where the fliers started on a journey to St. Paul early today.

Anderton recently obtained his private pilot's license, and Morgan was a transport pilot. Anderton is said to be survived by a widow and child who lives in Deauville, France. He was graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1915. Morgan is the son of Mrs. George A. Heinl, wife of a captain in the St. Paul Fire Department.

SHONGOOD IN TEARS, HIS TRIAL HALTED

Former Federal Auctioneer Breaks Down as He Denies Withholding Funds.

INSISTS BOOKS ARE CORRECT

Bills Made Out Higher Only to Aid Bidders in Resales, He Says—Case Continues Today.

Charles Shongood, former United States auctioneer, became so emotionally upset yesterday on the witness stand in his trial on charges of embezzlement and falsification of returns in bankruptcy sales that Federal Judge Patterson asked him to stop in the midst of his testimony and adjourned the trial until today.

The government, represented by Thomas T. Cooke, Assistant United States Attorney, charges that the former auctioneer had failed to report to receivers in bankrupt proceeds of his auction sales. On trial with him are his son, Charles Shongood Jr., and Kathryn McGough, his cashier.

Mr. Cooke earlier in the trial had introduced reports and bills to bidders, which showed, he said, that the bills had been higher than the report of proceeds. Shongood, as well as other witnesses previously questioned, stated that successful bidders had often sold their purchased merchandise to other buyers. He wanted, he said, to keep the good-will of his customers, and frequently at their request bills had been made out to them as a matter of "convenience" at prices paid by other buyers.

"Buyers frequently came to me and asked me to make it appear that they had paid higher prices than they actually bid," Shongood testified.

This, he said, and the fact that he often never saw the bidder until a piece of merchandise had been sold to another buyer, explained the fact that erasures had been made in the sales catalogue.

"But I defy the District Attorney," he asserted, "to say that in the twenty-five years I was auctioneer I ever stuck any man."

The former auctioneer, insisting that the reports submitted to him to receivers represented the exact receipt in each sale reported, began at this point to weep profusely. He became more and more upset, denying under examination of his counsel, Robert P. Levis, that he had asked any one to split $600 three ways, as charged by the government, following the sale of assets of the Guarantee Garment Company in 1928.

Judge Patterson suggested that the court declare a five-minute recess.

"I'm all right," said Shongood.

When court resumed after the recess, Mr. Levis asked for an adjournment and said that his client would be able to resume the stand today.

Questioning the former auctioneer about the government's charge that he had given $600 to be divided among Max Blum, employe of the attorney for Harris Berlack, receiver in the garment company case; Berlack, himself, who testified that $200 had been offered him as a bribe, and Bernard Strauss, son-in-law of the custodian, Mr. Levis asked:

"Was there any conversation to the effect that you would give Blum $600 to be divided up $200 for himself, $200 for Strauss and $200 for Berlack?"

"No, sir, never," Shongood said.

Shongood also denied that he had ever entered into any financial agreement with any custodian or trustee during the time he served as United States auctioneer.

"Let it out now," Mr. Levis said, "if you ever entered into such an agreement."

"I never did," Shongood said.

"Did you ever object to showing the documents and records of your office to members of the United States Attorney's staff or any other authorized agents?"

"No," said Shongood. "Why should I? When the demand came for the catalogues and papers from the United States Attorney's office, I sent them down within fifteen minutes. We hid nothing. I even sent down my private letters and papers which haven't been returned to me."

Henry K. Davis, formerly a buyer at bankruptcy sales and now an investigator for Bradstreet's commercial agency; Saul Stringer, Robert Barron, and Sigmund Baer, all buyers, testified for Shongood as character witnesses. They said they had purchased goods at auctions and at their request bills had been sent to them at prices higher than they had paid to help them in making resales.

POLICE PREVENT GLIDER FLYING FROM BRIDGE

Halt Hodges on Manhattan Span, Warning Him City Permit Must Be Obtained.

The sudden appearance of Sergeant William Bracken and Patrolman Edmund Farnsworth of the Bridge Precinct in Brooklyn yesterday prevented the glider flight of Harry Hodges from the centre of Manhattan Bridge. Warned from headquarters earlier in the day that the flight was scheduled for 3 o'clock in the afternoon, the two policemen kept watch at the Brooklyn side of the bridge for a taxi that turned about to recross after coming from the New York side.

At that time they say the taxicab turn. They followed it to the centre of the bridge in a police car and watched Hodges get out. The cab went on, not being permitted to stop on the bridge. Hodges stood for a moment with what looked like an army cot folded under one arm and another bulky package under the other. At this juncture the police approached.

The policemen questioned Hodges, who signified his intention of setting up the "army cot", which was really a collapsible glider, and of attempting a flight. The other package contained a collapsible boat in case he landed in the water. After some remonstration by the flier the policemen took him and his packages to the station house, where he gave his name as Harry Hodges, 34 years old, of 29 East Forty-ninth Street. Having violated no ordinance of the city, he was released on the promise that he would not again attempt the flight without permission of the municipal authorities.

PUSH SUBWAY LINKS TO AID BROOKLYN

Members of Transit Board to Ask Bids on Church Street Connection on Aug. 22.

B. M. T. CONTRACT LET

Board of Estimate Gets $654,000 on Defaulted 14th St. Job—Awards $2,215,000 for Land.

The Board of Transportation indicated yesterday its intention to operate the city's new subway system, which is scheduled to start running in Manhattan in the Fall of 1931, into Brooklyn as soon as possible thereafter.

The board announced that bids would be received on Aug. 22 for the connection between the Eighth Avenue line in Church Street in downtown Manhatton with the Worth Street route, the first route of the second half of the city's subway building program.

It said that this connection is being expedited so that the work may be completed prior to the beginning of service on the Eighth Avenue line. This initial operation is from 207th Street in Washington Heights to Fulton and Church Streets. The main line will continue from there to Brooklyn when the under-river tunnels have been completed.

The connection at Worth Street, however, extending eastward under Chatham Square, East Broadway, Grand Street and the East River to Williamsburg, would afford another entrance into Brooklyn within a year or so after the main line of the new subway system is in operation under the river.

The Brooklyn continuation of the Worth Street line is along South Fourth Street, Stuyvesant Avenue, Utica Avenue to Sheepshead Bay, with a branch at Myrtle Avenue and Stuyvesant Avenue continuing out Myrtle Avenue, and Central Avenue, eventually to the Rockaways. These routes have not yet been approved formally by the Board of Estimate.

The Board also announced yesterday that on Aug. 22 bids would be received for station finish work on the Eighth Avenue station of the Fourteenth Street-Eastern line of the B. M. T. The contract to finish this line, which is an extension from Sixth to Eighth Avenue, was awarded yesterday by the Board of Estimate to the Del Balso Construction Company, for $654,000. The original contractor defaulted on the job with 89 per cent of the work completed. The Board's action was taken at a special meeting in City Hall.

It also voted to pay $2,215,000 in awards for land taken by the city in condemnation proceedings in connection with the building of the subway along Jay, Smith and Schermerhorn Streets in Brooklyn.

MACDONALD RECITES HIS 'LIES' ON MOONEY

Blames Prosecutor as He Gives His Fifth Version to the California Supreme Court.

WEEPS AS OATH IS CITED

Justices Personally Examine Baltimore Waiter as He Assures Them He Now Tells the Truth.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 29 (AP).—John MacDonald, 58-year-old Baltimore waiter, told the California Supreme Court today he lied in 1916 when he testified that Thomas Mooney and Warren K. Billings were to blame for the bomb explosion which killed ten and wounded forty participants in a Preparedness Day parade here.

MacDonald was brought from Baltimore by persons interested in freeing Mooney and Billings, serving life terms in San Quentin and Folsom prisons for the bombing. Billings had previously been convicted of a felony.

Under California law, a person twice convicted cannot petition the Governor for a pardon without a recommendation from the State Supreme Court. Such a recommendation was recently denied to Billings. As a result Governor C. C. Young announced he would pardon neither Billings nor Mooney, saying evidence before the court and before the advisory pardon board indicated both were guilty.

Then came MacDonald. Bent and gray, and walking with a cane, the little waiter whose testimony played such an important part in the trials came out of the past "to ease his conscience" and sat before a tribunal unprecedented in California. Never before had the State Supreme Court sat unofficially to hear evidence in a felony case.

Witness Surrounded by Court.

The witness sat surrounded by the justices and lawyers, the latter representing Mooney and Billings as well as himself. Among them was Frank P. Walsh, eminent Eastern criminal lawyer, who had fought for Mooney's freedom continually since his conviction.

Chief Justice William H. Waste presided at the hearing, which was held off bench. Justice John W. Prestor opened the questioning. After the justices finished, lawyers were permitted to ask questions. Both Mooney and Billings had asked to be present, but their attendance was not held necessary.

MacDonald looked at the judges and lawyers and at forty newspaper men and several police officers and admitted he had lied four times. This was when Justice Preston of the court asked him if he hadn't told five different stories at five different times about the case. MacDonald answered that he had.

"How is the court to know which one to believe?" Justice Preston asked.

"Only by your own judgment," replied MacDonald.

The witness recently made an affidavit in which he said he was "prompted" by authorities here to identify Mooney and Billings as the men who placed the bomb at Market and Steuart Streets in July, 1916.

Fickert Hears Witness's Story.

Using this affidavit as the basis of questioning, the court asked the witness if he gave false testimony at the time of the bombing. He said he did and he was "induced" to do so by Mr. Fickert, now one of the lawyers attending the hearing.

"A whole pack of lies was packed into my head," the witness said, referring to his "inducement" by Mr. Fickert. Both Fickert and Captain Charles Goff of the Police Department, then a sergeant in charge of the investigation, have denied that they prompted MacDonald. They said he appeared voluntarily and identified Mooney and Billings.

At the justice's request MacDonald described what he saw at Steuart and Market Streets on the fateful day.

The aged waiter, flanked by his and the prisoners' lawyers, opened his testimony by saying he was now in a frame of mind to tell the truth. He admitted that he had been drinking considerably a year or two before the bombing.

Turning to what happened on the day of the parade, the witness told of leaving his room, having lunch on Third Street and strolling down to Market and Steuart Streets, where he paused to watch the parade, which was just starting.

Describes Fatal Suitcase.

"I saw a man set down a suitcase near the wall," he said. "It was a dirty brown. Then the man went down the street and met another man at a saloon door. He looked at his watch three or four times.

"This man was short—about five feet five or six inches, and weighed about 125 or 130 pounds."

"When did you start packing those lies into your head?" Justice Preston asked.

"I did not pack them in. Mr. Fickert did," the witness replied.

MacDonald said he first saw Mr. Fickert two or three days after the bombing. He did not think he had given to any one in the meantime a description of the man who had carried the suitcase or the man the latter met at the corner saloon.

Justice Preston closely examined the witness regarding the hour he went to Market Street on the day of the bombing. The witness admitted he had lied in one of the trials about the time, and finally that he no longer was certain what was true and what false in the details.

"However, I am telling the truth now," he said.

Heard the Explosion.

Speaking of the explosion, the witness said he heard the blast but thought it was a signal for the start of the parade. He first heard of the disaster from the keeper of a restaurant where he had stopped for a glass of buttermilk, according to his story.

Walter Johnson, the proprietor, advised him to see the police when he told him of seeing the man with the suitcase.

"I told him I did not want to get mixed up in it," said MacDonald.

The questioning then disclosed that a policeman also advised MacDonald to tell his story, with the result that on the second day after the bombing the witness went to the Hall of Justice.

MacDonald said his first contact with Mooney and Billings was two or three days later. Captain Goff, he said, brought him a book containing pictures of Billings and Mooney.

"Goff told me these were the men," MacDonald said, "but I told him they didn't look like the men to me."

Mooney's Mother in Court.

Justice Preston attempted to learn when MacDonald had changed his mind and decided to identify Mooney and Billings as the men he had seen carrying the suitcase. The witness said he talked with Mr. Fickert eight or ten times before he went before the grand jury, where he made the positive identification.

"What did you do before the grand jury?" questioned Preston.

"I did what I was told," was the answer.

"You swore as God was your judge that the men you had seen were Mooney and Billings?" asked Preston.

MacDonald's affirmative answer was barely heard.

"And you swore this at the time God was judging you to be a liar?" asked the judge.

The witness wept quietly and did not reply.

The $17,500 reward for the bombers was discussed.

"Fickert told me if I would stand by the identification of Billings and Mooney I would get the biggest slice of the reward," the witness said.

Police documents, lost fourteen year ago, came to light today during the State Supreme Court examination of MacDonald. They were the report MacDonald made to police two days after the bombing, and the original police report on the subject.

Defense attorneys immediately pointed out that descriptions, given in the reports of the two men who, MacDonald said, were implicated in placing the bomb-laden suitcase varied from the measurements of Mooney and Billings.

The documents were unexpectedly introduced. They had never before appeared in any phase of the case.

Solution of Mysterious Fires in New Jersey Seen—$100,000 Damage in South River.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTH RIVER, N. J., July 29.—With the finding of the body of Peter Barone, 35 years old, of this borough, in the débris following an explosion at Linden Avenue and Jeffrey Street early today, the police and county detectives believed they were near a solution of many mysterious fires in this vicinity during recent years. Barone's body was found under a collapsed chimney of the home of Lika Wladyka.

Wladyka, who was reported to have been standing in the street with his wife and four children at the time of the explosion, was questioned by the police and detectives from the office of the County Prosecutor.

After being questioned for nearly eight hours Wladyka finally confessed, according to the police, that he and Barone had arranged to blow up the house and collect $16,000 insurance on it. The police say he told them that Barone suggested blowing it up and demanded $200 as his share in the work.

Recorder John Van Norden of South River held Wladyka without bail for the action of the grand jury. He was locked up in the Middlesex County jail.

The police said that a year ago Barone's home at 114 Prospect Street burned in a blaze of mysterious origin, and insurance companies refused payment of the insurance.

The Wladyka home, a two-story frame building with a one-story embroidery store in the rear, caught fire following the explosion and was reduced to a pile of charred ruins. Two local fire companies fought the blaze for three hours.

The side of a house next door at 18 Jeffrey Street, owned by Mrs. Anna Wesoke, was torn out, and Mrs. Wesoke was cut by falling plaster as she ran from her second-story room.

The windows and store front of the combination house and embroidery shop of William Wladyka, and of the combination grocery store and two-family house of Peter Zadorsky, on opposite corners, were broken. Windows also were smashed in the embroidery shop of Adam Shack and in the Russian Greek Orthodox Catholic Church on Whitehead Street, 300 feet away. The total damage was placed at $100,000.

The finding of a face of a clock with the hands stopped at 2:30 at first led to the belief that a time bomb had caused the explosion. Later, however, the police advanced the opinion that the basement of the house had been sprayed with gasoline, that a large can filled with the gasoline had been placed in the centre of the floor, and that a stream of gasoline leading to the can had been ignited. This, they said, caused the explosion, and the gasoline-soaked house fired rapidly.

OLD YALE BOOKS MOVED.

Volumes Donated by Library Founders Are Put in New Building.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 29 (AP).—An account of a ceremony which was made a matter of historical record both in pictures and word is in a special edition of The Yale Alumni Weekly, issued today. It was the moving of the founders' books from the old Yale Library to the new Sterling Library.

The founders' books, so called, are the first books given to the library by the ministers who sat around the Rev. Samuel Russell's house in Branford in 1701. These books, tradition says, were placed on the rector's table, each donor saying: "I give these books for the founding of a college in this colony."

Of the original forty seventeen have survived the years and usage.

LIFER TRAPPED IN CORRIDOR

Wall-Tower Spotlight Reveals Attempt at Dawn—Leader Escaped in Connecticut.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., July 29.—Frank Land, 36 years old, of Passaic County, is in the hospital with a fractured leg and Benjamin Nerenberg, 23, of Essex, a lifer, is in solitary confinement as a result of a daring attempt to escape from the New Jersey State prison here shortly before dawn today.

Land, serving ten years for assault and attempted robbery, had made his way to the roof of No. 6 Wing after tearing out plumbing in his cell, thus making a small opening for him to crawl into a utility corridor. While on the roof he was seen in the glare of a spotlight operated from a wall tower. J. B. Sheridan and Walter C. Diehl, the guards who were in the tower, spotted him at the same moment and Diehl fired two shots at the convict. In his hurry to retrace his way to his cell, Land fell thirty feet and broke a leg.

Nerenberg also had torn out the plumbing in his cell and was in the utility corridor when he heard the shots. In crawling back to his cell he was considerably cut and bruised.

Land, who is known also as John J. Hyland and Richard H. Nelson, was received here from Passaic County Sept. 28, 1928. After breaking plumbing which gave him access to the utility corridor, he climbed up to the ventilators, filed the bars from the top of the cage with a small saw, crawled through and made his way over the roof.

Land broke out of the Wethersfield (Conn.) State prison Sept. 3, 1925. A detainer from that institution is lodged against him pending completion of his term here. He also was implicated in a delivery in the Passaic County jail. His first attempt to escape from the Trenton institution occurred on Feb. 11, 1929, when he attempted to climb over the wall of the small exercise yard. Guards prevented him. In November, 1929, he tried to break out by using the same procedure he employed this morning. He gained access to the utility corridor, where he was found with a folding ladder under his arm. He had constructed the ladder in his cell.

The utility corridor is a small alleyway between the prison cells and the wall of the wing. It is used for the plumbing and other equipment.

"I did not pack them in. Mr. Fickert did," the witness replied.

MacDonald said he first saw Mr. Fickert two or three days after the bombing. He did not think he had given to any one in the meantime a description of the man who had carried the suitcase or the man the latter met at the corner saloon.

Justice Preston closely examined the witness regarding the hour he went to Market Street on the day of the bombing. The witness admitted he had lied in one of the trials about the time, and finally that he no longer was certain what was true and what false in the details.

"However, I am telling the truth now," he said.

Heard the Explosion.

Speaking of the explosion, the witness said he heard the blast but thought it was a signal for the start of the parade. He first heard of the disaster from the keeper of a restaurant where he had stopped for a glass of buttermilk, according to his story.

Walter Johnson, the proprietor, advised him to see the police when he told him of seeing the man with the suitcase.

"I told him I did not want to get mixed up in it," said MacDonald.

The questioning then disclosed that a policeman also advised MacDonald to tell his story, with the result that on the second day after the bombing the witness went to the Hall of Justice.

MacDonald said his first contact with Mooney and Billings was two or three days later. Captain Goff, he said, brought him a book containing pictures of Billings and Mooney.

"Goff told me these were the men," MacDonald said, "but I told him they didn't look like the men to me."

Mooney's Mother in Court.

Justice Preston attempted to learn when MacDonald had changed his mind and decided to identify Mooney and Billings as the men he had seen carrying the suitcase. The witness said he talked with Mr. Fickert eight or ten times before he went before the grand jury, where he made the positive identification.

"What did you do before the grand jury?" questioned Preston.

"I did what I was told," was the answer.

"You swore as God was your judge that the men you had seen were Mooney and Billings?" asked Preston.

MacDonald's affirmative answer was barely heard.

"And you swore this at the time God was judging you to be a liar?" asked the judge.

The witness wept quietly and did not reply.

The $17,500 reward for the bombers was discussed.

"Fickert told me if I would stand by the identification of Billings and Mooney I would get the biggest slice of the reward," the witness said.

Police documents, lost fourteen year ago, came to light today during the State Supreme Court examination of MacDonald. They were the report MacDonald made to police two days after the bombing, and the original police report on the subject.

Defense attorneys immediately pointed out that descriptions, given in the reports of the two men who, MacDonald said, were implicated in placing the bomb-laden suitcase varied from the measurements of Mooney and Billings.

The documents were unexpectedly introduced. They had never before appeared in any phase of the case.

Solution of Mysterious Fires in New Jersey Seen—$100,000 Damage in South River.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTH RIVER, N. J., July 29.—With the finding of the body of Peter Barone, 35 years old, of this borough, in the débris following an explosion at Linden Avenue and Jeffrey Street early today, the police and county detectives believed they were near a solution of many mysterious fires in this vicinity during recent years. Barone's body was found under a collapsed chimney of the home of Lika Wladyka.

Wladyka, who was reported to have been standing in the street with his wife and four children at the time of the explosion, was questioned by the police and detectives from the office of the County Prosecutor.

After being questioned for nearly eight hours Wladyka finally confessed, according to the police, that he and Barone had arranged to blow up the house and collect $16,000 insurance on it. The police say he told them that Barone suggested blowing it up and demanded $200 as his share in the work.

Recorder John Van Norden of South River held Wladyka without bail for the action of the grand jury. He was locked up in the Middlesex County jail.

The police said that a year ago Barone's home at 114 Prospect Street burned in a blaze of mysterious origin, and insurance companies refused payment of the insurance.

The Wladyka home, a two-story frame building with a one-story embroidery store in the rear, caught fire following the explosion and was reduced to a pile of charred ruins. Two local fire companies fought the blaze for three hours.

The side of a house next door at 18 Jeffrey Street, owned by Mrs. Anna Wesoke, was torn out, and Mrs. Wesoke was cut by falling plaster as she ran from her second-story room.

The windows and store front of the combination house and embroidery shop of William Wladyka, and of the combination grocery store and two-family house of Peter Zadorsky, on opposite corners, were broken. Windows also were smashed in the embroidery shop of Adam Shack and in the Russian Greek Orthodox Catholic Church on Whitehead Street, 300 feet away. The total damage was placed at $100,000.

The finding of a face of a clock with the hands stopped at 2:30 at first led to the belief that a time bomb had caused the explosion. Later, however, the police advanced the opinion that the basement of the house had been sprayed with gasoline, that a large can filled with the gasoline had been placed in the centre of the floor, and that a stream of gasoline leading to the can had been ignited. This, they said, caused the explosion, and the gasoline-soaked house fired rapidly.

OLD YALE BOOKS MOVED.

Volumes Donated by Library Founders Are Put in New Building.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 29 (AP).—An account of a ceremony which was made a matter of historical record both in pictures and word is in a special edition of The Yale Alumni Weekly, issued today. It was the moving of the founders' books from the old Yale Library to the new Sterling Library.

The founders' books, so called, are the first books given to the library by the ministers who sat around the Rev. Samuel Russell's house in Branford in 1701. These books, tradition says, were placed on the rector's table, each donor saying: "I give these books for the founding of a college in this colony."

Of the original forty seventeen have survived the years and usage.

Wall-Tower Spotlight Reveals Attempt at Dawn—Leader Escaped in Connecticut.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., July 29.—Frank Land, 36 years old, of Passaic County, is in the hospital with a fractured leg and Benjamin Nerenberg, 23, of Essex, a lifer, is in solitary confinement as a result of a daring attempt to escape from the New Jersey State prison here shortly before dawn today.

Land, serving ten years for assault and attempted robbery, had made his way to the roof of No. 6 Wing after tearing out plumbing in his cell, thus making a small opening for him to crawl into a utility corridor. While on the roof he was seen in the glare of a spotlight operated from a wall tower. J. B. Sheridan and Walter C. Diehl, the guards who were in the tower, spotted him at the same moment and Diehl fired two shots at the convict. In his hurry to retrace his way to his cell, Land fell thirty feet and broke a leg.

Nerenberg also had torn out the plumbing in his cell and was in the utility corridor when he heard the shots. In crawling back to his cell he was considerably cut and bruised.

Land, who is known also as John J. Hyland and Richard H. Nelson, was received here from Passaic County Sept. 28, 1928. After breaking plumbing which gave him access to the utility corridor, he climbed up to the ventilators, filed the bars from the top of the cage with a small saw, crawled through and made his way over the roof.

Land broke out of the Wethersfield (Conn.) State prison Sept. 3, 1925. A detainer from that institution is lodged against him pending completion of his term here. He also was implicated in a delivery in the Passaic County jail. His first attempt to escape from the Trenton institution occurred on Feb. 11, 1929, when he attempted to climb over the wall of the small exercise yard. Guards prevented him. In November, 1929, he tried to break out by using the same procedure he employed this morning. He gained access to the utility corridor, where he was found with a folding ladder under his arm. He had constructed the ladder in his cell.

The utility corridor is a small alleyway between the prison cells and the wall of the wing. It is used for the plumbing and other equipment.

During the run of the play, from Wednesday to Saturday inclusive, a series of costume and scenic designs by Frank Poole Bevans will be shown at Memorial Hall. GOT QUAKE NEWS AT SEA.

Vulcania's Passengers Joined in Special Mass for Victims.

The Cosulich liner Vulcania arrived from Trieste and Mediterranean ports yesterday with 1,155 passengers, many of whom hurried from the ship to get in touch with relatives in the area of the Italian earthquake of last week. Officers of the ship told of receiving the first word of the earthquake, and said they had called all the passengers together on the afternoon of the quake and announced the news to them. Captain Antonio Hreglich and the chaplain of the ship, the Rev. Luigi Ridolfi, read the message, and later the passengers and officers sent condolences by radio to Premier Mussolini and members of the Royal family.

On July 24, the day after the disaster, all entertainments and public activities of the Vulcania were suspended, and a special mass was held on Sunday.

On the ship was Christus Nickolacacos, manager of the Marathon Bus Company of South Amboy, N. J., who returned from a trip made to Patras to marry a Greek girl. Mr. Nickolacacos said that he had decided to marry several months ago and had got in touch with his friend, Peter Pappathanow, concessionaire of the Central Park Lake boats and stands. His friend told him of a niece, Vascilliti Pappathanow, in Greece, and they sent for a picture of her. Nickolacacos then went to Patras and married the girl. She accompanied him on the Vulcania.

Also on board was Amedeo Obici, president of the Planter's Peanut Company of Suffolk, Va., returning from a pleasure trip.

REPORT BRAZIL CENSORSHIP

Liberal Papers Accuse Government of Suppressing News.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SAO PAULO, July 29.—The assassination of Joao Pessoa, President of the State of Parahyba and leader of the Liberal party, has caused great excitement throughout the country, affording Liberal newspapers an opportunity of casting bitter recriminations at the government. This afternoon the Liberal newspapers here carried headlines that all press dispatches from the south of Brazil, which is the centre of the Liberal party, especially political news dispatches, are now subject to the strictest Federal censorship, while another article asserts that the Rio de Janeiro government has formally closed radio stations operated by a locally owned company called the Radio Cruzeiro.

These reports are not confirmed officially, but many here feel that if the government took such steps it was for the common good, to prevent the broadcasting of distorted and alarming stories which might result in disorders.

The Opportunity Shop Seeks Aid in Tuberculosis Relief Work.

The managers of the shop who are sponsoring the Summer appeal are Mrs. Charles King Morrison, Mrs. Kenneth P. Budd, Miss Ruth V. Twombly and Mrs. Harry N. Hempstead; also members of the executive committee, Mrs. Cornelius N. Bliss and Mrs. James A. Burden.

YALE ASKS ZONING CHANGE.

University Seeks Four Exemptions for New Buildings.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 29.—Yale University officials requested four exemptions from the city zoning laws today, including allowing the proposed Payne Whitney Gymnasium a larger portion of the building lot than permitted by the laws; the erection of a tower on the dormitories between 310 and 338 York Street, which exceeds the 70-foot present restriction, a change in the law governing side yards in the case of the new Divinity School buildings and the erection of towers 188 and 97 feet high for the new Graduate School.

Last week the university requested permission to erect a tower 187 feet high for the new gymnasium. No objection has been advanced to granting any of the proposed exceptions to the zoning code.

MOFFETT URGES BUILDING UP NAVY

He Advocates $990,000,000 Outlay in 6 Years to Fill Treaty Quota as Good 'Investment.'

PEACE INSURANCE, HE SAYS

Admiral Dedicates New Airport at Bay City, Mich., to Aviator Killed in War.

Special to The New York Times.

BAY CITY, Mich., July 29.—Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, discussing the London naval treaty in a dedicatory address at the new airport here tonight, declared for building the navy up to the treaty at an expenditure of nearly $1,000,000,000 as the best possible "investment" for the nation.

"The cost of building to the London treaty navy has been estimated by the General Board to be $990,000,000, to be expended over a period of six years," he said, "while the expenditure by the Veterans' Bureau for veterans of the last war is more than $500,000,000 annually.

"I know of no better investment for the United States—the expenditure of $990,000,000 for building to the treaty navy. By doing so we will maintain our self respect and prestige as a nation, our force for peace, be able to prevent another war, the cost of which will be billions instead of millions.

"Let us build a navy to to prevent war and insure peace, so that never against will Gold Star mothers have to go to France or elsewhere. Had we had a navy commensurate with our population and resources as a nation in 1914 there would have been no war. The United States would have been considered instead of being ignored—with an adequate navy, the navy we should have had, we could have demanded peace.

"We have the population and resources to build the treaty navy and it is unthinkable that America will be content to remain in a position of inferiority."

Admiral Moffett, dealing with terms of the treaty with regard to the plan for 10,000-ton combination ships designed to carry up to twenty-four airplanes and yet serve as a cruiser in the battle line, said:

"It is most important that no nation violate the spirit of the treaty by turning a cruiser into an aircraft carrier, so that cruisers must be essentially and primarily cruisers and not aircraft carriers.

"I believe that the fitting of landing decks greatly increases the value of 6-inch gun cruisers, especially for commerce protection.

"It can readily be seen that a 6-inch gun cruiser with aircraft having a range of 200 miles would make an ideal vessel for the protection of commerce, certainly it is at least equal to the 8-inch gun cruiser without landing decks and aircraft."

Rigid airships will be used for scouting rather than for combat, the admiral predicted.

The new airport was dedicated to the memory of James Clements, the first Michigan aviator killed in the World War.

RELIEVES JEWISH VOTERS.

Maryland Legislature Ends Registration Conflict With Holidays.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 29.—In a one-hour special session the Maryland Legislature, called by Governor Ritchie for the purpose, enacted a change in the registration law today to prevent a conflict with the Hebrew Autumnal holidays, which would, it is said, have disfranchised some 20,000 Jewish voters.

Speeding the passage of the act by a suspension of the rules, the two houses changed the registration dates, fixed several years ago, to Sept. 16 and 17 and Oct. 9 and 16.

The Legislature passed an emergency appropriation act to pay the expenses of today's special session, which it is estimated cost the State $8,000.

Leaders of both political parties expressed gratification at the large attendance of members of both houses, some of whom came great distances. Only two members of the House and one Senator were absent.

SAILORS FEED TIRED PIGEON.

Homing Bird Visits Destroyer in Bay and Leaves After Rest.

An exhausted homing pigeon landed on the deck of the United States destroyer Dickenson late Monday in Buzzards Bay, dined on crumbs supplied by the crew, rested during the night, and took off at 11:40 o'clock yesterday morning for parts unknown, according to a radio message to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

The bird had a metal plate on its leg with the registry number reading either A1223IF23 or A12231F23. The tag was old and the characters somewhat indistinct. Harry Shields, secretary of the United Homing Pigeon Concourse, said that a tag with such a number had not been issued by any homing pigeon association here, but that it might have been issued by the International Federation of American Homing Pigeon Fanciers, with headquarters in Baltimore.

The figures "23," he said, indicated that the bird had been registered in 1923.

LYNCH PUSHES APPEAL FROM COURT ORDER

Richmond Borough President Denies Rendt Tenure Will Not Be Opposed Further.

Borough President John A. Lynch of Richmond, who is contesting the Democratic leadership of Staten Island with Public Works Commissioner David S. Rendt, announced last night that he was appealing from the Supreme Court order restraining him from acting as county chairman.

Earlier in the day Alfred V. Norton, counsel for Mr. Rendt, had asserted that the Lynch appeal had been withdrawn and that Mr. Rendt's tenure would not be opposed further in court. Followers of Mr. Lynch attributed this statement to a mix-up over another court order.

The order from which Mr. Lynch is appealing was handed down by Supreme Court Justice Humphrey who ruled that the Richmond Democratic County Committee meeting which had chosen Mr. Lynch as chairman and deposed Mr. Rendt was not legal. Mr. Rendt's followers remained away from that meeting, basing their absence on that contention.

Mr. Lynch said last night that he would "rest his case" with the Appellate Division and that argument on the appeal would be heard on Sept. 29. Until then, it was said, Mr. Lynch, while deprived of the chairmanship, would attempt to hold sway over the party by ignoring Mr. Rendt completely in dispensing patronage.

The order which brought about the misinterpretation was signed on Monday by Supreme Court Justice Lazansky in Brooklyn and directed Mr. Rendt to show cause why he should not be restrained from serving as chairman at a meeting that night for the regular "primary call." The order was not signed until after the meeting had begun and the process server arrived on Staten Island too late. As a result he did not serve the order, but turned it over to Mr. Lynch.

The supporters of Mr. Rendt gained the impression from the failure to serve this order that the other action had been withdrawn also, but Mr. Lynch insisted last night that he was pressing for the appeal and that the date for argument had been set.

SCHOOL PLANS UP TODAY.

Board Will Meet to Discuss Provisions of 1931 Budget.

The Board of Education will hold an executive conference today to decide questions of policy preparatory to the adoption of the 1931 budget. It is expected that there will be another conference later before the commissioners are scheduled to approve the budgetary estimate at the board meeting on Wednesday.

The problem of providing for special instruction for retarded pupils is one of the subjects scheduled for discussion by the conferees. The board members will have before them a report on retardation made by a committee appointed by Superintendent O'Shea last year. A decision as to the recommendations to be accepted and the financial outlays involved will have to be made before the budget can be brought up for confirmation.

The board also will take up the tentative proposal advanced recently by George J. Ryan, its president, for the establishment of clinics for dealing with cases of backward and maladjusted children.

President Ryan is expected to receive within a few days the superintendent's report on the teachers' pension campaign controversy. An effort will be made to prevent similar differences within the school system in the future, it was said.

FACES WAGE LAW CHARGE.

Contractor Accused of Paying $7 While Union Scale Is $14.

Max Levine of 2,218 Manning Street, the Bronx, a general contractor doing work for the city on school buildings, was accused yesterday at a hearing before Deputy Controller Frank J. Prial of violating the State labor law by paying $7 a day for work on which the union rate is $14 a day. The workmen in the case are Abraham Halperin and Max Landkorn, painters.

The complaint was made by the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America, while the work for which the alleged inadequate wages were paid was on Public School 11, 169th Street and Ogden Avenue, the Bronx.

After hearing the testimony of Halperin and Landkorn, and of Harry Perlmutter, another painter, that they received pay at the rate of $7 a day for work on which the union wage was $14 a day, Mr. Prial adjourned the hearing until Aug. 7, instructing Levine to produce at that time his papers and vouchers in connection with the work in question. The Deputy Controller also directed that Joseph Zeresky, a man to whom Levine sublet work on the school, be present at the same time with similar records.

BASEBALL WRIT DENIED.

Court Refuses to Act on Suit to Bar Admission Fee in South Orange.

Pending final hearing on an action by William Torrey Baird of South Orange, N. J., to prevent the village of South Orange, the Board of Recreation Commissioners and the South Orange Baseball Club from using Cameron Field, South Orange, for baseball games with an admission fee, Vice Chancellor Alonzo Church in Newark yesterday declined to issue a temporary restraint against such use of field.

The suit was brought by Mr. Baird as an individual and as trustee in dissolution of the Meadow Land Society, which in 1924 deeded thirty-seven acres, including Cameron Field, to the village. He contended that charging admission to the baseball games violated the terms of the deed.

EDISON GREETS BOYS GATHERED FOR TEST

NEUROLOGIST PRAISES THEM

Calls Candidates "Far Above Average" After Psychological Ordeal—Welcome on Radio Today.

From a Staff Correspondent of The New York Times.

EAST ORANGE, N. J., July 29.—Forty-nine high school graduates, representing each of the forty-eight States and the District of Columbia, assembled here today for the second annual contest conducted by Thomas A. Edison to select the "brightest" boy in America.

The winner is to be rewarded with the Thomas A. Edison Scholarship, which will provide a technical college education. The boys, each of whom had won his right to come to the Edison plant and compete in the final examinations Thursday by winning over all other contestants in his home State, arrived in force this afternoon at the Hotel Suburban, where they are staying as Mr. Edison's guests.

Hardly had they got settled than they found themselves undergoing the first stage of the testing of their abilities—a psychological test conducted by Dr. Hubert S. Howe, associate in neurology at Columbia University. That ended, they settled themselves to the program of enjoyment devised by Mr. Edison's associates to surround the serious grind of the examination.

Greeted by Host at Dinner.

All the boys were guests of Mr. Edison at a dinner at the hotel tonight and had their first opportunity to meet their benefactor. Mr. Edison came late, accompanied by Mrs. Edison. He made no formal address, reserving his welcome for tomorrow, when he will receive the candidates at his laboratories at West Orange at 9:30 A. M. It had been expected that Mr. Edison would submit to a questionnaire compiled by the candidates tonight, but it was a hot night and Mr. Edison was tired, so it was omitted.

Besides Mr. Edison there was another distinguished figure at tonight's dinner, Wilber B. Huston of Seattle, winner of last year's contest and now a student at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Mr. Huston also is here as guest of Mr. Edison and will remain throughout the contest.

He intimated this afternoon that he would get a copy of this year's questions and try his hand at answering them, but said he would keep the result a secret for himself alone. Mr. Huston was the object of emulative attention on the part of this year's candidates, but he refrained from offering any advice.

The psychological test was administered to the boys one by one in private at the hotel. The purpose of the scholarship contest, in the words of Mr. Edison, is "to stimulate the interest of the youth of America in mentel development, with particular emphasis on scientific matters; and more generally in the high ideals that make for the finest type of American manhood."

Questions Stress "Horse Sense."

In accordance with this, the psychological examination was designed to bring out the character as well as the general mental ability of the contestants. In the course of it Dr. Howe paused long enough to express an enthusiastic opinion of this year's candidates.

"They are extremely bright boys," he said, "and it is a pleasure to see them and see how excellently they show up. They are far above the average in intelligence."

Dr. Howe would not make public his questions until after the last of the forty-nine boys had been examined, but it was learned that the test had stressed "horse sense," the power of acute and accurate observation, and the social and ethical sense of the candidates. The questions included one devised to discover whether they had native inventive genius. Information as to the breadth and nature of the boys' interests was sought by questions as to what they read.

It was not a stock intelligence test, it was learned, but was drawn up especially by Dr. Howe. It will count for 15 per cent in the total standing of each candidate. Dr. Howe said the results of the psychological test last year had been in striking harmony with the standings made by the candidates in the written examination. Wilbert Huston, winner of last year's contest, stood second in the psychological test.

The boys as they arrived seemed to be very serious about the ordeal they are to face Thursday, but they appeared also to be thoroughly poised and not worrying unduly. They chatted among themselves with evident enjoyment, but were quiet, well-mannered and neatly dressed. The average age was 16 and the majority came from modest homes. Most of them said their ambitions were in a formative stage.

Come from Varied Backgrounds.

Warren R. Wheeler of Albion, N. Y., is New York's representative. His father died when he was an infant and he worked much of his way through high school. He is tall and strong, though slender, and has worked on farms every Summer until recently, when he obtained a clerical job in a factory. Meanwhile he has studied radio and has hopes of helping its development.

Then there is Joseph Kingsbury of Salt Lake City, Utah. He comes of distinguished stock. His father was a geologist and his grandfather was president of the University of Utah. He worked his way through high school carrying a paper route and working as a checker for the local traction company. His mother is a teacher of music and his sister is a student at the University of Utah.

It was a Bishop's son who won last year's contest and ministers' sons have several representatives this year, among them Stanford Neal, whose father is Church of Christ pastor at Winchester, Ky. The list includes farmers' sons from North Dakota, South Carolina and Iowa and carpenters' sons from Maine and Tennessee. Even the army and navy are represented, the army by Robert P. Howell Jr. of Delaware, whose father is a Colonel, and the navy by Frederick C. Roop of the District of Columbia, whose father is a naval Lieutenant.

At the close of the dinner tonight the boys retired promptly, in preparation for the strenuous program awaiting them. Tomorrow's welcoming exercises at the Edison Laboratories in West Orange will be broadcast over the National Broadcasting Company's network. The boys will listen to the welcoming address of Mr. Edison and meet the distinguished members of the advisory board on the contest. Then the candidates will make a tour of inspection of the laboratories. A buffet luncheon on the lawn at Glenmont, the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Edison at Llwellyn Park, will follow. Tomorrow night the young men will attend a dinner and dance at the Rock Spring Country Club.

Hearing on Red Paper Delayed.

Because United States Attorney Tuttle seeks to oppose personally argument for an injunction restraining the Postoffice from barring Revolutionary Age, a Communist fortnightly, from the mails, hearing on the motion scheduled before Federal Judge Woolsey yesterday was adjourned until 9:45 A. M. today. Arthur Garfield Hayes, counsel for the publication, was ready to go on yesterday, but Mr. Tuttle was engaged in another case.

Bigger, Faster, Sturdier
and more economical

In size, speed and durability, the Chevrolet Six-Cylinder Truck is superior to any haulage unit ever built by Chevrolet. Yet, for all these decided advantages, it shows (according to many prominent fleet users) a lower maintenance cost than any other low-priced truck of similar capacity!

These basic facts should be borne in mind by everyone considering the purchase of an inexpensive haulage unit—because capacity, speed, ruggedness and operating economy are the big points to consider in these days when business men are watching transportation costs.

Many important features of the Chevrolet Six-Cylinder Truck are given below. Study them carefully. Then use them as a basis of comparison—to prove quality—to prove modern design—to prove OUTSTANDING VALUE!

VINES AGAIN BEATS SHIELDS AT TENNIS

MISS HILLEARY TRIUMPHS

Upsets Miss Gladmon, Only Seeded Player to Lose in Women's Division—Hunter Triumphs.

By ALLISON DANZIG.

Special to The New York Times.

SEABRIGHT, N. J., July 29.—Reprieved by a net-cord shot at match point, Frank Shields of New York fought his way to within two strokes of victory over Ellsworth Vines today, only to succumb finally before the classical drives of the brilliant young California stylist for the second time in the space of a week.

In a match filled with spectacular shot-making, featured by the adroit volleying of Shields and the stunning driving from both wings of Vines, the Pasadena youth came from behind after losing the first set to repeat his triumph in the metropolitan championship. The score was 6—8, 6—4, 8—6.

The meeting between the two towering young players was easily the outstanding event of the second day of play in the invitation tournament of the Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club, a day that saw Frank Hunter and all the other favorites with the exception of Donald Strachan came through in the men's singles and that was marked by the victory of Miss Virginia Hilleary of Philadelphia over Miss Marjorie Gladman of California in the women's competition.

The Shields-Vines meeting was a match that was worthy of a final-round setting, and its appeal was made evident in the size of the brilliant gallery that braved the sun and excessive humidity to see the youth who came out of the West unheralded last week to defeat both Shields and Hunter in Brooklyn.

Plays from Back Court.

In the metropolitan championship it was Vines's superb work at close quarters, in conjunction with his express service, that was the major contributing factor to his success. Today, with his service playing just as big a rôle, his volleying and overhead hitting were of secondary consideration. It was from the back court that Vines leveled the defenses of the State champion, chasing him unmercifully across the baseline with his far-flung drives until Shields's long legs were almost buckling beneath him in the final stages.

The New York youth probably never wanted to win a match more than he did this one. From start to finish he drove himself on unsparingly, putting every ounce of energy in his strapping frame behind his drives and service, storming the net and hurling himself across the court to make recoveries that bordered at times on the miraculous.

Shields did not depend entirely upon sheer speed of stroke. Knowing only too well that Vines dotes on pace, he mixed up his game, interspersing floaters with his hard drives and serving a soft ball occasionally in the effort to slow up the unmitigated pace of the Californian's drives and ruin his timing. But Vines was so drastic in dealing with these devices that it was not long until Shields abjured tentative methods and reached the resolution to hit to the hilt.

It was only by an extremely narrow margin that the New Yorker, who was the victim of most of the breaks, failed to win the match and that margin is to be reckoned by the difference in the methods of the two players at the critical junctures. Shields, with the score 6—5 in his favor and 30—15 against Vines, who was serving, in the twelfth game, became cautious and yielded the next three points to the wrathful shot-making of his daring opponent.

Effects the Only Break.

This daring of the Californian under all circumstances, trying or otherwise, was made manifest in the first set when he pulled up from 2—5 to 5-all, and again in the second when he pulled out the ninth game from 15—40, though it was two heart-breaking net cord shots that enabled him to effect this lone break of the set.

When Vines lost the tenth game of the third set after a net cord shot by Shields had scored at match point, and then yielded the eleventh also, it was thought that the former was headed now for defeat. But the Californian came back in magnificent fashion to pull out of the hole in the twelfth, ran Shields to the far corners with his withering drives in the thirteenth, and won the fourteenth at love, with four beautiful volleys to end the match.

Tomorrow Vines will go up against Richard Norris Williams 2d, and it will be interesting to see how he reacts to the experience, for no one that he has yet met hits with the unexpectedness and disregard for the consequences as the former national champion. Today Williams defeated Samuel B. Gilpin of Philadelphia at 6—4, 6—3.

Hunter was never in difficulties in chalking up another victory over Donald Cram at 6—3, 6—2, but will probably be put to a severer test in the next round, when he meets Julius Seligson, who accounted for Marcel Rainville of the Canadian Davis Cup team. In the lower half the survivors are David Jones of Columbia, who eliminated Donald Strachan, a seeded player; Sidney B. Wood Jr., J. Gilbert Hall and Clifford Sutter.

Miss Cross Easy Winner.

Miss Sarah Palfrey, Miss Edith Cross, Miss Marjorie Morrill and Miss Penelope Anderson all won by comfortable margins in the women's singles. Miss Hilleary eliminated the only seeded player in defeating Miss Gladman at 6—4, 6—4, hitting with such depth, pace and accuracy as to offset the net play of the California girl.

The play in the men's doubles saw G. Lyttleton Rogers, the Irish champion, play his first match in this country. With Hunter as his partner they defeated Jack Tidball and Gerald Bartosh of California, but only after they had dropped the opening set. The Misses Sarah and Mianne Palfrey scored the feature victory in the women's doubles over Miss Hilleary and Miss Dorothy Andrus. It was not until two hours after E. W. Feibleman had mounted the umpire's chair that the match ended at 3—6, 11—9, 6—1.

Miss Nuthall Will Compete In Tourney at Forest Hills

Miss Betty Nuthall, 19-year-old English tennis star, expects to compete in the women's national championship, beginning Aug. 18 at Forest Hills. Louis B. Dailey, president of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, announced through The Associated Press yesterday. Mr. Dailey has just returned from Europe.

Miss Nuthall is coming here accompanied by her brother Jim, a promising youngster, who also plans to engage in tournament play.

WISOTSKEY BEATEN AT WOLF HOLLOW

Loses to W. Rothenberg, 9 and 7, in Upset in Invitation Play at Delaware Water Gap.

Special to The New York Times.

DELAWARE WATER GAP, Pa., July 29.—One upset marred the progress of the favorites today in the first and second rounds of match play in the annual Wolf Hollow Country Club invitation golf tournament.

Walter Rothenberg, youthful home-club player, overwhelmed Harry Wisotskey, York County Country Club, 9 and 7, to furnish the only upset. Wisotskey, last year winner of the medal in the Pennsylvania State championship, was helpless before the ten straight 4s and one 3 flashed by Rothenberg.

Mark J. Stuart, Fox Hills, the other semi-finalist, became the outstanding favorite when he came from behind to win, 3 and 2, from Bill Beadle, Llanoch, holder of the Delaware County championship.

Stuart, the medalist here and this year's winner of the Garden City invitation, due to some spotty putting found himself 3 down going to the eighth before Beadle's par shooting. Starting with the eighth the Staten Island man played the remaining nine holes of the match in one under par. He won four holes in a row to take the lead for the first time at the eleventh, while Beadle showed a surprising reversal of form.

In the semi-final round of the lower bracket, Al Brodbeck will meet Jess Long of Wolf Hollow in his first real test of the tournament. Brodbeck, who captains the University of Pennsylvania golf team, won his two matches today in easy fashion, defeating A. Dike Faxon of Echo Lake, 6 and 5, and Frederick D. Heiss of Wolf Hollow, 3 and 2.

H. Smith's Intended Caddie Plans to Enter Same Tourney

MINNEAPOLIS, July 29 (AP).—Horton Smith, professional of Cragston, N. Y., has lost a good caddie for the $10,000 open tournament scheduled for St. Paul Aug. 15-17.

Pat Sawyer, 17-year-old caddie golfer, of Minneapolis, won the State amateur tournament at Rochester, Minn., last week. When Smith was at Minneapolis for the national open three weeks ago young Sawyer promised to caddie for him at the St. Paul open.

But now Pat has decided to become a contestant in the open.

ARMOUR AND DIEGEL DECIDE TITLE TODAY

Meet in 36-Hole Play-Off for Canadian Open Golf Championship.

FAIRWAYS STILL PARCHED

Expected to Provide Long Roll for Rival Shots — Broadcast of Event Is Arranged.

ANCASTER, Ont., July 29 (Canadian Press).—Leo Diegel arrived today for a practice session in preparation for tomorrow's play-off with Tommy Armour for the Canadian open championship.

Armour arrived this evening. He has played at Niagara Falls and Buffalo since competing in the open, while Diegel has played at the Falls and at the Royal York course in Toronto.

Tomorrow's play-off will commence at 10 A. M. with a round of eighteen holes. The second round will begin at 2:30 P. M. Both rounds will be broadcast from the roof of the Hamilton Country Club clubhouse, from which, with the aid of binoculars, the entire course may be swept by the eye.

Armour won both the American and Canadian open titles in 1927. When an amateur, in 1920, he tied for the Canadian open title, but lost in the play-off. Last year he was runner-up to Diegel.

Diegel won the Canadian open in 1924, 1925, 1928 and 1929. No other man has won the event four times.

Armour's four rounds in last week's open play were 74, 68, 71 and 64, while Diegel's were 70, 71, 69 and 67, both totaling 277 strokes.

The fairways, which were dry and fast last week, are still parched, providing an unusually long roll, which may be an advantage for the cleek-playing Armour.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 29.—Rowing for 150-pound crews, which heretofore has been in the experimental stage at the Naval Academy, will be placed upon a permanent basis next year.

Varsity and plebe lightweight crews will be organized and compete in regularly scheduled races. They will be coached next year by Lieutenants Dudley Brown and Sherman Clark, former Navy oarsmen.

The assignment of these oficers as coaches will enable Lieutenant Buck Walsh to give all of his time to the regular plebe crew.

This has been an active Summer in rowing at the Naval Academy, with seven regularly organized crews working out under the direction of Lieutenants Walsh, Brown and Clark. The list comprises heavy and lightweight crews from the second class, crews from each of the four companies of the fourth class and a lightweight crew from the same class.

ROSLYN, L. I., July 29.—Scoring a brilliant 69, equaling the record for the course, Herman Rama, assistant caddie master at the Fresh Meadow Club, took the lead in the opening round of the Long Island open golf tournament at the Engineers' Club today.

Par is 70 for this course, which has been the scene of the national amateur championship, the P. G. A. championship and the Metropolitan open. Rama's score, incidentally, is even more remarkable in view of the fact that the youngster, who is 18 years old, took a 6 on the ninth hole after previously taking a 5 on the fourth. Only one other golfer has gone around the links in the same number of strokes. He is Jack Dowling, home club professional.

Among those trailing the youngster are Gene Sarazen, his employer, and Willie Klein, Wheatley Hills professional, two former Long Island open champions who had 72s, and Walter Kozak of North Hills, George Heron of Meadowbrook and Macdonald Smith of Lakeville, the defending champion, all of whom had 73s.

Edwards Leads Amateurs.

The next best rounds today were those of W. H. Cox of Dyker Beach and Bert Edwards of Old Westbury, who had the honor of leading the amateurs. Rama had six pars and one birdie to offset one of the losses at the fourth and ninth holes going out. His 37 was as good as was turned in on the first nine and his 32 over the homeward half was by far and away the best. He was two under par over that stretch with one putt greens on the tenth and twelfth and par figures on the other seven holes.

Sarazen went out in 38 and equaled par on the final nine, while Klein, Kozak and Heron were out in the same figures as Rama, but lost ground on the homeward half, Willie taking 35 and the other two 36. Klein had a chance to get home in 33, but took three to get down from the edge of the twelfth green and pushed his second shot to the right of the home green for 5s on both holes.

Kozak Gets Birdie 2.

Kozak started back with a birdie 2, the same as Rama, but slipped on the eleventh, fifteenth and eighteenth holes, while Heron's chief drawback was a 6 on the par 4 thirteenth, where he pulled his second shot.

Smith, the defending champion, had no luck whatever on the putting greens, getting the ball up close on every approach putt, but dropping none on the first ones.

Smith started with a par, then went one over the standard on the next. He took another 5 at the 355-yard fourth hole, and again went one over par with a 4 on the 185-yard eighth. A par 5 on the ninth put the defending champion out in 39.

Starting back, Smith regained his touch. Carding a par 3 at the tenth, he kept up an even par clip throughout the inward journey.

The same field will play another eighteen holes tomorrow, and swing into the final thirty-six holes on Thursday.

Turf Followers Throng Saratoga for Start of Meeting Today

SARATOGA TO OPEN RACE MEETING TODAY

JAMESTOWN IN THE FLASH

To Be Tested by Blenheim, Black Tyrone and Six Other Potential Juvenile Stars.

By BRYAN FIELD.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., July 29.—Railroad, automobile and even foot traffic, which has been converging on this town for some time, reached a high point tonight with a tremendous influx of visitors from New York, practically all of whom are present to see the flash of silks at the seasonal opening of the big racing plant of the Saratoga Association tomorrow.

The Saratoga Handicap and the Flash Stakes are the two features with good fields named in both. Each carries $5,000 in added money. In all, before the twenty-eight racing days of the meeting are over, in excess of $500,000 will have been distributed to horsemen.

George H. Bull, who is serving his first racing season as president of the Saratoga Association, was the recipient of many congratulations from well-known society folk, who complimented him on the appearance of the course and the prospect for good racing. There was another who came in for congratulations and that was Victor Schaumburg, racing secretary. The horsemen were the ones who could most keenly appreciate his work and certainly the two features tomorrow assure contests of great interest.

Concedes 15 Pounds to Curate.

Nine have been named for the handicap, and John R. Macomber's Petee-Wrack is the top weight of the field. The Metropolitan Handicap winner of 1929 and the Suburban Handicap winner this year is asked to carry 120 pounds, and concede fifteen to Joseph E. Widener's Curate, which was just beaten in the Arlington Handicap at Chicago last Saturday.

Of that Chicago race, Curate seems strictly the one to beat and some horsemen who have just arrived from Chicago do not think Petee-Wrack can do it. But there are others with a little longer memory who recall Petee-Wrack's Suburban victory in which he carried 122 pounds as against 109 for Curate and withstood him in a long stretch drive. Earle Sande was in Petee-Wrack's saddle on that occasion and he is expected to have the leg up again tomorrow.

Aside from Petee-Wrack and Curate, there are W. R. Coe's pair of Cesare and Black Majesty. Despite rather an arduous campaign at the western course, the Coe horses are reported in good shape and may surprise. They, too, are in under light weight.

The highest weight after Petee-Wrack's will be that borne by Marine, formerly a stablemate of Curate's in the J. E. Widener barn but now running for the Warm Stable.

Marine to Carry 107 Pounds.

Marine is assigned 107 pounds and Frisius, the Belair Stud color-bearer, is in with 106. Then it goes on down through the ones named above to Comstockery at 102, Chicatie at 100, and ending with the filly Ben Machree, which will have to carry only 97.

Last year the Wheatley Stable's Diavolo won the handicap but he is on the shelf, at least temporarily, and if Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons is to gain another victory Frisius will have to turn the trick.

For the Flash, which is one of the oldest tests for juveniles, the forthcoming race being the fifty-sixth running, there is a field of nine which will show just how good Jamestown is. This son of St. James has been called the best horse since St. James by some veterans of the turf, but he will be well tested in the Flash. He will bear the colors of George D. Widener and will run with a stablemate, Condescend.

So far as the betting is concerned there will be three horses running as an entry as A. J. Joyner, who trains Mr. Widener's horses, also has entered one of his own, Red Flare, a colt by Big Blaze. Joyner seldom sports his own silks, so it is to be assumed that he has picked out a good one to represent him.

Coe Has Entered Pair.

The other six include a pair owned by W. R. Coe, Masked Ball and Rockbelle. The former is a pretty good horse but the latter is one of those untried quantities which may turn out to be a Man o' War or a flivver.

The Wheatley Stable has Blenheim entered and here is Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons's chance to add another victory to that scored by Gallant Fox in the Flash last year. Black Tyrone, Prince Apollo and Neverfade complete the field. The first is supposed to be one of E. R. Bradley's good ones; the second is owned by Joseph Leiter and has not been seen here; and Never Fade will carry Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark's silks.

Jamestown, Prince Apollo, Condescend and Neverfade will bear top weight of 118 pounds each in the test at five and a half furlongs.

The first steeplechase since Aqueduct, so far as New York enthusiasts are concerned, is down for contention as the second race. This is the Fox Hollow Handicap and will serve to show how good a jumper is War Flier, the former flat runner which was such a bad actor at the post. Wayfair, Infant and Stalker are named to run against him.

In all thirty-nine stakes will be decided at the meeting, with the $60,000 Hopeful the richest.

AGINCOURT TAKES LATONIA FEATURE

Hickman Entry Wins Carrollton, Six-Furlong Dash, in 1:13, Paying $15.32 for $2.

LATONIA, Ky., July 29 (AP).—Agincourt, from Bo Hickman's stable and overlooked in the betting, ran six furlongs in 1:13 flat today to win the Carrollton, the feature event, a dash of six furlongs. Jockey M. Rose had the mount on the winner.

Taking Agincourt back of the pace, he rated his mount along to the turn for home, where he moved up on even terms with Poppy Field, the early pacemaker, and drew out to win by four lengths. Poppy Field held Chimney Sweep safe for second money in the stretch drive.

NEGOPOLI IS VICTOR IN MELROSE STAKES

Easily Beats Tony Joe as Frumper, Favorite, Runs Last in Field of Four.

REPROOF, 7-1, HOME FIRST

Demoiselle, Bird of Prey and Snooty Also Surprise as Empire City Meeting Closes.

To the tune of "Auld Lang Syne," heard by a very slender crowd, Summer racing on the metropolitan district tracks came to a close yesterday at the Empire City course. The few who visited the Yonkers track witnessed a series of startling upsets, none more amazing than in the feature event, the Melrose Claiming Stakes.

Only four went to the post for the mile-and-a-sixteenth feature, but H. P. Whitney's Frumper, the confidently played favorite, finished absolutely last. Mrs. J. A. Coburn's Negopoli, ridden by Apprentice Church, was the winner, three lengths before G. C. Winfrey's Tony Joe, with the California Stable's Sign Off third.

Negopoli earned $2,820 for his owner and rewarded his backers at the rate of 3 to 1. Frumper opened at 9 to 5, but a persistent confidence in his chances sent the price to even money at post time. Frumper had a slight excuse, however, as he was turned sideways at the word and was last to leave the post.

Sign Off Sets the Pace.

Sign Off was rushed into the lead, and as they entered the backstretch the three others were running as a team, about two lengths to the rear. The contest presented a pretty picture as they maintained this position all the way to the home turn.

On the bend McKechnie tried to get through with Frumper, but not finding room, was forced to take back to last. Negopoli made his run on the turn, easily caught the pacemaker and showed in front when straightened out. From there to the finish it was a procession. Tony Joe was four lengths in front of Sign Off, which beat Frumper a head.

Outsiders won the two opening events, both of which were for 2-year-olds. In the first, at five and a half furlongs, Frank Coltiletti brought home F. Sansone's Reproof to a neat two-length victory over Sun B and Brandon Dare. The first three were outsiders and, strangely, also were the rail horses. Reproof was held at 7 to 1.

Robert A. Smith's Demoiselle, neglected in the betting, going from 6 to 10 to 1, won the second by a length and a half from Patricia Agnes and Marvella. The latter two were practically joint favorites, but failed to catch Demoiselle, once she took the lead in the homestretch.

Bird of Prey Pays 7 to 1.

Bird of Prey's victory in the Kensico Purse, a mile-and-seventy-yard affair, was the third long-priced success in as many races. Bird of Prey was 7 to 1 in the field of ten, but proved the best conditioned horse in the race, winning by a length and a half.

Bethel rode a well-judged race, coming from the middle of the field just before making the far turn into a contending position behind Guilder and Guffle. Bird of Prey caught Guilder in the stretch and was drawing away from him at the finish. The consistent Billie Leonard was third for the second successive day.

The procession of nicely priced winners continued in the fifth, which went to Princess Henry at 5 to 1. This 3-year-old filly had run a good race on the preceding day to be second. Yesterday she showed a powerful finish to overhaul the pacemakers in the last furlong. Gasp, the favorite, broke on top smartly from the extreme outside, but dropped outside the money after being a contender.

It became a complete rout for the favorites when J. Woods Garth's Snooty won the last race of the meeting at odds of 6 to 1. Snooty came from behind to defeat the California Stable's Mortime by a neck in a driving finish. Black Dove, which was about equally favored with James Butler's Musing, was third.

PLANS TO RETIRE TORO.

McLean Horse Not Likely to Race Again—Victorian to Rest.

CHICAGO, July 29 (AP).—Edward B. McLean's Toro, which ruptured the muscles of a foreleg in the Arlington Handicap Saturday, probably will race no more.

Trainer John Schorr plans to keep the son of The Porter—Brocatelle with him during the rest of the Chicago racing season, after which he will go back to Belmont plantation, Virginia, for stud service.

Victorian, winner of the Agua Caliente Handicap last Winter, will be turned out to rest until the Winter season. The Warm Stable star's recent performances have been far below form.

HOT TODDY ANNEXES MINNESOTA PURSE

Hitt's Five-Year-Old Gelding Wins Arlington Park Feature by a Neck.

WILLIAM T. HOME SECOND

Takes Place by Three Lengths Over Buddy Bauer—Victor Pays $7.34 for $2 Ticket.

CHICAGO, July 29 (AP).—Hot Toddy, the 5-year-old bay gelding by Ed Crump-Ruth Strickland from K. E. Hitt's stable, won the Minnesota Purse, the feature on today's program at Arlington Park. W. E. Caskey Jr.'s William T. was second, with E. R. Bradley's Budd Bauer third.

The Minnesota was an allowance event for 3-year-olds and up over the mile distance and was worth $1,300 to the winner, which covered the mile over a track rated as fast in 1:37 1-5. Hot Toddy paid off at $7.34 to $2 in the mutuel machines.

Jockey E. Watters had the wraps on Hot Toddy for the first half mile. He then gave the gelding his head and, finding an opening on the rail when entering the home stretch, easily overtook Jock and Buddy Bauer, drew clear a furlong away from the wire and was doing his utmost to win in a hard drive by a neck.

William T., restrained for six furlongs, closed fast to place second, three lengths in front of the favorite, Buddy Bauer. The latter was a like distance ahead of Lieut. Russell. Uncommon Gold, Black Wood and Jock finished in the order named.

LOU DRIVES IN SIX RUNS

Johnson Tames Mackmen as Quinn Is Batted Out—Victory Evens Series.

By WILLIAM E. BRANDT.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, July 29.—Lou Gehrig used his bat with telling effect today, and the Yanks had chiefly Gehrig and their pitcher, Henry Johnson, to thank for the 12-to-3 victory which gave them an even break for their two days' visit here as well as for breaking their losing streak of three straight.

Babe Ruth produced nothing more startling than a pair of singles, but also reached first on a pass, and every time Ruth gained a baseline foothold Gehrig came along with something loud and long in the way of a hit to drive him home.

In the fourth, which Babe opened with a single, Gehrig fired his thirtieth homer of the season into the pavilion in left-centre field. In the fifth, when Babe walked after two were out, Gehrig bounced the ball over the centre fielder's head for a triple. In the seventh, when Ruth singled, Gehrig drove him home by denting an awning across the street from right field with his thirty-first homer of the season, his tenth since the Yankees left home and his second of the day.

Gehrig Also Hits Double.

Besides his two homers and his triple, Gehrig slammed a double in the second inning as the first of his four straight hits. Other Yankees, stimulated by Gehrig's slugging, pelted the Mackmen's pitching in a fashion reminiscent of by-gone Yankee conquests of the Athletics, but it was Gehrig whose hits really broke up the game, as he drove home half of the dozen Yankee tallies.

For three innings the game was a scoreless pitching duel between Johnson and Jack Quinn. Gehrig's homer, after Ruth singled, scored the game's first two runs in the fourth. Lazzeri's single and Rice's double scored another in that inning, then Gehrig's triple off Mahaffey came along in the fifth to score another and Lou's homer in the seventh put the Yanks still further ahead.

Johnson had spells of wildness in the second and fourth, but mastered both emergencies brightly. After that he was never in serious difficulty. He had eight strike-outs. In the second, though he walked two Mackmen, he struck out Simmons, Williams and Dykes. He allowed only three scattered hits up to the seventh, then relaxed.

Chapman Stars in Field.

Ben Chapman, on his second day as second baseman, gave a fine performance. He handled Simmons's smash to engineer a double play in the fifth which saved Johnson a lot of trouble and otherwise proved a good man for the keystone job.

In the two games here Ruth has hit only one drive that looked anything like a home run and that one fell short of the right-field wall. Gehrig has climbed until he is only five homers behind the Babe and needs only sixteen more homers to tie his own 1927 record, which was forty-seven.

Incidentally, Lou's four hits today placed him on top of the list of batsmen in the American League. Gehrig displaced Simmons in gaining the leadership, the present figures being .390 for Lou and .386 for Al. Gehrig increased his average six points, while Simmons, going hitless, lost five points.

INDIANS' RALLIES TAME THE TIGERS

Overcome 4-Run Lead in First Two Innings to Triumph by Score of 14-7.

CLEVELAND, July 29 (AP).—Detroit ran up a four-run lead in the first two innings today but could not hold it in the face of a savage Cleveland batting attack and lost its second game in a row. The score was 14 to 7.

Four bases on balls plus three hits off Guy Cantrell, Detroit hurler, in the second inning, produced seven runs. Averill made his tenth home run of the season and a double in that inning. In the next inning the Indians combined four hits and two walks off Charley Sullivan for five more runs.

OTT DRIVES 18TH HOMER

Roettger Also Hits One While O'Doul and Rensa of the Losers Reach Hubbell.

By JOHN DREBINGER.

The Phillies, who by a curious arrangement of circumstances are the National League's leading array of hitters and at the same time the game's greatest losers, closed their brief two-day stand at the Polo Grounds yesterday running true to form. They did a deal of clouting, smacked Carl Hubbell for ten hits, which included home runs by O'Doul and Rensa, and, in a couple of moments given to reckless abandon, lost the ball game to the Giants, 11 to 5.

The Giants, of course, did a fair share of hitting themselves, but then everybody is supposed to wallop the Philly pitchers. In fact, the Philly pitchers consider it a personal affront if their pitching fails to please.

Certain it is there was nothing unpleasant about the flinging of Ray Benge, who was the first of two Philly hurlers to prove that a baseball bat is not a difficult thing to strike with a baseball.

Does Better in Second.

After something of an unsatisfactory start in the first inning, in which he permitted the first three Giants to blunder into three outs, Ray did infinitely better in the second.

In this inning Benge found Bill Terry's bat for a single, Mel Ott's stubby club for a homer—this shot, incidentally, being the young man's eighteenth of the campaign—and just to demonstrate this was no accident, Benge tossed up the right sort of pitch to Roettger, who at once converted the effort into another homer.

To these runs the Giants added four more in the third, though not quite in such clean-cut fashion. Leach, Hogan and Marshall surrounded a pair of passes with singles, and when Thompson permitted Roettger's sharp bounder to go right through him Manager Shotten of the Phils seemed to consider Benge was losing his stuff.

Nichols Goes to Mound.

Shotten sent Chet Nichols to take his place and as Chet used to be a warm-up pitcher for the Giants he knew exactly what the McGrawmen could hit and what they could not. Suffice it to say he got bumped for a run in the fourth and three in the sixth, doubles by Lindstrom featuring both attacks.

As for the Phils, they simply picked up a hit here and another there and contrived by this means and that to score five runs, and left well pleased with themselves, particularly Lefty O'Doul, who, in his determined effort to overhaul his teammate Chuck Klein for the league's batting leadership, preceded his homer with two singles, while Chuck had to be satisfied with a single and a double.

WILSON HITS NO. 33, BUT REDS TOP CUBS

Rally in Eighth Falls One Run Short and Chicago Is Defeated by a 4 to 3 Score.

CHICAGO, July 29 (AP).—The Chicago Cubs retained the same standing today, dropping a hotly contested game to the Cincinnati Reds, 4 to 3, while the Braves wrested a ten-inning game from Brooklyn by the same score.

Hack Wilson's thirty-third home run, in the sixth inning, brought the score up to 4 to 2, but an eighth-inning rally fell short when Cuyler scored on Danny Taylor's single, after Wilson had walked and Grimm sacrificed. Rixey went the route for the visitors, while Blake and Malone hurled for the Cubs.

THOMAS, WHITE SOX, CHECKS THE BROWNS

Keeps 11 Hits Well Scattered as Mates Win, 6-2, and Capture the Series.

ST. LOUIS, July 29 (AP).—The Chicago White Sox, scoring four times in the fifth inning on four hits and a sacrifice, defeated the Browns today, 6 to 2, and made a clean sweep of the two-game series.

Although hit for eleven safeties, the same number the White Sox made, Al Thomas scattered his blows throughout the game.

The long-distance clouting was done by Jolley, who hit a home run, and Goslin and Ryan, who contributed triples.

BRAVES TURN BACK ROBINS IN TENTH

PHELPS IS LOSING HURLER

Fails in Relief Role After Vance Drops 3-0 Lead—Disputes With Umpire Enliven Contest.

By ROSCOE McGOWEN.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, July 29.—In a hot and sticky atmosphere, made hotter by the comments of Manager McKechnie and his Braves on the judgment of Plate Umpire Charley Jorda, the Braves struggled through and won the final game of the short series from the Robins in the tenth inning today. George Sisler's single drove in the winning run.

The score was 4 to 3, and Babe Phelps, who pitched the last two innings after Watson Clark had replaced Dazzy Vance in the eighth, thereby was charged with his third defeat. The Braves thus shared with the Cubs the minor distinction of being the only club to beat the big Alabama hurler. Since the Cubs lost to the Reds today, the Robins maintained their lead of one and one-half games intact.

Vance, who had the Braves shut out, 3-0, at the end of the sixth, yielded the first run in the seventh, when Rollings singled, Spohrer doubled and Maguire hit a scoring sacrifice fly. In the next frame Rube Bressler played Sisler's potential single badly after Richbourg had doubled and Maranville had walked, and instead of the bases being full the ball bounded past Rube for a double and both runs came in to tie the score.

Throws Wildly to Third.

Vance then fielded Berger's bunt, and, with a sure put-out on Sisler at third, threw wild, only a good play by Gilbert preventing the winning run from scoring. At this point Uncle Wilbert Robinson waved Vance off the mound and sent Clark in.

Earl Clark came to bat for Rollings, and Sisler, getting a clean jump on the Robin southpaw pitcher, dashed for home and apparently arrived there safely ahead of Lopez's tag. But Umpire Jorda called him out, and the next instant was the target of a verbal barrage from McKechnie and several other Braves, including the usually unprotesting Sisler.

Jorda held to his decision, of course, and threatened to banish McKechnie. The Braves already were in a fighting mood because of a previous decision by Umpire Rigler when he called Berger out for running off the base line between first and second, thus giving the Robins an easy double play.

Holds Robins Scoreless.

But Wee Willie Sherdel continued to hold the Robins scoreless after the sixth inning, and Sisler, after a fashion, vindicated his protest on his attempted theft of home by slashing out the single in the tenth that scored Richbourg with the winning run.

Richbourg had opened the frame with a Texas Leaguer to right and Maranville was safe at first when his swinging bunt won the close attention of both Phelps and Bissonette with nobody covering the bag. Sisler's blow ended all argument and sent the fans home somewhat mollified.

WALKER AND OSTER TO FIGHT TONIGHT

Champion's Title Will Not Be at Stake in Bout at Newark —To Weigh 165 Pounds.

Mickey Walker, middleweight champion of the world, will engage in a ten-round bout with Willie Oster of Boston at Dreamland Park, Newark, tonight. The battle will be fought over the middleweight class limit of 160 pounds, and consequently Walker's title will not be at stake.

The middleweight champion has been training steadily for the battle and is reported to weigh 165 pounds. He declares that he is strong at this poundage and is confident of making a fine showing against the Boston entry.

Oster is little known in metropolitan circles, but comes to Newark with a reputation for ruggedness and punching ability that causes many of his followers from Boston to concede him a strong chance against the champion.

Walker went through his training program at Madame Bey's camp in Summit, N. J. He sparred with Johnny Krieger, a rough middleweight, and with Arthur De Kuh and Jose Santa, heavyweights. Oster went through his training stunts at Dr. Bier's camp in Pompton Lakes.

Frankie Marchese and Miki Gelb are ready for their six-round bout, which will feature the boxing program at the New York Velodrome tonight. In the six-round semi-final Eddie Dempsey and Eddie Shapiro will meet.

Pietro Corri will oppose Norman Tomasulo in the star bout of eight rounds at Mitchel Field tonight. Frankie Konchina and Franc Boja will take part in the semi-final, which also is listed for eight rounds.

CARNERA STOPS COOK IN CLEVELAND BOUT

Italian Heavyweight Ends Contest in Second Round as 10,000 Fans Look On.

CLEVELAND, July 29 (AP).—Primo Carnera, Italian heavyweight boxer, tonight added a second-round knockout over George Cook, who claims the Australian heavyweight championship, to his string of victories, before a crowd estimated at 10,000 at Taylor Bowl. The bout was scheduled to go ten rounds.

Cook went down for the count under a ponderous left to the jaw after 1 minute and 44 seconds of the second round had passed. He had been on the receiving end of most of the blows struck right from the start. Carnera helped carry him to his corner.

HARLEM BOXERS SUSPENDED

Scalfaro and Erickson Are Ordered to Meet in Ring Again.

Joe Scalfaro and Johnny Erickson, rival Harlem bantamweights, were suspended by the New York State Athletic Commission yesterday for an unsatisfactory bout in which they participated at the Rensselaer A. C. in Albany on July 14. The boxers were ordered to fight again at the same club as an added attraction to a card which will be staged soon.

The commission also announced the receipt of a communication from the California Boxing Commission, which states it considers Young Corbett 3d of Fresno as the leading contender for the world's welterweight title. Corbett recently defeated Young Jack Thompson, the present titleholder, in an over-the-weight contest.

Newark Boxing Bouts Postponed.

STRIBLING SOUGHT FOR CONTEST HERE

Garden Officials Await Boxer's Return Before Completing Plans for Ring Appearance.

CAMPOLO BOUT SUGGESTED

N. B. A. Chairman Sees Georgian as Qualified for Title Meeting With Schmeling.

Frank J. Bruen, general manager of Madison Square Garden, announced yesterday that he would wait until the return of William (Young) Stribling and his manager-father before making any plans to match the Southern boxer with any of the leading contenders for the heavyweight championship.

The Garden manager communicated with the elder Stribling by telephone on Monday following the boxer's quick knockout triumph over Phil Scott in London, but, beyond mentioning probable opponents for the Georgia heavyweight, did not arrive at any definite agreement.

The Striblings will leave for America next Wednesday, and will enter into negotiations with Bruen immediately upon arriving in New York. Bruen suggested that Victorio Campolo would most likely be Stribling's next opponent in this country. The Argentinian is tied to the Garden management by contract.

Should a Stribling-Campolo match materialize, Bruen plans to stage it at one of the local baseball parks in September. He also intends to show Stribling in the third annual Miami battle in February.

Earned Title Bout, Says Donohue.

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 29 (AP).—William L. (Young) Stribling of Macon, Ga., conqueror of Phil Scott, British heavyweight, by a two-round knockout last night, has more than earned the right to challenge Max Schmeling of Germany for the world championship, believes Thomas E. Donohue, Connecticut Boxing Commissioner and chairman of the championship committee of the National Boxing Association.

By disposing of Scott in clean-cut fashion after the muddled bout between the Briton and Jack Sharkey in Miami, Fla., Stribling has done much to clear the air, Donohue declared today.

"Stribling, on his showing last night, should be the next opponent for Schmeling," said Donohue. "He certainly is entitled to a chance at the championship.

"I am glad that Stribling has abandoned his safety first methods. It was the only thing that was holding him back. Otherwise there can be no doubt as to his ability.

"If Stribling sticks to his newly adopted style, I am inclined to believe that he can whip Schmeling."

Sharkey Cables Congratulations.

BOSTON, July 29 (AP).—Jack Sharkey, Boston heavyweight, today cabled Young Stribling as follows: "Congratulations on splendid victory. Best wishes to yourself and pa."

Johnny Peters, 149, of the 102d Medical Regiment, outpointed Joe Calucci, 147, of the Twenty-seventh Division Train Armory in the eight-round semi-final.

Al Dunbar, 124, of the 106th Infantry, defeated Frankie Cinque, 128, of the Twenty-second Engineers, in six rounds. In other scheduled six-rounders, Jerry Forzio, 139, of the Fourteenth Infantry of Brooklyn, knocked out Solly Serafina, 139½, of the Twenty-second Engineers in 1:20 of the fourth round, and Eddie Cavanaugh, 162, of the Fourteenth Infantry of Hempstead, stopped Ernie Buchard, 162½, of the 212th Anti-Aircraft Armory, in 1:00 of the third round.

Clash With Griffiths at Queensboro Put Over Until Tonight.

Rain caused the postponement of the boxing card scheduled for the Queensboro Stadium last night. Tuffy Griffiths and Tom Heeney were scheduled to clash in the feature bout of ten rounds. The entire show will be held over until tonight.

The postponement is the second successive one suffered by the Queensboro Club in two weeks. The card listed for last Tuesday, when Bruce Flowers and Tommy Grogan were to fight, was put over until next week.

Old Oaks Defeat Army Polo Team and Win Herbert Memorial Trophy

ARMY FOUR BEATEN IN POLO CUP FINAL

Loses to Old Oaks, 12 to 9, in Game Which Decides Winner of Herbert Trophy.

VICTORS SET BRISK PACE

Result at Rumson Club Is an Upset—Phipps, With Four Goals, Paves Way to Triumph.

By VERNON VAN NESS.

Special to The New York Times.

RUMSON, N. J., July 29.—The Old Oaks, old in name only, for the combination boasts of all youngsters, the oldest 24 and the youngest 17, provided a polo upset on the turf at the Rumson Country Club this afternoon when they downed the United States Army four, 12 to 9, to capture the coveted Herbert Memorial Cup.

Against the Army four, which had won the national junior championship on the same field last Saturday, the youngsters rode wildly and with deadly accuracy, scoring eight goals to add to their handicap of four, and thus achieving their triumph.

From the outset the young poloists made it evident that they would give the Army riders plenty of trouble, and as the match progressed it became increasingly evident that only by staging one of its great rallies and putting on one of its quick and decisive scoring offensives could Army hope to overcome its opponents.

Old Oaks Keep Up Pace.

But there never was a time when the Old Oaks slowed up enough or gave quarter enough to permit the Army attack to swell into the overwhelming offensive developed by it in other matches in the tourney or in the national junior series.

Just twice did the Army muster something of the strength that took it to victories in its other matches here. In the third period the yellow-jacketed Army riders formed a sweeping combination offensive with Rodes riding in the centre of it, and three goals resulted. Again in the eighth period, with the cause all but hopeless, Army made a last desperate effort to overhaul the Old Oaks and retrieve the lost ground. It was a futile gesture, but it produced three goals as a final symbol of what Army might have done earlier when it might have changed the ultimate outcome.

The Army riders were prime favorites to win, even though it was conceded generally that Army would have a real fight on its hands after giving away four goals to such intrepid young players as composed the Old Oaks combination. To add to this feeling of security for Army's victory, Lieutenant McDonald Jones, the brilliant No. 1 who scored 24 goals in twenty-four periods of play in the two tourneys last week, counted a goal forty seconds after play started, taking a two-drive pass from Rodes to send in the goal.

But that was the lone goal of the period. Throughout the latter sessions the Old Oaks outrode and outstroked the Army four.

Lieutenant Kiefer Busily Engaged.

Lieutenant Homer Kiefer, Army back, succeeded in turning back a dozen Old Oaks attacks, putting Army in a position to assume the offensive, but there were many other times when Mike Phipps, the Old Oaks No. 1, beat him on to the ball and scored as a result.

Captain Peter Rodes and Captain C. W. Wilkinson were not badly outmounted. The glory of the victory, however, could not be dimmed because of the slower Army mounts. The Old Oaks youngsters earned and deserved their victory on earned goals. They scored 8, to 9 for the Army, and of course this would have lacked 1 of winning.

But four goals was no more than they deserved from an Army team that previously had demonstrated such power and finely molded teamwork as to earn fifty-one goals in its three previous matches.

Phipps, Iglehart, Arthur Borden and Raymond Guest, the gallant young men of Old Oaks, played a snappy combination game marked by fine accuracy of shooting, hard riding off of Army players and a seventh sense in getting on to the ball on Army's offense and then taking it into their own play.

Phipps Shows Way to Victory.

In the matter of individual goals Phipps scored four, Iglehart three and Guest one. For Army Jones got three, Rodes three, Wilkinson two and Kiefer one, but so far as Old Oaks was concerned it was teamwork and not individual play that gave it the mastery over Army. And as for Army, it was able to coordinate its combination play only twice and that was not enough to be at the Old Oaks riders who galloped down the Rumson field today.

The line-up:

Old Oaks (12).	U. S. Army (9).
1—M. Phipps.	1—Lt. McD. Jones.

A program of harness races opened the park, the events including the 2:14 pace, the 2:24 pace and a race for 3-year-olds and under. Margaret Grattan won the first race in three straight heats, while the 2:24 went to Molly R. with two first and a second. The youngsters' event was won by Flo Abbe in straight heats.

The time was fairly good for a new track, 2:13½ being the best in the 2:14, with 2:22 in the 2:24 and 2:22½ for the 3-year-olds.

Sports of the Times

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

By JOHN KIERAN.

BY this time Joe Beckett has probably filed suit against Phil Scott for infringement of copyright. His challenge to Billy the Kid Stribling was undoubtedly caused by professional jealousy rather than national pride. Joe is the holder of many famous records for speed and accuracy in hitting the canvas. He saw Scott in there giving only a mediocre imitation of his famous falls and the artistic soul of the old gladiator was inflamed with ire.

In challenging Stribling the "stout old feller" mentioned something about 500 pounds. He was probably talking about his weight. In his years of retirement he may have perfected some new recumbent attitudes on the canvas. He was a rare artist, was old Joe. He never fell twice in the same direction and he kept testing the canvas until he had found the softest and most luxurious place on which to couch himself for his final snooze. His challenge should get the attention it deserves. He might not last any longer than Futile Phil but he would put on far more artistic falls.

As for Sir Philip, the beauty parlor owner, he lived up to his reputation. He is a finished boxer. It's true he didn't claim a foul but that may be partially explained by the fact that Stribling knocked the wind out of him and he couldn't claim anything at all. He could hardly breathe.

Shedding Light on Miami.

Now the London followers of "the fancy" know why there was no great fuss made over the fact that Sharkey hit Phil low at Miami. It wasn't worth bothering about because Phil didn't want to fight at any price. In one way Sir Philip is remarkable. He comes into a fight backing up. He always seems on the point of leaping over the ropes and dashing for safety.

It might not have been a bad idea, at that. One leap over the ropes at Wimbledon would have saved him five trips to the canvas. But what's a trip to the canvas for Phil? He is hardened to it.

They let Stribling get away with that victory too easily. Considering Phil's aptitude for falling, they should have placed wickets around on the canvas, making it something like a croquet or roque tournament. Stribling should have been required to knock Phil through the wickets in a given order, with a penalty of two strokes for whacking the beauty parlor owner through the wrong wicket or through the right wicket in the wrong direction.

No Adequate Preparations.

There is another matter that might be mentioned. The preparations for this fight were not up to the mark. When any British heavyweight goes into action there should be a hoist on hand, a crane boom stretching over the ring ready for immediate use. It isn't falling down that tires out a British heavyweight, it's the 'orrible labor of getting up again.

Thus when a fellow like Phil goes down, the crane should be swung out, the hook should be dropped, the referee should take a couple of turns with a stout rope around the prostrate warrior, slip the rope over the dangling hook and signal "Hoist away!" Yes, sir, with a little help in getting up a British heavyweight might give a good account of himself.

One more point is that the canvas covering should have been taken off the ring platform and thick woolen blankets substituted, with feather pillows here and there so that Phil could have had some comfort while the referee was giving him all those counts.

A Rising Market.

Since it is the custom for British seconds to push their heavyweights into battle with the final encouraging query "And what time shall I wake you, sir?" the Stribling stock hasn't risen much in this country because of the flurry on the London market. Nevertheless, Billy the Kid handled the Dread Scott affair far better than Sharkey did. That's a point in his favor just as it was a black mark against Sharkey.

There is little doubt that Stribling for several years has had all the physical equipment needed to grab the crown that was tossed aside by Gene Tunney, but the Georgia entry simply failed to fight when the big opportunities came his way. He is a harder hitter than Sharkey and he doesn't lose his head in the ring. He is a good boxer and if an opponent wants to clinch and wrestle, Little Willie will meet him clutch for clutch and hammerlock for collar-and-elbow.

Just why Stribling failed to get steam up when the big opportunities loomed is a matter of much debate and some mystery. He was a great fighter in small towns but he usually slowed down to a walk in big cities and before large crowds. But his knockouts over Von Porat in Chicago and Scott at Wimbledon may have changed his attitude. Perhaps he is about ready to go. In that case, it may be hard luck for any one who gets in his way.

Courage.

You can find plenty of fight followers who will tell you bluntly that Stribling lacks courage. You can mark that off. Almost any fighter who climbs through the ropes has courage. That is, he has it if he climbs through there twice. The first trip might be made through a misapprehension, but after that a fellow should know what he is up against and if he is timid, he won't be in there.

This fellow Stribling is an air pilot. They say he has gone up and flipped around in moth-eaten crates that were stuck together with mucilage and flour paste. He entered an air race in Florida last Winter, asking no favors and taking his chances with the rest of the sky-riders. Now, a fellow who plays tricks like that must have plenty of courage.

It must be something else. It may be that he lacked the lust of battle, the fighting instinct that Dempsey had, the fierce desire to annihilate the other fellow in the ring. It may be that he lacked Tunney's determination and ambition, the strength of character to pursue a single aim through the years and against heavy handicaps.

In any event, he lacked something that goes to the make-up of a champion. Perhaps he has found what was missing. If he has, the other prominent heavyweights might as well get ready for trouble. They can have the choice of going into training or into hiding.

TRIAL SAIL TAKEN BY THE WHIRLWIND

America's Cup Yacht Has First Spin Since Mast Was Stepped Forward.

BOAT OUT FOR TWO HOURS

Breeze Too Light for Conclusive Test—Shamrock V to Base at Newport During Cup Series.

Whirlwind, the largest of the America's Cup defense yachts, was put under sail yesterday morning for the first time since her mast was moved forward a total of four feet and ten inches, in an effort to do away with her weather helm. She was taken out from City Island for two hours, and went some distance on Long Island Sound east of Execution Light, but the breeze was so light no conclusive test could be obtained. It was thought, however, that she handled much easier, and that the desired remedy had been found.

The yacht will be taken to New London tomorrow for the rendezvous there of the New York Yacht Club cruise, on which the cup boats will have their next racing.

Newport to Be Base.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 29 (AP).—Sir Thomas Lipton's America's Cup challenger yacht, Shamrock V, will base at Newport during the races with the American boat off here in September, J. K. Sullivan, his local representative, today informed Mayor Mortimer A. Sullivan. The Shamrock V is expected to arrive here about Aug. 16.

Sullivan also said arrangements had been made with the harbor master for mooring the craft in Brenton's Cove. The Lipton steam yacht Erin and the tender Killarney will also base at Newport.

Mayor Sullivan said he planned to have the Shamrock V met at sea by navy destroyers and a fleet of yachts to escort her into the harbor.

CRUISE STARTS SATURDAY.

Annual South Shore Event to Continue for Ten Days.

Special to The New York Times.

FREEPORT, L. I., July 29.—The annual cruise of the South Shore Yacht Club will start Saturday and continue for ten days, the course being laid down east around Montauk Point and up the Sound to ports in Connecticut.

Commodore Robert E. Patterson will command the fleet, assisted by Vice Commodore Walter C. Rhodes and Rear Commodore Edward S. Keogh.

DETROIT OARSMEN ENTER TITLE RACE

Senior Eight, Coached by Rice, to Compete in National Regatta at Boston.

PEARCE TO DEFEND CROWN

Sculling Titleholder to Meet Philadelphia Challenge Cup Rivals on the Schuylkill.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, July 29.—The Detroit Boat Club has made a post entry of its senior eight-oared shell for the national regatta to be rowed at Boston Friday and Saturday, according to an announcement made today by George G. Melloy, secretary of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen.

The Detroit oarsmen, who are coached by Jim Rice, former Columbia University tutor, have been assigned to the No. 8 lane in the Charles River basin.

New York has entered an eight in the special inter-city race against Boston and Philadelphia. The metropolitan scullers are being assembled by William Mehrhoff, coach of the New York Athletic Club.

Bobby Pearce of Australia, Olympic sculling titleholder, has agreed to defend his Philadelphia Challenge Cup on the Schuylkill River Aug. 27, according to Russell S. Johnson, chairman of the cup committee.

Pearce now is training at Hamilton, Ont., for the British Empire regatta Aug. 20-22, where he will row against Jack Guest, recent winner of the Diamond Sculls; Joe Wright Jr., and possibly Big Bill Miller of Philadelphia, providing Miller is successful in the national regatta at Boston.

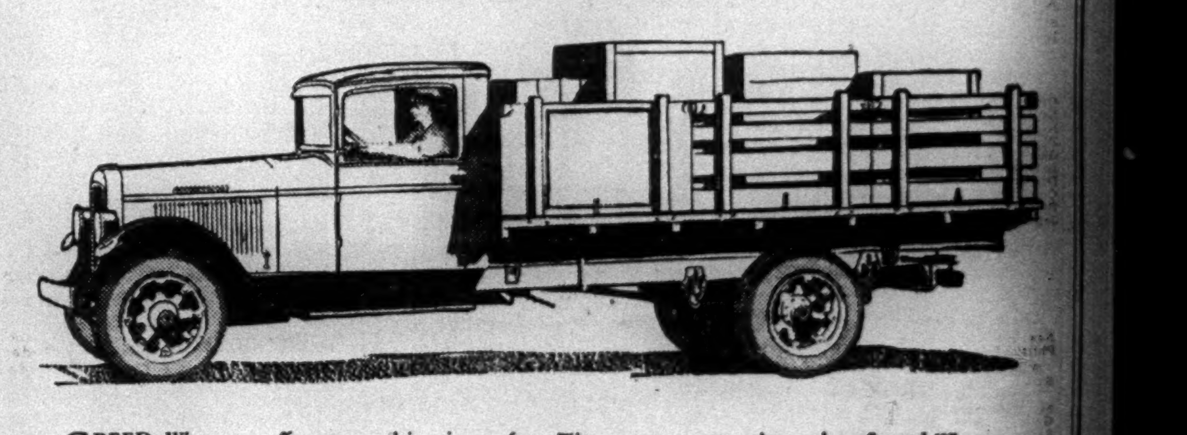
Speed Wagon Economy

Now More Important Than Ever to Truck Buyers



SPEED Wagons offer a combination of expense-reducing features found in no other trucks today!

Notable among these is the famous Reo Gold Crown Engine—now in its second record-breaking year. The fine construction of this six cylinder engine itself is typical of that in every part of Speed Wagons from radiator to rear axle. For example:

Its engine block is chrome nickel alloy iron—with seven times the wear resistance of the usual block. Lo-Ex pistons are used—each outlasting "two to three" ordinary pistons.

Seven-bearing crankshaft . . . four-wheel, two shoe, internal hydraulic brakes . . . built-in magazine chassis oilers and other features.

There never was a time when Speed Wagon meant more to buyers of economical, long-lived, high-speed commercial vehicles.

Wheelbases up to 210" . . . all sizes up to 15,000 pounds net pay-load capacity with trailers . . . high pressure or balloon tires.

THE UPSET IN CANADA.

While the defeat of the Liberal party in Monday's election was expected by impartial observers, the overwhelming nature of the Conservative victory comes as a surprise. Even in the Province of Quebec, supposed to be joined to its Liberal idols, the Conservatives made large gains. But no one part of the Dominion can be said to have determined the result. Liberal losses were widely distributed. Mr. MACKENZIE KING, when he hastily decided upon a general election, could not have anticipated the complete sweeping of his party out of power. As to the causes of the overturn, everybody is inquiring.

Partly, they were the old case of a party staying long in office and going stale and accumulating discontents which finally manifest themselves at the polls. But there were other and larger and more definite influences at work against the King Government. It was held responsible for the bad times, which have been prevalent in Canada as everywhere else. On Saturday last, The Ottawa Journal, summing up, with an air of dispassionateness, the argument against Prime Minister KING, condensed it all into the assertion that he had no policy to cure unemployment, and that he had not given Canada prosperity. This view of the case evidently won favor with the working classes in all parts of Canada. Previous to the election many straw votes had been taken in various shops and factories, with the result showing a marked shift of the workers toward the Conservative party. Mr. KING could not in reason be blamed for Canadian business depression, but he was punished for it. Such are the rough methods of a democracy which has come to believe that a government is incompetent if it does not provide work and happiness for all.

For Americans the chief importance of the Canadian election lies in the fact that the Dominion is lurching back not only to the Conservative party but to protective duties aimed particularly at the United States. Prime Minister KING had already gone quite a distance in that direction. He had enacted certain countervailing tariff rates in reply to the higher American duties. But his successful Conservative opponent, Mr. BENNETT, intends to go much further. This he made plain in the course of his campaign. His proposal is to continue to give Great Britain preferential tariff treatment, but to make sure that Canadian industry of every kind is safeguarded from foreign competition, especially the competition of the United States. What the new policy will be, if the Conservative party is able to carry it into effect, is clearly indicated in the statement made just before the election by Sir ROBERT BORDEN, Prime Minister of Canada in wartime, who came out strongly in support of Mr. BENNETT. His words were, in part:

> The British Empire first and within the British Empire Canada first; the preservation of our home market for our own producers; the maintenance of our industries to give employment to our people. * * * Any policy would be disastrous that sends abroad raw materials which can be economically utilized in our own industries, and any policy which sends abroad good Canadian money to pay for articles that can be economically and usefully produced by the labor of our own people.

Very naturally, Washington is said to be already disturbed by this threat of a tariff war with Canada, till now our best customer. But if that war comes, it has distinctly been provoked by our own customs legislation. Even the Fordney-McCumber tariff contained rates that the Canadians felt were aimed directly at them. By the Hawley-Smoot bill the Canadian grievance has been made more acute. The resultant commercial feeling against the United States has been a contributing cause to the election of a Conservative Prime Minister pledged to hit American exports to Canada fully as hard as Canadian exports to us have been hit by our own tariff.

VICE GOVERNOR OF THE PHILIPPINES.

For obvious reasons, THE NEW YORK TIMES has refrained from comment on the President's selection of Mr. NICHOLAS ROOSEVELT as Vice Governor of the Philippines, while the nomination was pending. It could not wish to appear desirous of losing a valued member of its editorial staff, however well fitted it believes him to be for the office for which he has been named. But now that the question has been decided by Mr. HOOVER's making a recess appointment, we are free to say that the objections to Mr. ROOSEVELT raised in Manila and elsewhere appear to be gratuitous and unreasonable. The adverse vote in the Philippine Legislature is to be thought of largely as a mere gesture which the Filipino politicians felt bound to make. They have, of course, no legal right to interfere with the President's choice of executive officers in the Philippines. That responsibility is entirely his. An ample degree of self-government has been accorded the Filipinos in local matters, but the Governor General and the Vice Governor are officers of liaison with the United States and are chosen by the President. The protest against Mr. ROOSEVELT is really a reflection upon Mr. HOOVER, implying that he has not taken sufficient care in determining upon a successor to Vice Governor GILMORE.

If they could look at the case without prejudice, even the Filipinos would admit that Mr. ROOSEVELT is exceptionally qualified for administrative work in the Philippines. He has traveled extensively in the islands. He has made the acquaintance of many of their leading men. Contacts with them and with every authority on conditions in the Philippines he has sedulously maintained. Some of the views which he has expressed in his writings have given offense to the extreme advocates of immediate independence, but could they seriously argue that they would prefer as Vice Governor some haphazard American who knew nothing about them, over a man who has studied them long and sympathetically? Doubtless the Washington Administration is confident, and with reason, that, as soon as Mr. ROOSEVELT, after conferring with Filipinos, begins his work in the Philippines, his energy and knowledge and genial bearing will cause the factitious opposition to him speedily to disappear.

Viewed in the proper light, the appointment of Mr. ROOSEVELT as Vice Governor will be seen to be strictly in line with President HOOVER's desire to secure specially trained men for special Government work. While regretting its own loss of one whose personality and work have been highly prized by it, THE TIMES bows to the superior claims of an important public service, in which it is sure that Mr. ROOSEVELT will be eminently successful.

WHITE HOUSE PREFERENCES.

Most Presidents who have indicated a choice between candidates of their own party contesting for a nomination have regretted it. Repeated failure to obtain success by Presidential endorsement is the reason for the regret. Yet seldom in any Administration has there failed to arise at least one situation which has moved the occupant of the White House to issue a statement or write a letter calculated to aid a particular candidate. Even the cautious Mr. COOLIDGE considered that the exigencies of WILLIAM M. BUTLER in Massachusetts called for the expression of his preference. The results were mournful. Mr. HOOVER, though the pressure was strong, avoided giving an opinion to the Republicans of New Jersey recently. But now he has intervened to help obtain the renomination of Representative B. CARROLL REECE in East Tennessee.

Senator MCKELLAR, a Democrat of that State, is convinced that the President's intervention classifies him permanently as "for the power interests against the people." Mr. REECE had been the leader in resisting the Norris bill for government operation of Muscle Shoals. Through his activities the measure had been blocked in the House. For this he was being attacked by his Republican rival, who contended that Mr. REECE had stood between the people of his region and the economic benefits which would follow passage of the Norris bill. In his extremity the Representative called on the President, whose policy as to Muscle Shoals he knew he had been executing. Apparently Mr. HOOVER decided that the issue was greater than the principle of neutrality between Republican candidates. So he wrote a letter ranging himself, so far as the Muscle Shoals controversy is concerned, squarely with Mr. REECE.

Nearly always when a President intervenes the situation involves what he conceives to be the welfare of a great policy. Because Mr. COOLIDGE could not make his pro-Butler sally seem more than a personal choice over the loyal Coolidge men, he didn't get anywhere with it. Because WOODROW WILSON's attempt to prevent the re-election of Senator REED of Missouri seemed to concern personalities rather than principles, Missouri did not heed him. But he was ill then, and out of the White House. In 1913, fresh in office, he had been powerful enough to bring about the nomination for Governor of New Jersey JAMES R. FIELDER over an equally loyal Wilson adherent, OTTO WITTPEN. JACKSON and ROOSEVELT, though at the end of their terms, were able to designate their successors. Yet four years later ROOSEVELT could not prevent TAFT's renomination. The whole history of White House intervention as between fellow-partisans shows that the practice is full of perils.

"GATEWAY TO AMERICA."

New York, architecturally the most stately city in the world and the most favored in its natural setting, is yet without a suitable court of entrance. A glorious water path leads up to what might be its front door, but those who come must be carried around to enter through great sheds by low side doors. Several plans have been proposed suggesting such treatment of Battery Park and its possible extension as would give a foreground comporting with the towered landscape behind it and giving spacious stage for the ceremonies of the city's official welcome to distinguished guests. It is a project which invites competition by the greatest architects and artists in America. To provide a fit water gateway to the city and to America from the sea were infinitely more of an achievement for democracy than that an emperor should decree a stately pleasure-dome in Xanadu, where the sacred river ran "down to a sunless sea."

Announcement that the New York Board of Trade has taken steps looking to such a development gives promise that what has been an architectural dream may become a reality. The probability is that funds will be forthcoming from private sources, if the city is disposed to accept them, in grateful recognition of the unearned increment of satisfaction in belonging to such a "collectivity" of sky-building people. But whatever the plan, it must be instinct with the spirit of the land to which it gives welcome; it must be designed and fashioned by the highest skill the city can command, and it should in some feature recognize the part which many races whose descendants have entered this port have had in the making of America.

Whatever shape the dominating monument takes—a shaft or a pair of ornamental pillars, such as Jachin and Boaz before the temple, or an arch—it should suggest that welcome which the city offers to those whom it delights to honor and that neighborliness which has made of many nations one.

GROWTH OF THE SOUTH.

Reckoning by geographical sections, it is the South that has seemingly furnished the most sensational figures of population growth in the 1930 census. California is an isolated instance in the Far West, and Michigan is an exception in its own zone. But the South can point in three directions, to Florida, with a gain of 51 per cent; Texas, with a gain of 24.6 per cent, and North Carolina, with one almost as large. Even more impressive are the figures from the cities and towns. Whereas Los Angeles is an exception on the Coast, the South has a long roster—Houston and Chattanooga, with gains of more than 100 per cent,; Oklahoma City, with an even 100; Atlanta, with nearly 75; Memphis, with 55, and Birmingham, with 45. In the smaller towns of the Piedmont industrial region even larger ratios might be quoted. Altogether the census enumerators brought statistical confirmation of that economic renaissance of the Southland which has been the most notable event there of the last decade and whose social and political consequences are deservedly the subject of widespread speculation.

Though the economic transformation of the South, with its resultant advance in power and prestige within the Union, is not to be doubted, later figures from the Census Bureau show that it is not progress conditioned by numbers. Actually it now appears that population in the South in the last decade has increased a trifle more than 14 per cent as against an indicated 16.3 per cent for the country as a whole. The Census Bureau designates by South the entire region from Delaware and the District of Columbia, including both, to Texas, and excluding only Missouri among States at any time spoken of as South. In 1930 the population of this section will be a somewhat smaller percentage of the total population of the country than it was in 1920. Against the impressive gains registered by Florida, Texas and North Carolina must be set Georgia, with virtually no increase since 1920, and only moderate gains—5 to 8.5 per cent—in Virginia, Arkansas and Kentucky.

There are two reasons for this notable growth in the cities of the South coupled with a slow rise in the region as a whole. One is the absence of foreign immigration, the source which has made such enormous contributions to the upbuilding of the cities of the North. In the South industrialization is peculiarly a drift to the cities. Houston, Atlanta and the North Carolina mill cities have been populated by the indigenous inhabitants of the close vicinity. Atlanta's population has soared while the population of Georgia has been standing still. In terms of economic efficiency, the growth of the population has been more qualitative than quantitative. The population of the Southern cities today is almost as purely "native" as it was twenty years ago, if the Yankee immigrants be accepted as a non-alien race.

The second reason for the slow growth of population in the South as compared to its industrial development is Negro emigration to the North. In 1910 very nearly 90 per cent of all the Negroes in the United States lived in the South. In 1920 the ratio was 85 per cent. Today it is undoubtedly lower. Between 1910 and 1920 the Negro population grew by two-thirds in New York City and Philadelphia, one and a half times in Chicago, threefold in Cleveland, sixfold in Detroit.

A DISHARMONY CONFERENCE.

Suffering from a congestion of candidates for Governor and Senator and from severe internal geographical trouble, the Massachusetts Democrats held a harmony conference at Worcester on Monday. The experience of their Republican brethren in 1928 should have warned against the folly of concord-to-order; and, as former Democratic Governor FOSS said before the show, there is no such word as "harmony" in the bright lexicon of Bay State Democracy. Balanced between the desire to be named for Senator and the desire to be Governor, the Hon. JOHN F. FITZGERALD planned a consultation of the powers to agree upon a "balanced ticket." These schemes to instruct or "beat" the primary are best done in a corner. Mr. FITZGERALD's neat notion was broadened and spoiled.

The conference turned out to be a tumultuary assemblage of some 600 delegates, divided into hostile groups. It recalls the golden prime of General BEN BUTLER. Speakers were booed and hissed. A member of the Legislature had to be thrown out by the police for his impassioned fist-work. MURPHY of Marlboro pitched into the Boston Democrats, their quarrels and their "treachery." JAMES JACKSON WALSH of Boston accused Mr. FITZGERALD of insincerity and implied that he was a coward. "Honey FITZ" had found out that the conference wouldn't endorse him and so he was against endorsing anybody. As two Boston candidates for Senator had refused to be bound by the decision of the conference, if it made one, Mr. FITZGERALD's course was necessary. So why pick on him?

If there were more votes than delegates on the lost motion unofficially to propose a pre-primary list of candidates, it is charitable to assume that heat clogged the mathematics of the tellers. The motion was finally defeated by the mystic majority of 13. It is refreshing to record that its proposer was Representative ROLAND D. SAWYER, "the barefoot boy of the Ware hills." There he stands, a candidate for Senator, stockingless like Sockless JERRY SIMPSON of old, and in sandals, as a Senator should be. Senator WALSH, preserving a benevolent neutrality, urged peace. He left before the great moment when Mr. FITZGERALD, whose voice is as strong, if not quite as honeyed, as of old, warbled "Sweet Adeline" to still the shindy. In the evening there was only quiet wordshed. "Honey FITZ" went home to have a conference with Mayor CURLEY, who, he says, is "with him to the finish," and JOSEPH B. ELY, the hope of the Democrats in the western part of the State.

"Honey FITZ" says the Worcester disturbances were "largely created "by those who were paid to attend "the conference by Republican "money." JAMES JACKSON WALSH told the conference that "the Re-"publicans have poured money into "certain places to overburden our "ticket." So the sense of reality seems to be as strong among certain Boston Democrats as their devotion to consonance.

NANKING'S NEW RIVAL.

Efforts of WANG CHING-WEI to take a leading part in the formation of a Northern Government with headquarters at Peking, although less spectacular than the capture of Changsha by the "Reds," are the most interesting bit of news that has come out of China in recent weeks. The reason lies in WANG's personality. Like his present opponent, CHIANG KAI-SHEK, he was an intimate of the late Dr. SUN YAT-SEN and has frequently been referred to as his "heir." More of a dreamer than CHIANG, he is nevertheless a man of great personal force and courage. Of the Chinese leaders who have heretofore had a less prominent rôle he is one of the strongest.

WANG's plans are to win over the Nanking Government of CHIANG KAI-SHEK and then to war on the Communists and radicals in the South and in the Yangtse Valley. It is an ambitious program, only to be achieved if he has the full cooperation of the two old war lords FENG and YEN in the North, and if the Nanking group is unable to put up a fight. But more pertinent than speculations on his success—and the chances, it must be admitted, appear to be strongly against him—is the fact that WANG, once a violent radical, has come over toward middle ground. As a result, he becomes the first really formidable contestant for CHIANG KAI-SHEK's position of dominance. Not even Mr. T. V. SOONG, Nanking's Minister of Finance and a man of rare ability and courage, is in the position of WANG CHING-WEI with respect to the other leaders. An aura of power has long attached to his person.

The continued branding of the left-wing groups as "Communists" suggests that they are relying on Moscow for aid. Rather is it likely that they have made Moscow their model. Like the other leaders in other provinces, their main object is to obtain power. In the upper Yangtse Valley the radicals have for several years been strong. It should be recalled that Hankow was the seat of authority of the notorious EUGENE CHEN, who finally broke with the Nanking group after issuing skillfully worded defiances of the British. Changsha itself was in the hands of so-called "Reds" three years ago. At the time it was explained that many of the people of that district are always prepared for any sort of fray that promises a little looting and the defiance of constituted authorities.

Unfortunately, the uncertainty in China is such that it is impossible to foretell from day to day what may happen. In view of the amazing obstacles overcome by the Nationalists under CHIANG KAI-SHEK three years ago when they marched from Canton to Nanking and finally captured Peking, it would be foolish to say that the reverse project—which appears to be WANG's plan—may not meet with success. But the military movements are less important, in the long run, than the social forces at work. The myth of a "strong man" who will force China into a unified whole seems discredited. In the meantime nationalism is making slow headway, however much it may be hampered by politicians or by military men seeking power for themselves. But the transformation of China into a modernized State cannot possibly proceed at a rapid rate. The most that can be hoped is that there will not be too much suffering and too many setbacks in the process.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

The Book of Hours.

Two weeks ago a letter from ROBERT WITT, Chairman of the National Art Collections Fund, appeared in The Times of London asking British art lovers to complete the amount necessary to keep the Bedford Book of Hours in England. For a year before comparatively small sums had been contributed toward the purchase, but up until a fortnight preceding the final day of option only a little more than a third of the total price had been accumulated by the trustees.

The book, one of the treasures of the Lulworth Castle collection, was offered for sale a year ago. Mr. J. P. MORGAN bought it for $165,000, but did not bring it to this country. Instead, he allowed it to remain in the British Museum with the understanding that the nation could buy it at the same price within the year. It would be brought to New York if the sum were not made up at the end of that time.

After pointing out that nearly two-thirds of the price remained to be obtained, Mr. WITT wrote: "It needs only the response of all who are ashamed to allow Mr. MORGAN's unparalleled generosity to be shown in vain to prove that this country is as determined to retain the book as America was eager to secure it." Contributors came forward promptly and generously, and the treasure was saved for England.

Different Paths but One Goal.

Many an argument would dissolve into thin air if the disputants would stop talking long enough to define their terms. Something like this sort of disappearing act has been done by the bickering over the women's fashions introduced by Paris nearly a year ago. Last September the new styles were no more than launched when a clamor of protest rolled up all over America. Women would never gird themselves in whalebone to achieve a slim waistline and feminine curves. Never again would they trail long skirts and tangle themselves in flimsy draperies while going about their household, office or shop duties.

The answer from France came from the horrified haute couture. The great designers were shocked, but not to the point of speechlessness, at the idea that their elegant robes would be worn in such unsuitable places as subways and on such ineligible figures as those of American working girls. So the battle raged. "We will not wear long skirts in the daytime on the street." "You must not wear long skirts in the daytime on the street."

After a year of turmoil American fashionists announce a triumph. The Autumn styles for everyday wear will be reasonable in outline and length. From Paris reports of the midsummer openings are equally jubilant. The French are happy to have convinced American buyers that long dresses should be worn only on festive evening occasions.

Long Road to the City Beautiful.

Among the distinctions of former Justice FRANCIS KEY PENDLETON, who was buried from St. Thomas's yesterday, was chairmanship of Mayor MCCLELLAN's City Beautiful Committee. That was twenty-five years ago. Now, under Mayor WALKER, there are new chairmen and new committees, but work toward the perpetual object goes on.

As the millions in the boroughs increase, ways must be found to house and feed and transport them. In the necessary processes beauty lapses. Judge PENDLETON and his successors had as their aim a fundamental planning policy which, when finally executed, will achieve a basis of beauty on which the city's ornamental features can be erected. But in any community which grows as swiftly and moves as rapidly as this one the struggle is permanent.

Judge PENDLETON's death serves as a reminder also that the descendants of long-rooted American families continue their traditions of public activity. One grandfather wrote "The Star-Spangled Banner." The other was HAMILTON's intimate and second in the fatal duel. His father was a United States Senator from Ohio. In Virginia the name of Pendleton is, politically and socially, "F. F. V." It is not yet time for widespread fear that the old stock has become totally submerged.

A Memorial to Eielson.

There is something fine in the loyalty of Alaska to the memory of CARL EIELSON, the aviator who gave his life in an attempt to fly to the relief of the crew and passengers of a ship ice-bound off the Siberian Coast. It is not his fame as the pilot of Sir HUBERT WILKINS in the flight across the Arctic Sea to Spitsbergen, and later his service in the Antarctic, that account for the movement to raise a memorial to him. It is to take the form of an aeronautical engineering building at the Alaska Agricultural College and School of Mines.

A fund of $100,000 will be needed. Alaska desires to give expression to its admiration of a man who was much more than a daring pilot. EIELSON organized aviation companies in Alaska, and labored long to provide the Territory with air transportation. He had flown to all parts of it. He was a tremendous worker and an inspiring leader. His death was, indeed, a severe loss to the Territory. But it was the man's character that endeared him to so many. Dr. CHARLES E. BUNNELL, president of Alaska College, who was the first contributor to the fund with a check of $1,000, has said of him:

"His courage, his love for his fellow-men, his loyalty, his sincerity of purpose and his great accomplishments will for all time be an inspiration to youth."

The campaign to raise the Eielson fund is being managed by the American Legion posts of the Territory. It was a flag belonging to Dorman H. Baker Post of Fairbanks that Eielson carried over "the top of the world."

Unity Lacking in Park Plan.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Though it is encouraging to see the City Administration recognizing the need for a comprehensive park plan, it is disappointing to note the unambitious and piecemeal character of the project. Thus, except for the Staten Island section, the plan has no unity, the parks are scattered about without connection.

Moreover, several of the more pretentious schemes for city improvement are not even adverted to. Where is the Riverside Drive extension along the Bronx? Where the parkway bordering the Harlem River? Where the East River boulevard or drive? Why, too, is there no mention of the splendid park at Fort Tryon recently offered as a gift to the city? And why has the suggestion of the New York Regional Plan for converting the municipally owned East River islands into parks been totally disregarded?

A successful plan for future development must be more than just practicable; it must be sufficiently grand and sweeping to arouse enthusiasm. GEORGE J. ELDON.

New York, July 28, 1930.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The attitude of the Sanitation Commissioners promises no immediate improvement in the tidiness of the city streets and Coney Island beach. To quote Commissioner Hand, "it has been suggested that the assistance of the police be requested to hand summonses to those who throw litter carelessly about, but that method does not appeal to me."

This is of course in strict conformity with the permanent policy of "The Hall," that is, nothing must ever be done to endanger the good-will of the great voting mass. There it is in a nutshell. We will never experience tidy streets or general respect for sanitation ordinances, so why start spending more millions in such futile methods for tidying up the city. GENIAL HALL.

HER PRESENCE.

Wherever you are the road is clear,
The earth is richer by far and dear,
And keeping it gently warmly hid
Some one loves you, as once I did.

Living is sweeter wherever you go,
And near you always the flowers grow,
And life is smiling upon you still,
As it always did, as it always will.

Wherever you go there's an open gate,
A greeting to soothe you early and late,
And patiently waiting till you come by,
Some one to love you, as did I!

BETTER BARGAIN FOR CUBA.

Machado Decree Provides for Royalties on Oil Output.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have read with interest the story in THE TIMES of July 20, "Plot to Steal Land in Havana," taken from a Spanish language paper.

This story has distorted the facts. The $8,000,000 mentioned would never have gone into the Cuban Treasury, but to the government engineers as expense money for verifying the surveys. This in addition to their regular salaries.

Under the old mining law of Cuba all minerals belong to the government. When a person takes a claim, he petitions the government, giving at the same time boundary measurements and number of acres in his claim. He also was required to make a deposit to cover the cost to the government of verifying these measurements. If there was any money left in this deposit—and there rarely was—it was returned to the claimant. Title cost the claimant 40 cents an acre. That is all the money the Cuban Treasury received for the oil rights.

Under the new Presidential decree the government is petitioned for a claim in the same manner as heretofore, except that only a nominal deposit is made with the petition and the survey is not verified by the government engineer. The claimant is free to make his own geological studies and start his exploration within three years. If he strikes oil the government takes a royalty of 5 per cent.

It is only fair to Mr. Sage, Mr. Harrah and the rest of us to say that we have all drilled deep exploration wells for oil without the aid of capital from the States. Mr. Sage is down 3,000 feet on his fourth well.

Under the old system the government gets nothing; all the money went for engineers' expenses. Under the new the government stands to receive a royalty of 5 per cent, and the $8,000,000 goes into geological studies and for drilling exploration wells. JOHN HOSKINSON.

THE LATE JUDGE GUY.

An Appreciation of His Work in Behalf of Woman Suffrage.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Former workers for woman suffrage must feel that in the death of Judge Guy they lost one of their most valued counselors and stanchest supporters. He gave his best service to suffrage when the battle was at its hottest, when friends were few and not always reliable. He was often criticized by his fellow-judges for taking part in so unpopular a movement, but his type of belief in democracy took him into the thick of the fight wherever a barrier of race, creed or sex was to be overthrown.

In other fields than political equality he also proved himself an understanding friend of women. He believed in opening the profession to them and used his influence to secure for them fullest opportunities. No man ever did a pluckier thing than did Judge Guy, when a member of the board of trustees of the Infirmary for Women and Children, in blocking the proposal to pass the property of that institution over to the Medical Centre. His letter to the board, which appeared later in THE TIMES in the Spring of 1925, set forth that the proposal if carried out would be a betrayal of a public trust. Judge Guy's stand proved the decisive factor in saving to women doctors the only New York hospital under their own medical jurisdiction.

Again, in his many divorce decisions, Judge Guy showed his sympathetic, human side. When the woman was childless and had adequate means of her own, he strictly limited money allowance, but when there were children and the wife in need of support, he granted generous alimony.

Suggested Traffic Procedure.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A few remedies for traffic conditions have of late occurred to me:

1. The method now used in Atlantic City. The pedestrian must not move on either the red or the green light. However, an orange light is used between each change of the regular lights, upon which signal all wheeled traffic must stop and only people on foot may advance. If a person happens to be in the middle of the street at the time that the light changes he has the right of way over all traffic to enable him to reach the sidewalk in safety.

2. The second mode of procedure is also one in which three lights are necessary. All is the same as the above method except that pedestrians advance on the green light and only traffic which is turning moves on the orange.

3. The last and perhaps most practical way of managing this situation is to retain but two lights, the red and the green. However, instead of having pedestrians cross at corners let them cross in the middle of the block; in this way they will have only two instead of four directions to look for oncoming traffic.

Cleaning Up Coney.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The present movement to clean up the beach at Coney Island is a good one, even if it is long past due.

If receptacles were provided for refuse, and those who do not use them were fined, the littering would soon stop. It might not be a bad idea also to devote a little attention to the shelter houses along the Boardwalk.

Playland at Rye is an illustration of what can be done under intelligent and persistent direction. Though thousands go to Playland from Westchester County, the Bronx, Manhattan and Connecticut, it is a model of cleanliness.

A RARE EXAMPLE.

The Wendel House Offers a Refreshing Refuge for the Romantic Mind.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have just been reading the Topics of The Times "Mystery Story." I think that a highly deserved appreciation should be given to Miss Ella Wendel for her sentimental attachment to the old, red-brick family house on Fifth Avenue and her determination not to tolerate any alterations during her lifetime in that strange yet quite venerable residence.

It is certainly gratifying to discover from time to time such a laudable resistance against the prevailing frenzy of indefinitely accumulating wealth, even to the detriment of those worthy relics of the past, where so many memories—varied in character, but equally sacred—are permanently kept in store to the heart's satisfaction and soul's delight of an exquisitely refined nature.

The scarceness of the case, however, should not be exceedingly lamented. No doubt the rapid and majestic growth of our Greater New York would have been dangerously checked by a more general conservative tendency which would have led in no small measure to a hateful state of stagnation.

Still, the Wendel house standing all alone amid a multitude of sumptuous buildings—so indifferent and inexpressive—as a quiet but persistent protest against the materialistic fury of our age, does unquestionably offer to many a romantic mind a rare refuge as morally refreshing as could be a blessed oasis in a terribly monotonous desert. WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION.

Mr. Beha's Statement of Satisfactory Conditions Is Disputed.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The statement of James Beha that the present conditions of workmen's compensation are satisfactory to the patient and to the private hospitals is not substantiated by facts.

Many of our leading private institutions and many of our leading physicians and surgeons will not accept compensation cases, due to the fact that some of the insurance companies have large staffs of adjusters who question any and every bill, irrespective of the service rendered.

The organization of a committee to investigate the situation should encourage better care of patients, who at present are being pauperized on the basis of the insurance companies not having industry bear the burden but rather the private institutions and practitioners, who must wait months and sometimes years before they are reimbursed by the insurance companies.

For the benefit of the patient, it is hoped that the better institutions and practitioners may be encouraged to take care of industrial accident cases, and that insurance companies will change their attitude of being primarily interested in the turnover and cheapness of closing cases and be solely interested in the permanent results to be obtained.

To Commissioner Mulrooney.

To the Editor of The New York Times.

As I was crossing Union Square today I noticed that Old Glory, lustily breezing from the top of the flagpole of the monument commemorating the Declaration of Independence and fanned by an eastern wind, pointed in the direction of the headquarters of the Communist party, as though to call defiance to the signs almost completely covering that structure. These signs call the Communists for another gathering at the square on Aug. 1, telling them, among other things, to "fight police terror" and to rally for "the defense of the Soviet Union."

Isn't it about time to put a complete stop to the nefarious doings of these Bolsheviki and stamp out this as yet diminutive, though somewhat annoying, sore once and for all?

Grover Whalen was good-natured on May Day. Let Commissioner Mulrooney take a hint from their past behavior and positively forbid the Communists to hold any more meetings.

They Like Our "Cops" in Arkansas.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have just read an Associated Press dispatch in The Arkansas Gazette giving an account of the outings being furnished the kids by New York policemen. I just want the New York cops to know that a guy way down South in Arkansas has read about and heartily approves their action. The article was headed "1,000 New York Children Lose Any Fear They Had of the Cops." If I am ever fortunate enough to see New York, I am sure I will not be afraid of them myself.

No use to tell me the world is not getting better. I am sure that the New York cops are doing something that will go far toward reducing the "crime wave." Future generations of cops will feel the good effect of these outings, and we will all benefit therefrom.

Long live the policeman who first had this happy thought, and may the rest of them live to attend his funeral! GEORGE W. McCANN.

Park Avenue Widening.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Permit me to call attention to the failure of the city authorities to carry out the widening of Park Avenue between Eighty-sixth and Ninety-sixth Streets as yet, in spite of the fact that the money for the improvement was voted long ago; that the one-way traffic rule established by former Commissioner Whalen in Central Park has forced an excess of traffic into the present narrow roadways of Park Avenue; and that the general state of unemployment throughout the country called loudly for the carrying out of every possible public improvement.

TWO TO BROADCAST ON SAME CHANNEL

Tests by WABC Here and WHK at Cleveland Are Authorized by the Radio Board.

WIRED SYSTEM GETS WAVES

Newark Company Will Test Sending of Programs Into Homes by Wire Instead of Through the Air.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Synchronization tests during early morning hours between Stations WABC, key of the Columbia broadcasting system, and WHK of Cleveland were authorized today by the Radio Commission. The tests are designed to prove the feasibility of the operation of more than one-high-powered station on the same channel. They will be conducted between midnight and 6 A. M., Eastern Standard Time, on WABC's channel of 860 kilocycles, with each station authorized to use 5,000-watt power.

Numerous tests have been conducted to determine the practicability of dual operation of high-powered stations on a single frequency, with the objective of eliminating interference by accurate adherence to the assigned frequency of both transmitters. Congestion in the broadcast band would be greatly relieved, radio engineers assert, when synchronization arrived.

The Cleveland station operates regularly on the 1,930-kilocycle channel with 1,000 watts, but will transfer to the WABC frequency during the experiments.

WJZ Seeks 50,000-Watt Transmitter.

The two key stations of the National Broadcasting Company filed applications today with the commission, WJZ seeking authority to install a 50,000-watt transmitter, but without requesting an increase in its licensed power of 30,000 watts, and WEAF asking for an extension from Aug. 27 to Nov. 27 for the completion of its installation of new apparatus of 50,000 watts output.

The commission granted the application of Wired Radio, Inc., of Newark for authority to utilize the eight general experimental frequencies in furtherance of its projected establishment of a system whereby radio programs would be directed into homes by wire lines instead of through space.

The Paramount Broadcasting Corporation, operating Station WSGH-WSDA at Brooklyn, sought a permit to move its station to the location of Stations WBBC and WCGU in Brooklyn and an authorization to move its main studio to the Fox Theatre, at the corner of Flatbush Avenue and Nevins Street in Brooklyn. The board denied the application.

The Bell Telephone Laboratories, Inc., at Ocean Township, N. J., obtained a modification of license to use certain frequencies "in order to complete experimental data obtained with a scale model antennae for long-wave transatlantic radio telephony." The new frequency authorized is 1,816 kilocycles with 100 watts.

Boy Scouts Renew License.

Station WJDS, a ship station operated by the Trenton Mercer Area Council of the Boy Scouts of America, obtained a renewal of a ship license pending receipt of a formal application. The board gave the council permission to carry on daily communication with Amateur Station W3BEW at Trenton.

The Radio Corporation of America obtained special permission to broadcast by short waves during an "endurance flight," but with the stipulation that the license would not exceed ninety days. The channel assignment was 1,608 kilocycles, with 200 watts, and was issued with the proviso that the applicant file a "formal application through proper channels immediately."

Sthtion WMBJ, operated by Peter J. Prinz at Jamaica, N. Y., obtained a permit to move its transmitter and studio from 10 New York Boulevard to 146-10 Jamaica Avenue.

Theft of a 1926 Ford Car Is Classed as Petit Larceny

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 29.—The Westchester County grand jury held today that theft of a 1926 product of the Ford factory does not constitute grand larceny.

An indictment was sought by Port Chester authorities against William Stokes, alleged to have stolen a 1926 Ford in that village. He was charged with second-degree grand larceny. The grand jury refused to indict Stokes, voting to return the case to the Court of Special Sessions in Port Chester with a recommendation that Stokes be prosecuted for petit larceny.

FINDS NO 'RIGGING' IN KOLSTER RADIO

Master Absolves Spreckels and Others of Legal Blame in $12,000,000 Stock Profit.

TRACES INSOLVENCY CAUSE

Bernhard Attributes It to the Depression in the Industry and Lack of Funds.

Rudolph Spreckels, chairman of the board of directors of the Kolster Radio Corporation, and other officers and directors of the company were absolved of legal blame in the sale of Kolster stock at net profits totaling about $12,000,000 by the report of John A. Bernhard, Special Master of Chancery, made public in Newark yesterday.

Mr. Bernard was named Special Master by Vice Chancellor Church to investigate charges that some one had "rigged the market" in the sale of Kolster stock. The charge was made by Albert Schwartz, Paterson lawyer and a stockholder, at a court hearing following a receivership application by Jacob Meyer, a stockholder. Ellery W. Stone, president of the Kolster Company; Harry G. Hendricks and Harry Meyers were named receivers on Jan. 21 last.

The report presents the findings on a series of hearings held by Mr. Bernhard, at which the principal witnesses were Spreckels, Mr. Stone and Frederick Dietrich and Maurice A. Rypinski, directors of Kolster. Mr. Bernhard said that in selling their stock at considerable profit they had violated no legal obligation to the stockholders. He commented:

Makes No Recommendations.

"The question is, were Mr. Spreckels and his associates under a moral or legal duty to disclose to the stockholders the disposition of their shares? I leave the situation as I find it because I have concluded that the officers were under no legal obligation to inform stockholders of their private transactions."

The master also found that the sale of large blocks of stock by officers of the company did not cause its insolvency. This was caused by a general depression in the radio industry and by inability to raise funds, he said.

The charge that the market was "rigged" was not substantiated, the report found, but added:

"Spreckels, Rypinski and Dietrich were participants in a syndicate operated by George F. Breen. They supplied the stock; Breen doled it out to the public."

The reference is to George F. Breen. Mr. Bernhard emphasized his efforts to examine Breen's activities, saying that as a resident of New York Breen had refused to submit to questioning in New Jersey.

Recalls Heavy Losses.

Without drawing conclusions on the subject, the report declares that Mr. Stone must have known early in 1929 that the company was sustaining serious losses, and that hundreds of thousands of shares in Kolster had been sold by Messrs. Spreckels, Rypinski, Dietrich and himself.

Filing of the report yesterday coincided with the submission to Vice Chancellor Church of a plan by S. P. Woodard & Co., Inc., of New York to reorganize the Kolster Company. The court directed interested parties to show cause on Sept. 16 why the offer should not be accepted.

The plan contemplates putting $4,050,000 into the reorganized company and is made contingent on reaching by Sept. 23 a satisfactory method of discharging Kolster obligations totaling $1,359,536.14 by Messrs. Spreckels and Dietrich, and $1,198,541.53 by the National City Bank, guaranteed by Messrs. Spreckels and Dietrich. It is proposed to do this by means of stock transactions.

DR. WISE EULOGIZES REV. DR. SILVERMAN

COFFIN PLACED IN CHANCEL

Exceptional Honor Marks Rites for Rabbi-Emeritus—Many Organizations Represented.

The funeral of the Rev. Dr. Joseph Silverman took place yesterday morning in Temple Emanu-El, Fifth Avenue and Sixty-fifth Street. Dr. Silverman, who died Saturday afternoon at his residence, 55 East Eighty-sixth Street, was rabbi of the congregation for thirty-four years and was rabbi emeritus for the last eight years. There were more than 1,200 people at the service.

The coffin was placed on the chancel, in the circle that represents the Tree of Life, directly in front of the ark. This was the first body to be accorded such an honor since the funeral of Louis Marshall, president of the congregation.

Although more than 100 floral offerings were received only two were taken into the temple. One was a blanket of orchids and pale pink roses, the gift of the four sons-in-law and daughters of Dr. Silverman. The other was a great wreath of large yellow roses and lilies of the valley, which was the gift of the trustees of the temple.

In the front pew were Mr. Silverman's widow and his sons-in-law and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Michaelis, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard L. Campe and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Gluck of this city and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Siegel of Larchmont, N. Y.

Trustees Head Pallbearers.

The honorary pallbearers were headed by five trustees of the temple. Those present were Sydney H. Herman, vice president of the congregation; Ben Altheimer, Philip J. Goodhart, Arthur Zinn and Carl Rosenberger.

There was no processional. The service began with the singing of "Chivisi Adonai" by Dr. Simon Schlager, the cantor of the temple for many years, with the hidden choir singing the responses. The eulogy was delivered by the Rev. Dr. Stephen S. Wise, rabbi of the Free Synagogue.

"Dr. Silverman was a courageous and outspoken representative of reform Judaism, a faithful disciple of his great teacher, Isaac Mayer Wise," said Dr. Wise. "But to the honor of Dr. Silverman be it said, that while he was uncompromising in his allegiance to the Jewish reform movement, he was too broad-visioned to secede from catholic Israel and become a mere Jewish sectarian.

"After a life of service within the precincts of the shrine of Emanu-El, he came to see, as had seen a great teacher of Emanu-El before him—Gustav Gottheil—that back of every phase of Judaism—orthodox, conservative or reform—stands the eternal Jewish people.

"The last decade of Dr. Silverman's life he dedicated to his people's cause with that renewal of fervor and almost youthful enthusiasm which the service of Zionism gives to them that have part therein. His was the joy of knowing and teaching the Jewish masses in the last and finest decade of his life, and a loving pilgrimage to Palestine became a part of the new and deepest devotion of his life.

Americanism Praised.

"Dr. Silverman was an American. He was not only an American patriot, but almost fanatical to every American ideal. He was rugged and uncompromising in his devotion to the standard conceptions of America and in the ideals of loyalty which suffer no deviation or turning.

"Joseph Silverman was a messenger of good-will to the Christian world, but he would not barter the essence of his faith for the mere conventionalities of superficial relationship.

"Traditionally these are the days of mourning in the life of our people, but the Sabbath of comfort will soon be here. As if the word were spoken to Joseph Silverman, we hear the divine bidding 'Comfort ye, comfort ye, my people.' May the divine mercy give strength and healing to his wife and children and children's children who shared and blessed his life. And may the Congregation Emanu-El find comfort in the remembrance of a servant of Israel who faithfully ministered within these walls throughout forty years."

At the conclusion of the eulogy Miss Renie Sheiber, formerly a member of Emanu-El choir, and a lifelong friend of the Silverman family, sang "Oh, for the Wings of a Dove," by Mendelssohn. After the solo, Rabbi H. G. Enelow of the temple read the Twenty-third Psalm.

William Rutherford, organist of the temple, played Handel's "Largo" as the coffin was carried out.

The burial was in the family plot at Salem Field Cemetery, Long Island. The service at the grave was conducted by Dr. Schlager.

The Central Conference of America Rabbis, of which Dr. Silverman was the president for three years, was represented by Rabbi Joseph Stolz of Chicago. He is the only surviving classmaate of Dr. Silverman in the Hebrew Union College of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Other pallbearers and the organizations they represented were:

Last evening prayers were conducted at the Silverman home by Rabbi Morris Eisenberg, a life-long friend of Dr. Silverman.

FREES TWO SITTERS, ATTACKS CHAIR BAN

Coney Magistrate Rules Law Applies to Renting of Seats, Not to Using Them.

HALLERAN SCORES MEYERS

Acting Borough Head Says Beach Concessionaire Would Bar Baby Carriages as Well.

The chair-sitting situation at Coney Island was partly cleared up yesterday by Magistrate Sylvester Sabbatino, sitting in Coney Island court, who dismissed the cases of two women arrested last week for bringing their private furniture on the beach and ruled that the old anti-chair ordinance was intended to discourage the unauthorized renting of chairs rather than to prevent the public from bringing its own.

It was the first official ruling since the police opened their drive on sitters a week ago. Six of the twenty-eight persons arrested had previously pleaded guilty and received suspended sentences. The remaining twenty are to appear before Magistrate David Hershfield Aug. 6.

Mrs. Helen McLaughlin, 38 years old, of 2 Washington Square, and Mrs. Grace Taylor, 38 years old, of 6 Siegfried Court, Coney Island, were the two women who had decided to make a test case of the arrests. With them was Assemblyman Albert D. Schanzer of Brighton Beach, who had volunteered his services. The women admitted sitting on the beach in their own chairs, but demanded a hearing. Assemblyman Schanzer then stepped forward and said:

"Your Honor, I don't believe the ordinance was intended for private individuals. I think the Board of Aldermen meant to prevent private individuals from renting chairs on the beach."

Magistrate Sabbatino, after reading the ordinance, agreed that that probably was what the law-givers meant. His interpretation of the law, he said, was that persons offering chairs for hire were required to have permits, and that the private sitter needed no permission. Looking over the crowded court room, where 300 persons had jammed into a space intended for one-third the number, he added:

"As a matter of fact, we have a violation of an ordinance right here. We are in the middle of a fire hazard. I do not know to whom I should serve summonses, but according to the ordinance about 150 persons present should not be here. There are a great many ordinances which should be enforced only in certain cases."

He then discharged the defendants, who left the room jubilant. The question now is whether Corporation Counsel Hilly will take the same view of the ordinance when he reports his decision to Borough President Hesterberg today or tomorrow. Meanwhile, residents are flaunting their temporary sitting privileges.

Acting Borough President John J. Halleran of Queens announced that he would invite Alexander Meyers, president of the M. and C. Chair Operating Company, Inc., which holds the Coney concession, to appear at Borough Hall and substantiate his charges that $1 and $2 a day are being asked at Rockaway Beach for the use of chairs and umbrellas.

"This charge is unjustified and is a libel against the law-abiding permittees renting chairs at Rockaway Beach under permits granted by Borough President Harvey," he declared.

"These permits restrict the permittees to a maximum charge of 50 cents a day on weekdays and 75 cents on Sundays for umbrellas and chairs. If Mr. Meyers's charge can be substantiated with respect to any one of these permittees, their privileges will be revoked at once. If there are others operating at Rockaway Beach without licenses, they will be arrested.

"We do not permit monopolies at Rockaway Beach. The privileges of renting chairs have been extended to twenty-four persons owning or leasing property on the beach-front or on streets abutting the beach. They pay $100 per season.

"The trouble with Mr. Meyers is that he would use his Coney Island contract as a club to make mothers and children rent his chairs rather than be allowed the privilege of using their own. Why, under his demands upon the city a mother would not be permitted to take a baby carriage upon the beach, but would have to hire one of his chairs as a cradle."

Only one peddler appeared in court yesterday and only twelve summonses for peddling on the beach were issued during the day. Whether this was due to Magistrate Sabbatino's criticism of police zeal on Monday, when 100 appeared in court, or to the diminished crowds on the beach, was not decided. The magistrate gave the one prisoner a suspended sentence.

VAUSE NOT IN COURT TO FACE STATE CHARGES

Attorney Explains He Is Ill—Hearing for Nine Defendants Deferred Until Next Week.

Nine men who were indicted with former Judge W. Bernard Vause last May by the New York County grand jury on grand larceny charges growing out of the failure last December of the Columbia Finance Corporation were arraigned yesterday before Judge Nott in General Sessions. Vause was not in court, his lawyer explaining he was ill.

Those who answered the indictments were Solomon Cruso, former president of the defunct corporation; Abraham Rayman, former treasurer; Joseph P. Marmak, former secretary; Samuel Schuchman, Harry Cruso, Samuel Cruso, Max Barmak, William Rayman and Louis N. Vause, a brother of the former jurist.

Although Solomon Cruso, Abraham Rayman and Joseph P. Marmak offered to enter guilty pleas to those of the twelve local indictments in which they were named, Judge Nott deferred acceptance of the pleas until their next arraignment before Judge Koenig in General Sessions next Tuesday. Judge Nott said, however, that it was unlikely that former Judge Vause and the other six defendants would be called for trial until the Fall.

He explained that he did not intend to take action in the cases in advance of the imposition of sentences today by Judge Coxe in the Federal court on Vause, Samuel Schuchman and Harry Cruso, who were convicted last Friday on charges of using the mails to defraud.

Solomon Cruso, a brother of one of the convicted men; Joseph P. Barmak and Abraham Rayman also had pleaded guilty to the Federal indictments and are to be sentenced by Judge Coxe today. In declining to accept the guilty pleas from these three Judge Nott pointed out that if they were accepted he would be forced to impose sentences immediately or place them under high bail, to which he was opposed because of the Federal charges still pending against them.

Samuel M. Cruso, William Rayman, Max Barmak and Louis N. Vause were acquitted by the Federal court jury last Friday.

6 DRUG RINGS BROKEN WITH 24 ARRESTS

15 HELD SECRETLY HERE

$500,000 IN DRUGS FOUND

Federal Agents Bought $15,000 in Narcotics to Trap Suspects—Pistols Foil a Rescue.

In a drive centring in New York but extending down the Eastern seaboard as far south as Alabama, Federal narcotic agents have smashed six narcotic rings, arrested twenty-four alleged wholesale dealers in narcotics and their agents, and seized several thousand ounces of opium, morphine, heroin and yen shee, United States Attorney Tuttle and the Treasury Department in Washington announced simultaneously yesterday.

Fifteen of the arrests were made in this city in the last three days and seven of the alleged ringleaders were arraigned in Federal court yesterday afternoon and held in high bail. The largest ring, headed by Anthony La Pinta, east side importer, who is said to have had connections reaching from Washington to Detroit, did a business of more than $1,000,000 annually, according to Mr. Tuttle.

Another gang, with headquarters in Norfolk, Va., and storage facilities on a near-by farm, is said to have operated on a rival scale in the South. From offices on upper Broadway a third ring directed sales as far west as Hollywood.

Traffic Put at $3,000,000 Yearly.

Its alleged chief was arrested with a box of morphine in his hands addressed to a person located in the motion picture colony. In his office was found a book with the names, undisclosed by the Federal agents, of a few select customers in Hollywood. The total yearly business of the gangs was put at $3,000,000.

"It is one of the largest round-ups of sources of supply and sellers of drugs in the history of the country," Mr. Tuttle declared. "The purchases made by the agents were larger than ever before. About $15,000 worth of narcotics was bought for use as evidence and the agents were successful in arresting every person they had planned to take into custody. The dragnet has caught the really large dealers. The small peddlers will be taken in later."

The raids were made under the general direction of Harry J. Anslinger, acting head of the narcotic division of the Treasury Department. Pooling their information, undercover men worked for three months to accomplish the arrests. They were aided by Joseph A. Manning, narcotic agent in charge in New York; J. B. Greeson, agent in charge in Washington, and R. A. Sanders, detective of the metropolitan force of Washington.

Tips originating in secret underworld sources led to contacts with some of the gangs, and connecting links between the organizations were discovered. In several instances undercover men were able to work their way into minor positions in the drug operations.

Opium Traced to Turkey.

The main source of smuggled opium was traced to Turkey, and other European countries were found to be supplying manufactured drugs. The contributions of the Orient were small, according to the agents, and the Port of New York appeared to be the principal port of entry.

Although most of the arrests were quietly made, one was spectacular. This was the arrest of La Pinta, accused as the leader of the foremost gang. He had twice made sales to Narcotic Agent Joseph Define, amounting to $1,000, according to Mr. Tuttle, when it was decided to end his business.

Three agents, among them R. C. Crabtree, drove to 256 Elizabeth Street Monday evening. One of them who had gained La Pinta's confidence called him out of a room where he was said to have maintained a gambling establishment. Once on the sidewalk, he was put under arrest, but his vigorous protests brought a crowd of his friends to his side. Their threats made the agents draw their revolvers and they backed their way with the prisoner to the automobile.

After La Pinta had been questioned Agents Joseph Grant and William G. Shaffer took him to the Federal Building. As they left the elevator at the second floor a dozen men suddenly crowded around them as if intent on freeing their prisoner in the confusion. Again the agents had to draw pistols. The men ran down the stairs as deputy marshals were summoned.

According to reports to the agents, La Pinta is the son of an Italian marquis and has a home on Long Island. They charge him with having maintained a direct European supply of drugs and a distributing agency that extended to Cincinnati, Cleveland and Detroit. As he was being arrested two men said to be in his employ were seized in Washington as they were making a delivery of seventy-five ounces of morphine to a Federal agent.

La Pinta's chief lieutenant, Frank De Feo, alias Frankie Fields, also fell into the hands of the treasury men at the Pennsylvania Station on Saturday. He is accused of having made three sales of heroin, totaling $1,500, to Agent Define and a companion.

De Feo's particular field of operation is said to have been in Wilmington, Del., where he is said to have also conducted a gambling house and speakeasy, in addition to peddling drugs through Delaware and Pennsylvania. Mr. Tuttle was told that De Feo was once a lightweight prize fighter, going under the name of Frankie Fields.

The Hollywood narcotic specialist was said to be J. A. Swinford, alias J. A. Kincaid, alias Reno or Denver Red, who was arrested Saturday at 249 West Eightieth Street, just off Broadway. The business depression was held accountable for his fall. A Federal agent had aproached him a year ago, but the small size of the drug order which the agent wished to place made him suspicious and negotiations were broken off.

Lately, according to the agents, Swinford had been driven to making smaller sales. The ubiquitous Agent Define, who participated in most of the trailing in New York, was able to make three purchases amounting to $1,300 in the last four months, it is charged. When arrested several ounces of drugs and a complete opium smoking outfit were found in his apartment in addition to records of customers, Mr. Tuttle said.

Woman Seized as Ringleader.

A woman, Mrs. Henrietta Espesita, is said to have been the leading spirit of the Norfolk gang, directing it from New York headquarters, near the source of supply. She was arrested Monday at her home in Brooklyn, 1,863 Sixty-third Street, charged with having made four sales of morphine to Agent Define, in which a total of $2,385 was paid to her.

According to the authorities, her brother-in-law, Vincent Versace directed sales in Norfolk and adjacent parts of the South from a farm near that city. He and Al Riportella, an alleged employe, have been arrested there. Supposed to be more or less associated with the Norfolk operations, John Aqualino, alias John H. Williams, alias John Lagana, was arrested Monday at the Pennsylvania Station. Define reported having bought $1,930 worth of morphine and heroin from him since April.

One of the other important gangs is said to have been headed by Joseph Cuco and Anthony Bicarde, who were arrested last week in Birmingham, Ala.

Not connected with any of the gangs, but arrested here on a drug charge was another woman, Margaret Horan, whose address was withheld. Mr. Tuttle said that she was charged with smuggling narcotics into the penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan.

According to the Federal authorities, the final evidence against some of the gangs was obtained in the seizure of 4,000 ounces of drugs on the steamer Inch[illegible] the Black Diamond Line when it docked at Hoboken last Saturday. This was one of the largest consignments of smuggled drugs ever reported.

Locked in the two large safes in the Treasury at Washington are the $500,000 worth of narcotics seized in connection with the various arrests. This will be held for evidence at the various trials which the department hopes to push to speedy conclusions.

$8,346 Left in Bank by Shaker Is Awarded to Community

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., July 29.—Judge Arthur M. Robinson decreed in Probate Court today that $8,346 in securities in the name of William Anderson, who died Feb. 18, belong to the South Family of Shakers, Mount Lebanon, N. Y.

Anderson made the famous Shaker chairs for the family, and after his death in his ninety-first year securities in his name were found in a safe deposit box in the Agricultural National Bank here.

The court found that when Anderson joined the Shakers at the age of 12 he renounced all rights to hold property.

A niece, Eva R. Schoene, of East Orange, N. J., was Anderson's only relative.

2 HELD IN POLICE MURDER.

Remanded Without Bail in Shooting of Patrolman During Hold-Up.

Two Negroes charged with shooting and killing Patrolman Dominick Caviglia of the West Sixty-eighth Street station during a hold-up of a policy game "bank" at 228 West Sixty-third Street Saturday night were held without bail for examination Aug. 6 by Magistrate Renaud in Homicide Court yesterday.

The accused men are Joseph I. Stevenson, 20 years old, of 244 West Fifty-third Street, and Arthur Morris, 19, of 12 West 115th Street. The former admitted that with Morris and a third man, who escaped with $1,100, they executed the hold-up. The patrolman entered before Stevenson and Morris had left. He was shot in the abdomen and died Monday in Roosevelt Hospital.

A funeral with an inspector's honors will be held for Caviglia at 9:30 A. M. tomorrow from his home at 16 Van Nest Place. The service will be at St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church, Washington Place, near Sixth Avenue. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

MATRICIDE GETS 50 YEARS.

Iowa Boy, 14, Confessed He Slew Mother After Drinking Beer.

IDA GROVE, Iowa, July 29 (AP).—Lester Mohr, 14, confessed slayer of his mother, Mrs. Gus Mohr, was sentenced today to fifty years imprisonment.

Judge P. J. Klinker said that because of the youth's age he would not impose a life term.

The boy, who pleaded guilty, said he had been drinking "spiked" beer and had gone home where he quarreled with his mother over some work.

When his mother slapped him, the boy testified, he beat her with bricks, then shot and killed her.

HAVEMEYER HOME ON FIFTH AV. TO GO

2 OTHER PLOTS INVOLVED

Work on Cooperative Venture Headed by Elliman & Co. Will Start at Once.

The site of the home of the late Henry O. Havemeyer, multi-millionaire sugar man, on the northeast corner of Sixty-sixth Street and Fifth Avenue, where the famous Havemeyer art collection was housed before it was presented by the family to the Metropolitan Museum of Art, has been leased, it was learned yesterday, and the residence will soon be torn down.

The property, which will be improved at once with a cooperative apartment house, has been leased to a syndicate organized by Douglas L. Elliman & Co.

Added to this plot will be the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. Watson Webb, née Havemeyer, at 852 Fifth Avenue, and the home of the present Mr. and Mrs. Horace Havemeyer, 853 Fifth Avenue.

These three houses form a plot fronting 100 feet on Fifth Avenue and 125 feet on East Sixty-sixth Street.

Adjoining on the east is the former home of General Ulysses S. Grant, and across the street, on the opposite corner of Fifth Avenue, is the cooperative apartment house erected by several members of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co.

Other Mansions Lost to Avenue.

The famous Fifth Avenue mansions which have disappeared within the past few years or have been marked for demolition include the Goelet house at the southeast corner of Forty-ninth Street and Fifth Avenue, just demolished; the John I. Kane house at the northwest corner of Forty-ninth Street and Fifth Avenue, about to give way to the Rockefeller Radio City; the W. D. Sloane and W. K. Vanderbilt houses at Fifty-second Street and Fifth Avenue, the Cornelius Vanderbilt château occupying the block front from Fifty-seventh to Fifty-eighth Street on Fifth Avenue, the Vincent Astor house at Sixty-fifth Street and Fifth Avenue, and the Clark, Henry Phipps, C. P. Huntington, William C. Whitney, Woolworth, Hammersley, Hutton, Clews, Duke and Blair mansions.

Accompanying this change Fifth Avenue values have increased enormously as available plots have become more scarce.

The northeast corner of Sixty-sixth Street and Fifth Avenue, on the southern slope of Lenox Hill, overlooks one of the finest sections of the park. Immediately to the north are the homes of Harry Payne Whitney, Mrs. E. H. Harriman, Glendenning Ryan, Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt and Mrs. Orme Wilson.

Acquired on 84-Year Lease.

The corner involving the three parcels of property has been acquired on a lease extending over a period of eighty-four years. Douglas L. Elliman & Co. were represented in the transaction by Arthur D. Holmes. The rent over the full period of the lease, plus the cost of building, will be in excess of $25,000,000.

The old house on the corner, while it looks like one large building, is really two complete private dwellings divided by a party wall. The corner house, which occupies a plot fronting 75.5 feet on Fifth Avenue and 125 feet on the north side of Sixty-sixth Street, was the original Havemeyer house, built several decades ago.

The adjoining house, similar in every respect to the corner house from an architectural standpoint, occupies a plot fronting 25 feet on the Avenue and was originally owned by Oliver Payne, the uncle of Harry Payne Whitney and Payne Whitney.

Later this house was purchased by the late Mrs. Henry Havemeyer and occupied by members of the family.

The larger property is assessed by the city of New York at about $1,000,000. Of this amount about $800,000 represents land value.

The smaller parcel is assessed at about $350,000, of which $200,000 is the value placed on the land.

Douglas L. Elliman & Co., who will act as selling and managing agents for the new cooperative building, report that negotiations are pending for the sale of several apartments in the projected building. The building will contain about fourteen apartments.

MAYOR PRESENTS $100 TO HIT-RUN INFORMANT

Queens Taxi Driver Who Took Number of Fleeing Motorist Gets Auto Club Award.

Mayor Walker presented a check for $100 to a Queens taxi driver on the steps of City Hall yesterday noon as a reward for information he had given which led to the arrest of a hit-and-run driver. The Mayor made the presentation in behalf of the New York Automobile Club, the local unit of the American Automobile Association, which on Feb. 6 posted for a six months' test an offer of that amount to any private citizen who performed such a service. It was the fourth reward paid since the offer went into effect.

The man who received the reward is Edward A. Miller, 42 years old, who lives with his wife and child at 119-08 146th Street, South Ozone Park. On May 18 he was entering his cab at South and Washington Streets, Jamaica, when a car driven by John Hayman of 23 Prospect Avenue, Glen Cove, L. I., knocked down Robert McKinley of 89-11 115th Street, Richmond Hill.

Hayman drove on a short distance, Miller said yesterday, returned in his car, saw McKinley lying in the street and sped off. Before he left Miller was able to get his number. Hayman was arrested later. He pleaded guilty. His license was revoked and he was sentenced to six months in the workhouse by Magistrate Giorgio.

"Aside from the fact that you did a public service and got the $100," Mayor Walker told Miller yesterday, "you are not the only one who could use it. Perhaps this will give the rest of us who are too lazy to stop and report an accident when we see one the impulse to get a hundred for ourselves."

Police Commissioner Mulrooney, Deputy Police Commissioner Philip D. Hoyt, in charge of traffic; Thomas F. McAndrews, secretary to the Mayor, and Owen B. Augspurger, president, and J. R. Crossley, general manager of the New York Automobile Club, witnessed the presentation.

LANDMARK WHICH IS TO BE RAZED.

Home of the late Henry O. Havemeyer, sugar magnate, on north corner of Sixty-sixth Street and Fifth Avenue, to be demolished and a cooperative apartment erected on site.

CARROLL WINS PLEA FOR A JURY TRIAL

Rosalsky Transfers 'Vanities' Case to General Sessions—Indictments Now Required.

PROSECUTION TO BE PUSHED

Grand Jury to Get Evidence Against Producer and Three in Raided Revue Next Week.

By an order signed by General Sessions Judge Rosalsky yesterday the charge that Earl Carroll, theatrical producer, and three members of the cast of his "Vanities" gave an objectionable performance last July 9 will have to be laid before the grand jury before it can be prosecuted further.

Judge Rosalsky granted the motion of Louis Vorhaus, counsel for Carroll, also acting counsel for Jimmy Savo, comedian; Miss Faith Bacon, a dancer, and Miss Kay Carroll, an actress, to transfer the trial of the four defendants from Special to General Sessions.

The defendants had been held for trial in Special Sessions by Magistrate Gotlieb soon after the police raid on the play about three weeks ago.

Inasmuch as no trials can be held in General Sessions except on indictments, Judge Rosalsky's action made it necessary for a grand jury to act. Assistant District Attorney Harold W. Hastings, head of the indictment bureau, announced that the grand jury proceeding would begin next week.

In his argument Mr. Carroll's lawyer pointed out that fifteen years ago Judge Rosalsky had granted a similar motion in the case of several persons arrested in connection with an alleged objectionable performance of a skit, "The Garden of Passion," at the old Hammerstein Victoria Theatre.

In that decision Judge Rosalsky wrote: "The question whether a play or entertainment on the stage is obscene or indecent or tends to suggest impure thoughts is one that should be presented to a jury. The case should be investigated by men taken from the various walks of life, such as constitute juries in our courts of record and who are, according to the theory of our laws, best qualified to judge as to what inference and conclusions ought to be drawn from a given state of facts."

It was pointed out yesterday that, while it is discretionary with the grand jury whether it will return an indictment, in the event a bill is returned it still would be possible for the defense lawyers to demur to it and resort to other motions to bring about its dismissal without trial on the ground the evidence did not justify the bill.

James F. Sinnott, Fifth Deputy Police Commissioner, and Acting Captain James J. Coy, the play censor of the Police Department, led the raid on "Vanities" about three weeks ago. Coy was the principal witness in the magistrate's hearing.

HEAT KILLS NAVY VETERAN.

Blind Snug Harbor Inmate Awarded $33,000 Was on Auto Trip.

HERRIN, Ill., July 29 (AP).—John Swanson, 67, blind retired sailor, a resident of Sailors' Snug Harbor in New York, died here last night from heat prostration. He was a veteran of the navy.

At the Sailors' Snug Harbor, Staten Island, it was stated yesterday that Swanson, who was registered there under the first name of Olaf, had been admitted in 1927. He left there a few days ago with friends on an automobile tour to Illinois.

Swanson lost his eyesight when a German submarine torpedoed an oil-burning freight ship on which he was an engineer. After being rescued he received treatment for ten years in several hospitals.

A claim was filed by his attorney, Paul T. Davis, 551 Fifth Avenue, with the Mixed Claims Commission for the loss of his sight. The case was settled three months ago, when Swanson received $33,000.

He purchased an automobile for himself and his friends. They made frequent trips from Snug Harbor, Swanson declaring that he intended to make up for his ten years in hospitals.

He has no relatives in this country, his attorney said yesterday. He was born in Sweden.

Netram, a native of India converted to Christianity in the West Indies; "Rusticus Loquitur," in which the Indian cultivator speaks for himself, is by Malcom Lyall Darling, an official of the Punjab Co-operative Societies.

CHILD SAYS FATHER MADE FAMILY STEAL

MAN HELD DESPITE DENIAL

Young Witness Accuses Him of Whippings With Belt to Spur Thefts From Stores.

Mary Chovanec, a slight, fair-haired, 12-year-old girl, took the witness stand before Magistrate Richard F. McKiniry in Yorkville Court yesterday and accused her father of forcing her and three brothers and sisters to steal from stores in the neighborhood of their home at 1,525 Second Avenue. When they failed to bring home enough booty, she told the court as she glanced fearfully toward her father, he made them kneel for punishment on a broom handle pierced with nails and beat them with a belt.

The father, Joseph Chovanec, janitor of the building in which the family lived, followed his daughter on the stand. Speaking so low and indistinctly that he could hardly be understood, he admitted beating the children, but said he did it "because they were bad."

After hearing both sides Magistrate McKiniry found the father guilty of disorderly conduct and remanded him without bail for sentence on Friday, pending further investigation of the case.

The three other children, Steven, 13 years old; John, 10, and Julia, 8, did not come to court. Together with Mary, they had been in the custody of the Children's Society since Saturday. The mother, Anna Chovanec, corroborated her husband's testimony that the children had to be whipped because they stayed out late at night.

Mary told her story with seeming reluctance. Her eyes were wide with fear and she fingered nervously a plaything that she carried. She spoke so low that the magistrate had to ask her to repeat several times.

The beatings were continuous, she said, and took place whenever the children did not steal enough from the stores. Most of the stealing, she testified, was from a 5 and 10-cent store. Sometimes, she told the court, the broomstick was placed on the fire escape, and there the children had to kneel on it, locked outdoors.

John De Vita, agent of the Children's Society, said he visited the tenement last Friday after some one in the neighborhood had lodged a complaint. At that time, he said, Mary told him the same story she repeated in court yesterday, and the other children also told of having been beaten.

Mary's face, he said, was bruised, evidently as a result of a beating with the belt, which had a buckle on it. De Vita said he had not seen the nail-studded broomhandle. When he asked the children if they wanted to stay at home, he said, they all answered "Yes." But when he left they followed him to the apartment of the person who lodged the complaint and asked him to take them away.

The case came up in Children's Court the following day and the four children were remanded in custody of the Children's Society.

De Vita said he did not learn just what articles the children had to steal or what the father did with them.

Up-State Camp Head Ends Life.

HERKIMER, N. Y., July 29 (AP).—George A. Burdick, proprietor of a sportsmen's camp at Big Moose, in the Adirondacks, committed suicide with a shotgun today. For two hours yesterday afternoon he had been questioned by two representatives of the Sheriff's office in the belief that he might have some knowledge of the destruction of the Big Moose Church in an incendiary fire, July 19. Burdick left a note addressed to "the citizens of Big Moose," in which he denied having anything to do with the church fire.

DESIGNERS HERE PUT BAN ON LONG SKIRTS

Silhouette Will Be About the Same as Last Year, They Decree for America.

PARIS INFLUENCE DECRIED

Style Group Asserts American Fashions Are Created Here, and Resist French Dictates.

Declaring their independence of any Parisian style dictatorship for longer skirts for women, the style creator group of the Associated Dress Industries of America met at 570 Seventh Avenue yesterday and decreed that there would be no change in skirt lengths. At the same time the Industrial Council of Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers, Inc., announced that it would resist the move of the French designers to lengthen skirts.

"It may as well be settled once and for all that Paris fashions are definitely unsuitable to the American woman excepting as a basis for adaptation or as style hints," said David N. Mosessohn, executive chairman of the style creator group.

"There is much misapprehension in the minds of American women as to the importance of Parisian style dictatorship.

Styles Created Here.

"Style for America is created here in America in dresses by a style creative group which is formed of originators having creative genius particularly adapted to practical purposes for this country.

"Retailers here who are style-conscious recognize to the full that styles are American-created. And they are already completely aware that the newer dresses and gowns on display in authentic showrooms conform to practically the same lengths as those of the past season.

"This important session of our style creators has established definitely the length of the silhouette and should eliminate beyond a doubt any mistaken conception from whatever source that there will be a change in lengths.

"The treatment of the silhouette will be subject, as usual, to individual interpretation of the different creative stylists, and our American designers who form the stylist group are very jealous of that ingenuity which is everlastingly attributed to foreign sources instead of being credited to America."

The announcement of the style creator group says that the merchandise retailer has recognized the status of the American creator and that the time has come for the ultimate consumer to recognize New York's originality.

Will Resist Any Shifting.

"I believe that I speak for the majority of the 300 creators and producers who comprise the Industrial Council of Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers, Inc., when I say that we would actively resist any attempts on the part of the French couture to re-enact the sudden shifting that created havoc in this industry last Fall," said Samuel Greenberg, acting president of the Industrial Council, in a letter to Franklin Simon, department store owner.

"Our season was well under way when the French openings decreed the return to the comparatively long skirt. Doubt was engendered in the minds of the retailers and consumers and an atmosphere of uncertainty pervaded the entire season.

"It is true that Paris is prolific of much design inspiration, but on such issues as skirt length the American manufacturer must employ his own conception of the preference of American women. The long skirt of the pre-war period is definitely and permanently in the discard. Attempts to popularize it would be met with stubborn and successful resistance. It was a broad-visioned and courageous act for you to make public pronouncement as you did on such a moot question."

Mr. Greenberg referred to an interview last week in which Mr. Simon said that much misleading information was coming out of Paris because a few actresses, manikins and society women had appeared at the races in new designs of extreme length. He suggested that, even if Paris did start a few extreme models, the majority of models would be wearable, and further that, while there might be new details, the general silhouette had been settled.

PARIS SPORT GARB LONGER.

Hems Are Lowered to 8 and 10 Inches From the Floor.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 29.—The fashion openings continue to rationalize feminity. Maggy Rouff, Talbott and Lenief all lower sports dress hems to eight and ten inches from the floor. Straight jersey dresses, wool coats or short jackets are the favorite sports formula.

Redfern gives coats and dresses large armholes with dolman or bishop sleeves, and makes tailored evening ensembles of satin velvet or lame with sheath gowns and cutaway jackets. The all-over black paillettes for evening pajamas are a Redfern sensation, and also a trailing evening coat trimmed with black fox. Rich greens are featured here.

Maggy Rouff sponsors formal town clothes with fur-trimmed velvet and satin afternoon suits and contrasting satin or lamé blouses, as well as fur-trimmed chiffon afternoon frocks. She likes quilted and embroidered fingertip length coats for afternoon and evening. The evening skirt length brushes the floor. Flared Persian lamé evening coats with trailing fur-trimmed sleeves, are a novelty here. The feature color is all shades of plum.

Suzanne Talbot launches ski costumes with plaid knee-length kilts over Angoro tights and double-breasted Eton jacket. There are fluted jersey dresses pleated, embroidered and with frills as trim.

Black patent leather trimming is a novelty.

Barrel muffs of all sizes in fabric or fur accompany the daytime costumes. The skirts are full at the sides with unpressed pleats. Linen and lace collars and cuffs are used with black velvet or wool dresses.

Poke bonnets, slashed brimmed gob hats and tiny tricornes are the millinery features.

Long gloves of satin, triple voile or jersey are worn to match the jersey costumes.

Colored fur trimmings are featured by both Talbot and Lenief as are tourquoise studded and jet jewelry.

Black and pale blue, combined with a dark green, are Talbot colors and she shows long silver kid gloves as an evening accessory. One of her evening coats is tube-shaped of quilted satin and velvet. It is finger tip in length.

All the houses continue to show wide shoulder effects and dropped shoulder décolletés. Fur or fabric blouse jackets ending in a belt at the natural waistline are also general. Broadtail coats are being shown as important with black wool ensembles.

Eyelet embroidery is seen on all fabrics everywhere.

Northern Rhodesia Yields Site Of 4,000-Year-Old Iron Foundry

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BROKEN HILL, Rhodesia, July 29.—The site of a 4,000-year-old iron foundry has been discovered by an Italian scientific excavation at Mumbwa in Northern Rhodesia. Buried at a depth of six feet in a big cavern in strata of the paleolithic age the excavators found evidence that some superior race had smelted iron by primitive methods. Skeletons showed the knowledge of smelting came to Africa in bushman times at the earliest phase of Stone Age culture.

The discovery is believed to throw an entirely new light on the history of metallurgy, especially in South Africa, and has an important bearing on the ancient mining industry of the Transvaal and Rhodesia. Incidentally it may throw fresh light on the mysterious Rhodesian Stone Age ruins.

FIRE ON RUM BOATS OFF CONEY ISLAND

Coast Guardsmen Vainly Chase Craft as Thousands Watch From Crowded Beach.

POLICE SHOOT FROM PIER

Liquor-Runners Come Within Fifty Feet of Steeplechase Dock, Then Disappear in Mist.

In full view of thousands of bathers, a Coast Guard cutter made an unsuccessful attempt shortly before 6 o'clock last night to overtake two heavily laden but powerful speedboats off the Coney Island beach, in a chase in which it fired ten times at them with its 3-inch gun. The mysterious speedboats, one with three men aboard and the other with two, encountered the fire of two policemen's revolvers when they attempted to put in at the Steeplechase Pier and disappeared in the heavy mist, heading apparently for the Rockaways.

The two boats, each about 50 feet long, were first sighted by the thousands on the beach thrashing through the water at a speed estimated at from 45 to 50 knots, coming from the Narrows and heading eastward. They were about 1,000 feet off shore. In their wake followed a Coast Guard cutter, which, however, was unable to attain the speed of its quarries.

Guard Boat Opens Fire.

When the government boat was off the Half Moon Hotel, at the foot of Twenty-ninth Street, Coney Island, she opened fire, sending six three-inch shells in rapid succession at the speed boats.

Hearing the Coast Guardsman's gun, Patrolman Carl C. Geltner, of the Coney Island Station, who was near the foot of West Seventeenth Street, signalled to Patrolman John Korn, Jr., and the two ran to the end of the 1,000-foot Steeplechase Pier.

As the patrolmen reached the end of the pier, the two speedboats, now fully half a mile ahead of the Coast Guard cutter, swerved inshore, as if making for the pier. When they were within twenty feet of the pier, their crews, seeing the waiting policemen with drawn revolvers, wheeled about and the boats again churned away at full speed.

Ignore Order to Halt.

Patrolman Geltner yelled an order for them to stop. Ignoring the order, the speedboat crews nosed their craft in the direction of the Rockaways. When they were about fifty feet away from the pier, the two policemen emptied their revolvers at them. They reported later that they heard the tinkling of glass, indicating that some of their bullets had broken the windows of the speedboat cabins.

By this time, the Coast Guard cutter had drawn near and continued the chase, firing four more shots at the fleeing boats. The boats easily outdistanced the cutter and disappeared a minute or two afterward in the thick mist, leaving the cutter far behind. It was not known whether the Coast Guard shells had taken any effect.

Patrolman Geltner, a former seaman, said that both boats were low in the water, indicating that they were heavily loaded.

He expressed the opinion that if the two boats were carrying contraband liquor, their crews probably planned to dump the cargo into nets submerged in the water near the Rockaways at a spot known only to their band.

The police of the Far Rockaway and Rockaway Beach stations said last night that they had not received any notice to be on the lookout. Coast Guard headquarters in Manhattan had not received a report of the incident at a late hour last night.

About four hours later officials of the Coast Guard Station at St. George, S. I., announced the seizure of a speedboat by the Coast Guard Cutter 122, which was the cutter that participated in the chase. They said that the speedboat had neither crew nor cargo aboard when she was picked up by the cutter. They declined to say where the speedboat had been seized, but said that the craft had been brought to Staten Island. The cutter departed for the Rockaways immediately after leaving the abandoned speedboat in charge of the officials at the Staten Island base.

The Staten Island officials declared that only one speedboat was involved in the chase and this was the one that was captured. It bore the number 976 G and had three or four men aboard, the officials said.

The cutter, commanded by Boatswain's Mate William Harrison first sighted the speedboat about three miles south of Norton's Light, sailing without lights. The cutter's crew fired the two usual warning shots past the speedboat's bow, whereupon the boat fled, officials reported.

Miner from trust officer to vice president in charge of trust activities. The new president, who will assume his duties Aug. 18, was born in Butte, Mont., and educated in the New York public schools, New York University and the American Institute of Banking.

MRS. HOLMES TELLS OF NASSAU WETNESS

Appears Before Grand Jury and Gives Edwards a List of Speakeasies Near Home.

URGES HIM TO BACK REPEAL

Quotes District Attorney's Statement on Difficulty of Enforcing Dry Law.

SURPRISED AT SUMMONS

Denies She Refused to Appear—Edwards Says Drive on Lawless Will Be Continued.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., July 29.—Mrs. Christian R. Holmes, chairman of the New York State meetings committee of the women's organization for national prohibition reform, appeared before the Nassau County grand jury today in answer to a subpoena from District Attorney Edwards as a result of her recent statement to members of her organization about speakeasies in Nassau County.

Before entering the jury room Mrs. Holmes was questioned by the District Attorney. She gave him a list of places in the vicinity of Port Washington, not far from Mrs. Holmes's estate in Sands Point, where liquor is alleged to be sold, but she admitted she had no personal knowledge of the existence of any particular place.

Mrs. Holmes was accompanied by Mrs. Mabel Jacques Eichel, vice chairman of the State meetings committee, and Mrs. Marion Booth Kelley, chairman of the State committee on legislative and political activities.

"Amazed" at Request for Facts.

Upon leaving the court house she said:

"I hope that the testimony I have given will be of assistance to the authorities.

"I have presented the facts and information upon which the statements made in my address at the meeting on the 23d of July were based. I cannot reveal my testimony, as all my statements made to this body are confidential.

"An erroneous statement was made and published to the effect that I refused the receipt of a subpoena, which statement brought forth a telegram from the District Attorney, threatening me with an attachment if I did not obey.

"It is rather preposterous to presume that I would refuse, as every citizen knows that the obligation of an appearance is not optional with the individual subpoenaed.

"I am amazed that the District Attorney of Nassau County must come to the women's organization for national prohibition reform for information regarding the conditions in Nassau County.

"Mr. Edwards also makes the following statement in this letter of July 24: 'I have advocated a modification of the present law and believe that the black eye that prohibition enforcement received by the bungling methods of enforcement at the start has ruined all hope of ever properly enforcing it and that we have got to start all over again to handle this troublesome problem known as intoxicating liquors.'

"I hope that District Attorney Edwards will go one step further and come out openly for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and that I may vote for him on the platform."

Edwards Defines Speakeasy.

Upon being questioned concerning his interview with Mrs. Holmes, District Attorney Edwards replied:

"I had a very pleasant chat with Mrs. Holmes this morning preceding her entering the grand jury room and would say that she had no personal knowledge of the existence of any particular place, but did submit to me a list of places where it was claimed that liquor could be obtained in the vicinity of Port Washington and such places will be immediately investigated.

"This closes this incident as far as Mrs. Holmes is concerned. The campaign to keep the speakeasy of the public nuisance variety out of Nassau County will go on just the same.

"I have been asked to define a speakeasy from the District Attorney's standpoint under Section 1,530 of the penal law.

"It is any place where liquor is exclusively sold for a profit and is not incidental to some other business such as hotel, restaurant, &c."

He added that an eight weeks' survey of such places by expert investigators had been completed which will enable him to check up on conditions as they exist.

WOULD STAY MEXICAN FUND.

Bondholder Gets Order Requiring Lamont to Show Cause.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., July 29.—An order requiring Thomas W. Lamont, chairman of the International Committee of Bankers on Mexico, to show cause why he should not be restrained from disbursing any of a $43,000,000 fund established with the committee by the Mexican Government, was filed in the United States District Court here today.

The order, which was signed by Federal Judge Runyon in Newark, is returnable before him there on Aug. 18. It was issued on application of counsel for Frederick Gallapin, a holder of Mexican bonds on which interest was defaulted in 1914 and 1921. Alexander Simpson, Democratic nominee for United States Senator, filed suit last week demanding an accounting of the fund for Gallapin.

Mr. Simpson is now on his way to Europe and the proceedings today were handled by Leonard Mehlman. An application he made to Judge Runyon for the appointment of a temporary receiver to take over the committee's funds was denied by the court.

Court Dissolves a Bath Concern.

Sol Ullman, Assistant Attorney General, announced yesterday that Supreme Court Justice Druhan of Brooklyn had dissolved the "K" Intestinal Bath of New York, Inc., of 184 Joralemon Street, Brooklyn. The corporation, he said, was convicted last Jan. 8 of unlawfully practicing medicine and was fined $100.

HAYS, BACK, TELLS OF FILM AGREEMENT

Producers' Head Says Program of Cooperation With Germany Was Framed at Paris.

ENDS PATENT CONTROVERSY

Business Interchange to Begin Soon —Marquis de la Falaise and Carpentier on Ile de France.

Will H. Hays, president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributers of America, who has been in Paris as chairman of the conference between American and German motion picture producers and patent holders, returned yesterday on the French liner Ile de France. He announced agreement on a successful program of cooperation between film interests of the two countries. He was optimistic on the effect of the agreement on the entire talking picture world, as indicative of the understanding which must be reached by competitors for the best advancement of the industry.

The main retarding factor of the industry has grown out of patent rights, and this question was settled to the satisfaction of the two countries during the series of conferences over which Mr. Hays presided, he said. The agreement has actually been reached and within a few weeks will take actual effect in business interchange, he added.

Sees Limitations Ended.

"The agreement reached at Paris," Mr. Hays said, "frees the talking motion picture art from the limitation imposed upon it by the patent controversy that has existed abroad and from the burden of world-wide litigation as between German and American interests.

"Finally, the understanding reached paves the way for the same measure of recognition by the German Government of the mutual interests of the motion picture here and abroad, as displayed in the position taken by leading members of the industry and by educational and other authorities in Germany with whom we discussed the situation. Certainly, judged by the popularity of our pictures abroad, there is every reason to believe that the American motion picture industry will continue to play its part in making the motion picture a potent instrument of entertainment and education throughout the world."

The delegates to the Paris convention were C. J. Ross, executive vice president of the Radio Corporation of America Photophone, who returned also on the Ile de France; J. E. Ottersen of the Western Electric Company, J. C. Graham of London, Dr. Emil Mayer of the General Electric Company of Germany, Dr. Fritz Luschen of the Siemens-Halske Company of Germany and Milton Diamond of the German Tobis group.

To Bring Russian Players.

On the Ile de France was Sidney Ross, producer, who announced that he would bring Vsevolod Meyerhold, Russian stage director, for a season here with the Moscow State Theatre Company. Mlle. Helle Nice, European automobile racing driver, also arrived to compete in races throughout the country during the remainder of the Summer. Her first appearance will be at Woodbridge, N. J., on Aug. 10.

The Marquis de la Falaise de la Coudraye, husband of Gloria Swanson, motion picture star, returned on the Ile de France from a business trip abroad as representative of the Pathé company. He was asked about rumors that he and Miss Swanson would be divorced and said he knew of no reason for such a rumor. When asked if he would see his wife while here, the Marquis replied that he did not know, as he had no knowledge of Miss Swanson's whereabouts.

Also on the ship was Harry K. Thaw, who sailed for England several months ago only to find that the barrier raised against him several years ago still exists. Mr. Thaw's reply to the British barrier was that he had not intended landing there anyway.

Others on the Ile de France included Dr. Jerome Wagner and Mrs. Wagner, who on the stage is known as Norma Terris, and Georges Carpentier, former contender for the heavyweight championship.

CONCERT HELD INDOORS.

Substitute Program Given by Philharmonic Under Lange.

Owing to rain the open-air concert of the New York Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra, which was to have been conducted by Albert Coates in the Lewisohn Stadium, was presented in the Great Hall of City College. Hans Lange conducted the overture of Wagner's "Tannhäuser," Griegs' "Peer Gynt Suite," Tchaikowsky's "Slavic March" and Brahms's second symphony. The Grieg suite was substituted for the promised first New York hearing of W. H. Reed's "The Lincoln Imp."

Should rain again prevent an outdoor concert tonight, the Wagner program, under Albert Coates, with Elsa Alsen and Paul Althouse as soloists, will be postponed until tomorrow evening and the following substitute list will be given under the direction of Hans Lange: The overture to Thomas's "Mignon," Haydn's "Clock" symphony, Tchaikowsky's "Nutcracker Suite," Grieg's "Heart Wounds and Last Spring" and three excerpts from Berlioz's "Damnation of Faust."

MANAGERS SEEKING STAGE-HAND CONTRACT

Negotiations Start to Replace Agreement Soon to Expire—Musicians' Union Signs.

The current agreement between Broadway theatrical managers and the stagehands, signed in September, 1928, will expire on Aug. 30 and conferences are already in progress to formulate a new contract. David B. Finestone and F. Richard Anderson are representing the Shubert and Erlanger offices in the negotiations with Local 1 of the Theatrical Protective Union. Thus far the meetings have been preliminary and nothing tangible has been determined, it was said yesterday.

On the other hand, the theatrical managers have made a new agreement covering the next three years with Local 802 of the American Federation of Musicians. The managers in these negotiations were represented by Mr. Finestone, Mr. Anderson and Ligon Johnson of the International Theatrical Association.

The musicians in Boston have also settled with the managers, and in Philadelphia, where a strike of the musicians almost precipitated a sympathetic walkout here last Fall, it is expected that an agreement will be reached late this week.

TULLY SUES HAMMERSTEIN.

Fights Advertising Musical Show as Based on "Bird of Paradise."

Richard Walton Tully, whose claim to the authorship of the play, "The Bird of Paradise," was upheld recently by the Court of Appeals, filed suit in the Supreme Court yesterday for a judgment declaring that Arthur Hammerstein, who signed a contract in 1926 to produce a musical comedy version of the play, has no right to advertise that his forthcoming production is based on the Tully play or to call it "The Bird of Paradise."

He contends that the agreement provided that the musical version was to have a different name and was to be so unlike the original as to be almost entirely different.

The suit, also brought in the interest of the Cinema Finance Corporation, which has a lien for $85,824 against Tully's rights to the play for money lent, asks that Mr. Hammerstein be prevented from interfering with the sale of the sound picture rights to the play by reason of a provision in the Hammerstein agreement that he was to have three seasons of the musical comedy before the play was filmed.

Mr. Tully contends that the agreement did not take into consideration sound pictures. He says that the First National Pictures would buy the play and spend $500,000 producing the sound film except for threats of litigation by Mr. Hammerstein. The complaint asks full power over the radio and television rights of the play as well as the sound film rights.

BRANDT GETS 4 THEATRES.

Former Fox Manager to Take Over Queens, Bronx, Brooklyn Houses.

William Brandt, former general manager of the Fox Metropolitan Playhouses, will take over three legitimate theatres in Brooklyn and Queens and one theatre in the Bronx on Sept. 1, it was announced yesterday. The Flatbush Theatre in Brooklyn, the Boulevard in Jackson Heights and the Windsor Theatre in the Bronx have been leased for periods extending from five to fifteen years. Negotiations are now on to lease the Jamaica Theatre, formerly the Shubert-Jamaica, from B. S. Moss.

The theatres will be booked through the Shubert and Erlanger booking offices and, according to Mr. Brandt, will compete with motion picture houses in their scale of admission prices. Louis F. Werba, former manager of Werba's Flatbush Theatre and other houses in Brooklyn and Queens, who filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy early this month, will act as general manager for the new chain. Mr. Brandt operated a circuit of thirteen picture houses in Brooklyn until a year ago, when he sold them to Fox and became general manager of the Fox Metropolitan Playhouses.

DIGGES TO SAIL TODAY.

Will Visit Mother in Dublin—Guild Contract Is Ended.

Dudley Digges will sail today on the Aquitania with Mrs. Digges and Lennox Robinson, Irish playwright. Mr. Digges will visit his mother in Dublin, returning to New York about Sept. 15 to direct a play, the identity of which cannot be announced at the moment. He also plans to stage other theatrical productions and to assist in the making of talking pictures, with which he has recently been identified. He has completed his contract with the Theatre Guild and will no longer be associated with that organization.

It is possible that during his stay in Dublin Mr. Digges may appear at the Abbey Theatre in Yeats's play "The Hour Glass."

Asbury Park Theatre Plan Delayed.

Special to The New York Times.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., July 29.—Projected construction here of a $1,000,000 theatre seating 3,000 persons will be dropped by Warner Brothers unless three adjoining property owners sign releases consenting to extension of the structure to the sidewalk line. Deeds to the land purchased by the theatre company require that any building erected thereon shall be set fifteen feet back of that line. If owners of adjoining properties consent, the city commissioners will probably grant permission for the extension. A decision is expected on Friday.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Irene Swor, the Wallace Sisters, Rita Raquel and Jean Geddes have been engaged for "Fine and Dandy," the forthcoming Joe Cook musical show.

Donald Novis, known in pictures and on the radio, has been engaged by Arthur Hammerstein for "Luana," now in process of production.

The New York opening of the Martin Mooney-Thomson Burtis play "Sisters of the Chorus" is now scheduled for the middle of October. The play is running in Chicago and will open in Detroit on Aug. 10.

The play called "Seventy-second Street," soon to be produced, is the work of Tom Johnstone, who has written a number of musical comedies.

Charles G. Stewart, general manager for Laurence Rivers, Inc., which is producing "The Green Pastures," has recovered from a long illness and gone to Maine for a month's vacation.

"The Broadway Parade," a revue, with book and lyrics by Clinton Lewis and music by Dixie Brand, is announced for Fall production at the Cherry Lane Theatre, where Paul Gilmore continues as director.

An arbitration committee to settle disputes between its members has been appointed by the Theatrical Artists' Representatives Association, recently organized by a group of casting agents. M. S. Bentham, Arthur Lyons, Walter Batchelor and Julius Kendler are members of the committee.

DENIES PLEA TO ACT ON THEATRE LEAGUE

Ward, in Letter to Counsel for Brokers, Says He Cannot Move on Monopoly Charge.

ANOTHER OBSTACLE SEEN

Sandler Plans Move for Inquiry on Corporation Law Violation—Belasco Joins Group.

Attorney General Ward announced yesterday that he had no jurisdiction to act on the complaint that the League of New York Theatres, Inc., is a monopoly. He said he was ready to continue his inquiry, however, into the charge that the league, recently organized to curb theatre ticket speculation, is operating in violation of the State general business and corporation law and for that reason should be dissolved through proceedings brought in the Supreme Court.

The decision in the case was sent to Bernard H. Sandler, counsel for the group of theatre brokers who are not on the league's accredited list and are unable to obtain tickets for attractions playing at the league theatres. Mr. Sandler said last night that he would file documents to support his contention that the league is doing business in violation of the general business law.

Attorney General's Letter.

The letter to Mr. Sandler, transmitted through Assistant Attorney General Roobert S. Conklin, read:

"This office has received and considered your memorandum with respect to the League of New York Theatres, Inc. It does not appear to us that a theatre ticket is in any sense 'a commodity in common use,' such as is referred to in Section 340 of the General Business law. Commodity in the ordinary accepted use of the term is something tangible, something that has length, breadth and thickness.

"Theatre tickets are not to be regarded as so much paper. If your complaint had to do with paper or cardboard, the commodity classification would be obvious. The ticket, however, is purely evidence of a right or license to attend a place of amusement.

"The powers of the Attorney General to act in matters of alleged monopoly or restraint of trade are to be found only in Section 340 and following sections of the General Business law. We can find no authority in such sections for action by this office in the case which you present.

"With respect to your suggestion, however, that the league as a membership corporation may be conducting a business such as only a stock corporation is authorized to conduct, there may possibly be reasons for further inquiry. The Attorney General has been making diligent effort to eradicate the growing practice of certain individuals in seeking to transact business for profit under the guise of membership corporations. The practice has had its origin in the desire to escape from the burdens and restraints of stock corporation procedure. Taxes are evaded, supervision and responsibility are minimized.

"We have within a comparatively recent period in this respect compelled the dissolution of reformation of a substantial number of organizations conducting real estate, laundry, banking, advertising, fraternal order and cemetery business.

"If you wish to submit a formal complaint specifying with reasonable detail the alleged business activities of the league, we shall be glad to give the matter further consideration."

Belasco Joins the League.

What probably would have been the first serious Broadway crisis to be faced by the League of New York Theatres was averted yesterday when David Belasco became a member of the league. This means that Mr. Belasco's new production, "Dancing Partner," opening at his theatre on Tuesday night, will distribute tickets only through the box office and the organization's recognized brokers.

Had "Dancing Partner" opened as a non-league attraction, Mr. Belasco could not have sold his tickets through the accredited brokers, although he could have made a "buy" with agencies not enrolled in the group. If "Dancing Partner" had turned out to be a "smash" hit, its status outside the league might have proved embarrassing to that organization by virtue of the fact that the sixteen larger Broadway ticket brokers would have been unable, if they lieved up to the league's rules, to supply the public demand for seats.

Says He Favors Move.

Mr. Belasco's decision to join the league followed a meeting yesterday morning which, in addition to the producer, was attended by B. F. Roeder, his manager, Frank Gillmore, president of the Actors' Equity Association and a governor of the league, and Harlow D. Savage, the league's executive secretary.

At the meeting Mr. Belasco said he was distressed at the stories that had been circulated regarding his antagonism to the league. He said that when the league was in process of formation he had written a letter to one of the organizers stating that he was very much in favor of any movement that would better any phase of the theatrical business. He asserted that he was especially interested in helping to rectify the ticket situation, since he did not make "buys" and believed that the "gyps" had no place in the Broadway picture. In recent weeks, he said, he has been so busy with rehearsals of his play that he has not been able to give the campaign much of his attention, but intended to "sign up at the proper time."

Mr. Savage and Mr. Gillmore later expressed their elation at Mr. Belasco's action. The addition of the Belasco Theatre gives the league a membership of fifty-three playhouses, and leaves the Ziegfeld and Apollo as the most important of the non-league theatres.

Net Earnings Nearly Doubled

In the brief period of six years, the net earnings of a group of electric light and power companies which serve approximately 90% of the population of this country, have nearly doubled.

Well-selected investments in ably-managed electric light and power companies offer, in our opinion, attractive investment opportunities with a high degree of security, liberal yield and stability of earning power.

Downward Trend in Stocks—Wheat at Year's Lowest—$1,000,000 Gold Engaged.

The stock market lost ground again yesterday, nearly all active stocks declining moderately on considerably reduced transactions. The more important movement of the day, however, was the renewed decline of wheat, which carried the price for all deliveries below the year's previous low level. July wheat at 85¾ marked a fall of 4¾ cents a bushel in the last ten days and contrasted with a bottom price, until this month, of 85⅞ on July 11. This happened notwithstanding resumption of the rise in corn; but the wheat trade's attention is converged on the influence of the abnormally great "carry-over" on the market's bid for the new supplies.

With the Farm Board's hands now largely tied by its own previous engagements, there is a difficult period to bridge. Spot cotton sold down to the year's low price of last Thursday. The price of silver bullion also declined yesterday; it is now ⅝ penny per ounce lower at London than last Saturday, but is still a halfpenny above the low price of June. The essential fact, in the matter of staple prices, is that the downward movement does not yet appear to have been arrested except where, as with corn, the supply-and-demand position has changed by the course of events.

Sterling exchange was distinctly strong again, and so were francs, though the rate was not appreciably changed in either at the closing. A million more in gold was taken for Canada, making $32,500,000 total gold exports in a little more than two weeks. The Bank of England gave up something over $1,000,000 more gold for France; yet, in the face of this continuing movement, discount rates on the open London market declined again; they are lower by nearly one-half of 1 per cent than a month ago, before the bank's shipments of gold to Paris were resumed.

Both favorable and unfavorable comparisons are made possible by the United States Steel Corporation's quarterly statement. The company's net earnings for the second quarter are larger than in the corresponding period of 1928, 1927, 1925 or 1924, and, except for last year, the results for the half-year exceed those of any similar six months since the war. On the other hand, the decrease from 1929 is extremely large—$23,937,000 for the June quarter, or 33 per cent, and $35,424,000 for the half-year, or 26⅞ per cent. The trend of monthly earnings, also, is shown to be downward; as against the $18,103,000 reported for March and the $16,570,000 in May, June's net receipts fell to $14,376,000. Even this is not an alarming comparison, when the so-called "mild trade reaction" of 1927 carried earnings down to $9,624,000 in November of that year.

Evidently, much depends on the character of the Autumn trade, which was distinctly bad in 1927 and which this year will be at least partly governed by the very low rate of output estimated for this month and the smallness of the recovery which is expected during August. When all is said, however, the showing of the Steel Corporation is reassuring. Earnings for the June quarter are more than twice those of the same period in 1921, and, while it is true that the scale of normal business has greatly expanded since that time, it should also be observed that the quarter's earnings that year were less than one-half those of the year before, as against the decrease of 33 per cent this year.

STEEL INGOTS HOLD LEVEL.

Plants of Leading Interest at 63% and of Independents at 52%.

No change in the ingot production of the steel industry in the last week, according to statistics announced yesterday, the average remaining at about 57½ per cent of theoretical plant capacity.

The United States Steel Corporation maintained an average of 63 per cent for two weeks, compared with 63 per cent three weeks ago. Independent mills operated at about 52 per cent, the same as in the last three weeks.

A year ago the Steel Corporation was operating at a little better than 100 per cent, independents at 92 per cent and the average for the industry 96 per cent. In 1928 the Steel Corporation was at approximately 77 per cent, independents at 70 per cent and the average 73 per cent.

Changes in Stock Exchange List.

The New York Stock Exchange announced yesterday that it had stricken from its list temporary certificates for common shares of the Ritter Dental Manufacturing Company and the Adams Express Company and for the Class A shares of the Federal Water Service Corporation and temporary voting trust certificates for common shares of the International Railways of Central America. Permanent certificates for each company have been listed.

The paper will be called Daily Clearings. During the convention it will be printed at night and delivered under the door of each delegate's room in the morning.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

Weakness among the railway issues was communicated yesterday to other parts of the Stock Exchange list with the result that a moderate but general reaction got under way before the day was over. The net declines in active stocks ranged from a fraction to 5 points. Transactions on the Stock Exchange totaled 1,849,580 shares. Among the weak spots were Santa Fé, Union Pacific, United States Steel, Westinghouse Electric, Southern Railway, First National Stores, Gillette, J. I. Case and American Telephone and Telegraph. Wall Street seemed at a loss to account for the market's weakness, but the promise of a Canadian tariff reprisal was mentioned as one of the unsettling factors. Industrial issues were under pressure in the late dealings and yielded ground rather easily. During the first three hours of trading the selling was confined largely to the rails.

Elections and the Market.

The reaction of the stock market to the passing of the tariff bill in Washington was repeated in lesser degree yesterday in response to the Canadian elections. Prices moved substantially lower on passage of the tariff bill here, and yesterday security prices were hit by news that a party pledged to retaliate against the United States tariff had been swept to power in Canada. That country is the largest consumer of exports from the United States, and the results of the elections there, following, as they did, announcements that revealed tariff reprisals in other countries, served to increase the uncertainty of the stock market.

Stirrings in Rumor Market.

The improvement of stock prices which recently has taken place has brought about faint stirrings in the merger rumor field. During the course of the bull market last year no day so quickly passed that one or two new rumors of merger plans and expansion programs did not come forth. The decline in stock prices, while it had its own complement of rumors, brought forth no talk of major combinations or notable "constructive steps." In the past few days, however, there has again been talk in the financial district of acquisitions by leading banks of other institutions. The current rumors are more sensitive plants than last year's hardy crop. They appear sheathed in modest qualifying phrases and perish quickly when exposed to authoritative comment. They are taken, nevertheless, as interesting harbingers of a return to the cheery, credulous frame of mind which Wall Street adopts when stocks are on the rise.

A Major Transaction.

The treasurer of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company this week will be responsible for the movement of more funds than any other individual, excepting officers of the large banks, with some $180,000,000 coming in from stockholders for subscriptions to new shares. A trained army of 900 men and women is engaged in New York alone in the various tasks involved in winding up the offering. So far, 150,000 subscribers had sent some $80,000,000 in cash for new shares up to the close of business yesterday, and this represents full or partial payment for about $90,000,000 worth of stock. In the three remaining days, including today, subscriptions for an additional $160,000,000 will be received, as the rights will expire on Friday.

Sugar at New Low.

Raw sugar yesterday reached prices lower than any in the records which extend back to 1860. Cuban sugar, for shipment next month, sold 8-10 of a cent a pound below the average production cost for the island, and Philippine sold 1-100 of a cent below this figure, on a duty-free basis. Deliveries by refiners last week were the heaviest on record. Only the price of refined sugar remained unchanged, refiners asking 4.70 cents a pound, the price that has prevailed since June 30, since when raw sugar has continually declined. Opinion among sugar brokers is that the next break in prices will come in the refined market.

Member Banks Buying Bonds.

The condition statement of weekly reporting member banks in leading cities throughout the country, published yesterday, gives further indication that the banks are turning to other than United States Government securities for the investment of their funds. Of the week's increase of $43,000,000 in total investments, only $15,000,000 was in "governments," the remaining $28,000,000 being in other securities. One of the chief difficulties in getting a good bond market started has been the reluctance of the banks to put their money in anything but extremely liquid investments. That reluctance now appears to be breaking down, and the expectation among leading bankers here is that by the time that bonds have risen a few more points, banks throughout the country will be scrambling for them.

⁂

The Railroad Group.

Led by Union Pacific, which declined 8 points, the rail group as a whole displayed weakness yesterday, a tendency which has previously been observed this year around the time for reporting monthly earnings. The weak trend, however, was mild compared with other tumbles that the rails have had this year.

⁂

The Sharp Rise in French Bonds.

The spectacular rise in French Government bonds here in direct ratio to the increase in the French gold holdings has been the outstanding feature of the foreign list during the year to date. The French 7½s reached 125⅝ yesterday, the highest price at which the issue has sold since it was brought out in 1921. The French 7s yesterday duplicated their previous high at 119⅜, making the two issues the highest priced of the entire list of active foreign issues. All of the French municipal loans are now selling at or within a fraction of the best prices ever attained by them, despite the substantial amounts of these bonds now outstanding. It is interesting to note that early in 1923 the French Government 7½s sold as low as 84 and the 7s in 1925 as low as 85⅜. Thus, by following the trend of the bond prices, it is easy to trace the post-war recovery of the French nation.

MONEY.

Tuesday, July 29, 1930.

Except for a slightly firmer rate for Street loans as a result of withdrawals by out-of-town banks, counter trades going at 1½@2 per cent, a fractional advance over recent quotations, there were no important features. Stock Exchange call loans continued at 2. Time money was dull and unchanged, few trades being made. Acceptances and commercial paper likewise were quiet and unchanged in discount.

TO CLEAR STOCKS FOR NON-MEMBERS

Clearing Corporation to Begin Service for 11 Institutions Outside Exchange Today.

SAVING OF TIME EXPECTED

Quicker Settlements for All Held Likely—Benefit Seen in Reduction of Checks and Runners.

Settlements for the deliveries of securities directly between non-member banking institutions will be started today by the Stock Clearing Corporation, Samuel F. Streit, president, announced yesterday. Heretofore the Stock Clearing Corporation has cleared securities only for member firms of the New York Stock Exchange and two or three banking institutions under a special agreement. The Stock Clearing Corporation is a subsidiary of the New York Stock Exchange.

So far, eleven banking institutions have signed agreements with the Stock Clearing Corporation for the inauguration of this service, the announcement said. Under this plan, it is explained, these banks will make deliveries and get receipts for securities directly through the use of the facilities of the Stock Clearing Corporation. The money settlements for each day's transaction, it is said, will be effected by a single check to or from the Clearing Corporation.

The banking institutions that have already signed the agreement are:

Bank of America.
Bankers Trust Company.
Central Hanover Bank and Trust Company.
Chase National Bank.
Chatham Phenix National Bank and Trust Company.

Beginning today, the announcement said, these eleven banks will make all deliveries of securities between themselves and to Stock Exchange members of the Stock Clearing Corporation at the quarters provided by the Clearing Corporation where they heretofore received and delivered securities between themselves and members of the New York Stock Exchange.

Mr. Streit stated that the new arrangement would be of great benefit in that it would reduce considerably the drawing of checks and the number of runners required to make outside deliveries of securities.

While this newly instituted plan, it is explained, will not directly affect clearing members, it will be of considerable convenience to all non-members, it was said. Also in many instances, through effecting settlements between non-members more promptly than heretfore, it may result in a quickening of settlement between the Stock Clearing Corporation and clearing members.

Deliveries will be made from 9:30 A. M. until 2:30 P. M. every business day other than Saturday. Returned deliveries must be made direct to the non-members' cage at the Stock Clearing Corporation up to 2:45 P. M., after which they must be made direct to the office of the bank.

Speeds Train to Los Angeles.

The Missouri Pacific, which recently came under Van Sweringen control, has announced a cut in running time from St. Louis-Memphis to Los Angeles on the Sunshine Special by one and three-quarter hours. This will bring the train into Los Angeles on the third day at 7:30 A. M. instead of 9:15 A. M.

Decline of 24% in Earnings Reported by 172 Industrials

Aggregate earnings of 172 industrial corporations in the first six months of this year decreased 24.6 per cent from those of the corresponding period of last year, according to a compilation by Hornblower & Weeks, issued yesterday. The total was put at $404,585,000. Of the companies reporting 64, or 37 per cent, showed increased earnings, while the remainder reported losses sufficient to bring about the aggregate decrease.

Of the companies, 108 reported earnings for the second quarter, and 29 of these, or 27 per cent, recorded increases, compared with the period last year. Aggregate earnings for all the companies, amounting to $183,171,000, were 30.2 per cent less than last year's total.

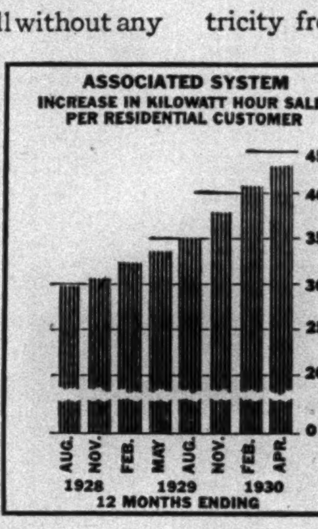
In the Average Home

Four Times as Much Electricity

Could Be Used to Advantage

ALTHOUGH the electric output in the United States has more than tripled each 10 year period since 1908, the use of electricity is yet little to what it should be in the years to come. The tremendous possibilities for growth can at once be realized when it is considered that over half of the 19,700,000 wired homes are still without any domestic appliance except the electric flat-iron.

At present, the average home takes only about 502 kilowatt hours per year. Add to this an electric range, lamp-socket radio and refrigerator — three popular electric appliances — and the annual consumption is at once increased to more than 2,000 kilowatt hours.



This amount could easily be used in the average home as the present electric bill amounts to only about $30 per YEAR, which is less than the family automobile costs a MONTH.

In the territory served by the Associated Gas and Electric System, the use of electricity from 1920 to 1929 increased 132% compared with 111.4% for the United States as a whole.

To meet the wider demand for service, the electric industry required an investment of more than $850,000,000 in 1929. Providing this capital economically is the most important function of the group management or holding company.

FRENCH BONDS RISE ON STOCK EXCHANGE

Government 7½s Touch New High at 125⅜ in Unusually Large Turnover.

DOMESTIC ISSUES UNEVEN

Trading in Comparatively Inactive Securities Features the Railroad Group.

Strength in the foreign bond group, led by French Government issues, featured dealings in the listed bond market yesterday. The French 7½s in an unusually heavy turnover mounted ⅜ point to 125⅜, the highest level at which the issue has sold since it was marketed in 1921. The French 7s held unchanged at the previous record high of 119⅝. City of Soisson 6s reached a new peak at 106¾, up ⅜ point, while other French municipal issues held firm at the previous closing prices, all of which were within a small fraction of the best prices at which these issues have ever sold.

German Government issues remained unchanged, as did the new Austrian International 5½s. Mexican issues lost part of the gains of the previous day on relatively small transactions. South American loans continued irregular, but this group showed some improvement for the day, on the average.

Domestic bonds showed more irregularity than during the last few days. First-grade railroad and utility issues showed an uneven front, but the averages for these groups were practically unchanged. In the railroad group one feature of the day was the trading in a number of comparatively inactive issues. Beech Creek Extension Railroad 3½s, for example, were traded in for the first time this year, all transactions being done at 84, a gain of 6 points from the previous sale.

New York traction issues were somewhat more active than usual yesterday. Third Avenue adjustment 5s recovered 3 points in brisk trading and the refunding 4s rose 1¼ points. The Interborough issues moved fractionally higher in much less active trading, but Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit 6s lost ground fractionally, finishing a point under par.

Industrial bonds continued irregular. Cuban Dominican Sugar 7½s, with warrants, dropped 2 points to a new low at 20, and Vertientes Sugar 7s lost a point, finishing at a new low of 37. White Sewing Machine 6s of 1936, ex-warrants, were depressed 2 points to a new low at 60. Oil and steel issues were steady, with a few issues showing small gains for the day.

4½ and 5% Serial Issue Due From 1931 to 1935 to Be Offered to Public This Week.

PROCEEDS FOR ADDITIONS

Will Be Used for Properties of Subsidiaries and Affiliated Companies and for Acquisitions.

An offering of $50,000,000 General Gas and Electric 4½ per cent and 5 per cent serial notes, due from 1931 to 1935, is to be made this week by a banking group headed by Harris, Forbes & Co., and including Halsey, Stuart & Co., the Chase Securities Corporation and the Chatham Phenix Corporation. The proceeds of the issue will be used for additions to the properties of subsidiaries and of affiliated companies and for the acquisition of additional properties, it was announced.

The General Gas and Electric Corporation owns or controls public utility properties in South Carolina and Florida. It has large investments in the securities of several other public utility companies, including the Associated Gas and Electric Company and certain of its subsidiaries and affiliates. Preferred and common stocks of the corporation have an indicated market value at present of more than $135,000,000.

Net earnings are more than 3.3 times the maximum annual interest charges of $2,425,000 on the present note issue. Income from securities owned by the corporation, based on present cash dividend and interest rates, but not including stock dividends for the year ended on June 30, amounted to $8,186,142. After all expenses and taxes, but before Federal income taxes, net earnings were $8,081,297.

FINDS TOBACCO PRICE IS LESS THAN COST

Commissioner of Agriculture in Georgia Comments on Quotations for New Crop.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 29 (AP).—Reports to the State Department of Agriculture from eight warehouses in the bright leaf tobacco area today showed a price range of 10 to 15 cents a pound, with the average around 12 cents, a figure which Eugene Talmadge, State Commissioner of Agriculture, said was less than the cost of production.

From Hazlehurst came a report of 400,000 pounds on the floor at market opening time, with a price ranging from 10 to 11 cents. Blackshear reported 250,000 pounds at 12 cents, Statesboro 200,000 pounds with no price quotation, Waycross 130,000 pounds at 15 cents, Camilla 45,000 pounds at 12 cents, Nashville 350,000 pounds at 12½ cents, Thomasville 125,000 pounds at 12 cents, and Tifton 275,000 pounds at an average of 13 cents.

Mr. Talmadge said reports from the remaining markets might raise the average price, but he did not expect it to reach the 19½-cent average of the first week of the season last year. "Regardless of any minor increase," he added, "the price is below the cost of production, and there is too much disparity between the price paid the farmer and that paid by the purchaser of the finished tobacco product."

MARKETS IN LONDON, PARIS AND BERLIN

Trend Downward on English Exchange, With Exception of Rhodesian Coppers.

FRENCH STOCKS IRREGULAR

Selling Movement Near the Close Weakens Some Issues—Rally on German Boerse.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 29.—Brisk American buying pushed Rhodesian coppers upward on the Stock Exchange today, but elsewhere Wall Street's influence was depressing and internationals mostly were weak. Gilt-edged securities rallied after a shaky start, the 5 per cent war loan reaching £103½ on fresh buying and the funding loan rising ⅛ to £90⅝. British railroads continued flat, but the falls in values were disproportionate to the amount of selling.

Among transatlantic shares International Nickel was an exception to the weakness in this group, selling at 25¼. Radio Corporation slumped 1⅛ to 45⅞, His Master's Voice Gramophone 3-32 to £3⅛ and Columbia Graphophone 1-16 to £3 27-32, while Hydroelectric fell ⅛ to $39. Rayons and textiles were dull, but British automobiles were firm.

Oils were strong, Royal Dutch holding steady at £32⅝ and Burmah advancing to £4 3-16. Among the Rhodesians Selection Trust spurted 1s 3d to 31s 3d, while Roan Antelope at 1⅛ and N'Changa at £2 13-16 were both good. Rio Tinto sold at £35⅞.

Money was still cheap in Lombard Street, with the overnight loan rate 1½ per cent. Three-month discount rates were easy at 2⅜ per cent, owing to the abundance of money. Sterling exchange advanced sharply to $4.87 1-16. France again made heavy inroads on London's gold, buying £265,593 of bar gold from the Bank of England and £620,000 of African gold in the open market. The Bank of England also earmarked £800,000 in sovereigns.

Paris Quiet and Irregular.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 29.—No marked change in the listless conditions on the Bourse was in evidence today. Trading was irregular, and toward the close a selling movement affected part of the market, doubtless by those wishing to realize in view of the month-end settlements on Thursday. On the other hand, some securities, notably rentes, remained firm and in a few instances showed gains.

Rentes closed as follows: The 3 per cents, 89.15; 1918 4s, 100.90; 1920 amortizable 5s, 136.20; 1928 5s, 103.55; 1920 6s, 102; 1927 amortizable 6s, 105.65.

Berlin Stronger at the Close.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, July 29.—After a weak opening on the Boerse today, due to forced sales on the part of private investors in connection with the month-end settlements, the market improved. The selling movement subsided in the first half hour of the session, and most issues were able to regain their earlier losses and in many cases register slight advances. Electricals, Reichsbank shares, the mining group, artificial silks, Dye Trust, beer, spirits and shipping stocks improved after earlier weakness, while the potashes, the building group, machinery group and celanese were softer. The Boerse closed at the highest quotations of the day. Call money was slightly stiffer at 3½ to 5½ per cent.

FURTHER SHIPMENT OF GOLD TO CANADA

$1,000,000 Consignment Brings Total for Current Movement to $10,500,000.

EXPORT TO FRANCE LIKELY

Franc Closes Unchanged at 3.93 9-16, Sterling at $4.87—$1,000,000 of Metal Here From Uruguay.

The movement of gold to Canada was continued yesterday with the shipment of $1,000,000 of the metal to the Dominion by the Canadian Bank of Commerce. This consignment brought the total shipments of gold to Canada for the first two days of this week to $5,000,000 and the total for the current movement to $10,500,000.

Against yesterday's export of $1,000,000 was set an import of equal amount received by the Guaranty Trust Company from Uruguay. The latter consignment was in the form of gold coins and arrived on the steamship Voltaire. It was the third of three shipments of $1,000,000 each which have been received this month by the Guaranty from Uruguay and which were announced as due earlier in the month.

At San Francisco additional gold was received from the Orient yesterday, according to the Federal Reserve Bank, which announced it had been notified of the arrival of $878,000 gold there from China.

The flow of gold from this market to Canada in the last two weeks has had no depressing effect on Canadian exchange. Canadian dollars yesterday were again quoted at a premium of 5-32, the price at which the recent shipments have been arranged.

Other foreign currencies continued to show strength against the dollar. Sterling was quoted at $4.87 3-32 for cable transfers at one time during the day, but closed unchanged at $4.87. The Scandinavian currencies were again strong and German marks also gained.

French exchange dipped slightly at one time but recovered to close unchanged at 3.93 9-16. It is considered probable that the Aquitania, which sails today, will carry additional gold to France.

TRUST'S HOLDINGS PUT AT $192,895,649

Goldman Sachs Trading Corporation Reports Total Market Value as of June 30.

$239,417,674 ON DEC. 31

Common Stock Asset Valuation Is $30.16 a Share, Compared With $40.94 at End of 1929.

The Goldman Sachs Trading Corporation published yesterday for the first time its full portfolio of holdings. The portfolio shows the aggregate market value of securities as of June 30 in each block held rather than the precise number of shares. It also makes a comparison with the end of last year.

The company had, as of June 30, total holdings of securities valued at $192,895,649, including wholly owned subsidiaries, securities carried for joint account and syndicate participations. As of Dec. 31, securities were valued at $239,417,674, leaving a depreciation, including various write-downs, of $46,522,024. This depreciation was deducted from surplus and placed as an asset in the balance sheet as an interim reserve. In some cases where no reliable quotations could be obtained the securities were carried at cost, or, in the case of banks, at a ratio to their asset value. Total assets aggregated $196,908,196.

The common stock of the corporation had an asset value of $30.16 on June 30, compared with $40.94 on Dec. 31. Total cash income for the period, not including stock dividends received, and after expenses, taxes and interest, amounted to $2,742,447.

Revaluation of Investment.

Of the interim reserve of $46,522,024 set up from surplus, approximately $27,000,000 arose through a revaluation of the company's investment in the wholly-owned Pacific American Company, and of this amount $16,000,000 in turn arises from that company's ownership of stock in the American Trust Company of San Francisco. Investment in this bank is now carried at one and a quarter times its asset value as against twice its asset value on Dec. 31.

Besides complete ownership of the Pacific American Company, the portfolio reveals a 32 per cent ownership of or commitment to the stock of the Manufacturers Trust Company, now carried at $25,144,505. The commitments, which called for the purchase of about $19,728,000 of this stock from July 1, 1930, to May 1, 1932, have been reduced to current market prices.

Other leading investments include $31,381,757 of Shenandoah Corporation preferred and common stocks at market, $12,784,856 of Central States Electric common at market, $13,338,000 of Frosted Foods Company common stock and notes at cost, and $6,005,000 of A. M. Bing Sons Realty Corporation at cost.

Early Action by Government to Stabilize Peseta Expected.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, July 29.—Continuing to drop, the peseta for the second time recently closed today at 9 to the dollar, nearly as low as the record made several weeks ago. It opened at 8.85 this morning. The continued fall is rather surprising since the government is taking means to prepare for stabilization of the currency. The view taken here is that the government will be forced to move rapidly to put the peseta on a gold basis, and this conceivably may take place before the end of the year.

It is known that American and English banking houses are disposed to aid in stabilization of the peseta if proper methods are followed, and the unusual protective restrictions for lenders are accepted. It is regarded in some quarters as essential that methods of reorganizing the economic system be discussed by representatives of the leading world banks first in order to assure that the gold supply will not be drained excessively after stabilization has been put into effect. It is felt that any appreciable drop in the currency would be badly received by the public.

Some government bonds dropped.

SEES WASTE CURE FOR OUR DEPRESSION

French Minister of Commerce Thinks Overproduction May Force Policy on Us.

HOLDS FRANCE IS GAINING

M. Flandin Cites Rise in Purchase of Raw Materials and Drop Exports to Prove Point.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 29.—France's privileged position in the world economic crisis was expounded today in an address made by Pierre É. Flandin, Minister of Commerce, at an industrial meeting held in the municipality of Blaye.

In his address the French Minister compared the prosperity of France with the situation in the United States, which, he said, because of overproduction, seemed doomed to a policy of waste in order to keep its industries operating.

"There is practically no unemployment here, while in Germany, Great Britain and the United States more than 9,000,000 persons are out of work," said M. Flandin. "Our purchases of raw materials since the first of this year exceed by more than 2,500,000 tons similar purchases in the same period last year, and if our exports have slightly declined in the same period, does not this rather show that our internal capacity for consumption has increased? This increased capacity has not been acquired at the expense of our balance, payment for which is proved by the steady imports of gold which have continued to follow the stabilization of our money.

"Our national prudence often has been criticized, but this, although it may have deprived us of temporary profits, has protected us against sudden changes. Two important examples are at present before us. The United States, troubled by disproportion between the rhythm of production and the rhythm of consumption may, as a result, force America toward a policy of waste for having failed to bring these rhythms into accord."

EXCHANGE DISTURBS BRAZIL

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SAO PAULO, Brazil, July 29.—The break in exchange in the last two days has caused considerable anxiety in commercial circles here and in Rio de Janeiro, with the milreis slipping from 9 to 8.70 to the dollar, the lowest mark in the last six years, when the valorization scheme was put into force.

The Diario de São Paulo carried the following report today from Rio de Janeiro:

"The exchange situation reached a most critical stage today.

The Banco do Brazil, which is the axis of exchange operations, is maintaining a strange attitude by giving the same rate foreign banks are offering, causing an uneasy feeling among operators, who fear unfavorable results will occur."

Australian Loan Oversubscribed.

Subscription to the £10,000,000 internal 6 per cent loan of the Commonwealth of Australia sought on behalf of itself and the States, were closed on Monday with a total of approximately £12,250,000, according to a cablegram received here yesterday by Herbert Brookes, Commissioner General of Australia, from the Prime Minister of the Commonwealth. The number of subscribers was reported as about 32,000.

COTTON'S DIP EASED BY LATE COVERING

HEDGING BECOMES ACTIVE

Early Movement of New Crop Expected as Result of Generally Forcing Weather.

Selling pressure on the Cotton Exchange again yesterday sent October below 12½ cents to within a few points of the season's low record made last week. Though no relief arrived for drought stricken sections of the cotton belt, predictions of showery, cooler weather influenced sentiment more than the highest temperatures of the year throughout Oklahoma and Arkansas, where the thermometer registered 100 to 112 degrees at all stations reporting. Prices ranged within limits of about $1 a bale and late covering on expectations of a more unfavorable weekly summary today left the list 3 to 8 points lower than on Monday.

With receipts of the new crop reaching the market in Southern Texas and only a limited demand prevailing for raw material, hedging operations have begun to supply contracts for the first time this Summer. Several spot houses reported hedging orders against purchases of actual cotton and the movement of the new crop, while still light, is increasing daily. Owing to forcing weather, an early movement is indicated and operators are dividing their interests between crop surroundings and signs of hedging pressure.

According to the Cotton Exchange Service, world consumption of American cotton declined sharply in June, the amount being 877,000 bales, compared with 1,224,000 last year. For eleven months the figures were 12,173,000, a falling off of more than 1,800,000 bales from last season and indicating a total for the twelve months of slightly more than 13,000,000, or more than 2,100,000 bales fewer than last season. Indications point to a domestic carry-over of about 4,400,000 bales, against 2,131,000 a year ago, with a world's carry-over of 6,150,000 bales, compared with 4,474,000 on July 31 last year.

I. R. T. REVENUES RISE $3,000,000 IN YEAR

NET EARNINGS $24,824,035

Bill of $176,847 Incurred in Fare Litigation Is Included in Operating Expenses.

The report of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company for the twelve months ended June 30, giving preliminary figures for the fiscal year shows that the company failed to earn by $2,155,078 the full 5 per cent dividend rental on the modified guaranteed Manhattan Railway stock. Before Manhattan 5 per cent stock requirements a net income of $627,372 was shown.

In the preceding year a balance of $3,007,900 remained after Manhattan Railway dividend requirements, equal to $8.59 a share on 350,000 common shares of Interborough stock. The company changed its accounting method beginning last July, however. On the basis of the present accounting there are no past due subway preferentials that the company may collect from future subway earnings.

For the twelve months $176,847 is the amount of the expenses in connection with the fare litigation charged to the subway division and included in the total operating expenses. If it is finally determined that this amount is not a deduction from the revenue under Contract No. 3, the report says, it will have the effect of diminishing the amount remaining before the Manhattan 5 per cent rental for the twelve months.

Gross revenue was $72,747,908, comparing with $69,735,730 in the preceding year, while net earnings after taxes and expenses were $24,824,035. The operating expenses included a reserve for depreciation at $50,000 annually for the Manhattan division and $1,000,000 annually for the subway division.

Rentals payable to the city for original subways were $2,654,715 for the twelve months and those payable as interest on Manhattan Railway bonds $1,808,240. Dividend rental on Manhattan Railway stock non-assenting to the plan of readjustment, at 7 per cent, was $304,570, and rental under Contract No. 3 was $5,477,626. After the foregoing and miscellaneous rentals a balance of $14,323,570 remained for interest and sinking fund requirements, which totaled $13,696,197.

Dividend rental paid in the twelve months to stockholders of the Manhattan Railway Company assenting to the plan of readjustment aggregated $445,192, including 40 cents a share each on Jan. 2 and April 1.

For June gross revenue was $5,832,072, and net after expenses and taxes $1,804,340. The balance after rentals was $1,147,320, and net income after charges was $13,144, showing that the full Manhattan dividend rental of 5 per cent remained unearned by $218,727.

A. T. & T. ACQUIRES SITE FOR NEW LABORATORY

To Supplement Bell Research Plant Here on 200 Acres Near Elizabeth, N. J.

Special to The New York Times.

ELIZABETH, N. J., July 29.—The American Telephone and Telegraph Company has just purchased a tract of nearly 200 acres near here, where it will construct a laboratory to relieve the pressure for space now felt by its Bell Telephone Laboratories, Inc., 463 West Street, New York. Purchase of the laboratory site was disclosed by the former owners, who said they were told that eventually thousands of research and other workers would be employed in the laboratory.

The tract is in thehills west of Elizabeth. It fronts on Mountain Avenue, west of the Summit Golf Club, and is on top of the second range of Watchung Mountains.

When Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, was asked whether the purchase of the site in Elizabeth was for a television plant, he said:

"No, it is not as important as that. For some time we have been negotiating for a site for a laboratory to relieve our laboratories on West Street which are crowded. There are certain experiments which can be conducted just as well in New Jersey as in New York, but we will continue to conduct our more important researches on West Street."

UTILITY INJUNCTION DENIED.

Court Refuses to Halt Standard Gas Deal for Standard Power.

WILMINGTON, Del., July 29 (AP).—The application of minority stockholders of the Standard Gas and Electric Corporation for a preliminary injunction to restrain complete consummation of the purchase by the corporation of the assets of the Standard Power and Light Corporation was denied today by the Delaware Chancery Court.

The application of the minority stockholders for leave to amend their bill of complaint to include the United States Electric Corporation as an additional defendant was also denied.

It was alleged that Standard Gas purchased the assets of Standard Power at a grossly exorbitant price to the injury of the owners of the common stock of Standard Gas.

Heydecke in Utility Group Post.

Franklyn Heydecke, general auditor of the electric department of the Public Service Electric and Gas Company and of the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey, has been appointed national chairman of the accounting section of the National Electric Light Association.

WHEAT PRICES DROP AS CORN ADVANCES

Lack of Support Carries All Deliveries of Bread Grain to New Lows on Crop.

WINNIPEG'S DECLINE FELT

Gain of ⅜ to 1⅜c Recorded in Corn—Cereal Buyers Active as Oats Fall—Rye Also Lower.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 29.—The wheat market was heavy from the start today, with a noticeable lack of support. The latter rather than aggressive sellin, was largely responsible for a break that carried all deliveries to new lows on the crop, with the finish well toward the bottom at net losses of 1⅜ to 1⅝ cents. Strength in corn caused a rally at one time, but the market weakened quickly on a return of hedging pressure and because of selling attributed to a leading local, who was long.

The downward movement was helped along by weakness in Winnipeg, which was 2¼ cents lower at the last. Houses with Winnipeg connections sold futures here on a fairly good scale, while Chicago spreaders sold here and bought in Winnipeg, as the September-October difference narrowed to 6⅝ cents at the last, compared with 8 cents recently.

A disappointing export demand, with sales of only 500,000 to 600,000 bushels in all positions, mainly Manitobas, had some effect on sentiment, as did an estimate by a Winnipeg concern that the three Provinces would have 391,000,000 bushels this season, compared with 276,000,000 last year.

The heavy movement of Winter wheat from Illinois is expected to be over in a week or so, but the movement of new Spring grain in the Northwest is rapidly increasing, Minneapolis estimating 75 to 100 cars had been received there during the day. Private crop estimates to be announced on Friday will probably show more Winter wheat than a month ago and indicate a yield for the country larger than last year, despite a decrease in Spring grain.

Primary receipts were 4,145,000 bushels, a week ago 4,315,000 and a year ago 4,851,000. Shipments respectively were 2,571,000, 1,741,000 and 2,395,000 bushels.

Corn was as strong as wheat was weak, and, while failing to get into new ground, the finish was ⅜ to 1⅜ cents higher because of continued dry weather over the belt and further reports of crop damage. Outside trade was not so large as yesterday's, and many local longs went out of their holdings as holders of offers sold. Spreaders bought corn and sold wheat.

Both July and September corn sold at a premium over July wheat at the last. In July, 1902, following the abnormally small crop of 1901, cash corn sold up to 88 cents, or 9 cents better than cash wheat. Chairman Legge of the Federal Farm Board in a statement expressed great concern over the corn crop, likening the situation to that of 1901, when the yield was only 1,523,000,000 bushels, or 16.7 bushels an acre, the smallest known.

There is, however, little chance that the crop will be so small this season, as part of the belt has received some rain and the area sown is 10,000,000 acres larger.

The forecast was for generally fair and cool weather over the belt, although some showers may be received in Kansas and a few other States. No prospect was held out, though, for a general breaking of the drought in the next few days.

Primary receipts of corn were 737,000 bushels, a week ago 520,000 and a year ago 708,000. Shipments respectively were 711,000, 301,000 and 580,000 bushels.

Northwestern hedging pressure and the late weakness in wheat depressed oats, with the finish unchanged to ⅛ cent lower. Cereal interests were fair buyers.

Rye finished 1 to 1½ cents lower, with trade moderate. The action of wheat was the main factor, although rye was bought against sales of corn.

Prices for the principal grains were as follows:

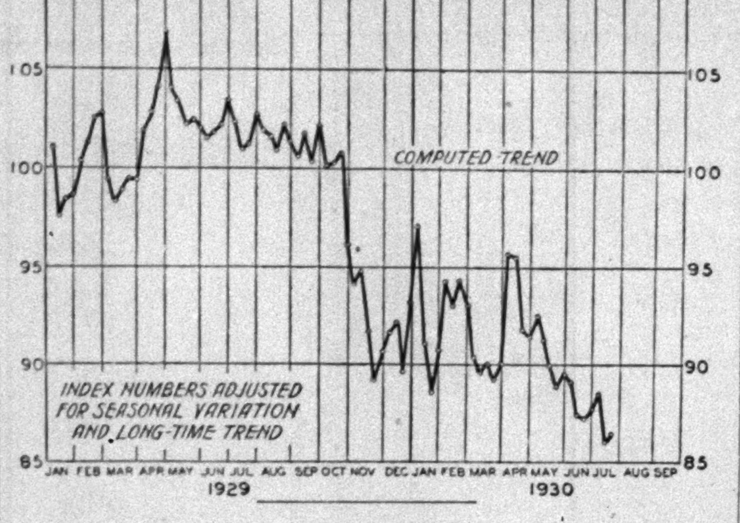
GRAIN EXPORT SMALLER.

Week's Shipments of Wheat 1,180,000 Bushels Below Week Before.

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP).—Grain exports last week from the United States amounted to 3,490,000 bushels, against 4,083,000 bushels the week before. Commerce Department figures today gave the following comparisons between last week's exports and those of the preceding week: Wheat, 2,782,000 bushels, against 3,962,000; oats, 495,000, against none; corn, 25,000, against 26,000; barley, 188,000, against 95,000.

Canadian grain exported last week from United States ports amounted to 1,323,000 bushels, against 1,239,000 bushels the previous week, while exports of North American wheat flour last week were 203,000 barrels, against 233,000 barrels the week before.

Car Loadings Increased 12,271 to 928,256 For Week Ended July 19; Index Up Slightly



A rise of four-tenths of a point in the adjusted index of freight loadings brought it for the week ended July 19 to 86.5 from 86.1 in the preceding week. Total loadings were 928,256 cars, an increase of 12,271 cars over the week ended July 12. This total, as issued by the American Railway Association, compares with an estimated total of 932,473, which was one-half of 1 per cent larger than the actual loadings. The upward movement of the car loadings index was a little less than half the usual seasonal increase for the week ended July 19.

The change from the estimated to the actual figure for the latest week's loadings reduces the combined index of business activity for the week ended July 19, from the provisional 87.5 to 87.4. The latter index compares with a corrected combined index of 88.9 for the week ended July 12—a decline of nearly 1.7 per cent.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Loadings of revenue freight for the week ended July 19 totaled 928,256 cars, the American Railway Association announced today, an increase of 12,271 above the previous week, but a decrease of 151,712 cars below the same week in 1929, also a decrease of 105,587 cars under the same week in 1928. CROPS THREATENED BY LONG DROUGHT

Agriculture Department Reports Farmers Worried by Aridity and Low Prices This Month.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—A discouraging outlook for the farmer was presented in the survey of the July market situation issued today by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the Department of Agriculture.

"Low prices and dry weather continued to worry the farmer throughout July," the bureau declared.

Lack of rain for many weeks threatened to reduce the grain, cotton and potato crops. Prices of farm products went a shade lower, as a group, the last week of the month, but the sharp rise in grain, owing to drought injury nearly offset further slight or moderate declines on cotton and live stock.

Butter and cheese advanced slightly, owing to decreasing output. Hay prices slanted upward. Feeds sold nearly unchanged. Potatoes tended lower all month. Dressed fowls advanced 2 to 3 cents during July while broilers declined by nearly the same amount, bringing the prices of the two lines close together on the lower grades.

The extreme heat in July, which has prevailed over practically all of the larger butter producing States, has curtailed production, according to reports from all sections. Some cheese factories are making butter instead of cheese because of the more favorable returns. The butter supply in cold storage is being gradually reduced as less butter is being stored this year than last.

"On account of the excessive heat in practically all sections of the country," the bureau said, "the quality of eggs received at terminal markets has been very irregular for some time, with by far the larger proportion running poor.

"Further declines on beef cattle were attributed principally to the demoralized dressed beef market, with beef stocks accumulating at packing plants and branch houses, and lacking buyers even at sharply reduced prices.

"Sheep receipts at most markets showed a slight gain. Dry pastures forced active marketing but demand for the dressed product is poor. Prices are lowest in years.

"Domestic wheat markets developed a firmer tone during the last week of July, under a continued good export inquiry and some slackening in the movement of new Winter wheat. Marketings of hard Winter wheat slackened somewhat but about the same quantity has been received at the principal markets since the 1st of July as a year ago. Exports of wheat since the 1st of July have been nearly double those of a year ago.

"The corn market continued strong, influenced by reports of serious deterioration in many parts of the corn belt and by continued active demand for the limited supplies of old-crop grain. The oats market continued dull and inactive.

"Sharp deterioration of pastures in recent weeks, together with light stocks in most distributers' hands, strengthened the feed markets. Prices of wheat mill feeds advanced sharply, but heavy rains over much of the Central West brought about some slackening demand in that area and prices receded somewhat from the peak reached earlier."

BUILDING UNION HEADS DEMUR AT ARBITRATION

Presidents Fail to Endorse Agreement to End Strikes—Conference Goes On.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 29.—No agreement on the proposed international arbitration board for the settlement of "jurisdictional" disputes between unions in the building trades was reached in an all-day conference today between national union chiefs and the joint committee of international employers and union delegates.

Oscar W. Rosenthal of Chicago, international president of the Employers Building Association, who presided at the conference, turned the matter over to the general presidents of the building trades unions to consider in executive session. This meeting occupied the rest of the day.

The arbitration plan, in the form of an agreement containing thirty-two articles, met with objections from leading union heads at today's conference. They declared local jurisdictional boards had handled the situation as satisfactorily as possible under human conditions and that no international board could do any better, but might cause friction.

The original conference committee, including international union presidents, answered that it was the best step yet taken toward the elimination of costly strikes in the building trades.

"If we have accomplished nothing else," declared an international chief, "we have set our feet under the same table with the employers for the first time and exchanged views with them on the question."

Mr. Rosenthal urged adoption of the plan by the international union chiefs. He announced the joint conference would be resumed tomorrow morning. It is expected the conference will last all day and perhaps continue Thursday.

TO CUT OHIO OIL OUTPUT.

30% Curtailment Voted by Producers in Southeastern Section.

MARIETTA, Ohio, July 29 (AP).—Southeastern Ohio crude oil producers decided at a meeting here today on a 30 per cent curtailment of production in line with New York, Pennsylvania and West Virginia operators in the hope of preventing a further decline in prices.

Two hundred Ohio operators attended the meeting. The action will be effective at once and will rule until Aug. 31. Meanwhile the curtailment board of the Pennsylvania Crude Oil Producers' Association for the four States is empowered to draft a schedule for September and for subsequent months if further reduction is necessary.

The conservation movement affects seventeen Ohio counties. The meeting was addressed by Forrest D. Dorn of Bradford, Pa., president, and R. J. Alexander of Oil City, Pa., secretary of the Pennsylvania Crude Oil Producers' Association, and R. T. Zook of the Independent Producers Board of Bradford.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 29.—Oil curtailment activities have extended into Washington and Green Counties, which rank among the nation's oldest producers of petroleum. W. R. Shaw of Bedford, representing the Pennsylvania Grade Crude Oil Association, is visiting independent producers asking that their production be reduced 30 per cent, against 50 per cent in the northern part of the State.

⁂

Buyers Behind a Year Ago.

Buyers registered in the market during the past week showed only a slight decrease under the figures for the preceding week, but fell far behind the number listed at the same period a year ago, according to the lists published in THE TIMES. For the past week 848 buyers were listed, as against 869 in the previous week and 1,125 in the corresponding week last year. Yesterday's arrivals showed a slight gain over a week ago, 374 being registered, as compared with 366 reported last Tuesday.

⁂

Retailers Spreading Their Orders.

The week has opened fairly auspiciously in regard to the number of buyers appearing at wholesale houses and resident offices, it was reported yesterday. Retail representatives are shopping very cautiously, however, as exemplified by the larger number of accounts being opened by various wholesale firms. Instead of concentrating on a few firms, as formerly, buyers are making a thorough canvass of the market and spreading their commitments. In the dress trade it was stated that there is a great deal of uncertainty, as there appear to be no outstanding models warranting volume purchases. In comparison with last year buyers are purchasing about 50 per cent less, it was reported.

Bates Bedspreads Reduced.

Price reductions on bedspreads ranging up to 45 cents each were announced by Bliss, Fabyan & Co., Inc., selling agents for Bates bedspreads, yesterday. Recent raw material reductions and important manufacturing economies resulting from an increased schedule of production were responsible for the downward revision, it was stated. The price cuts affect many numbers of the new Fall lines. In making the revision the question of accurately fitting the wholesale quotations to the retail selling price ranges received first consideration. The new schedule puts the greatest emphasis on the popular-priced numbers.

Urges Later Apparel Openings.

If retailers continue their policy of delaying purchases of women's wear, which is so apparent now, it may eventually prove a blessing in disguise to the apparel trade, Fred Greenberg of the Ravenhue Dress Company stated yesterday. "If this trend continues for a few more seasons," Mr. Greenberg said, "manufacturers will be compelled to open their Fall lines later in the year, instead of in May, at a period closer to the consumer buying season. The present policy is suicidal. Later openings will mean a greater length of time devoted to the disposal of Summer merchandise and will eliminate the mid-year trip to Paris, where the displays are nothing really more than a rehash of earlier models. This policy would result in considerable economies, I think."

⁂

Advise On Sub-Sample Imports.

The National Council of American Importers and Traders, Inc., today will forward to Washington suggestions covering the re-exportation of imported merchandise which does not come up to sample. The Treasury Department is now formulating regulations which will cover this new privilege extended importers under the tariff law. Under the new regulations a drawback of 99 per cent of the duty paid is allowed when sub-sample goods are re-exported. The rules now being drawn up are intended to prevent abuse of the privilege without hindering its operation in legitimate instances.

Wool Goods Output and Sales Up.

Production in the wool-weaving industry for June gained 27 per cent and billings 18.5 per cent over May, according to the Wool Institute yesterday, in publishing the linear yardage figures for June, on a four-week basis. Output in June amounted to 4,778,373 yards, compared with 3,759,030 yards for four weeks of May. Billings totaled 4,618,200 yards for June, against 3,896,359 yards in May. Stocks on hand showed a decline of 0.5 per cent, the comparative figures being 6,723,622 yards and 6,755,568 yards.

Food Warehouse Plan Started.

The group warehousing plan formulated by the Associated Grocery Manufacturers of America, Inc., was officially launched in Philadelphia yesterday, according to an announcement at the local offices of the organization. Two warehouses, one north and the other south of Market Street, will be used by members of the association. Wholesalers in Philadelphia handling the products of any of the 200 member companies will be able to obtain their supplies from either of the two establishments. James F. Brownlee, chairman of the organization's warehouse committee, said yesterday that the group plan would be extended to other cities shortly.

⁂

Otter Sells Well at Fur Auction.

A good collection of Southern muskrat sold well yesterday at the continuation of the Summer sale of the New York Auction Company, Inc. The skins sold at prevailing market prices, bringing a top of 80 cents. Better sections of otter were in good demand and brought a high of $31. Beaver declined slightly and was sold up to $36. Black and brown bear and opossum were in fair demand, but squirrel and mink were neglected. The highest prices paid for the foregoing were as follows: Black bear, $6.50; brown bear, $4; squirrel, 48 cents; opossum, $1.52, and mink $16.75. Total sales for the day amounted to $450,000.

Women's Wear Color Data Out.

The color analyses of women's wear by fabrics for the 1930 Fall season have been published and are being sent to cutters, retail buyers, members of the Garment Retailers of America and a list of stylists by the Wool Institute, according to an announcement yesterday from Elizabeth Hallam Bohn, stylist of the women's wear division of the institute. These analyses of woolens and worsteds represent information based on actual orders obtained from most of the women's wear mills in the United States, the announcement said. The fabrics covered include dress coatings, sportswear coatings, suitings and dress materials. As the season advances the institute plans to publish these color trends weekly.

Little Demand for Gray Goods.

With buyers covering only their immediate requirements, there was no general demand for cloth in the gray goods market yesterday. Sales were confined to small lots. Inquiry was negligible. In standard printcloths 38½-inch 60-48s were quoted at 4⅞ cents, with little demand appearing. Orders for 38½-inch 64-60s were filled at 5⅜ to 5½ cents, and for 39-inch 68-72s at 6⅛ to 6¼ cents. Some trading was done in 39-inch 80 squares at prices ranging between 7⅝ and 7¾ cents. Sheetings continued inactive.

SUGAR, COFFEE, COCOA.

Sugar.

Yesterday was a day of new lows throughout the sugar market, except in refined sugar. Cuba, for first-half August shipment, sold at 1.20, c. and f., and Philippine, in port, sold at 3.19, duty paid, equivalent to 1.19, c. a. and f. The first established a new low for Cuban raw sugar and the second a new low for raw sugar of any kind.

In the futures markets all positions established new lows, and September at 1.14 established a new all-time low for any position. Sales were 31,000 tons.

Refiners continued to quote 4.70 for refined sugar, but second-hand was available at 4.60 and 4.65.

The American Sugar Institute yesterday announced that the total melt of fifteen United States refineries from Jan. 1 to July 19 was 2,690,000 long tons, as compared with 2,870,000 long tons in the corresponding period of last year, and deliveries were 2,510,000 long tons, compared with 2,630,000 long tons last year.

MOON AUTO FIGHT ENDS.

Court Enjoins Former Officers as New Era Forces Step in.

ST. LOUIS, July 29 (AP).—The fight for control of the Moon Motor Car Company ended here today when Circuit Judge Pearcy granted a permanent order restraining former officers from interfering with operations of the firm.

New officers, headed by W. J. Muller of Philadelphia, were elected April 12. When they sought to take charge two days later they had to disperse armed guards and enter the company's offices through windows.

The new officers represent interests in Moon aacquired by New Era Motors, Inc., in turning over to Moon rights and patents of the Ruxton front-wheel drive for exclusive manufacture.

MACHINERY TRADE DULL.

New England Feels Encouraged and Buffalo Sees Improvement.

Expectation of better business in the Fall is the sole relieving factor to the inertia that still grips the principal machinery and machine tool markets of the country, according to the weekly summary of The American Machinist. The publication continues:

"New York dealers have not received any large lists. Detroit automotive plants are shut down for inventories and vacations, but new models are expected to bring large demands. Milwaukee still reports hesitancy, though allied interests have been active and tractor manufacturers are receiving large orders from Amtorg.

"Philadelphia business is still quiet. Cincinnati plants have closed for vacations, and the only hopeful sign is the increased number of inquiries. Chicago also finds inquiries more encouraging. New England discovers a lifting of depression in several centres. Buffalo reports business on the upgrade, employment improved and inquiries better."

LIVE STOCK IN CHICAGO.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 29.—Movement of hogs fell materially short of expectations today and brought in a better demand that lifted prices 10 to 40 cents over Monday, with the close around the best prices, lights showing the most strength. The top was 25 cents higher at $9.75, although few sold above $9.65. The day's average was advanced 30 cents to $8.70. Most sales were $8 to $9.40, with heavyweights quoted at $8.40 to $9.15, medium weights $9 to $9.60, lightweights $9.30 to $9.65 and packing sows $7 to $7.80. Packers bought 11,200 and shippers 6,000, with 2,000 left over. Receipts were 17,000, with 15,000 estimated for tomorrow.

Meager offerings of cattle forced buyers to pay stronger prices, the market being quoted steady to 25 cents higher. The upturn, however, was regarded as largely forced and it was thought any material increase in receipts would start values downward again. Best steers sold at $10.65, with the bulk of beef cattle at $8 to $10.10. Receipts were 3,500.

Lambs generally were off 25 cents, most natives selling at $8.50 to $8.75, while a load of very fancy sold at $9. Westerns brought $8.25 to $8.85. Sheep were steady at $2.25 to $3.75. Receipts were 12,000.

SAY WRIT WON'T HALT WAR ON SWEAT SHOPS

Director of Cloak Council and Head of Union Undeterred by Boycott Case.

Unless specifically restrained from doing so, the Industrial Council of Cloak and Suit Manufacturers will continue to observe the terms of the existing labor agreement in the industry, Samuel Klein, executive director of the council, said yesterday in commenting upon the temporary injunction obtained Monday by Brooklyn cloak contractors in the State Supreme Court restraining the Industrial Council, Governor Roosevelt's cloak and suit commission and other organized factors from maintaining a boycott against the Brooklyn group.

The Brooklyn contractors sued for the writ when they were expelled from membership in the American Cloak and Suit Association and when manufacturers and jobbers, parties to the collective agreements in the industry, were warned by the Governor's commission not to give any work to them.

Mr. Klein, speaking for his group, said that it was affected little by the injunction because its members had few dealings with Brooklyn contractors.

Benjamin Schlesinger, president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union, after reading the full text of the temporary writ issued by Justice Selah B. Strong, declared yesterday:

"No injunction can compel a decent manufacturer or a decent jobber to give work to substandard shops or to racketeering shops. As for manufacturers and jobbers who are not decent and would like to see a return of the sweatshop system, the union has always fought them and will continue to fight them now."

Bearing out the union's intention, Cutters' Local 10 of the international union voted yesterday a tax of a day's pay on its 3,600 members, totaling $40,000, to help drive out the sweatshops and to fight racketeering in the industry.

ENJOINED UNION CHIEFS FINED ON STRIKE ORDER

Electrical Workers' Officers Declared in Contempt for Urging Walk-Out of Workers.

William Reuter, vice president, and Emil Preiss, business manager, of Local 3, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, have been J. J. Mack, president of the Utility fined $250 each for contempt of court in attempting to force a walk-out of electricians employed by the Utility Electric Company, 115 Cedar Street, it was revealed yesterday in a decision by Supreme Court Justice Witschief filed in White Plains Supreme Court. company, first obtained a temporary injunction, since made permanent, restraining the union from interfering with his business early in 1928. The injunction was affirmed later by the Appellate Division on appeal by the defendants. It was on the charge of contempt of court, in violating the injunction, that Justice Witschief levied the fines.

Mr. Mack said yesterday that his first difficulty with the local union followed its reorganization three years ago, when because of attempted interference he applied for the injunction. On July 7 last union officials admittedly ordered union electricians to leave Mack's employ. They maintained he had ignored a union regulation requiring that electricians working on telephones be employed only through union headquarters.

Justice Witschief ruled that no union regulation, whether or not it was valid in itself, could affect the injunction, which was an order of the court. Therefore, he held, the union leaders were in contempt. Three other officials of the local, including Frank Wilson, its president, were held by the court not to be in contempt, as they had not participated in the plan to force a walk-out.

This lease will be subordinate to the lien of mortgages on the property not exceeding the sum of $700,000.

The five-story apartment house at 244 West 101st Street, which is on a lot 25 by 100 feet, was leased for twenty-one years from Feb. 1, 1930, by Henry C. BUILDING INCREASE IS NOW FORECAST

Increased Financing Points to Construction Activity Within Next Six Months.

PUBLIC WORKS HOLD LEAD

Gain Over Last Year Is Expected to Continue as Impetus to Private Projects Is Seen in Survey.

An increase in public and private bond issues indicates that a construction upturn is due within the next six months, with the volume of building projects for this year probably equaling that in 1929, according to the Engineering News-Record. Comparisons over a long period are said to show that contracts follow the issuance of new securities for constructive purposes by about four months.

A gain in public financing shows that public construction may be expected to hold at least a part of its present lead of 12 per cent over 1929 during the next three months, the publication says. With a 20 per cent increase in private capital issues during the first half of 1930 over the corresponding period of 1929, the prospects for a larger volume of construction in the present half year are seen as bright.

"New private bond issues during the four months from March to June of this year totaled 41 per cent more than in corresponding months of 1929," the publication says. "Private contracts from July to October, 1929, totaled $781,000,000, compared with $705,000,000 in that period of 1928, or a gain of 11 per cent. A similar gain in this class this year over last during the next four months will decrease the present half-year deficit of 29 per cent to 16 per cent, with the possibility of no deficit at the close of the year.

Outlook Very Favorable.

"Taking public and private engineering construction together, then, the outlook is for an even break with last year. And last year exceeded 1928 by 10 per cent and 1927 by 9 per cent."

As a basis for its conclusions the Engineering News-Record says that in 1929 the total of bonds issued by public and private corporations amounted to $12,440,000,000, but only $6,627,000,000 was domestic capital investment, including structures, machinery and transportation. The remaining $5,813,000,000 was distributed as follows: Refunding, 24 per cent; Canadian and foreign, 12 per cent; investment trusts and holding companies, 38 per cent, and miscellaneous non-productive, 26 per cent.

Public bonds are practically 100 per cent for construction, not more than 1 per cent being refunding. They are issued in general in the following percentages: By city and town, 60; county, 20; school districts, 10, and State, 10. The total value of the 1928-29 issues of both long and short term bonds was $4,452,000,000 for the two years. The value of public works contracts recorded by the Engineering News-Record from May, 1928, through April, 1930, the period when most of these bonds were being translated into construction, was $2,225,000,000, or 70 per cent of the total security value.

Public Bond Sales.

"Sales of long-term public bonds for the first six months of 1930," the periodical continues, "totaled $754,000,000, compared with only $670,000,000 in 1929, $778,000,000 in 1928, $883,000,000 in 1927, and $749,000,000 in 1926. Monthly sales in millions of dollars of both long and short term bonds were as follows:

	1930.	1929.
January	$201	$188
February	161	161
March	229	164
April	332	192
May	152	240
June	195	210
	$1,170	$1,155

"These funds have been drawn on only for May and June contracts, whose value was 4 per cent above that of May and June, 1929. January-February bond sales were above those of the preceding year by about the same margin. Third quarter prospects are indicated by the fact that bonds have been sold (March-June) to the value of $808,000,000, compared with $806,000,000 in 1929 and $754,000,000 in 1928.

"Private corporation securities issued for capital-investment purposes totaled $4,400,000,060 in 1929, and contracts reported in the twelve months from May, 1929, to April, 1930, totaled $2,597,000,000, or 59 per cent. Monthly issues in millions of dollars this year and last compare as follows:

	1930.	1929.
February	359	467
March	465	383
April	508	387
May	817	586
June	456	236
	$3,132	$2,613

"This shows an increase of 20 per cent."

PLAN A NEW CITY IN PASSAIC COUNTY

Developers Say They Expect to Spend $50,000,000 on Tract of 700 Acres.

WILL ERECT 4,500 HOUSES

Design Involves Ample Building Plots With Gardens—Site Near Montclair and Nutley.

Work has been started on the development of a new town in Northern New Jersey to be known as New Park City. It will occupy a tract of nearly 700 at Allwood, a section of Clifton in Passaic County. The Newark-Paterson branch of the Erie Railroad runs through the tract and it is also served by a branch of the Lackawanna Railroad. The property is two miles east of Montclair, one mile north of Nutley and about half a miles northeast of the boundary lines of the town of Bloomfield and Essex County.

The developing company is headed by Charles H. Reis and Newland C. Prior, president and vice president respectively of Charles H. Reis, Inc., developers of Sunshine City in Wood-Ridge, Bergen County, N. J., where nearly $12,000,000 has been spent in erecting 1,000 houses and laying out the 115-acre town tract.

Mr. Reis states that the plans for New Park City call for an expenditure of practically $50,000,000 for a seven-year period. It is proposed to erect 4,500 dwellings in addition to buildings for 400 stores, a community house, a motion picture theatre, garages, service stations. Construction has also been started on a $50,000 station of old English architecture for the Erie Railroad.

Main Business Thoroughfare.

The main business thoroughfare will be known as Market Street, to be 80 feet wide and extending from the station to Stone House Plains Road which, with Bloomfield Avenue will be the main arteries through the town. Stone House Plains Road has been designated as a State highway 100 feet in width and will connect with the approach to the proposed vehicular tunnel to Thirty-eighth Street, Manhattan.

The nucleus of the Allwood property was obtained by the purchase of the 300-acre tract owned by the Brighton Mills, which moved its plant to Georgia several years ago. About 700 acres have been assembled for the development, more than half of it by outright purchase.

Financing of the operation has been arranged through the Fidelity Union Title & Mortgage Guaranty Company and the National Mortgage Corporation, of Newark; the Guarantee Title & Mortgage Guaranty Company of Passaic, the Fidelity Title & Mortgage Guaranty Company of Ridgewood and the New York Title Company.

P. J. Jossier, of Palisades Park, is supervising architect. He is designing a group of English and American Colonial types for the first series of 300 houses. They will be constructed in groups of 100. Each house, it is stated, will sell for approximately $8,000 and will contain six rooms and two baths.

The building plots will be 40 by 100 feet and every house will have a built-in garage. No fences or structure other than the dwelling will be permitted on any residential plots, and an ample park area will be provided in the rear. Every tree, wherever possible, will be preserved even though it may be necessary to relocate some dwellings.

Public Park With Playground.

A seven-acre tract will be set aside as a public park, equipped with a children's playground, baseball field and tennis and handball courts.

"The development plans," said Mr. Reis yesterday, "will give work to a large number of unemployed. We shall need at once more than 800 carpenters, plasterers, bricklayers, plumbers, electricians and other craftsmen, while the paving of the streets and sidewalks and the installations of sewers, electric and telephone wires and gas mains will call for the employment of another group of more than 1,000 men skilled in those trades."

THEATRE PROJECT HALTED.

Large 23d and 24th St. Plot in Chelsea Area Remains Vacant.

Plans for the first theatre in a national chain of moving picture "talkies," as announced last March by the B. S. Moss theatrical interests, has been temporarily abandoned and the large plot cleared for the projected operation in the heart of the Chelsea section remains vacant.

The plot, purchased by a syndicate representing the Moss interests, had a frontage of 200 feet on Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth Streets, about the middle of the block between Seventh and Eighth Avenues. For three-quarters of a century or more it was occupied by twenty old-fashioned dwellings, at 245-263 West Twenty-third Street and 238-256 West Twenty-fourth Street, ten houses facing each street.

The property had been owned by the Suarez family for many years and it was bought by the Moss syndicate from Samuel Brener, who purchased the fee from the Suarez heirs and a long leasehold taken four or five years ago by the Meister Builders, which recently filed a petition in bankruptcy.

Demolition of the houses began last March. No excavation work has been started, and a board fence has been erected on the Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth Street frontages of the large vacant plot. Opposite, on the south side of Twenty-third Street, is the old Chelsea apartment hotel. It was ascertained yesterday that the property has been offered to two or three large operators.

In the absence of the heads of the Moss concern it was stated at the offices that the plan had been temporarily abandoned, but it was expected that work might begin in the Fall. Eugene De Rosa, the architect for the theatre and apartment house, also admitted that the plan had been temporarily suspended.

FAR ROCKAWAY TRACT SOLD.

Manhattan Syndicate Buys Fifty Acres at Norton's Creek.

What is said to be the most important real estate transaction recorded in Far Rockaway in some time has just been completed in the purchase of the largest tract of unimproved property in Far Rockaway, located at Norton's Creek and Amstel Boulevard, by a group of Manhattan capitalists headed by Edward Wilson, it was announced yesterday.

The property was purchased from the Best Renting Corporation, who bought the land from the Norton estate some time ago. The parcel comprises between forty and fifty acres of upland in addition to some 8,000 feet of waterfront property. The property is reported to have been held at $500,000.

The parcel was involved in an interesting litigation over two years ago when the Court of Appeals ruled that the Norton estate was the rightful owner of land underwater, the ownership of which had been contested by the city of New York claiming ownership of all hassocks and hummocks under water, in accordance with a bill passed by the Legislature during the administration of Governor Hughes, now Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court. The Court of Appeals upheld the provisions of an Indian deed which gave a grant of ownership to the land under water.

The new owners of the property will improve the site with attractive small cottages and a landscape appropriate to the development itself.

Low Record in Filing of Papers.

A record low for two years was established Monday in the filing of instruments of real estate transactions in the Register's office of New York County. Only forty-two were put on record, this being the smallest amount of business transacted in a day for the last two years.

BUILDING MATERIAL. BUILDING MATERIAL. BUILDING MATERIAL.

A very pleasant meal . . . . . . but a shadow hangs over it

MANY a pleasant meal is spoiled, night after night, for the woman who should be enjoying it! While she eats her dessert she's thinking of that pile of greasy dishes waiting for her in the kitchen. Oh, if only they would wash themselves! They do . . . in a Walker.

With no fuss, no bother, dishes are washed, rinsed and dried. And what's more, when the dishes are done, the Walker is ready to close for the night, too. It requires no cleaning itself.

This daily comfort means so much to a woman. But, perhaps even dearer to her heart than her own comfort, is her family's well-being. If every woman could know all the facts about hand-washed dishes, if she could see with a microscopic eye the dangers that lurk in her dishrag, no home would be without its Walker.

Health authorities are extremely fussy about dishwashing in restaurants. Would your kitchen pass their test? But why worry about it at all? Have a Walker and be sure every dish on your table is safely free from germs. The coupon will bring you further facts.

A FEW QUICK FACTS

Self-cleansing—the same water action that washes the dishes, cleans the machine itself.

Washes, rinses and dries—anything that can be washed by hand without laborious scouring.

Perfected—after many years of development, the Walker now offers greatest efficiency and many exclusive advantages.

Simple—no complicated pumps, strainers or moving sprays . . . so simple that a youngster can operate it.

Safe for china—even your finest china is safer than when washed by hand, because it never moves in a Walker.

Sanitary—doctors approve it because it washes dishes with water far hotter than hands can stand. Only in this way can bacteria be destroyed.

CITY BOAT LAUNCHED IN THE EAST RIVER

1,500 Watch Ceremonies as the Ship Is Put Into the Welfare Island Service.

OTHER CRAFT SALUTE HER

Goldman Tells of Municipal Program for Modernizing New York's Floating Equipment.

About 1,500 persons were present yesterday when the new municipal boat Welfare, built to transport patients and visitors from East Eighty-sixth Street to Welfare Island, was launched at the yard of the John W. Sullivan Shipbuilding Corporation at Elizabethport, N. J. Five hundred of the spectators were taken from the Battery to the scene in the ferryboat Dongan Hills as guests of the Department of Plant and Structures and others included workmen and residents of the town.

Joseph V. McKee, president of the Board of Aldermen, and William H. Todd, shipbuilder, stood at the side of Miss Edna Helen Murphy of 1,895 Grand Concourse, the Bronx, when she broke a bottle of carbonated water on the prow of the boat as it was released to slide down the ways. Other craft in the neighborhood welcomed the boat with whistles and the Police Department band played while the radio audience of station WNYC heard a description of the event.

Commissioner Albert Goldman of the Department of Plant and Structures, which will operate the boat, spoke for Mayor Walker in extending the thanks of the city to the shipbuilders for completing the boat two months in advance of the scheduled time. He said the boat would be an important part of the city's program of modernization of its floating equipment, succeeding a boat that had served in the Welfare Island run almost thirty-five years. Mr. McKee also spoke briefly.

The boat, the eighth to be launched by the city since September, 1926, is a single-ended, steel screw passenger boat with two enclosed steel cabins on the main deck and a pilot house and staff officers' house on the upper deck. It is 106 feet long over all, 26 feet wide over guards, 12 feet deep and has an operating draft of 9 feet 6 inches. The propelling machinery consists of a vertical compound condensing machine with two cylinders 15 and 32 inches in diameter respectively and a common stroke capable of developing about [illegible] horsepower.

Among those present yesterday were Henry C. Hunter, counsel for the National Council of American Shipbuilders; Frank J. Taylor, Commissioner of Public Welfare; Frank Cunningham, chairman of the finance committee of the Board of Aldermen; Tenement House Commissioner William F. Deegan; Charles F. Buckley, City Chamberlain, and Judge William A. Farrell. Miss Murphy, sponsor of the boat, is active in civic and hospital work.

TELLS OF RESCUE ATTEMPT.

Coast Guard Commander Says Two Boats Tried to Reach Craft Afire.

Special to The New York Times.

FREEPORT, L. I., July 29.—Charges that the Coast Guard did not try to rescue ten persons from a burning boat off Point Lookout on Sunday were denied today by Commander C. J. Sullivan of Bayshore, in charge of all the stations from Long Beach to Montauk. Those on the ship were rescued by the owner of a fast cruiser.

One boat put out from Point Lookout as soon as the men in the tower saw the smoke, Commander Sullivan said.

"On the way out," he explained, "this boat broke a water jacket and so a second boat that had also put out had to tow it back. Two other boats from the Shore Beach station were on their way to the rescue boat but could not compete with the fast cruiser of Samuel Summers, who took the ten persons off the burning boat. The Coast Guard did all that it could under the circumstances and we have no apology to make."

NASSAU TO FETE GOVERNOR.

Honors Await Roosevelt at Valley Stream Sunday.

Special to The New York Times.

VALLEY STREAM, L. I., July 29.—Village, county and State officials are preparing to greet Governor Roosevelt when he arrives here Sunday afternoon to inspect State projects in Nassau and Suffolk Counties.

The Governor will motor from New York and tour the Valley Stream State Park first. From there he will continue to Hempstead State Park, thence to Belmont Park with Jones Beach as the final inspection stop in Nassau County. In Suffolk County he will first visit Heckscher State Park at Islip from which the Governor's party will go to Southampton to spend the night.

Suffolk Democrats will honor the Governor the next day at Canoe Place Inn.

This will be the executive's first official visit to Nassau County since he attended the opening of Jones Beach with former Governor Alfred E. Smith last year.

TO EXTEND SHIP SERVICE.

Clyde Mallory Lines to Operate to South Until Oct. 29 or Later.

The Clyde Mallory Lines will extend the service of their steamships Algonquin and Mohawk, operating between New York, Miami and Galveston, until late in the Fall, according to announcement yesterday. The ships will be operated until Oct. 29 or later, passenger official said.

The ships sail from New York on Saturdays, arriving at Miami on Tuesdays and at Galveston on Fridays, starting back on Saturday and arriving in New York on Friday. They are oil-burners with turbine engines and accommodate 446 passengers.

HOBOKEN IN ROW ON PIERS

Commissioners Plan to Protest, Calling Bid Unfair.

The bid of $4,282,000 by the Paul W. Chapman interests for the Hoboken piers brought the city commissioners of Hoboken and officials of the Chamber of Commerce into a heated dispute yesterday. While the chamber officials who had approved the fairness of the bid at a meeting Monday supported their stand, the city commissioners and Vice Chancellor Fallon denounced it as "inadequate and unfair to Hoboken."

Following the meeting, the city commissioners, headed by Mayor Bernard F. McFeely, conferred at the City Hall and directed the City Clerk to address a protest to the United States Shipping Bureau.

Vice Chancellor Fallon declared that the Chapman bid was only one-third of the $12,000,000 value of the properties before the war. He suggested that the city of Hoboken could purchase the piers and realize a greater tax benefit from leases to private shipping firms than under the proposed sale.

William J. Duffy, president of the Chamber of Commerce, said in reply that the conditions of the sale excluded the city from taking part in the bidding. The pre-war valuation, he added, was not to be considered at present, in view of the general business decline and the physical decline of the properties.

END PASSENGER LINE TO SOUTH AMERICA

Lamport and Holt to Withdraw Because of Unfavorable Business Conditions.

FACED KEEN COMPETITION

Voltaire and Vandyck Will Be Taken From Service, but the Seven Freighters Will Continue.

Withdrawal of the Lamport and Holt Line from the South American passenger service because of unfavorable business conditions was announced yesterday in a statement issued by Sanderson & Sons, 26 Broadway, agents of the company. The line will remove its two passenger vessels, the Voltaire and the Vandyck, from the service, but will continue to operate its seven freighters.

The line is owned by the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company, Ltd., of Great Britain, which withdrew temporarily from the Bermuda service last week by selling the Araguaya to an undisclosed group abroad. The Royal Mail is now left with the ships of the White Star Line as its only operating passenger fleet. The Arcadian, the second of its Bermuda ships, is operating in a Summer Canadian service and plans of the company affecting her await the close of the Summer season.

The Lamport & Holt ships have faced keen competition in the last few years in the South American service. The Munson Line, which had operated a fleet of government-owned ships for the United States Shipping Board in the South American service, bought the ships and has continued to operate them. The Prince Line, another competitor, has built four large, modern passenger ships, the Northern Prince, the Southern Prince, the Eastern Prince and the Western Prince, in the past year, and the Garcia & Diaz Company has also added to its fleet.

The announcement by Sanderson & Sons was prompted by orders from abroad and specifies that the action is temporary, final action to be determined by trade conditions in the future.

"The continued depression," it says, "in the trade between New York, Argentina, Brazil and Uruguay is such that the operation of vessels possessed of large passenger-carrying capacity is not warranted and the board of directors of Lamport & Holt, Ltd., after due consideration, has decided to withdraw these two fine vessels until such time as the passenger trade revives. The freight service of the line will be maintained as heretofore and supplemented by such additional vessels as the trade demands."

The Voltaire arrived from South America yesterday. The details of her immediate future are not known as the announcement of her withdrawal did not specify when it would become effective. The ships are 510 feet 6 inches long, 64 feet 3 inches in breadth and 39 feet 3 inches in depth. They were built by Workman, Clark & Co., Ltd., of Belfast, the Vandyck in 1921 and the Voltaire in 1923. The gross tonnage of the Voltaire is 13,248 and of the Vandyck 13,233.

BOY PILOT SEEKS RECORD.

Jersey City Student Set to Fly to Pacific Coast and Back in August.

Special to The New York Times.

WESTFIELD, N. J., July 29.—Eddie Schneider, 18-year-old Jersey City high school graduate, will try next month to better the national junior transcontinental airplane speed records of the late Frank Goldsborough. He plans to fly from the Westfield Airport to San Francisco and back. The youth has 275 air-hours to his credit, of which thirty-eight hours were of night flying.

The record attempt will be made in a four-place Cessna monoplane, powered with a Warner Scarab motor, a far faster ship than that used by Goldsborough.

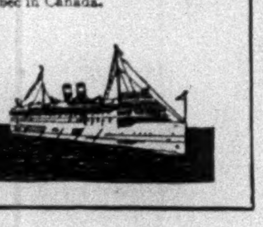
VERY IMPORTANT

CANADA STEAMSHIP LINES operate from the head of Lake Superior, via the St. Lawrence River, to the Saguenay. Their cruises include the seven day trip from Detroit to Duluth and return; Niagara to the Saguenay, including the Thousand Islands, and shooting the rapids; excursions from Toronto, the Queen City, to Niagara, the Thousand Islands and Rochester. They operate a fleet of 106 steamers, freight and passenger, and are the largest fresh water transportation company in the world. The famous Saguenay trip includes visits to Montreal, metropolis of Canada; Quebec, the historic walled city; Murray Bay, "Newport of the North" and Tadoussac, Canada's oldest settlement. The Saguenay Canyon is one of nature's masterpieces.

Our steamers may be boarded at Lewiston, Rochester, Duluth or Detroit in the U.S.A., or Sarnia, Queenston, Toronto, Montreal or Quebec in Canada.



HAVE you ever seen a genuine camera-shy "Mountie" in a smart red tunic? You will probably run across one or two of this famous corps as you journey through French Canada. This lower St. Lawrence country—the cradle of Canadian history—is brimful of new and interesting sights.

The habitant woman spinning at her door-step, or baking huge loaves in an outdoor oven, the woodsman shouldering his axe and striding along in soft moccasins, the little boys driving their big dogs at a gallop in home-made carts—these are part of the delightful, simple life of French Canada's beloved habitants.

Our large modern steamers ply from Niagara, via the St. Lawrence river to the distant Saguenay. Air that stirs the blood like a bugle call, the grandeur of mountain scenery, new congenial friends—all go to make up a memorable vacation cruise, as delightful as a trip abroad.

Please write at once for illustrated folder, which describes in detail the pleasures of this wonderful vacation cruise.

FOUR HELD BY COURT IN POLICE KILLING

One of Men Seized on Bridge Over Harlem Is Charged With Murder of Detective.

HIGH BAIL FOR 3 WITNESSES

Man Who Hired Car Used by Slayers Seized—McLaughlin Pledges Vigorous Prosecution.

Of the four alleged gunmen arrested Monday night immediately after Detective Thomas E. Hill of the Bathgate Avenue station was shot and killed at the Bronx end of the 155th Street bridge over the Harlem River, three were held as material witnesses yesterday and the fourth was arraigned in Bronx Homicide Court on a charge of murder, and held for a hearing Aug. 12. All have police records.

Detective Hill, with Detective Robert Rehmann on duty at the bridge, jumped upon the running boards of an automobile of whose occupants they were suspicious. A series of shots from the interior of the car met the detectives and Hill was killed instantly.

Two of the car's occupants escaped, but three of the four men held yesterday were captured by Rehmann and Patrolmen James Ennis, Paul Sczermer, Peter Waeger and Joseph McMahon.

The prisoner charged with homicide is Frank Coreli, alias Frank Correali, Jimmie Hamilton and Fiori Coreali. He is 26 years old and lives at 737 Southern Boulevard, the Bronx. The arraignment was before Magistrate Anthony Burke, on a short affidavit in which Detective Rehmann said that Hill was killed by two of four shots from a .38 calibre pistol. In 1927 Coreli was indicted for assault and robbery, but the indictment was dismissed. In 1928 he was arrested for felonious assault and discharged. He is wanted at the Charles Street station for robbery.

Records of Suspects Listed.

The other men were held by Judge Earl H. Gallup in Bronx County Court. They were, with their police records and the amount of bail set for each:

JOHN FRAZONE, alias John Piccariti, 24 years old, of 66 East 105th Street. Sent to the Catholic Protectory as a minor, to New York City reformatory, for grand larceny and possession of a pistol, in 1922, to Elmira reformatory for burglary and petit larceny in 1923. Held in $50,000 bail.

MORRIS KRAKAUER, 22, of 1,296 Sheridan Avenue, the Bronx. Arrested for grand larceny and discharged in 1927; arrested for felonious assault and discharged in 1929. Held in $10,000 bail.

JOSEPH PALLUCI, alias Michael Degalia, 25, of 871 Home Street, the Bronx. Sentenced to New York penitentiary in 1921 for grand larceny; arrested for grand larceny and discharged in 1923; discharged as a material witness in 1924; sentenced to the workhouse for pocketpicking in 1927; arrested for burglary and discharged in 1928; arrested for felonious assault and discharged in 1928. Held in $50,000 bail.

Krakauer had hired the car in which the gunmen were riding from the Bingham Auto Renting Agency, 302 East 107th Street, and had reported it stolen from in front of a dance hall at Eighth Avenue and Fifty-eighth Street. He was arrested at his home. The others were arrested at the scene.

Police Commissioner Mulrooney announced in the afternoon that Coreli and Frazone had been identified by several witnesses as the two men who held up the Globe Sign Company office at 108 West Twelfth Street last February and escaped with $1,200.

Joseph Young, 30 years old, of 900 Summit Avenue, the Bronx, who was arrested at the scene, was dismissed when the police verified beyond question his story that he was an innocent bystander on his way home from a nearby restaurant, where he is employed.

One Admits Being in Car.

At the line-up at Police Headquarters the prisoners were questioned by Inspector Joseph J. Donovan. Coreli and Palluci insisted that they had been bystanders and were not in the car. Frazone, however, admitted that he had been seated by the driver and declared that Coreli was in the rear. Krakauer was not at the scene.

District Attorney Charles B. McLaughlin of the Bronx issued a statement in which he said: "The time has come when all sentiment must be rejected when it comes to judging gunmen. To coddle them is to strike at the bulwark of our law enforcement and to open the doors to a continuance of this menace."

He announced that, while his investigation of the shooting of Detective Hill had not been completed to his entire satisfaction, those responsible would be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

Detective Hill was 27 years old. He joined the force in 1928, and in the same year materially aided in the capture of Edward Ryan, escaped convict. He was also assigned to investigate the hold-up at a dinner to former Magistrate Albert H. Vitale in the Bronx last year. He left a daughter, Barbara, 2 years old, and a widow of 1,324 Ogden Avenue, the Bronx. She will receive a full year's pay and half her husband's salary as long as she remains a widow, together with $5,000 at the rate of $50 monthly from the police relief fund.

An inspector's funeral for Detective Hill will be held Friday morning.

ISLAND TO BE ABANDONED.

Sloops to Take Off Last Inhabitants of St. Kilda, Scottish Hebrides.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 29.—The bleak island of St. Kilda is to be left to its inclement fate in the Scottish Hebrides. Tom Johnston, Under-Secretary for Scotland, stated tonight that he had appointed Nurse Barclay, Queen Mary's former nurse, who has spent the last two years on the island, to represent King George at the evacuation of the last remnant of the population, which will be effected by two Admiralty sloops next month.

There are five families, totaling thirty-six men, women and children, and about 1,300 sheep left on the island.

"I was so impressed with the hold the nurse had on the islanders," said Mr. Johnston tonight, "that I solemnly nominated her to represent the King during the evacuation, and the islanders pledged themselves to accept her authority."

Mr. Johnston says that as he left the island the men swarmed round the boat, crying, "Never mind the sheep, only get us away!"

Thunderstorm Sweeps City, Breaking Heat; Floods Streets, Stalls Autos, Cuts Off Lights

After a day of muggy heat that was almost stifling, a lowering thunderstorm descended on New York at dusk yesterday and brought what the weather man described as "permanent relief." The storm was accompanied by lightning and, in some outlying sections, by considerable wind. It lasted less than an hour. But during that time it unloosed a downpour that flooded streets and cellars, tied up trolley and bus transportation in Queens, stalled automobiles and paralyzed lighting systems.

In Manhattan the lightning struck a small brick superstructure atop the building of the Sheffield Farms Dairy Company at 521 West Twenty-eight Street, dislodging a portion of the wall, and sending a shower of masonry into the thoroughfare below. The shower fell all around Patrolman John Carragher of the West Thirtieth Street station, who was turning off the water at a fire hydrant in front of the building, but left him unscathed. Carragher telephoned for police emergency squad, which, to protect pedestrians, removed such loose masonry as had not already fallen.

The lightning also struck high-tension wires of the New York and Queens Electric Light and Power Company near the Flushing power house, shutting off electric current from scores of homes and offices in Queens. Many trees lining arterial highways were felled by lightning, too, blocking traffic for several hours.

The rain flooded sewers in various sections of Queens, causing the water to rise in the streets. In some cases it rose beyond sidewalk levels and poured into cellers or stores. Jamaica Avenue between 183d and 186th Streets was under three feet of water. There and in many other streets the rising water stalled scores of automobiles. Rowboats were being used to ferry employes from the Langer Lithograph Company's factory to eating places in the vincinity, and trolley and bus traffic was at a standstill.

Two heat deaths and one prostration occurred during the day. The dead were Mrs. Plume Ruskin, 54 years old, of 364 Macon Street, Brooklyn, and Shirley Abrowitz, 22 months old, of 273 Graham Avenue, Brooklyn. Both collapsed on the boardwalk in Coney Island. The prostration victim was Margaret Walsh, 25, of 1,406 Townsend Avenue, the Bronx. She collapsed at Pier 40, North River, and was sent to St. Vincent's Hospital.

One drowning was reported also. An unidentified man sank while bathing off West Twelfth Street, Coney Island. Life guards brought him ashore and a pulmotor was used for more than half an hour in vain.

The maximum temperature, he pointed out, was only 84 degrees, recorded at 5 P. M., but the humidity remained around 70 most of the day. At 8 P. M., about the time the shower let up, it was 73.

Fair and cooler weather is promised for today and relief from the hot wave is expected to be general throughout the country. Cooler weather is reported already through the north and west, and the south is eagerly awaiting it. In many of those sections temperatures of more than 100 were reported yesterday. The high at Chicago, The Associated Press reported, was 114; at Bowling Green, Ky., 113; at St. Louis 108, and at Nashville, Tenn., 100.

LAWYER ACCUSED OF MORTGAGE FRAUD

L. B. Ginsberg Held on Charge of Investing Woman's Funds in Fake Securities.

TOTAL SAID TO BE $150,000

District Attorney's Investigation Reveals Alleged Counterfeiting of Register's Seals.

Lewis B. Ginsberg, a young lawyer with offices at 50 Court Street, Brooklyn, was arrested at the request of District Attorney Brower yesterday on a charge of grand larceny in connection with an alleged mortgage swindle involving upwards of $150,000.

Ginsberg, who lives at 1,925 Clinton Road, Brooklyn, with his wife and a child, is alleged to have counterfeited the official seals of both the Kings and Queens County Registers, and to have negotiated the transactions by pretending to invest his client's money in secured mortgages.

The lawyer was taken into custody yesterday afternoon by Detective Hugh Riley at the request of the District Attorney, who acted on a complaint made by Mrs. May Rubinstein, the wife of a physician, of 8,425 Fourth Avenue, Brooklyn. Mrs. Rubinstein said that Ginsberg took about $37,000 from her, but police authorities estimated that the lawyer's operations involved about $150,000.

The specific charge against Ginsberg involves the sum of $6,000, which Mrs. Rubinstein alleges was stolen from her on June 11, 1929. She said that Ginsberg represented to her that he was investing the money in sound mortgages, and he turned over to her certain documents which were reported to be genuine mortgages duly recorded in the Register's office. Actually, it is alleged, the papers were fraudulent and worthless. Mrs. Rubinstein's suspicions became aroused about a year later, she said, when she failed to receive interest on her investment, and an investigation disclosed that the mortgages were not on record. She then complained to Mr. Brower, who ordered an investigation which resulted in Ginsberg's arrest.

Ginsberg was held in the Poplar Street station last night. He denied the charges made against him, but he did not make a statement. He will be arraigned today in the Adams Street court, where Mr. Brower will ask that he be held in $50,000 bail.

The arrest of Ginsberg recalled a series of similar arrests extending back over a period of three years in Brooklyn. Beginning with former Assemblyman Nathan Finkelstein, who defrauded Brooklyn people out of more than $1,000,000 by manipulating a "mortgage mill," the District Attorney's office has investigated a number of smaller cases and has obtained several convictions. Finkelstein is now serving a term in Sing Sing.

WESTCHESTER SERVICE CUT.

Trains to Operate on 40-Minute Schedule Except for Rush Hours.

Reduction of train service on the New York, Westchester & Boston Railroad, affecting all stations, was in effect yesterday. Trains will operate on a forty-minute headway except during the rush hours, it was announced. Heretofore the railroad has maintained service under a twenty-minute headway for the greater part of the day.

It was stated that the new schedule does not hamper service during the rush hours and that none of the commuting trains are affected in the curtailment schedule.

Except during the rush periods in the morning, evening and several hours at night, all trains will be operated on a forty-minute schedule. This means the discontinuance of a large number of trains out of Mount Vernon, both north and south bound. Decrease in passenger patronage and forced economy were given as the reason for the curtailment.

BRITISH HEIR IN BRUSSELS.

Flies From London for 3-Day Visit With King and Queen.

BRUSSELS, July 29 (AP).—The Prince of Wales landed today at the Evere Military Airdrome in a driving rain after a flight from London.

The Prince, here for a personal visit with the King and Queen of the Belgians, was escorted from Hendon Airdrome by two other planes. His plane was piloted by Squadron Leader Don.

The royal party was met at the landing field by King Albert and Queen Elizabeth and driven immediately to Laeken Palace for a three-day sojourn.

The program of entertainment includes visits to the Antwerp and Liège exhibitions, and the Prince will fly back to England on Friday.

BUTLER FAILS TO GET COMMITTEE QUORUM

Queens Democratic Chairman Seen Weakened in Primary Fight Against Theofel.

For the second time in a year, James Butler, chairman of the Queens County Democratic Committee, failed to get a quorum yesterday at a meeting of the committee which he had called. As a result John Theofel, chairman of the executive committee and the recognized organization leader in Queens, who had requested his supporters to remain away from the meeting, was said to be strengthened for the primary fight threatened against him by Mr. Butler and former Tax Commissioner Richard H. Williams.

About 300 persons were in the hall in Flushing but only about 200 of these were members of the county committee. There are 2,238 members of the committee, and 1,120 are necessary for a quorum.

Mr. Butler, who had been sought unsuccessfully by Mr. Williams, did not arrive at the hall until 9:45, when he called the meeting to order. James P. Munro, a Theofel supporter, questioned the power of Mr. Butler to appoint Herbert A. O'Brien temporary secretary, but Mr. Butler ruled against him and announced that the purpose of the meeting was to vote on suggested changes in the rule by which the chairman of the executive committee would be elected by the County Committee instead of by the executive committee and the members of the executive committee would be elected by the County Committe instead of being appointed by the county chairman.

William Lavina, whose similar objection ended the meeting called by Mr. Butler in Jamaica a year ago, then raised the point of no quorum. Mr. Butler did not act on this point of order and Mr. Munro then moved to adjourn. This motion was seconded and, as the crowd began to leave the hall, Mr. Butler shouted:

"I hereby declare a recess until Aug. 12."

Mr. Butler said after the meeting that he had declared the recess to permit County Committee members to study the proposed changes in the rules and to suggest other changes if they wished to. He expressed belief that the heat had prevented a larger attendance at the meeting.

URGE UNIFIED CONTROL OF PENAL INSTITUTIONS

17 Civic Bodies and Grand Jurors' Association Ask Centralized Prison Supervision Here.

Backed by seventeen separate civic organizations, a concerted effort to bring about unified control of all prisons and penal institutions within Greater New York will be launched by the Association of Grand Jurors of New York County with the issue of a special edition of The Panel, the periodical pamphlet of the association, on Aug. 4.

The material in the pamphlet will present arguments in favor of supporting a proposed legislative bill which would transfer jurisdiction over the Bronx County Jail, Richmond County Jail, and various court pens and vans, to the Department of Correction. At present handling of prisoners is a divided responsibility between the Commissioner of Correction, the various Sheriffs and various court attachés. In addition to editorial comment, the special issue will contain articles by a number of authorities in the field, and by Aldermanic President Joseph V. McKee.

The other organizations which are backing the agitation, through representation on a recently formed Committee on Control and Transportation of Prisoners of the Five Counties, are as follows:

Broadway Association.
City Club of New York.
The Committee of Fourteen.
East Side Chamber of Commerce.
Girls Service League of America.

DR. ALLEN TESTIFIES ON MINE PROMOTION

Head of Institute for Public Service Waives Immunity to Appear Before Grand Jury.

SUBMITS COMPANY'S BOOKS

Is Ordered to Reappear Today for Further Questioning on Gold Mine in Mexico.

Dr. William H. Allen, director of the Institute for Public Service, which has been active in research work in connection with expenditures by the Walker Administraton, was a witness yesterday before the grand jury in its investigation of the sale of stock of La Verdina Gold Mining Company of Sonora, Mexico, of which Dr. Allen is the secretary-treasurer.

Dr. Allen signed a waiver of immunity before he entered the grand jury room, where he testified for about forty-five minutes. His interrogation by Assistant District Attorney John J. McNaboe was not finished, and he was ordered to return today and complete his testimony.

While no information could be obtained on Dr. Allen's testimony, it was understood that he made a good impression in his explanation of his connection with the gold mining venture since he entered it about a year and a half ago.

It also was reported that Dr. Allen would be the last witness called before the close of the investigation today, unless Assistant District Attorney McNaboe decides to call in an accountant to testify on the books of the gold-mining company.

Submits Books of Company.

Dr. Allen appeared at the grand jury room yesterday with books and documents of the company, weighing about twenty-five pounds. These, it was said, were impounded in the grand jury room.

Dr. Allen's appearance was the result of a voluntary visit he had made to District Attorney Crain's office Monday in which he demanded that he be permitted to appear before the grand jury, which last Friday had begun an investigation into the complaint of Miss Grace L. Cotterill of White Plains, N. Y., that she had been defrauded out of $2,000 in November, 1928.

Miss Cotterill was brought to the District Attorney's office last week by William Collis, a representative of the Better Business Bureau, which has an office on the same floor with Dr. Allen at 53 Chambers Street. She charged that when she gave the money to Wilbur F. Allen, a brother of Dr. Allen, in the Institute for Public Service, she gave a receipt calling for the delivery of La Palma Mining Company stock, but subsequently received stock in La Verdina corporation. The receipt was signed by Wilbur Allen under the name of Easton Shaw, who was succeeded as secretary of La Verdina company by Dr. Allen about a year ago.

Both Dr. Allen and his brother admitted that La Palma Company, which had been intended as an American holding company for La Verdina, never had been incorporated. The receipt was issued to Miss Cotterill, the Allen brothers explained, in the belief La Palma Company would be incorporated. Dr. Allen said at the time that the idea of incorporating a holding company was abandoned at his suggestion to avoid the necessity of creating a new set of officers.

Part in Stock Sale Doubted.

It was said yesterday that nothing developed in the testimony of Dr. Allen before the grand jurors to indicate that he in any way was connected with the receipt of the $2,000 from Miss Cotterill, who at one time was a temporary employe in the Institute for Public Service.

Dr. Allen refused to discuss his testimony, explaining he had been advised not to do so.

Miss Cotterill and the representative of the Better Business Bureau were witnesses before the grand jurors last Friday. Mr. Shaw, the former secretary of the gold mining company, who was reported by Dr. Allen to have sold most of the stock of the company before he ceased his connection with it, preceded Dr. Allen into the grand jury room yesterday. He was on the witness stand about thirty-five minutes, in which time he was understood to have outlined the part he played in La Verdina company's affairs.
